MINNEAPOLIS. ALAS, POOR MERRIAM.

The Census War Has Played Horse With Him in Hennepin County.

All the Work in His Belief Must Now Be Done Over Again.

Still No Candidate Appears to Do Battle With Him in Minneapolis.

Judson N. Cross Switches to the Judgeship--Political Small Talk.

The political situation from a Republican standpoint in Minneapolis is very much mixed now, and the closest poli-tical observers are at sea as to what the outcome will be. Less than a week ago almost every Republican in Hennepin county had made up his mind that Merriam would be renominated at the coming state convention, and the only doubt that existed in the minds of the politi-cians rested with the balance of the ticket. Merriam had carefully selected his men, and they saw to it that his in-terests were carefully guarded. There was a feeble opposition to his renomi-nation from the Loren Fletcher source, but that proved so small that the Mer-riamites did not fear it in the least. A big change has come over these friends riamites did not lear it in the least. A big change has come over these friends of the governor since the arrest of the census enumerators, and all the work that was done so carefully and systematically must, if Merriam is to be renominated, be done over again. This is hardly possible just now, particularly as Merriam's henchmen then are to be as Merriam's henchmen then are to be found among his most bitter opponents now. If the state convention were not held before September something might possibly be done to patch matters up in Merriam's interest, but as it comes off inside the next thirty days the time is too short to effect a compromise, and he must not be surprised if he finds a solid delegation from Hennepin county in the state convention working for some other man. Notwithstanding that matters look decidedly blue for the governor, the few friends he has left in Minneapolis will make the most of their time in working up a strong sentiment for him if such a thing is possible. These friends of his were much pleased to see an interview from him in the Minneapolis papers Thursday, which was telegraphed from Red Wing that day regretting that Minneapolis and St. Paul had any misunderstanding on the census work. The interview was short and feebly to the point, and is being used for all there is in it. Still few Minneapoles and St. Paul for all there is in it. feebly to the point, and is being used for all there is in it. Still, few Minne-apolis Republicans take any stock in it, and are studiously looking about for another more available candidate to

The latest reports from the seat of operations were that neither Langdon nor any members of the Pillsbury family would have anything to do with the office, because they believed the time was too short to accomplish anything in their own behalf, but were willing to take any good man outside the Twin Cities. Some of them hold Knute Nelson, of Alexandria, in view, but the little Norwegian says that he would not accompliant any political office in the counlittle Norwegian says that he would not accept any political office in the country; that he is out of politics, and would not enter the field again if nominated for governor by both parties. This unqualified refusal of Nelson's to become a candidate blasts all hopes of getting him for the sacrifice. In their anxiety to beat Merriam it is said that an effort is to be neglected prepared certain loci. is to be made to persuade certain leading Democrats in Minneapolis to take up Judge Lochren and nominate him The Congregational club will soon discuss "The Influence of College Training Upon Success in Life." College training frequently contributes much to the success of the foreign immigrant by removing from his occupation of digging sowers and carrying the score, but unless harmony is restored in the ranks of the "grand old party," something similar to this move will be sprung very soon. The will be sprung very soon. The Democrats of course would have no ob-jections to getting all the votes in Hennepin county for their gubernatorial nominee, and with such a powerful fac-tor assisting them would be sure of electing their man by several thousand

With this spread of sweetmeats in store for them they will not be so foolish as to bury all party feeling simply because a misunderstanding has arisen between a misunderstanding has arisen between the two cities which has no bearing whatever on local politics. The Republicans, however, are using

The Republicans, however, are using this unpleasantness for all there is in it to bolster up their lost cause in the city, and it will be a matter of no surprise if they fail. Whenever the Democrats of Minneapolis were ready in the past to meet their Republican brethren half way, were they accommodated? Never. On the contrary, when the Democrats were sure of victory four years ago the Republicans, headed by E. M. Johnson, had the city redistricted so that each ward would have its quota of Republican citizens. Protests went up from the leading Democrats of the city against increasing the number of wards and the map laid out for political purposes, but there was no attention purposes, but there was no attention paid to them. The scheme was carried through, and the number of aldermen from each ward was doubled, as well as from each ward was doubled, as well as the number of wards. That is the sort of treatment the Minneapolis Democrats got when they asked to have semething to say about the changes proposed then. Yet the Republicans have the gall to urge the blending of both parties now on the flimsy pretext that such a move would benefit the city. If the large would benefit the city. If the Demo-crats should go into any move of that kind they would not get anything ex-cept, perhaps, a few minor offices. They will surely not exchange the bird in the hand for the two in the bush.

Capt. Judson N. Cross, who has seen many proud days in Minneapolis since many proud days in Minneapolis since he approved the ordinance grauting the Northern Pacific the right to use its First street crossing on Twentieth avenue north for a period of twenty years, independent of the city-besides giving the railroad the right to prevent the city from either bridging or tunnelling the crossing—is a full-fledged candidate for judge of the district court, to succeed Judge Rea, whose term will expire July 1, by reason of his resignation. Capt. Cross had first decided to enter the senatorial contest against John Day Smith, but has since changed his mind, and proposes to work John Day Smith, but has since changed his mind, and proposes to work for a seat on the bench. He is making a thorough canvass of the situation, and entertains strong hopes of getting the nomination. If City Attorney Russell, however, wants the nomination, and it is believed he does, Capt. nation, and it is believed he does, Capt.
Cross might as well save his shoel leather running after politicians, for he cannot defeat Russell. If the Republicans should agree to meet the Democrats, and name men for the judiciary outside the conventions, Cross, of course, would get left.

Since Capt. Cross withdrew from the Since Capt. Cross withdrew from the senatorial contest against John Day Smith, Judge Torrence thinks he can go a peg higher, and look for the senatorial plum. So Smith is not going to have a walkaway in any case. Torrence is very popular in the Eighth ward, and is making friends rapidly. His senatorial candidacy has left one less aldermanic candidate in that cold water section of the city. Ald. Hanson thinks he could do credit to his constituency if elected to the legislature, but thinks he could do credit to his consut-uency if elected to the legislature, but he dislikes leaving the city council until he has seen an ordinate passed compelling the street railway company to build and operate a cross-town line. This is his great hobby, and he believes that he can accomplish the fete if given another term in the council. If he were very anxious to get such an ordinance passed he could have it introduced an time and passed, the company to built the line say next year or year after. He is holding back on this with the view of strengthening his candidacy when the proper time comes, and, no doubt, such a scheme would insure him a very handsome support.

Ex-Ald. Albert Lawrence, of the Eighth ward, would like to go to the legislature next winter, and would come out now and announce his candidacy were he satisfied that all the wires he laid during the past month were not rusting. He has been quietly nursing a legislative boom for himself, and has suclative boom for himself, and has succeeded in bringing around him a number of clever wire-pullers. Albert was always considered a very smooth politician, but he hurt himself when he had the Fourth avenue street car line taken off Stevens avenue and put down on Fourth avenue beyond Twenty-seventh street. Of course it helped his property on Fourth avenue, but it injured his political chances very much.

C. B. Maben is trimming his sails for the legislature. His great hobby will be passage of reform laws and an act recognizing the People's Political Reform club as a necessary factor in Min-neapolis politics. Whether in this act be will incorporate a clause to set aside $1,000 to pay the club's outstanding indebtedness is not known. He proposes, if elected, to see that the club is stuffed with all the good things in sight.

Ole Flaten and Jim Meloy, of the Seventh ward, are not going to have the aldermanic fight between themselves this year. J. L. Lunt, an ex-street com-missioner of that ward, is already drivmissioner of that ward, is already driv-ing nails in these two candidates' cof-fins. Lunt is a carpenter and can strike the nail every time. He is popular there, and may defeat both these heavy-weights for the nomination.

FAMILY TROUBLES.

They Are Aired Before Judge

Hooker in the District Court. The Cole family aired their troubles pefore Judge Hooker in the divorce court yesterday. Annie B. Cole testi-fied that she was married two years ago, when she was sixteen years of age. She accused her husband of kicking ber, dragging her out of doors and locking her in a barn. The testimony showed the principal cause of the trouble was that her husband attended dances and invariably left her at home. On one occasion he knocked her down and jumped on her He frequently and jumped on her. He frequently called her indecent names. He had failed to support her. When she asked him for a nickel once he swore he would not give her a "d-n cent." Several of Mrs. Cole's relatives corroborated her testimony, and the court took the matter under advisement. Mary J. Smith was granted a divorce from her husband, J. R. Smith. home the night of the marriage and never lived with her at all.

Judge Hooker yesterday considered the application of Emma C. Walbridge for alimony and attorney's fees pending her action for divorce. Mrs. Walbridge alleges in her complaint that her husband was guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment. The husband's answer sets forth a general denial of the charges, and says they are now living, in the same house and eating at the same table, and he believes his wife will withdraw the complaint. After giving both parties a lecture, the court ordered the husband to pay $25 attorney's fees. ney's fees.

The Lumbermen Do Not Adopt the Price List.

The laborious and long-drawn-out arrangements that the lumbermen have been making for a retall price list came to naught at the meeting of the exchange, held yesterday. The matter fell through from the action of the W. P. Clark and H. C. Akeley Lumber companies, the representatives of which refused to sign the agreement. H. W. refused to sign the agreement. H. W. Backus, chairman of the committee appointed to receive signatures to the document, reported that sixteen signatures out of the eighteen required could not be secured in time to have the agreement go into effect, as many of the lumbermen were out of the city. He moved that a stay of proceedings be taken for a week, and the motion was passed. He also moved that the John Martin Lumber company be dropped from the list as it was not in reality a manufacturing concern. It was also agreed that the retail dealers also be asked to sign the agreement, and was also agreed that the retail dealers also be asked to sign the agreement, and the following list was prepared: W. W. Johnson, J. P. Lennon & Co., Paul Blackman, trustee Pineville Lumber company, J. P. Wilcox, Brooks Bros., and Gardner & Firkins. The latter was stricken off at the request of Mr. Firkins, who was present. He said that his firm did not care to join in the move, as they had customers that had been with them for years, and therefore had no use for such an agreement.

This started a discussion in the matter, and it was found that there were other firms who would not sign the list. Fred Clarke opposed it. E. W. Backus also was opposed to it on the ground that they would get their prices too high, and outsiders would come in and get their trade. He also stated that wherever the company had put in a Judge Smith yesterday granted an injunction, restraining Justice of the injunction, restraining Justice of the Peace Ace P. Abell from disposing of a lot of cigars seized as the property of James Elwin. The plaintiff claimed that Justice Abell had entered judgment against him for $17 after he had told him that there was nothing to support the claim, and when it was too late to appeal he had caused an attachment to be issued and a stock of cigars, valued at $75, to be seized. So far it is all guess work, and the story that Supt. Porter has given permission to the supervisors to give approximate figures is all bosh. Minneapolis hasn't received any such permission, and this office will not give out any figures until they come from Washington."

W. C. La Grave Receives a Bullet in His Neck From a Revolver. What may prove to be a fatal case of shooting occurred last evening at about 8:30 in Lawrence & Smith's sporting goods store on First avenue south just goods store on First avenue south just below Third street. The wounded man is W. C. La Grave, a young man about twenty-three years old, who had recently become an employe of the firm. The shooting was purely acci-dental. O. W. The bullet struck La Grave in the neck just below the right jaw, taking, according did not know was loaded. The bullet struck La Grave in the neck just below the right jaw, taking, according to La Grave's description, a course upward and backward. Its location has not yet been determined. As soon as the shooting occurred, Drs. Freeman, Phillips and Byrnes arrived, and shortly after Dr. Kimball came. They stopped the flow of blood, and searched for the bullet unavailingly. A small artery in the neck was severed. The young man was afterward removed to the home of his father, 307 Eighth street south. His wound is not necessarily fatal, although it is possible that it may so result. The young man's brother, who is a compositor on the Tribune, was with him within a few minutes after he was shot.

O. W. Smith, in whose hands the pistol was when it was discharged, feels very bad over the matter. Regarding the circumstances he said:

"La Grave had been working for us but a few days. To-night he said he would go out to the lake to-morrow, and wanted a revolver to take with him. I gave him first a 32-caliber, and he tried to put some 38-cartridges, into it. I told him of his mistake, gave

No blame whatever can attach to Mr. Smith in the matter. He knew not that there was a cartridge in the revolver, supposing that La Grave had removed it before handing it back.

won. The high wages earned has brought into the profession large numbers of women who have been well bred and delicately reared, but who have been unfortunate in losing their means of support. They are as particular in choosing their places of service as patients are in choosing them.

In talking with such a nurse a few days ago she said to the New York Press man: "I always want to know that I am going where I will be well treated—that is, not as a servant, but as the peer of any member of the household. I feel that I occupy a confidential relation to the household, not second even to that of the family physician. I do not consider any labor that I may be called upon in my capacity as nurse to perform as menial. It is the labor of necessity which many perform through love, but which I undertake as a professional duty."

THE MASCULINE GIRL. As a Rule She Does Not Stay Long

popular, and the masculine shirt bosom, the most u n c o mpromisingly ugly part of man's attire, is adopted for a time. Such fashions do not usuions do not usually last long, because they are essentially unlovely. The period of the derby hat was so short that it was abandoned by refined women almost as soon as it was introduced.

For some reason the present epidemic of masculinity in dress has been unusually violent—probably because it was first fostered upon a refined public by English tailors, by methods which brought undue and valuable prominence to certain London tradesmen. The latest phase of the craze for masculine styles, says the New York Tribune, is to be noted in the new parasols, mounted to be noted in the new parasols, mounted upon heavy club sticks like the unwieldy walking canes affected recently by young gentlemen who adopt English styles.

Deceptive False Curls. interview with a St Louis Wigmaker

Every one must have noticed the numhair at present. It may astonish you to learn that most of these charming curls

Unless the hair grows very rapidly, it will be two or three months rapidly, it will be two or three months before it is long enough to look well, and in the meantime a wig is a necessity. The short, curly hair looks more natural than a dressed wig, and is easier to keep in ofder, so most ladies prefer them. Elderly ladies, however, often use French twists and pompadours. Few people know how common wigs are. I have sometimes sold five or six in one day, and a great many ladies say they are sorry when their own hair say they are sorry when their own hair grows out, as the wig has saved them so much time and trouble.
