Fireman Redhouse confesses to the murder of Van Wert, O., engineer Vanderlander, and may be hanged. A change of plan by the Manufacturers Loan and Investment company necessitates a change in the constitution.

M. N. Johnson, the Scandinavian candidate for the Democratic nomination, claims to have a clinch on the nomination. The sixtieth anniversary of King Leopold's accession to the throne is celebrated at Brussels.

The steamer George W. Elder and bark Oakland run on the rocky coast of Oregon today for and are pounded to pieces. Ferguson falls in with the alleged slugging of a prominent disciple of Blackstone and the wife of an estimable citizen.

creation of his vote and influence, or to accept free transportation, or to hire himself out as a campaign worker. The law is a wholesome one, and should be in force in every state in the Union.

But, such a law were in force in Minnesota, by the stress of circumstances the place for holding the next Republican state convention would have to be changed to Stillwater.

A CHALLENGE. The Republican state platform is already prepared. The bosses have had it under careful consideration for several weeks, and it is now out and dried for the convention next Thursday.

Characteristics of Republican stamanship in Minnesota, the platform is constructed on the plan of the nigger's con trap, which was set to catch 'em both a-comin' and a-go'in'.

The platform that the convention will promulgate next Thursday will blow hot and cold with the same breath. It will be all things to all men without intending to be anything in particular. It will be a straddle here and a bear, bearing the legend, "Pay your money and take your choice."

One section indorses the HARRISON administration, while another section condemns it. One section applauds the policy pursued by congress with reference to the tariff, while another section declares in favor of tariff reform.

In only one thing is the platform stable and consistent. The banking interests, of which the nominee will be a notable representative, will allow no straddle on the currency question, and will oppose silver coinage, but will be filled with meaningless platitudes relating to all other issues.

While we know that our challenge will not be accepted, nevertheless the GLOBE issues one to the Republican leaders of this state. We challenge them to construct an honest party platform embodying honest Republican principles.

This ought to be an easy matter for a Republican state convention to do, yet in some of the best of Minnesota Republicans will not do. Inasmuch as Republican leaders in this state are inexperienced in making honest platforms, we will add them with a few suggestions. An honest Republican platform would indorse—

President HARRISON; The McKinley bill; The silver bill; The federal elections bill; The disability pension bill. It would commend—

Czar REED; Mr. McKinley; And five Minnesota congressmen who voted for McKinley's bill and sustained the silver coinage bill. It would demand—

Increased wool duties; Service pensions; Repeal of the liquor and tobacco tax. It would applaud—

The prevailing method of buying nomination; The prostitution of state patronage to personal ends; The worship of the golden calf; The reign of corporations and the wheat ring.

Such a platform would be honestly Republican, and we challenge the Republicans of this state to stand on it.

BLAINE ON THE TARIFF. "At JAMES G. BLAINE be chosen to lead the Democratic hosts to victory in 1892," shouts an enthusiastic Vermont tariff reformer. "Amen, Amen," is the response that came up from the McKinley crowd.

There is nothing in the world that would please the REED-McKINLEY-HARRISON combine more than to have Mr. BLAINE driven out of the Republican party. And there are some things more impossible than that Mr. BLAINE should yet work himself over on the Democratic side.

Still, it is a very remote probability that Mr. BLAINE should ever get into the Democratic party, and it is an absolute absurdity to suppose that the McKinley bill could ever be the cause of a moral heroism that Mr. BLAINE was supposed to possess.

It is the most statesmanlike position he has ever taken, because if his bill appears before the house, outside the role of a partisan. Hereafter his white career has been a series of brilliant performances as a party leader, but this is the first time above self and party to the interest of broad American statesmanship.

from London to Topeka for a car of flour is responded to by the flour in Liverpool in twelve days at a cost of 50 cents per hundred. All the local markets are measured by the price at Liverpool and the cost of getting the wheat there. The Kansas authority finds that there is too much wheat wanting to go abroad to make the prices satisfactory. He finds but two modes of relief for this. One is to continue to present production and wait for the demand to augment. The other is to expedite the area in wheat. As an expedient for the time, he would cut down the production 20 per cent. This idea has been advanced by other writers, but it is impracticable, as a slight investigation of the subject will show. It is doubtful if the production could be kept in the present ratio of increase of consumption. The only hopeful direction of improvement is in a new line to be reached by reaching the world's market and lifting the obstacles that impede the producer in realizing the largest measure of advantage from the market.

The interest of the farmer is in close relation with the markets for wheat, hops and cattle. The legislation of the country has been largely at his expense. Some Republican papers complain that the Democratic administration of Maryland got only five years, for his delinquency of a couple of hundred thousand or so. The adjoining state of Pennsylvania had a Republican treasurer appropriate about the same amount of public funds, and he got six years; but his assignment was to the United States senate and not to the penitentiary.

A LADY recently died in New York state at the age of one hundred and thirteen years, being born the year after the declaration of independence. It is stated that she was greatly addicted to the use of the pipe, and might otherwise have been a great importunate preservative agent, and this may have been an evidence of that claim.

SENATOR BLAIR failed to appear at the sessions of the education association, which was consequently on another occasion that he said "since 1850, 25,000,000 babies have been born in this country, every one of them an ignoramus." Perhaps they will be more fortunate than many of their predecessors in outgrowing this peculiarity.

THE reason assigned for the opposition of the New York Sun to Gov. FARRIS in Pennsylvania is that he was elected governor in 1888, the same time GROVER CLEVELAND was elected in New York, and the Sun hates CLEVELAND, as it would not do if he had thought to put DANA on his staff.

UNDER the new law there is likely to be business enough to keep all the pension claim agents from want, even if some of them are not eligible for pensions themselves. LEXOW expects to be disabled by his own labor. The disability, mental or physical, "need not have originated in the service." It is stated, also, that "it is not required that the soldier must have been wounded in the service."

OUTSIDE papers find occasion for a good deal of facetiousness over the little jars between the twins. The Milwaukee Sentinel understands that the thermometer at Minneapolis have all been adjusted to register ten degrees higher than that at St. Paul.

GEN. PALMER makes the first speech in his senatorial campaign in Illinois at a tariff reform picnic among the farmers on the 20th inst. The Republican speakers on the 21st to complain at the dullness of his campaign after he gets his coat off.

THERE is nothing to prevent Wyoming sending a woman to the United States senate, if she can work the legislature. One is named as a possible candidate, but the senate will hardly be surprised in that way this year.

THREE tons of ice are used every day in cooling the air of the senate chamber, and yet SHEPHERD and EDMUNDS suffer so that they think expedient to adorn or give them a vacation.

HANDBROUGHT is to have a hard tussle in the North Dakota convention next week, in spite of his gallant labors to put hens' eggs into the McKinley tariff.

STATE SENTIMENT. No Blunders in It. Interested parties may make light of the Alliance ticket, but to an impartial observer it presents itself as the work of a sagacious lot of men. There is not much to be considered a rank blunder in it.

Lind Not Honest. John Lind is thoroughly honest, is he? He is flooding the district with Congressional speeches, and he is doing it with a good deal of success. Why did he not talk twice a year ago. Farmers are too sharp to bite at a hook so slyly offered.

Joel is Willing. Joel Heatwole, of Northfield, is a candidate for governor. This is on the authority of Landford Jordan, of Fairbault. It appears that his consent is not to let his name to be used for the second place on the ticket Joel's friends throughout the state—of whom there are many—have concluded that he had no mind to head the ticket, and have procured his consent to the presentation of his name to the convention.

Should Be the Test. Glenn Burdette is a candidate for one of the seats in congress who voted for the infamous McKinley tariff bill. This is a sentence that deserves to be stored up in the mind of every farmer of the state, and carefully considered by him before casting his vote for a candidate for congress in the coming election.

Took an Ocean Voyage. CAPE MATY, N. J.—July 21.—President Harrison, Russell Harrison and wife and little baby Harrison McKee took an ocean voyage to-day.

BELGIUM INDEPENDENCE.

The sixtieth Anniversary Celebrated at Brussels. BRUSSELS, July 21.—The sixtieth anniversary of Belgian independence and the twenty-fifth year of the reign of King Leopold were observed to-day with a Te Deum service in the cathedral in the presence of the members of the royal family, the cabinet ministers, the foreign diplomatic representatives and the members of the senate and chamber of representatives. Afterward a reception was held at the palace in response to an address from the senate, King Leopold referred to the work of Belgium in Africa as already being the most important part of the anti-slavery conference. Belgium, he said, had taken a great part in a vast enterprise and hoped in the future. The object of his life was to render the country better and more prosperous. The present session of parliament should be occupied with great acts, marking an epoch in Belgian history. In responding to an address from the chamber of representatives, the king said he deemed the time opportune to assure the Belgian people of his intentions after the expiration of ten years, which period was necessary to consolidate the Congo state. In the event of the death of Belgium, his heir, would surely never wish to diminish the extent or importance of her new possessions.

HAS A WIDE SPHERE. A Good Part of Africa Gobbed by a British Syndicate. LONDON, July 21.—The British East African company has issued its annual report, which, in these times of eager interest in all things African, attracts its full share of attention. The important feature of the company's action is shown by the statement in the report that the region subject to the operations of the organization covers an area of 400,000 square miles. The sea frontage of the company's dominions has a distance of 400 miles. It includes the coast of the Gulf of Aden and other facilities for commerce. Under the recent treaties made by Mr. Stanley, 4,000 slaves have been freed. The company proposes shortly to construct a railway to the Victoria Nyanza. One of its most ambitious projects is to connect the Indian Ocean with the Nile, and it hopes within a reasonable time to secure the peopling of extensive tracts of its fertile land by Indian cultivators.

MAY TAKE A NEW TITLE. Austria's Ruler Wants to be King of Poland. VIENNA, July 21.—The emperor of Austria is said to have undertaken a serious examination of the question of assuming the title of King of Poland, in accord with the unanimous wish of his Polish subjects. This would place Galicia in a line with the other provinces, subject to the same laws as a distinct state. Austria has always treated the Poles more liberally than either Prussia or Russia, and the Austrian ruler is said to have been desirous of securing the title of King of Poland would be especially offensive to Russia as reviving hopes of Polish nationality.

CABLED BRIEFINGS. In the British house of commons yesterday, Mr. Williamson asked, in view of the market, whether any legislation was being considered with reference to the price of metal in London, and that steps should be taken to secure the supply for mintage purposes. Mr. Goschen, chancellor of the exchequer, said that the government did not intend to do so, but that the mint would not speculate in silver. It must, subject to reasonable foresight, purchase according to requirements.

In the French chamber of deputies yesterday Mr. Poincaré presented a bill to establish a monopoly of the sardine industry in the Mediterranean. He stated that the government could not interfere in the matter, if the sardine industry existed. The French houses were unwilling to unite, and free trade in sardines was maintained.

In the Portuguese chamber of peers yesterday Senator Ribeiro, minister of foreign affairs, presented a bill to amend a reported agreement with England. He said, however, that negotiations were proceeding.

Mr. Smith, the government leader, announced in the house of commons last night that the government had decided to purchase the titles and fish land purchase bills early in the month.

A Radical meeting held at Belgrade yesterday adopted a vote of confidence in the government, and the minister assured the meeting of King Alexander.

Henry M. Stanley has recovered from the illness which he was stricken with just before his marriage.

The Duke of Sparta's son, born a few days ago, is said to be a fine specimen of the making favorable progress.

The Russian government is about to form a special ministry of agriculture.

IN MEMORIAM.

The recent death of Mrs. E. C. Irveron, of this city, wife of our esteemed fellow citizen and a devoted mother, has caused the hearts of her dear and sorrowful friends to be filled with grief and regret. A loving wife and sincere friend has been cut off in the blossom of womanhood, a victim to the fell destroyer, who spared neither age nor sex. The deceased lady was a devoted mother, and her death has left a void in the hearts of her dear and sorrowful friends.

DAVENPORT GETS THE PLUMS. DAVENPORT, Iowa, July 21.—The close of the biennial tournament of the Upper Mississippi Valley Turf Bazaar shows Davenport a winner of the largest proportion of the prizes, in both the section and individual turning and the singing competition. The leading competitor in the section was the Davenport, first prize; Davenport, second; Des Moines; third, Burlington. Singing, first prize, Davenport; second, Des Moines; third, Burlington. The attendance has been large and the festival a grand success. Many of the records were exceptionally good.

SAINT PAUL WANT THE OFFICES.

ALL ROUTINE Was Yesterday's Work by the County Commissioners. John B. Darling's bond as deputy coroner, in the penalty of $2,000 with Howard L. Smith and Albert Scheffer as sureties, was referred to the county attorney for approval at yesterday's meeting of the commissioners. The matter of the itemized expenses of last year and the estimates for expenses for 1890 submitted by the auditor were referred to the committee on ways and means. The board of control was authorized to pay the bill of L. Musseter of $300 for rent of the city and county auditor's office for the month of June. The report of the committee recommending the giving of the contract for county printing and lithographing to one real estate agent for a like period to T. E. Cooley, was approved. They were the lowest bidders.

Col. Mattson's Friends Lay Down the Law to the Party Bosses. The Hostile Clans Are Gathering and the Music Commences. "What is the nationality of your candidate?" This is the first question sprung on the workers who are now busily engaged in button-holing delegates to the approaching Republican state convention in the interests of the various candidates for the different positions on the state ticket. Whether right or wrong, this pre-convention contest is one that is being fought out almost entirely on nationality lines. How bitter is the clash of these opposing interests can be judged best from a paragraph which recently appeared in a leading Swedish paper of Minneapolis. It said in brief that unless the Republican state ticket this year contained Swedish and German nationalities it could not be successful. No two could win, and success could only be insured by a diversity of offices among the representatives of the three nationalities named.

Good and Bad Law Passed Upon by the Appellate Court. The Union National Bank of Minneapolis vs. O. S. A. Fry et al., respondents. Judgment affirmed. Evidence considered and held sufficient to sustain the finding of fact that conveyances resting in a wife title to real estate previously belonging to her husband were made in good faith and without intent to defraud his creditors.

Where one signs a contract, affixing to his signature words indicating a representative character, such as agent, attorney, or partner, he is held liable individually—in order to show that he executed the contract in a representative capacity, he must prove the existence of such capacity. Evidence held sufficient to sustain the findings of fact.

On the request of the plaintiff the court gave the jury an instruction which literally directed a verdict for plaintiff. Hence a retrial was not ordered. It is manifest that the court used the language of the instruction in a way that did not intend to direct a verdict, and that the jury did not understand it as a direction to render a verdict for plaintiff.

Charles A. Allen, respondent, vs. The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co., appellants. Judgment affirmed. Evidence held sufficient to sustain the verdict, and that the damages are not excessive. No question of law was raised in this case, the only questions being that the verdict is not excessive, and that the damages are excessive.

The Minneapolis Elevator Company, respondent, vs. J. W. Wild, et al., appellants. Judgment affirmed. Rule in Cochran vs. Stewart, 21 Minn., 435, that in case of the sale and delivery by the owner of personal property, although the purchaser best indicates to make it by fraud on the part of the vendee, the latter may convey a good title to a bona fide purchaser, who is not a chaser does not rely on or know of, any indicia of title with which the vendor may be chargeable. Held, that the plaintiff is entitled to a verdict for the purchase price as a condition of the title passing.

A local usage cannot be proved to constitute a contract, or to convert a well-settled rule of law. This was an action for the conversion of 300 bushels of wheat. At the time the wheat was stored, the court dismissed the action.

Peter Wolford, appellant, vs. S. V. Farham et al., respondents. Judgment reversed and new trial ordered. A verbal agreement made at the time of executing a conveyance of real estate, that the grantee shall hold the property for the grantor until sold, and when sold shall pay the proceeds to him, is not enforceable, unless the grantee, at the time of the sale, is a party to the agreement, and the land and the money for which it is sold belong to the grantee. A mere intention, after such sale, to vest it for him, the grantee still retaining it, does not make it the money of the grantor.

"Facts about Minneapolis" will be distributed by the Hennepin county delegation from Paris to-day and tomorrow. In the morning, commencing with this morning, William Hennery Eustis will be on deck to see that the country brethren gain a proper understanding of the exact distance he was kicked a few weeks ago by an irate citizen of St. Paul.

Among the newspaper men of the state who have already arrived to take part in the convention are Editors A. H. Hille and C. J. Coghlan, of Lac qui Parle county. Mr. Hille is the publisher of the Madison Independent, while Mr. Coghlan holds down the editorial chair on the Dawson News. Both are good newspaper men and ardent Republicans. Four years ago Mr. Hille was a candidate for clerk of the supreme court, and was a party to the combination that elected Sam Nichols, horse, foot and dracons. Mr. Coghlan was the leading backer of Gov. McGill in Northwestern, and was largely instrumental in securing Lac qui Parle's delegation for the ex-governor in the state convention of that year.

For a candidate who is declared to have a clinch on the nomination, Gov. Merriam has more workers at the Merchants' than would seem at all necessary. Darius F. There are two more of his appointees. There are several men on hand, too, who worked for him when he was governor. Among them are ex-Railroad Commissioner Murdoch and Gen. J. H. Baker.

Stanford Newell, chairman of the state committee, is of course on hand, looking wiser than usual as he guides the gentle zephyrs through his gill-nets. He has said to be in his element.
