"Who is S. P. Parish?" The police don't know him-at least not by that name. He is not in the blue book, and so far as can be discovered, doesn't figure in church circles to any extent. The explanation is, of course, that Mr. Parish, which receiving his mail as Mr. Parish, is not Mr. Parish at all, but that name finds him as well as another at the address he gives, No. 15 East Seventh street. He's man l'arish, and the following is a sample of the letters he writes:

E. J. Stevens, Erie, Cass County, N. D.—
Sir: Having heard of you as a shrewd business man and a speculator, I take the liberty of addressing you in confidence with regard to a proposition I will make. I enclose a newspaper chipping clipped from the New York World, an account of the arrest and conviction of parties for counterfeiting paper money. By it you will see that the money was printed from genuine plates stolen from the treasury department. I have several thousand dollars' worth of these bills in my possession. I am anxious to leave this part of the country, and will sell the entire amount for 25 per cent of face value. Detection is absolutely impossible, because, as shown, the money is genuine, except that it lacks government sanction. I enclose sample bills for $1 and $5$, also my address. I need not impress on you that this communication is strictly confidential. Yours for business,

S. D. Parish.

S. D. PARISH, Clo Saloon No. 15, E. 7th St., St. Paul.

The address given is John B. Pewters' place on East Seventh street. A Globe representative called on Mr. Pewters last night. That gentleman denies all knowledge of Mr. Parish, but states that several men have been receiving mail there, most of it coming in care of a man named Bush, whom Pewters says he has known for four years, yet doesn't know his first name nor his occupation. It is a common theme for transients in a city to have their mail addressed to the saloons they frequent, and no particular significance attaches to the fact that Mr. Parish, or any one of the several dozen men he claims to represent get mail addressed to them there. The only man, Pewters claims, who has received mail at his place in The address given is John B. Pewters who has received mail at his place in the past few weeks is the man Bush, and this same individual may have access to the mail of Mr. Parish or any of the syndicate of men whose mail he receives.

The fellows in the "green goods" business are a downy lot, and the particular star now working the Dakotas and Minnesota from St. Paul is no exception. That he is doing a land office business among those verdant enough to rise to so stale a bait, is evident from the extent of the correspondence he carries on. It is correspondence he carries on. It is needless to say that the sample bills sent Mr. Stowers, of North Dakota, were

As the officer held the spark-ling bauble in his hand, the eager baby face of the finder gazed up at him as though in fear that he had sinn ed even in finding so valuable an ornament. "Where did you find this?" asked the

WAS A PERFECT LADY.

A Scene of Many in the Police Court Yesterday.

There was a circus in Judge Twohy's court yesterday morning. Among the grist of the sinners of the night before to be summoned before the august presence was Minnie Gray, a more than usually good looking octoroon maiden. Minnie is a waitress at a ranch kept by Minnie Dillon on South Washington street. The place is one frequented by ladies of easy repute and sable color, and cream-colored Miss Gray had been having trouble with another inmate of the place named Milly Foster. "Its dis yer way yo honah." began Miss Foster. way yo honah," began Miss Foster.
"Dese yer gals was a frooin' eggs at one "Dese yer gals was a frooin' eggs at one 'nuther' crost the breakfast table. An Miss Dillon, she's a perfect 'lady, Miss Dillon is, an' she sey, sey she: 'See heah, you d—n dirty black wenches—'"

Judge Twohy expressed no opinion as to the lady-like language of the Dillon, but required Misses Foster and Gray to furnish bonds to keep the peace.
The case of Otto Friend for forgery was continued to Sept. 1. Messrs. McMahon and Beck, two jolly old bums, went to the farm on a vacation for a went to the farm on, a vacation for a month. "Specky" White, an oid crook, arrested by Detectives Kenaley and Daly for vayrancy, was discharged. He is said to have been the accomplice of Coughman and Shodic, the two night workers held to the grand jury this week but there Shodic, the two night workers held to the grand jury this week, but there is no evidence on which to hold him. David Hoar, the same disreputable, drunken old David, got ninety days and said "thank you" for it. Bridget Conway, who in point of disreputability would make a good trotting mate for Dave, got thirty days in the knitting room. John Hoghallen and Herman Mills were drunk and disorderly on Friday night, went out for ten days apiece, and William Bergon, a plain and melancholy drunk, wiped away a tear as he heard a similar date made for him.

Two Boys Missing. Otto Wood, of 241 Page street, and Willie Marck, of 297 Robertson street on the West side, are missing, and their espective parents believe they have run away together. Wood is 16 years old and Marck fifteen, and both were employed as press boys at Brown & Treacy's. They could not have had more than $10 cash, and it is believed they have gone to Milwaukee. The police of that city have been notified.

A Police Character.

"What, again," said the police captain, as old John Gorman came marching into the central station marching into the central station last night in charge of an officer. John Gorman, "The Cobbler Poet" drunk as ever and glad of it to all appearance, "The Cobbler" has been run in to central for being drunk more times than he has fingers and toes, and he is just about as strange a character as any of the queer ones who come under the category of strange a character as any of the queer ones who come under the category of "known to the police." Here is a man who can recite by the hour from all the great English and American poets, knows the dialogue of "Richara the Third" from beginning to end, speaks three or four languages and quotes Schopenhauer for his philosophy. Yet he is down on the police recerds as a worthless drunkard and bum. Gorman will get ninety days on Monday morning, but that will not work reformation, he is too far gone—another of those whose self-respect has been killed by corn juice. corn juice.

erison streets, near the river, in a house owned by John B. Duford. Mr. Hogle is kicking against the bars at the Ducas street police station just now, and to-morrow morning will have to answer to a charge of being disorderly. It seems that Duford went to collect rent of Hogle on Saturday afternoon, and that the latter made Rome howl in the vehemence of his refusal to put up. Duford swore out a warrant for Hogle's arrest, and that gentleman was promptly landed in the station by Officer Oldham.

CUPID IS TO BE SNUBBED.

Sprigs of Royalty to Wed Simply for Political Effect. VIENNA, Aug, 30 .- From Southeastern Europe comes the news of an interesting royal romance. The prince royal of Roumania is in a fair way to be bethrothed to a Bavarian princess, Elizabeth, the favorite grand-daughter of the Austrian emperor. Politically it would be a splendid match for the ruling house of Roumania, which kingdom is already united to Austria by the ties of a secret alliance against Rus-sia. But the prince, a handsome fellow of twenty-five, is already deeply fellow of twenty-five, is already deeply attached to the daughter of Col. Mouvaroff, a brave and honored soldier in his father's army, and has even gone so far as to threaten to resign his regal inheritance in order to marry the woman of his choice. Such a step would be a crushing blow such a step would be a crushing blow Such a step would be a crushing blow to the Roumanian king, Charles, and he has spared no effort to prevent it from being taken. As in this he has the loyal support of the girl's father he has so far been successful, and at present the young woman is beheved to be detained in a Bulgarian convent, while King Charles is paying court in behalf of his son to the Princess Elizabeth and her imperial grandfather, whose consent is more important father, whose consent is more important than that of the princess.

Germany and Russia Are Too Friendly to Suit the Gauls.

Plans for the Entrance of Russia Into the European Entente.

Measures Looking to International Repression of Anarchists and Nihilists.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.-The progress of the negotiations for the entrance of Russia into the European entente is in dicated by the arrangements for the autumn meetings of the sovereigns Emperor William's conference with the emperor of Austria is fixed for Sept. 14, during the manœuvers in Silesia. Cooling His Heels.

Gottlieb Hogle, of West St. Paul, resides at the corner of Water and Robertson streets, near the river, in a house owned by John B. Duford. Mr. Hogle is kicking against the bars at the Ducas street police station just now, and to-morrow morning will have to answer the relation of the Russian council, on a special mission to Paris to reassure the French government. The Moscow Gazette seeks to calm the fears expressed by the French press in regard to the descrition of France by Russia by declaring that the ezar's persistent aim is to maintain The Balance of Power, recognizing the fact that Russia and France have common interests and France have common interests and united responsibilities. France ought, therefore, concludes the Gazette, to remain absolutely tranquil. The report that Chancellor von Caprivi obtained a promise from M. de Giers to abate the frontier tariff was baseless. The question was not mooted at the conference. A ukase issued to-day at St. Petersburg raises the customs duties generally 20 per cent. The fact that coffee, cocoa, tea, sugar and coal imported through the cent. The fact that coffee, cocoa, tea, sugar and coal imported through the western frontier and Baltie ports are exempted from the rise gives a semblance of confirmation to the report, but practically the ukase does not alter the restrictious of the trade with Germany. The object of the ukase is declared to be to make duties levied in gold correspond with the altered rate of exchange. It is further announced that the ukase precedes a general revision of the tariff. Prominent among the measures agreed upon by M. de Giers and Chancellor von Caprivi will be found one looking to international repression of the anarchists and nihilists, the czar desiring European concert on this matter. The riotous meeting of the socialists at Friedsricham has given the government a pretext for ordering special mense majority of those present at the meeting voted confidence in the party's deputies in the reichstag. Thanks were voted to Emperor William for his attempts to establish social peace. The next congress will be held at Ratisbon. A farewell dinner was given last night to the New York riflemen who are visiting Germany. The banquet was held in the senators' room of the Bremen Rathskeller. President Hanschild, of the Bremen Rifle association, toasted the guests. Mr. Sieburg, in reply, dilated upon—their pleasant sojourn in Germany, and the comrade-like cordiality displayed by the Bremen riflemen. He said he was especially grateful for the honorary membership in the Bremeu corps conferred upon him by order of the Bremen Rifle association. In response to repeated calls, Mr. Castle, the nominee, walked down the aisle, and, mounting the platform, said:

"I do not feel vain enough to think that I was nominated on my merits alone. I am satisfied that the question of locality cut considerable figure. Had I known there would be any contest over this nomination, I should not have been a candidate, but now that I have been nominated, I propose to make the fight." The importance of the Fourth district was detailed, and in conclusion Senator Castle said: "If I go to Washington, I shall do my very best to represent the interests of my constituents. I believe I can be elected, but it is not necessary for me to say that I cannot do it by boodle." After detailing the local feeling. Mr. Castle passed on to national problems and criticised the McKinley bill at length, quoting Secretary Blaine's statement that the passage of the McKinley bill would not "create a market for another, bushel of wheat or barrel of pork, "Such legislation can have but one effect," he said. "It may build up a palace at one end of the street, but it will place 10,000 hovels at the other end of the lane. AT LAST.

When on my day of life the night is falling.
And, in the winds from unsunned spaces blown,

My feet to paths unknown,

And kindly faces to my own uplifting
The love which answers mine. I have but Thee, O Father! Let Thy Spirit Be with me then to comfort and uphold: No gate of pearl, no branch of palm, I meri Nor street of shining gold.

Suffice it if, my good and ill unreckoned, And both forgiven through Thy abounding grace. I find myself by hands familiar beckoned Unto my fitting place.

Some humble door among Thy many mansions, Some sheltering shade where sin and striving cease. And flows forever through heaven's green expansions
The river of Thy peace.

There from the music round about me steal ing,
I fain would learn the new and holy song,
And find at last beneath Thy trees of healing,
