course that large crowds attend the Exposi-tion that the directors have ceased to wonder at the immense attendance and complacently look on while the throng gathers and fills galiery and floor all through the afternoon and evening. Yesterday was no exception to the rule, especially in the evening, at which time the people flock to the building to see the many sights and especially the lower, which, of course, only flashes its brilliant hues in the night time. Many of the risitors, from the grounder representations. risitors from the country remained over, and, of course, spent their day in another visit to the great show, probably from the fact that they had failed to see it all in one day. Yesterday the visitors were treated to a lesson in the working of that wonderful new machine of Thomas A. Edison's, that transmits handwriting any number of miles by the aid of an electric current. The person desiring to sign the check, or whatever else it may be, has little to do. A piece of paper, specially prepared, is handed to them, and the writing done in the ordinary way. It is then placed in the little electric contrivance, the current turned on, and, in some mysterlous way the person's own handwriting is reproduced at the other end of the line. It is certainly a perfect little forger, for the signatures are exact reproductions of the original, and show the wonderful mechanism that must be employed to give such splendid results. The machine furnishes a vast amount of interest for all, and especially for those interested in such matters.

An arrangement has been made with the Bell Telephone company that is unique in its way. For fifteen minutes each evening the Edison phonographs at the Exposition will be connected with the central station by special wire, and subscribers in both Minneapolis and St. Paul can have the splendid music of Gilmore's band etc., transmitted to their own residences, where they can have a party of people assembled to enjoy the novel entertainment. This is a feature that has never been tried heretofore, and will doubtless prove a vast fund of amusement. The perfected plan, together with instructions for the connections, also the stated hours for the electric concerts will be published shortly in the Globe. The Exposition management has other surprises in store for the public, which will be made public as soon as perfected.

To-day is specially set apart for the G. A. R. Mr. Reeves has arranged a special programme for their benefit.

Another Large Crowd.

The attendance in the evening at the Pain spectacle, although not quite as large as that of the evening before, was still far'in excess of what it had been at any time up to Monday. The display was fully up to the standard, the set pieces being of rich designs and brilliant in color. The grotesque figures were greeted with as hearty a reception as at their entries was as hearty as is ever brought forth by a popular comedian. It seems as if the public never would get tired of those brilliant pyrotechnics, for they attend repeatedly and apparently for the sole purpose of seeing the fireworks. The management of the affair seem to appreciate the patronage it is receiving, and the chemists are kept working night and day to prepare new features in colors and design for the people, who certainly are appreciating the feast for the eye that is being given to them each day. There are but a few evenings more in which to see this spectacle, as it will leave shortly, and the public should take advantage of what little time remains. To-day being a G. A. R. day, some special designs in huge set pieces have been manufactured for the benefit of the veterans, which will form a part of to-night's fireworks. Another immense attendance is expected.

Dr. W. A. Spaulding was the busiest man in the city yesterday afternoon. The doctor is the secretary of the association of the survivors of those who handled the big guns in the Second Minnesota battery, whose reunion occurred in Masonic Temple. The indefatigable secretary had prepared a neat souvenir which was presented to each visitor. It was a miniature canteen, cord, cork and covering complete. On the covering which was of red felt, were the words: "We drank from the same canteen," and attached to the cord by a dainty ribbon was Dr. Spaulding's card, and on one side a stanza from the song which the canteen so significantly calls to mind. Secaetary Spaulding read a sketch or history of the organization made up from the minutes of previous meetings. He noted the points of interest in the meeting from 1884, when the association was formed. Letters were read from absent comrades expressing their regret at being unable to be present. The soldiers enjoyed a camp fire late in the afternoon, and in the evening the following officers were elected: President, R. D. Bloomfield: vice president, J. H. Arnull; secretary and treasurer, Dr. W. A. Spaulding. The association then adjourned to meet in 1891, during State Fair week.

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS.

The State Ticket Heartily Indorsed by Democrats. The Hennepin county delegation to the state convention looked anything but a band of defeated warriors yesterday. If every man when whipped could take it as philband of defeated warriors yesterday. If every man when whipped could take it as philosophically as did the sixty-four, with one or two exceptions, there would be less talk about revenge. The Hennepin county Democrats, unlike their Republican brethren a couple of months ago, went to St. Paul with a candidate. They worked for him and voted for him, discovered that he was outside the cyclone belt, and then turned in and helped nominate the strongest man. Nothing but words of commendation for Thomas Wilson, the selected candidate, are heard in Minneapolis. He is looked upon as probably the strongest man that could be nominated, and the Democratic party here will extend to him the heartiest kind of support. The nomination of C. M. Foote is also hailed with general satisfaction. No Minneapolis man could be placed upon the state ticket who would be more satisfactory than Foote. All in all, Hennepin county and Minneapolis was never better satisfied than with the ticket put in the field by the convention at St. Paul.

To-day, it is expected, C. M. Foote, as chairman of the county committee, will appoint the committee of eighteen upon whom will devolve the duty of selecting delegates to the judicial convention, and who are also empowered to negotiate with the Republican committee relative to putting candidates for the judiciary into the field without making their election a political issue. There is no doubt that both parties, the progressive, thinking element of both parties, desire the election of a non-partisan judiciary: that is, an equal number of judges from each party. Such a result is to be desired. In the present state of feeling on the subject, there seems no probability that the judicial ermine will be spotted by political mud slinging. On the bench all party distinctness must be forgotten. The just judge must do by the Republican, the Democrat, the Prohibitionist and the Alliance man the same, Anything else would be injustice. This strict regard for justice is difficult to obtain when a judgeship is made a political prize. Tis not easy for even the most equitable judge to accord the same treatment to a man who has worked against him and maligned him in the heat of a political campaign that he would to an earnest, hard-working friend who had helped him to attain his judicial dignity. All these reasons, and more, are in favor of a non-partisan judiciary. There are none of weight on the other side.

The four men who are most actively seeking the place on the Democratic judicial ticket along with Judge Smith are Ankeny.

Judge Thomas Wilson and Senator J. N. Castle were in Minneapolis last night in consultation with the leading Democrats relative to the formation of the state central and congressional committees. It is as good as decided that Col. M. W. Glenn will be the Hennepin county member of the state central committee. The congressional committee will not be appointed for a few days yet. Judge Wilson had but little time for aught eise than the receipt of congratulations from Democrats and Republicans alike.

Chairman Foote may appoint the county committee to-day, but it is probable that ne will no more than have time to make up the judiciary committee. Capt. O. C. Merriman expects to be able to announce the city committee in a few days.
