

MINNEAPOLIS.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

It is not obvious why there should be any "right" upon Health Officer Kilvington, especially by the new members of the council. He has made by far the best health officer Minneapolis has ever had, in fact he can almost be said to have created the department, so great has been the advancement in protecting and improving the sanitary condition of the city since he took hold of the work. The innovations he has instituted, and the reforms he has brought about, can be said to be only a-ordinary, and the people as a whole desire that he should have the chance to do at least one more term, that he may carry out what he has begun. The only objection thus far seems to have been on the part of some of the people who are not in favor of his re-election after contagious diseases, some auto-cure doctors who have never before been made to literally "eat their own flesh" covering their practice, and a few aldermen who never consider the public good, but always insist upon their selfish interests. One of this latter class said recently in the Tribune: "I think Kilvington is a good fellow and the best health officer we ever had, but I think he worked against me and he did not get my vote." If the opposition to "the best health officer we ever had" comes from such lousy party-triots as these, it is about time the public knew it and came to the health officer's defense.

MINNEAPOLIS IN POLITICS.

How Certain Minneapolis People Worry on Winston's Account.

Much Idle Talk of "Guerillas," "Splits" and "War to the Knife."

Woes of a Good Old Man Who Wanted to Be Minneapolis Mayor.

J. Frank Colton Will Escape Prosecution—Fall of Handy.

Some persons who live within the corporate limits of Minneapolis are discussing the issue of the election of the question as to who will be the next chief of police. This anxiety approaches the ludicrous. It seems that the people are more excited than Mr. Winston, the man who, above all others, is most interested in the appointment of the chief of police of this year and trembling, one evening paper last night published a column article on this, of which the following is a brief condensation, conveying all its meaning: "The struggle for the appointment of superintendent of police has become so heated that it threatens to degenerate into a civil war. There are, in fact, two factions, one of these factions calls the other a 'guerilla band' and the other calls the first a 'plunderer' who has come out of office on legitimate grounds, either such as good salaries and nice easy jobs, but plunderer of a kind that decent people would not wish to have in their city. The struggle for the office is a large extent—indeed, the exclusion of the guerilla element—managed the campaign in Minneapolis. As soon as the reform in the party is over, they are fighting tooth and nail to offset them, and that is the reason for the fight. The guerilla element, of course, center in the selection of a chief of police, and the guerilla element, upon which Maj. R. R. Henderson appointed chief. The guerillas are opposed to the appointment of Henderson, on the ground of his opposition to that is, a Catholic sympathizer, and Henderson is a Catholic sympathizer. They may be of that ilk themselves, but they are not to be taken away from their reading novels and newspapers under the pretense of recreation, but will sit down and study theology, and read some scientific course of reading. From his remarks it can be seen that the people of Westminster church make a mistake in securing Rev. Smith Baker, Leathus Dunning and Dr. Burrell to lecture on 'How to Read, What to Read, and When to Read.' Mr. Putnam could have told all about it in a much shorter time.

DECLINE AND FALL.

What Happened in the Case of Charles E. Handy.

About two years ago one Charles E. Handy was a Minneapolis "blood." He was a member of the chamber of commerce, lived at the best hotels and spent his money like a prince of the court. Now he is said to be an amateur newspaper man in San Francisco. Moreover, he is said to be heavily in debt, and is being pursued by creditors. Last Saturday evening after court hours Marcus F. Hayne, acting as attorney for Louis T. and Ed P. Watson, quietly filed papers against Handy to recover $1,640.75, which the firm of Watson & Co. claims the ex-Minneapolis man owes them for money advanced for wheat. These debts, made in behalf of Handy, cover the period between June 1, 1888, and April 30, 1889, and the corollary to the complaint it is stated that "Handy has repeatedly promised to pay what moneys are due the firm of Watson & Co., but has subsequently refused to pay the $1,640.75 or any part thereof."

THE CLAYTON FLOW WORKS.

J. B. Bassett Is Doing His Best to Promote the New Enterprise.

The proposed John Clayton flow works, which have been the subject of the GLOBE, are not alone apt to add to the industrial importance of the city, but will, with the beginning of their operations, demonstrate the practical liberality of Minneapolis business men. The Bassett property, which is now the site of the old Monitor, J. B. Bassett, of J. B. Bassett & Co.'s planing mills and lumber yards, is assisting John Clayton to work it up. The new factory will be built near the planing mills. The planing will be continued during the winter months, but the buildings proper will commence next spring. The main building will be 125,000 feet, divided as follows: Blacksmith shop, 60x20 feet; grating room, 30x35 feet; fitting room, 30x25 feet; hardware room, 30x10 feet; wood shop, 60x35 feet; and paint shop, 30x25 feet. The foundry will be 50x25 feet and the pattern shop, stores, offices, etc., will make a building 150,000 feet square. The new works will employ 100 men, and will be a great benefit to the city. The buildings will be made of brick, and will be a great credit to the city. The works will make not only plans, but other farming implements as well.

New England Furniture & Carpet Co., MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

Embossed $4.53 Push Handsome Figured Tapestry Carpet, $4.00!

It is the fact that these Lounes have been made in the New England Furniture & Carpet Co. factory, which is in our window marked $1.25, is right under our feet, which sees that the goods are honestly made and of good material, while the other is the fact that the price is ONE-HALF of what others ask for like appearing articles. THE STANDARD COCA OF THE WORLD.

HOUSEHOLD WORDS ALL OVER EUROPE. VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA.

"BEST & GOES FARTHEST." Now that its manufacturers are drawing the attention of the American public to this first and ever since its invention, the best of all cocoas, it will soon be appreciated here as well as elsewhere all over the world. All that the manufacturer request is simply one trial, or still better, a comparative test with whatever other cocoa it may be; then VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA itself will convince every one of its great superiority. It is because of this superiority that the English paper Health, says: "Once tried, always used."

Rev. Mr. Strong, of St. Paul, will look after his pastorate on Dec. 11th. The project of widening Hennepin Avenue from the corner of Third street to the corner of Hennepin Avenue, will be considered by the commissioners on Wednesday.

The Minneapolis banking house, 723 North Hennepin, was destroyed by fire on Monday night. The loss is estimated at $3,729,869.72.

For Penny Postage. The board of trade yesterday morning passed a resolution calling upon the members of congress from this state to work for a measure reducing postage on drop letters to one cent. The documents of value possessed by the board will be given to the public library. It was decided not to act on the request from New Orleans asking for subsidized steamship lines to South and Central American states.

End of the Term. At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the September term of the district court of Hennepin county, Fourth judicial district, adjourned sine die, and this morning at 10 o'clock the December general term will open. The first week will be devoted to the trial of cases left over from last term, the jury being called for the following Monday. Judges Hicks and Loehren will try the jury cases; Judge Hooker the criminal, and Judges Smith, Pond and Canty will do the court cases.

An action was begun yesterday in the district court by Charles Dalby, the attorney for J. M. Heston, a saloonkeeper at 425 Cedar avenue, for $1,000 damages, against H. M. Helgeson, who runs the grocery store at Third street and Cedar avenue. Helgeson claims that Heston raised a row in his saloon, mistreated his customers and gave the place a bad reputation.

The fire department responded to thirty-two alarms in November. The total loss by fire was $1,277,492 on buildings, and $3,365 on contents. The properties were amply covered by insurance to the amount of $69,000.

The art history class of the Art society met last night in the library building. The lecture was given by Mr. W. H. Brewster, and the subject was "The Renaissance in France." The subject was illustrated with lantern views.

The Nickel Freeway Fund meeting of the evening was held at length in the GLOBE, is now ready for business. The fund is the result of the movement on the part of the associated charities to furnish the poor with a means of depositing and receiving interest on their small savings.

Why He Has Become a Bardet to Hon. C. E. Babbs. Also, poor Mayor Babbs! He seems determined to keep himself in hot water, either with his own thoughts, whenever he chances to have any, or with the public. The capacious mayor was wounded full sore when certain members of his party scribbled the words of Potter to the unpopularity of the Babbs administration, and the good old gentleman from the Eighth ward had himself interviewed immediately that he might deny the foul aspersions against his reign. In that famous interview it will be remembered that Babbs denied he was responsible for the close communion state of affairs which had existed. He had been, he said, he said, by his colleagues on the police commission. He wanted, he declared, to be "a good fellow," or words to that effect. As soon as the reporter's coat tails had disappeared Babbs buttoned up his coat, put on a magisterial frown, reached down into his pocket and produced a check for $100,000, which he handed to the reporter, who then proceeded to march into police headquarters and commanded Chief Brackett to see that the check was cashed. Babbs then returned to his office, where he was, it is said, a week ago, and was, it is said, a week ago, and was, it is said, a week ago.

Bad as Naming a Baby. There is a fight going on in Parker, or Robbinsdale, if you please, for it is called by both names, and it is all over a name. The place is a suburb of Minneapolis, out on the Great Northern Avenue, and is really a really good place. The station was named Parker, for the man who had donated the depot site. The A. B. Robbins planned some property there, and called it Robbinsdale, after inducing the railroad to change the name of the station to Robbinsdale. The name of the station was changed to Robbinsdale. That was the last straw. The Robbinsdale people, brought pressure to bear and had the postoffice renamed Parker. So it stands now. The Robbinsdale people receive their mail at Parker.

MINNEAPOLIS. The rather startling theory is entertained in Minneapolis quarters, that the Italian Messiah is not We-You-Kar-Co-We-Go, Jack Wilson nor Johnson-Sues, but is one "Yolk Jones," the celebrated war correspondent who accompanied William Henry James to St. Paul upon a memorable occasion. Mr. Jones left for the West some months ago, armed to the teeth, and the theory is not altogether an absurd one.

MINNEAPOLIS. If there are many renewals from the police force when the new administration gets to working, it is presumed that work can be done in the winter for the summer and fall, at least, at the exposition.

MINNEAPOLIS. The immaculate Herbert Putnam, the public librarian, cheerfully remarks in one of his official communications to the Tribune "that the element which used the library for a loading and dozing place" has disappeared, and that "a large amount of good reading material" is now in the library.

MINNEAPOLIS. Speaking of the library, one of the probabilities as a result of the election is that the venerable and astute A. C. Austin will disappear from the library board as the member representing board of education. Mr. Austin will, of course, be missed. He has held office so long and so much that it is hard to have him go. If not refreshing, to miss him in at least one office in the little official nests he has been warming, he will probably have devoted himself so earnestly and persistently to the affairs of the city and county for so many long years that it would be impossible for him to continue to tribute himself longer.

MINNEAPOLIS. The Tribune should label the cut of "Our Candidate for 1892" so people will know who is meant. The Chicago Tribune is under the impression that it has printed the portraits of three different candidates at the head of its editorial columns.

MINNEAPOLIS. AMUSEMENTS. "The London Girls" gave a performance last night at the Palace to an overflowing house. From an anatomical point of view, "The Artist and Model," a comedy sketch, is a well-proportioned success, abounding in puns, snarling rowdies, who dance and sing audibly and happily throughout the evening. Miss Paul Hester possesses an especially pleasing voice, and her partner, Mr. Collins and Flynn in a black-faced act and many other comedians make up the evening's entertainment.

Tjian's bond was fixed at $1,000, as was also that of F. R. Corrigan and James E. Egan. The bond of W. J. Barnes, coroner-elect, was fixed at $5,000. Henry Oswald, the newly elected coroner, was present at the meeting, and during the morning was fully qualified. A bill from the Northern National Detective Agency against Hennepin county for services and expenses in "shadowing" Enoch Ray was read. The bill amounted to $418.80 for twenty days' work and expenses. It will be discussed at the next meeting.
