HALE, RECIPROCIITY I

A Preliminary Meeting to Form a Local Branch of the League.

Saloon Men and Newspapers Are Routed by the W. C. T. U.

Ex-Health Commissioner Kilvington Presents His Report

Matters of Moment Gathered for the Benefit of Globe Readers.

A meeting was held last evening in the assembly room of the West hotel for the purpose of forming an American-Canadian league, whose object would be to originate, encourage and develop a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada.

The meeting was composed for the most part of gentlemen with decided free trade tendencies, but representatives of the Single Tax league, the Alliance, the Republican and Democratic parties were present, who applauded with a single exception, the remarks of the several speakers endorsing the proposed scheme.

W. M. Meagher, a Canadian, and evidently the moving spirit of the embryo organization, announced to the audience that owing to pressing business, illness and several other preventives the gentlemen who intended to deliver the address of the evening were absent.

Mr. Buel thought a treaty of reciprocity between the two countries could be restricted as it pleased the contracting parties. There might be a free interchange of one product or commodity, or more, or all. As he understood it, the object of the association would be to encourage the free interchange of trade between the United States and Canada.

While discussing the subject Mr. Buel was vividly reminded of a remark of Lord Harrison, delivered at a banquet at the West hotel, some time ago to a number of Montreal business men.

Mr. Harrison had said, "I have been in existence for the last fifteen years between the Sandwich islands and the United States, by which Canada has been enabled to accumulate an immense fortune at the expense of the sugar consumers of the Pacific coast."

He has, however, prevented the arrogation of the treaty, and while its provisions have enriched him, it has depleted the treasury of the Sandwich islands. Mr. Buel, however, would prevent a recurrence of a similar state of affairs.

Mr. Nelson arose to say that some persons thought reciprocity a new thing, and that no one knew any thing of it save the man who had invented it. He believed that the United States should have reciprocity with all nations, for what is good for one country is good for another.

W. M. Meagher, having been requested to address the meeting, stated that many Republicans, Democrats and members of the Farmers' Alliance were in favor of reciprocity.

The executive committee of the league decided to establish such a treaty with England. The latter's commerce extended to the United States, and her ships sailed all oceans. It might, perhaps, be dangerous to the United States to open to English imports.

THE PATROL MOVE ROASTED.

And the Press Comes in for Its Share of Abuse.

At the close of the meeting last Sunday held at the W. C. T. U. headquarters, somebody brought up the question of the extension of the patrol limits, and as the subject was considered too comprehensive to discuss at the face of a meeting, it was proposed to have a meeting held for that special purpose, and the date was set for last night.

When Mrs. Russell called the meeting to order last evening she stated the above facts, and then called on some saloon man to show himself and speak in defiance of the movement. If he could not appear to have the hardihood to face that large number of scowling faces and stout men, he was proposed to be on hand to discuss the matter.

Mr. Russell cast a severe eye on the assemblage, and in a solemn voice stated that one of the visitors to the restaurant had left a communication, scribbled on a bill of fare, which she proceeded to read. It said:

"The saloons will win in the fight. I'll bet 75 to 5 that they will. Sighted A Drunkard." The lady failed to state whether or not the bet would be accepted, but did state that there were some indigent reference to the pro-tem set forth, which she would not read. The assembled party groaned and called the bad man who had left his opinions so forcibly.

The meeting then resolved itself into a bureau of discussion, every one being at liberty to say a few words on the subject at hand. Dr. S. P. Fay, Rev. Mr. Smith, of Omaha, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Barnes, Mrs. C. N. Rodin, Miss Julia Wells, Mrs. L. Putnam, Mr. Edward Putnam, of Rockford, Ill., and others, were present.

ALAS, POOR YORICK.

Bones and Other Relics in Court as Evidence.

The court house bore rather a graveyard aspect yesterday. Judge Cauty was confronted by various and sundry sections of limbs of horses preserved in alcohol, placed on the table, to assist the experts in giving evidence in a suit to recover for the loss of a horse that broke its leg by falling down a hole, and Judge Hooker had cut down his back all day, while "Judge" Rand handled with reckless abandon that portion of the horse's skeleton from the last demise of the Republican party.
