

The past week, while it contained no geant L. E. Bannon, Corporal H. St. Paul event of passing importance, Meeker, Private W. M. Jones and Private a gay one socially speaking. There St. Paul event of passing importance, was a gay one socially speaking. There was no dazzling wedding, nor glittering reception, nor sparkling ball, particularly speaking, but the social firmament was sufficiently illuminated by second stars of the system to make up a gay week. The number of balls, parties and receptions was unusually large, and merriment was unhampered by society termed swell circles, there was at least one wedding, with innumerable social receptions, and parties and afternoon teas. The full record of the week's diversion occupies this page.

Philomathean Pleasures.

The meeting of the Philomathean soelety at Litt's hall last Friday evening was-one of the most enjoyable the society has ever held. After the business meeting a short musical programme was given, which included vocal solos by Oscar Lienau and Edward Bates, and a piano solo by Miss Ella Richards. The rest of the evening until 11:30 was given by loganging Lightrefreshments. given up to dancing. Light refreshments

ST. ANTHONY PARK.

The skating rink, on Raymond avenue, is certainly doing a grand good work in our midst. Even old, rheumatic men can be seen once more "renewing their youth," and making frightful exhibitions of themselves on skates—or, rather, off of them. However, skating is enjoyed by all, young and old, and many are the happy parties seen almost every evening. Saturday evening is the special night for "ministers and deacons."

There seems to be no doubt now but that several short line trains will be taken off—principally evening trains. The cemand, therefore, made last week of additional depot facilities will hardly be granted under existing circumstances. The railroads are not in a mood to make additional outlays at the present condition of interurban travet.

The social of the Liberal society last Thursday evening at the residence of Mrs. G. F. Shaw, on Manyel street, was attended by over lifty, who greatly enjoyed the musical programme rendered. An unusually fine ventriloquist gave a superb exhibition of that mystic art.

The oyster party at the skating rink last programme reflected as superb exhibition of that mystic art.

The oyster party at the skating rink last Friday evening proved a novelentertainment certainly the exercise of skating increased the eating capacity of many, and showed the ladies that they had figured the thing out wisely—both socially and financially.

Last Sabbath there were four congregations holding services in the Park, averaging less than forty in attendance. It does look a trife as though the support of so many different organizations were a burden upon the community that is not quite warranted.

A large surprise party was given to Miss Bessie Pratt last Friday evening, being the celebration of that young lady's thirteenth birthday. Mrs. Pratt made the eighteen lads and misses have such a pleasant time they will remember it for many a day.

The extra services that have been beld in the Mahadier shared here were shared to shared here the shared here were shared to shared the shared here were shared to shared the shared here were shared to shared the shared to shared the shared to shared the share

The extra services that have been beld in the Methodist chapel have been well attended, and considerable interest shown. Itev. Pilting is doing most exceilent and effective work.

Many friends of Mrs. Charles Dana, who resided at the Park for a short time, will regret to hear of her serious illness. She is now almost entirely confined to her room.

Miss Prof. Sanford gave an unusually pleasant lecture last Wednesday evening upon "What shall We Read?" before the students at the agricultural college.
