There Will Be No Eight-Hour System With the Present Council.

Heilpern's Trial Begun--Some Sensational Developments Hinted At.

Judge Young Receives a Handsome Testimonial From the Bar.

How Some People Seem to Make Money by Losing It.

The eight-hour question in city work is practically settled in Minneapolis for the next two years. The special committee, consisting of an alderman from each ward, met last night to consider Alderman Rand's resolution. The Republican aldermen had previously caucused and resolved to defeat the resolution, and voted according to programme. Ald. Grimes was the only member of the committee absent, those present being; Aldermen McGowan, Burrows, Durnam, Love, Brazie, Rand, Peterson, Blichfeldt, Rollins, Bradish, Reeves and Gray. Ald. Gray presided Ald. Bratish moved to take up the mat-ter of ward work first, but finally changed his mind and offered the fol-

Resolved, That we recommend to the council that the rate of waves paid to the men engaged upon city work be the same as paid by private parties and firms for similar work, and that ten hours shall constitute a day's work, except upon such work as bricklaying. The number of hours recognized by the trade as a day's labor shall be so considered by this council, and that the hours of a day's labor and the pay therefor on all ward work be fixed by the aldermen of the ward. Ald. McGowan amended the motion that

The discussion progressed in this desultory way until a vote was taken on Rand's substitute. The vote stood:

Ayes—Rand, Peterson, McGowan, Blichfeldt and Rollins.

Nays—Barrows, Brazie, Bradish. Reeves, Durnam, Gray and Loye.

The eight-hour matter being out of the way McGowan's twenty-cents-an-hour amendment was similarly disposed of. Then Alderman Loye offered another amendment to Alderman Bradish's motion that $1.75 be paid for ten hour's work. Alderman Brazel offered a substitute that heads of departments grade the price of wages, and that not less than $1.75 be paid for a day's labor. This was a quicker and neater way of getting at the desired end than Alderman's Bradish's cumbersome motion, and it was adopted, despite the fact that it would lead to discrimination and corruption.

HEILPERN ON TRIAL. His Attorneys Spring Some Intelligent Motions. At the opening of the criminal court yesterday morning there was quite a crowd in attendence, to listen to the trial of Leo Heilpern, the dapper litttle bookkeeper of the Columbia mill, who had been indicted for the embezzlement of $1,930 from the concern. He was brought into court and seated directly behind his attorneys, Messrs. Hart and Longbrake, County Attorney Thian and his assistant, Ben Davenport, holding down the officer side of the piece of furniture. The whole morning was consumed in selecting a jury, and it was 20 clock before the jury was all in its place ready to hear the opening of the case. Mr. Than opened his case in a masterly manner, giving briefly a history of the crime charged against the prisoner, with which the public is aiready familiar. When he came to mention dates Mr. Hart arose and stated that he had some objections to offer under the law to that part of the statement. Mr. Thian stated that he had a right to mention to the jury anything contained in his bill of particulars and wished to read it to the jury. and Longbrake, County Attorney Thian and

After the court had adjourned the legal light got together and made arrangements for the perusal of the books. Dapper, darkvisaged little Heilpern assisted them, and such instructions as he could give his attorsuch instructions as he could give his attorneys, he gave.

"What time shail we get together and look these things over," asked Mr. Thian.

"I have hardly time to-night," said Hart.

"To-morrow morning will do."

"You will always find me at home," said Heilpern, with a laugh, as he followed the deputy out of the court to his quarters in the jail. The trial will be continued to-day. Some sensational testimony is expected. Minnie Frost, the woman with whom Heilpern associated, is in the city, and it is whispered that the defense will endeavor to show that she did not receive her fine clothes and expensive furniture from Heilpern, but from gentlemen who are quite prominent.

TRIBUTE TO YOUNG.

A Testimonial From the Bar to the Judge.

Judge A. H. Young last evening received both an eloquent and a substantial testimo-nial of the affection and esteem in which he is held by the members of the bar. His retirement from the bench, after seventeen gears of service, made such a testimonial particularly fitting, and the opportunity was cordially embraced. About sixty members of the bar, including many of the most prominent attorneys, met by appointment at his pleasant home at 1919 Clinton avenue last evening at 8 o'clock, and fairly overwhelmed the judge with flattering tributes and assurances of personal friendship, while they presented him with such tokens of their good faith that he could hardly enter a demurrer. Judge Ell Torrence acted as spokesman, and after a pleasant and eloquent review of the work of Judge Young upon the bench, presented him on behalf of the bar with a beautiful chest containing fifty-four pieces of silverware, a tea set of five pieces and the library of American Literature in eleven volumes, bound in morocco. There were addresses by Judges Atwater, Horker, Hicks, Lochren, J. W. Lawrence, R. D. Russell and others. Judge Young, although evidently much surprised, responded with much feeling and eloquence. years of service, made such a testi-

SYMPATHY WASTED.

How Some Young Men "Make" Money by Losing It.

An emotional evening paper seems to have wasted considerable effort in creating sympathy for a young man, the son of a police officer, who it is alleged lost $800 gambling which he had received from the sale of real estate. Quite a pitiful tale of woe has been which he had received from the sale of real estate. Quite a pitiful tale of woe has been made up by picturing the youth of the unfortunate gambler who went "agin the clock," and his despair at losing the money with which he wanted to marry and start house-keeping. His father, the policeman, called on the proprietor of 'the "clock" and obtained the restoration of $450 of the money, but has since been called upon by Mayor Winston to explain why he compounded a felony by receiving the money, and why he did not report the existence of the gambling house.

Whether the young man in question really lost $800, or even $450, is not known, but in gambling circles, at least, it is much doubted. The young man, by the way, is not so very young, and has been a frequenter of gambling houses for several years, being one of those hangers-on whose patronage was not very earnestly solicited. It is said that this is not the first time he has demanded money back, which he claimed he had lost. It isn't very long since the proprietor of another "clock" house had to return $125 which the "young" man lost in trying to win some one else's money. A well known proprietor of a gambling house recalled yesterday a time when this same object of evening newspaper sympathy claimed he had lost $400 and wanted it back. His father, the policeman, appeared as usual, and said there would be trouble if the $400 was not made good. An investigation was made and it was found that the "young" man had lost only $16. The father was told that the matter would be submitted to the chief of police, and ceased his importuning.

It is likely that some investigation will be wards in the time the wards and of the woule of the words in the tryon of the way of the words in the words and ceased his importuning. nis importuning.
It is likely that some investigation will be made into this latest escapade of the 'young' man, and the part that his accomodating parent has been playing.

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Mary Place Will Be Opened-

Street Matters Considered. The preponderance of population in the First ward yesterday visited the city hall for the purpose of protesting before the committee on roads and bridges against the opening of Grand street, in Northeast Minneapolis. The property owners objected to paying for

The property owners objected to paying for the opening because it was unnecessary. They seemed to think that McGowan had gone too far in offering the resolution, since they had never petitioned for it. The matter was recommitted.

Mary place will be opened. That was decided yesterday by the council. This matter has been hanging fire before the council ever since last summer. The part to be opened extends from Eleventh to Twelfth street and will pass through the property of Hugh Harrison and A. B. Jackson, who may make some fight against it. The original plat of rison and A. B. Jackson, who may make some fight against it. The original plat of that part of the city is said to have provision for the opening of Mary place, but for some reason it never went through. The petition for opening was not acted upon when first presented to the council because Emerson Cole, then an alderman, feared that it might have some bearing on his candidacy. Cole, then an alderman, feared that it might have some bearing on his candidacy.

Theold matter of opening Lincoln avenue from Emerson to Humbold was considered by the committee and proceedings were ordered abandoned. The committee will recommend that Penn avenue be widened from sixty-six to eighty feet between Thirty-fourth and Forty-fourth avenues north. Twenty-second and Twenty fifth streets were ordered opened from Eighteenth avenue south to Cedar avenue. The opening of Sixth-anda-Half avenue south, or Columbus avenue now, was left over at the request of property owners.

GRAY AND SCHWARTZ.

They Are Now Anxious to Solve the Garbage Question. Ald. Gray and Schwartz have evolved a new scheme for the disposition of garbage. It is that it be hauled to the dumping grounds on the street railway tracks. The more offensive material can be deposited in water-tight barrels, such as are now used in Phila-delphia, without serving the natural notice of its presence. It is claimed by its advocates that the new plan will be infinitely superior that the new plan will be infinitely superior to the use of scavenger carts, and that the street railway company will not object to such use of its trackage. The city engineer says this plan is not feasible. It would practically convert the street railway into a traffic road, which is prohibited by existing ordinances. The transportation of all sorts of retuse and stable manure would soon make the street over which they pass fitthy and a menace to public health. Furthermore, people living along the street car lines would object to an agreement of that kind.

NORRIS LIGHTS OUT.

Adamson's Old Side Partner Flees From a Warrant.

F. P. Norris, well known to the public as the man on whose testimony W. H. Adamson was sent to Stillwater, has disappeared. It is believed that he has gone to Spokane Falls. believed that he has gone to Spokane Falls. The cause for his sudden disappearance was the indictment found against him by the grand jury at its last session. Norris was seen in town the day that the grand jury considered his case, but has not been seen since, and those who have reason to know say that he has left town to return no more. He had already been found gullty of forgery in a civil action before Judge Lochren, and he knew that his chances for doing time were good if he stayed and stood trial in a criminal prosecution. His debts, all of which he left behind, are unnumbered. For a year past Norris has been working at his trade and doing a small contracting business.

prosecution. His debts, all of which he left to the jury.

Mr. Hart stated that when the prosecuting attorney was through he should move that he be required to elect upon which item he would try his case if he went back to Aug. I, 1880. He held that the action could only be held upon one item. Judge Lochren held with him, and Mr. Longbrake called attention to the fact that the items named in the bill of particulars, with the exception of two, dated prior to the time upentioned. He held that they must either elect one of the prior items or one of the subsequent ones.

"If this is correct, what protection has an employer?" asked Mr. Thian, "That is accoundrum that I do not feel called upon to answer," said the court. The judge finally allowed Mr. Thian to select the two items subsequent to the date mentioned on which to try his case, and the hearing went on. Some little delay had been occasioned in a wait for the books and it was now rather late in the day.

Ernest Ziedler was put upon the stand to testify and the case proceeded. He was asked in recard to the manner in which Helippein had charge of the cash, which he placed in the drawer of the safe, to which he alone carried the key.
