CHARLES KEMMIE.

The Minneapolis pugilist whom many have seen for April, which occurs at the club's gymnasium, Friday night, ranks with the best of the elite entertainments which have given the organization a deservedly good reputation.

JAMES SCULLY.

can. Scully has had $500 posted for a year to meet any man of his weight, but was unable to get a match. He has made a good impression so far, and those who have seen him work think well of him. He is taller than Kemmie, and has a long reach. He is a quick and hard hitter, and has something of a record behind him. Kemmie's achievements have been mostly performed under the name of Charles Heard, and he has had twenty-one battles. He put J. W. Curtis, of Ashland, who fought Paddy Harrington, the heavyweight, twenty-two rounds, to sleep in a round and a half, so his hitting powers can be imagined. Both men are rushers, so it is likely things will be interesting from the start. The men are to weigh in at the ringside at 140 pounds. They are both in fine condition, and have been carefully trained by all contestants before the club are. The purse is for $1,000, the winner to get $800.

General Sporting Notes.

George Dixon, champion bantamweight pugilist of the world, who recently defeated Cal McCarthy, has left Boston with his manager, Tom O'Rourke, and Jack Williams, ex-champion featherweight of England, for Buffalo this morning. Monday evening, April 20, Dixon will meet a celebrated featherweight in Chicago.

George Siddons and Tommie White, the well-known lightweight pugilists, have made arrangements to fight in or near Fort Wayne, Ind., May 1 or 5. The purse will be $10,000, and gate receipts, six per cent being used. The matter has been arranged by Chicago.

Terence Lynch, another Australian fighter, has arrived in San Francisco. He weighs 220 pounds, and is a powerful man.

Jim Corbett does not think much of Abe Willis, who is looking for a fight with George Yule's new gymnasium is rapidly approaching completion and will cost $20,000.
