HIS SISTER BETRAYED.

Lawyer Wentworth Looking for the Man Who Dishonored His Name?

He Seeks to Shoot a Villain Who Ruined a Girl of Twenty,

And Is Detained at a Hospital To Be Examined as to His Sanity.

Dr. Graves Goes to Denver to Tell About That Mysterious Bottle.

New York, May 10.—John F. Wentworth, who has been a lawyer in Washington for the last three years, says the New York Sun, was committed to Bellevue hospital by Justice Weld in the Harlem court yesterday for examination as to his sanity. The alleged betrayal of a sister is said to be the cause of the young lawyer's trouble. He is thirty years old, and comes of a good family in Milwaukee. His sister, a girl of twenty, came to New York a year ago. Mr. Wentworth did not learn why she had left her home in Milwaukee until about four months ago. Recently he got the name and description of the man who was responsible for his sister's misfortune. He came to New York at once to look for him and to the residence of Dr. Francis F. Root, of 95 West One Hundred and Fourth street. This was on Tuesday last. Dr. Root is a distant relative of the lawyer. When Wentworth told the doctor the object of his visit the doctor did not at first believe the young man was in earnest, but he took the precaution to watch him rather closely. A day or two after his arrival Wentworth found the man he sought, learned that he was in the habit of leaving home about 8 o'clock every morning, and that he generally rode down town on the Ninth avenue elevated road, and then took the train at the Ninth and Third street station. Yesterday morning Dr. Root found Wentworth examining a thirty-two caliber revolver. He loaded it carefully and the doctor asked him what he was doing it for. "I hope at last to meet the betrayer of my sister," Wentworth replied. Dr. Root locked the door when he left the room, but half an hour later Wentworth had escaped. He must have had a key which he used to unlock the door. When Wentworth's absence, Dr. Root hurried out and overtook him at Ninth and Fourth streets, where he was hurrying to the station, and was within a block of it. "Don't try to interfere with me. I am determined to meet that man," he said, threateningly. Dr. Root turned and saw the doctor. Dr. Root walked quietly beside Wentworth a few steps, and then turned suddenly upon him. Wentworth struggled to free himself, and falling in this tried to withdraw his knife, but he was overpowered. Dr. Root had first caught sight of him in the police station. Yesterday Mr. Wentworth, his wife, and child, were taken to a hotel, and a brief conversation with him, drew a revolver and fired twice at the man who was taking them to the police station. The cause of the shooting was Towsey's inhuman attempts to criminally assault Mrs. Towsey, who was with them. Edna Towsey, Mrs. Towsey made no effort to escape, and was immediately placed under arrest.

Wentworth Will Try to Explain the Bottle Mystery.

New York, May 10.—A dispatch from Providence says that the news of Dr. Graves' departure for Denver created much surprise when it was read here this morning. Many are the surmises as to what led him to make the journey, and many the conjectures as to the result of his visit. Dr. Graves has gone to Denver to tell what he knows about the mysterious bottle. He thinks that he has gone of his own volition and that he is not under surveillance. He is mistaken. It was Hobson's choice, and he went to Denver apparently a free man, but every step he takes, every mile he rides, every waking and sleeping hour will find a silent watcher near him. Had he not gone as he has, he would have been a free man, but he is not. He is a prisoner, and he is being watched.

A ROYAL PLUNGER.

The Prince of Wales Up to His Ears in Debt Again.

His Liabilities Said to Run Up to a Million and a Half.

An Attempt Being Made to Force the Queen to Help Him Out.

Thirty-Eight Suffrage Meetings Held in Brussels and Elsewhere.

LONDON, May 10.—Society has been convulsed this week by stories of the insolvency of the Prince of Wales. The statement accompanying this announcement the prince has been gradually overwhelmed by his debts is mischievous. The correct figures of his liabilities are about $1,000,000, of which three-fourths have resulted from his heavy play and betting transactions. During the last seven months the prince's fate has been the same as that of all other unucky gamblers. He met with some heavy losses on the turf and at the table last autumn. At that time his friendship with Baron Hirsch had raised the resentment of the Rothschilds. It is well known that the prince's intimacy with the moneyed "big wigs" has not only been widely disapproved. Several times during the last five years they have made up a purse for him which has extricated him from a financial quagmire. When he advanced the Baron Hirsch to the position of first favorite, supplies from the other sources were withdrawn, and though Baron Hirsch has been ready to pay for royal patronage, even he could not be expected to make up for the closing of all the other sources of pecuniary aid. The result was that the prince plunged more heavily in the hope of recouping himself, but the more he plunged the worse his position became. The disclosures now made have been a heavy blow to the prince for some time. The prince has applied for help fruitlessly several times to the queen, and the publication of the facts concerning his financial position is a last effort to force the queen to aid him. It is believed that the queen must come to his assistance, for she is the only one of her money bags her pride could scarcely stomach the spectacle of the heir apparent compounding with his creditors. It has been suggested, as a further inducement to her majesty, that an application may be made to parliament for a special grant, for it is notorious that if such a demand were made parliament would reject it with indignation.

HEBREW SUGGESTIONS REGARDING ARGENTINE FINANCES.

BUENOS AIRES, May 10.—President Pellegrini opened congress to-day. His message to congress, which is a lengthy document, deals mainly with the finances. The political situation, he says, is hopeful, and in spite of the depression of the treasury is satisfactory. Referring to the collapse of state banks, he appeals for union on the part of all sections of the country, and suggests the formation of a commission to decide the matter. The state banks, he says, must not disappear; they must be reorganized or reformed. In conclusion, the president favors reform of the currency on a silver basis, and announces important financial changes.
