The case of George L. Caser, as administrator of the estate of Erik Gustafson, against the Northern Pacific Railroad company, is now on trial in the federal circuit court. The action is to recover $3,000 damages for the death of Gustafson while employed on a snow plow in Montana, Jan. 10, 1888.

The suit of George C. Ragsdale against The Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, to recover damages for forcing a chattel mortgage on goods in the American house, is on trial before Judge Kelly. The defense claims that it had the right to foreclose for rent not paid in March. The plaintiff claims he was released from paying March rent and that no foreclosure should have been made.

A POLITICAL WHIRL.

Politicians of All Shades Interested in To-Day's Meeting.

Hon. H. C. Stivers Relieves Himself of Sound Advice to the Party.

And Mr. Moody Replies to Criticism From Friends and Foes.

Faction Fights Not to Be Tolerated by Democracy of This State.

Hon. H. C. Stivers, of Brainerd, declines the report that he has been set down upon by the Democratic "leaders" of the state. He insists that there is, in the first place, an absolute absence of any reason for such an occurrence, and, in the next place, he would not listen to caustic upbraidings. "This little gathering that we are to have in Minneapolis to-morrow," he said laughingly, "seems to have given the Republican press and the quasi-Democratic papers a fearful shock. Meetings, it would seem from their standpoint, must be exclusively within the province of the Union league may meet as often as it pleases, and it is all right, but just as soon as the representatives of the state intimate a desire for a gathering, a howl goes up from the embattled multitude. But we will meet just as if nothing of this hue and cry had been raised against us. It is a meeting of the Democratic legislators and their friends. Of course, some positive course may result, but it is not certain. Some of the members want to organize a system of clubs throughout the state, and this may be done."

Hon. J. H. Coates, of Sauk Rapids, was in the city yesterday afternoon. Later in the day he went over to Minneapolis to be ready for to-day's meeting at the Nicolet house. "I wonder if certain people really believe their own words," he exclaimed, after reading some of the drastic strictures published in the Republican papers. "Well, I confess the Republicans have occasion for alarm, and they may be expected to resort to every kind of subterfuge to create a split. We are going to have a rousing meeting, and something is likely to come out of it. No seeds of discord will be sown there. The watchword is harmony, and measures will be adopted to solidify the party."

"I notice that the Minneapolis Times has been roasting Charley Moody, of my city," continued Mr. Coates. "I want to bear testimony that there is not a more loyal Democrat in Minnesota than Moody; and as for his being too previous—well, any one who knows him knows full well that he is not given to such things. My judgment tells me that a paper that pretends to be Democratic would make more friends by treating representative Democrats with some measure of respect. They will be trifled to enough abuse by the Republican papers. Personal abuse, by the way, is dirty, and I trust it will end with our meeting to-morrow."

"Have you seen the roasting I received," said Charley Moody, as he came in from Minneapolis last evening. He had a copy of the Minneapolis Times in his hands. "A friend gave me this copy this morning over in the Flour City. The Democrats are all mad over it. The policy of that paper, it is quite apparent, is to stir up an internecine war in the Democratic ranks if possible. The Hennepin Democrat tells me that there isn't a single Democrat employed on the paper. They are dyed-in-the-wool Republicans from Editor Blanchard down to the office boy. Of course they don't want to see our party successful in Minnesota, and in their peculiar way they are trying to get up a fuss. I understand that democrats own the paper. It was told to-day that Mr. Winston, Mr. Oswald and Mr. Sweeney—they are loyal democrats—own stock in the paper. If this is true, it would seem that they are being deceived. They evidently do not realize what the politics of the staff are. But, from expressions I hear on the streets in Minneapolis, the Democrats of that city do not know that it is edited and run by the bitterest kind of Republicans. Democrats have no confidence in the utterances of those who were invited to give them a Democratic treat. "Mr. McDonald of the St. Cloud Democrat bears a personal animosity toward my friend 'Red' Bell of the Sauk Rapids Free Press," Mr. Moody continued. "They are rivals in a way, and this may account in some degree for McDonald's personal assaults. But how greedily the Minneapolis Times seizes everything that emanates from McDonald! It is amusing. They have what reports to be an invitation from me to Hon. A. J. Whiteman, of Duluth. I expect Mr. Whiteman will be in attendance to-day, and he can explain what his invitation read. While it is really white to reply to the attacks, I never said the meeting is to be open to all who choose to attend. It is open to Democrats. As I have before explained, each Democratic member of the legislature has been supplied with a number of these invitations, and each is at full liberty to invite whosoever he pleases. So, it can't be a very exclusive affair, can it?" Mr. Moody returned to Minneapolis last night to complete certain details for the gathering.

Mayor Durant, of Stillwater, was in St. Paul yesterday.

"Are you going over to Minneapolis to-morrow to attend the meeting of the Democratic hosts?" he was asked.

"I wouldn't stay away for a great deal," he replied. "If there is anything in this world I like better than another it is a real old-fashioned Democratic love feast. Yes, sir, I'll be there, and I have heard nothing said about the fusion scheme, however, although there may be some members who favor such a course. As I understand it, that is not an object of the meeting at all. The members of the legislature are to meet with their friends and arrange for a permanent organization. I think it is a capital idea. Organization has become a requisite to successful politics these days, and success is what we are looking for. This talk about fighting is simply trash, however. The only fight we have on is for Democracy."

Game Did Not Work.
Minnie Charlston (colored), who lives on Minnesota street, near Fifth, was arrested last evening by Officer Daly, charged with robbing Nels Hanson of $20 while visiting her house. The woman is well known to the police, and a few weeks ago she was locked up for disorderly conduct. On that occasion she had a most horrible din in the station, having all the symptoms of acute asthma, and the police allowed her to go home. She suffers from asthma, but when occasion serves her purpose makes believe that she is almost dying with it. Last evening she tried the same trick, thinking the police would let her go, but the little game did not work.

A DESOLATE GROVE.
The Scene Now Presented at Red Rock Camp.

Yesterday witnessed the closing of one of the most successful camp meetings that have ever been held at Red Rock. The exercises were very simple, the chief feature being an address in the morning by Mrs. A. M. I. Henry. Toward evening the place was a most deserted look, and one felt but little inclined to wander through the solitary grove. The directors and all who were concerned in the management of the meeting this year feel that they have been fortunate enough to have had an excellent orator and knew how to apply religious teachings to practical affairs. He probably caused more honest religious enthusiasm to spring up in the hearts of the campers than any man who has been on the ground the past few years.

Mrs. Amanda Smith, the evangelist, had a large and varied experience, and her talks absorbed the attention of the campers. She is an enthusiast, and did good work during her stay at Red Rock. She is now in Cincinnati.

The other speakers were generally more of local repute, with a few of them of national fame. A very pleasant party followed in the evening, and the directors to consider this matter.

A few of the cottagers will remain on the grounds a day or two longer. Mr. Moses and family will continue at the hotel until after the Fourth and will then go East. A very pleasant party enjoyed the last dinner of the season at the hotel yesterday noon. Twenty-three sat down to the table, which was burdened with the good things that only Mrs. Moses knows how to prepare. Wit and pleasantry flowed freely, and every one made a point to thoroughly enjoy every word. For a whole year the grove will be the quiet resting place of the birds, to be again brought into activity and life by another camp meeting next June.

Is What May Be Expected Over Sweeney's Contract.
The special committee appointed to arbitrate upon the Langford Park matter met yesterday in the office of Mayor Smith. There were present the city comptroller, city engineer, city attorney, Messrs. Banholzer, Elmquist, Dobner and Copeland. Contractor Sweeney and his attorney, John W. Willis, were also present. The famous sink hole was discussed pro and con, and Aid. Dobner moved a resolution that the work be carried on without further delay be introduced into the board of aldermen, passed and sent to the assembly for passage. Mr. Banholzer moved to amend that the board of public works be authorized to reassess the property benefited in order to raise $5,000, the sum for which Mr. Sweeney says he can finish the work. The amendment carried, all voting in its favor except Messrs. Copeland, Dobner and the city engineer.

Mr. Dobner said that the board of aldermen would never agree to vote any relief to the contractor, and the matter will be fought out to the end.

OUTSTED THE RAILROAD.
Legal Questions Passed Upon by the Supreme Court Yesterday.

The supreme court yesterday reaffirmed the decision in the case of Weeks vs. Bridgman. The case involved the title to a section of land claimed by Weeks under the pre-emption act of the journeyman painters' union. Other bosses have also asked a conference and Friday has been fixed as the day therefor. A number of union men are going out of town to get work and their places are not being filled.

The officers elected by the union are: President, L. Barnard; vice president, P. Johnson; recording secretary, Charles Douglass; conductor, W. Burton; warder, R. H. Grant; delegate to the national assembly, Charles Knudsen; delegates to building trades council, Charles Douglass and P. Hansen.

Fourth of July Excursion.
The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway will sell round trip excursion tickets between all stations at a fare and a third for the round trip, except between points in North and South Dakota where the rate will be a fare and a fifth, and further, excepting that these rates will not apply between St. Paul and Minneapolis and Chicago. Tickets will be sold on July 3d and 4th, good to return until July 6th, inclusive.

ABOUT THE IDEAL.
Things Not to Be Forgotten in June, When the Roses Bloom.

It is true, as they sometimes tell us, that men and women are growing away from one another, that every year each sex is more and more nearly sufficient to itself, and has less and less companionship with the other? There are things that succeed in business won't buy, and the woman's clubs and Ibsen culture won't buy, and one of them is youth and another is freshness of enjoyment, and another is happiness in one's own loyalty to the ideal.

The days and the weeks and the years slip on, and the things we learn to think of as duties press closer and closer, and by and by it is perhaps a June rose or an old-fashioned pink that says to us: "You are doing none of the things you know to be best worth doing, and the things you are about are not worth while." The graduates know that they will tell us for the next fortnight, and we shall laugh at them, and they will forget themselves in a year's time. Nevertheless, the graduates, and the roses and the pinks are right; they know. There is more in life than earning one's living, or even in wearing art frocks or improving one's mind.

The Facts in the Case.
Kansas City Star.

It is noteworthy that all the orators at Columbus spoke glowingly of the "great victory of 1888," but made no sort of allusion to the little episode in 1890. "A Democratic house," says Mr. Sherman, "passed the Mills tariff they but it was rejected by the senate and was by the people in the election of 1888. A Republican house passed the McKimley bill last fall, but the people repudiated it six weeks later. The house during the Fifty-first congress had a Democratic majority of sixteen. "Repudiated" by the people the house of the Fifty-first congress had a Republican majority of seven, and passed the McKinley bill. On this congress the people fell and gave the Fifty-second congress a Democratic majority in the house of 149. These are figures that talk.
