THREE HUNDRED DEAD

Two Large Cities of Japan Crumbled by an Earthquake Shock.

Thousands of Buildings Are Destroyed and the Streets Full of Victims.

Wires Down and the Ill-Fated Towns Cannot Be Reached.

Wide-Spread Damage Caused by Fires in Various Places.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—Dispatches were received here this evening from Japan announcing that the telegraph wires beyond Hiogo and Osaka were down. It was added that there had been an earthquake at Hiogo and Osaka, and that a great amount of property has been destroyed, and that the loss of life will be appalling.

A private telegram dated Hiogo, received in this city tonight, confirms the report conveyed in former telegrams that a disastrous earthquake shock has occurred in Japan. This telegram says that a severe shock was experienced at Osaka, and that the destruction both of life and property was very great. So severe was the shock that a number of houses were thrown to the ground, and many of the occupants were caught in the falling buildings and crushed to death.

A large number of persons succeeded in escaping from their tottering homes only to meet death in the streets, to which they had fled for safety from the falling debris. There is no means at present of estimating the total loss of life; in fact, the details of the catastrophe are very meager, as all the telegraph wires are broken in the districts affected by the falling of the poles, which were thrown down by the seismic disturbance.

300 Dead in One City. The above-mentioned private dispatch, however, states that it is known that at Osaka alone the death list contains the names of 300 of the residents of that city.

Hiogo is a seaport town of Japan, on the island of Honshu, and is situated about twenty miles by rail from Osaka. Hiogo is a fine harbor at the head of the gulf of Osaka, and is adjacent to Kobe. It is lighted with gas, and has a number of fine public buildings, including a town hall, a number of houses and government machine shops. The seaport referred to has an extensive foreign and coastwise trade, and a population in 1884 of about 40,000 souls. Osaka is also a seaport, and is situated on the sea, thirty-seven miles southwest of Hiogo, in which place, as well as to Hiogo and Kobe, are the principal built. Osaka has a large foreign trade, arsenals, a great castle, machine shops, a city hall, a mint, a college, and an academy, and is traversed by canals, over which there are more than 1,100 bridges, some of them of iron. This city has many fine parks, and is a place of amusement, and it also has 1,300 places of worship. In point of size it is the third or fourth city in Japan, but in social affairs, it ranks first. The industry it takes the first rank. Osaka has five newspapers, hundreds of schools and a number of colleges. The census of 1884, of about 2,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The state department here today received the reported earthquake shock in Japan to-day. The Japanese minister said to-day that the late earthquake in Japan, which resulted in great loss of life and property, occurred about thirty years ago at this season of the year, and in the same locality as the one mentioned to-day.

FIRE FIENDS' WORK. Flames in Forests—Wide-Spread Destruction.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 28.—Forest fires along the Lake Erie St. Louis and Evansville & Indianapolis are still raging, and thousands of dollars worth of property has been destroyed. At English, Pigeon and Mackay the engines are terror-stricken, and are making all efforts to prevent the destruction of the town. The fires burned over the 200-acre farm of Thomas Featherstone and destroyed everything in sight. The sawmill of George Chappell and 100 feet of quarter oak lumber was burned. For miles on the Lake Erie St. Louis line the trains are stopped on both sides of the track, and trains are compelled to go through tunnels of sparks and smoke. Nothing but heavy rains can check the destruction now going on.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 28.—Forest fires are raging in the mountains, in many instances houses having been burned, and cotton pens, with their contents, have been consumed, involving great loss. No rain has fallen in two months, and the autumn leaves are making a distressing conflagration.

Newnan, Ga., Oct. 28.—This city has again been visited by fire. Last night T. W. Howell & Co.'s warehouse, with 1,000 bales of cotton, and other property, was evidently incendiary. Wiley Argo, a desperate character who has a grudge against the city and warehouse, was arrested yesterday. It is impossible to get a correct estimate of loss of the three fires occurring within three days, but the combined loss will probably reach $200,000.

It being the principal event of the day, great interest was taken in the result. Another fact which added interest to the race was the fact that the Prince of Wales had three entries for the stakes, this royal highness, as a rule, is not very successful with his own horses, and to-day there was no exception to the rule. One of his entries running third in a field of twenty-nine starters, thus saving his stake, but getting no share in the prize money. The victor was W. W. Fulton's three-year-old filly Comedy. Lord Hastings' three-year-old filly Braach was second and the Prince of Wales' three-year-old Derelict third.

Chiliano Authorities Will Not Guarantee Safety of Our Seamen.

An English Precedent in Line With Uncle Sam's Present Position.

SANTIAGO, Chili, Oct. 28.—The Chili government has replied to Minister Egan's demand for an explanation of the recent attack upon American sailors. The state department's orders in reference to the matter are very strong.

There is a practical boycott on the Baltimore. No American sailors are allowed ashore. Great excitement has been caused here by a report that the Chilian legation in Washington has been attacked. It is understood that Minister Egan expressed much surprise at the very strong language in which the Chili government's reply is couched.

HE IS STILL DENYING.

Uncle Hiram Wheeler is an Extremely Busy Man These Days.

He Didn't Deliver a Political Speech to the Iowa Deaf and Dumb.

Sanguine Ohio Republicans Placing McKinley's Plurality at 20,000.

But There Are Plenty of Indications That They Will Slip Up.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 28.—Farmer Wheeler was in town yesterday. He came at 10 o'clock, and delivered an address to the students of the institute for the deaf and dumb at Council Bluffs. Of course this was a tactical charge made by the wicked Democrats, but Chairman Mack supposed it was made in good faith, and was seriously embarrassed by it. Mr. Wheeler put his mind at ease by entering a clear and explicit denial. It was not qualified or evasive like that gentleman's denial of certain other charges relating to his operations on the Chicago board of trade.

There is no reason to doubt that a great deal has been done to Mr. Wheeler. He may be a grain gambler, he may be a tax dodger, and he may be a doubtless a very poor politician, but he has no right to be so vilified by the students of the deaf and dumb institute. Chairman Mack has done well to deliver an address before the students of the deaf and dumb institute. A HUNT FOR VOTES.

Close of the Campaign in the Buckeye State. COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 28.—The remaining days of the campaign will be devoted by both parties to rallies, hurrahs and arrangements for getting out the voters. Meetings of clerks and canvassers are being held, and the canvass is being pushed forward with vigor. The campaign has been a pretty race and a hard fought one. It has been a pretty race and a hard fought one.

But it pains the backers of protection a little to observe that the voters who come into the home-stretch McKinley is whipping, while Campbell has not yet made either whip or spur. This is a little strange, but it is true that even a messenger boy's gallop cannot be so fast as the McKinley campaign. The McKinley campaign is a little strange, but it is true that even a messenger boy's gallop cannot be so fast as the McKinley campaign.

One month ago the Republican cry was "McKinley will have 30,000 plurality." A few enthusiasts possessing remarkable fertility of imagination, put the Republican plurality at 50,000. Today the most sanguine Republicans place McKinley's plurality at 20,000. The contrast in these figures shows the strength of Campbell's campaign. People who are not Republicans have studied the questions at issue here, and have followed the surface indications of the campaign, will do well, in forming an estimate of the result, to remember that the normal Republican plurality in this state is 20,000. They should also remember that McKinley was practically the unanimous choice of his party, while Gov. Campbell secured the Democratic nomination against bitter opposition from Hamilton and Cuyahoga counties, in which are situated the cities of the state—Cincinnati and Cleveland.

The illness of Gov. Campbell, continuing as it did for several weeks, has done much to retard the progress of the Democratic campaign. During the period of Campbell's indisposition, McKinley was traveling all over the state, making speeches every day, and it is little wonder that under these circumstances the Republicans were confident of victory. It was hoped that the prohibitionists could not get hold of them. The address then was made by Judge King, that 15,000 Democrats voted for the prohibition amendment, and to punish the Germans, a campaign line which was exploded long ago. It says the Democrats are the enemies of the legislature in the senate of the last legislature, and that the prohibition bill, which is now before the legislature, is the promise that if the Republicans control the next legislature they will pass a resolution annulling the prohibition amendment. The Republican platform declares that the prohibition law shall be maintained and enforced. On the contrary, every well-informed person knows that the Democrats do not propose and would not dare to take any partisan advantage should they be in control of the power to repeal the odious prohibition law. The writer says it was never suggested by any but the prohibition editors of the Republican party, who know too well that they have the organization in their grasp, and never fail to shape its policy to suit themselves. The writer recalls the interesting fact that the present prohibitory law was passed in the lower house in 1884 by the votes of Republicans who secured their election in Pottawattamie county through the positive promise that they would disregard the caucus mandate and vote against prohibition in every form. He truthfully adds that there is but one way to secure a change of the law in Iowa: that is to intrust the power to change it to the Democratic party. He further adds that the address of these so-called independents was issued by men who never had any idea of doing anything else than following their party blindly, and that their words will have no weight with the great body of liberal Republicans who supported the law. One month ago the Republican cry was "McKinley will have 30,000 plurality." A few enthusiasts possessing remarkable fertility of imagination, put the Republican plurality at 50,000. Today the most sanguine Republicans place McKinley's plurality at 20,000. The contrast in these figures shows the strength of Campbell's campaign. People who are not Republicans have studied the questions at issue here, and have followed the surface indications of the campaign, will do well, in forming an estimate of the result, to remember that the normal Republican plurality in this state is 20,000. They should also remember that McKinley was practically the unanimous choice of his party, while Gov. Campbell secured the Democratic nomination against bitter opposition from Hamilton and Cuyahoga counties, in which are situated the cities of the state—Cincinnati and Cleveland.

The illness of Gov. Campbell, continuing as it did for several weeks, has done much to retard the progress of the Democratic campaign. During the period of Campbell's indisposition, McKinley was traveling all over the state, making speeches every day, and it is little wonder that under these circumstances the Republicans were confident of victory. It was hoped that the prohibitionists could not get hold of them. The address then was made by Judge King, that 15,000 Democrats voted for the prohibition amendment, and to punish the Germans, a campaign line which was exploded long ago. It says the Democrats are the enemies of the legislature in the senate of the last legislature, and that the prohibition bill, which is now before the legislature, is the promise that if the Republicans control the next legislature they will pass
