WILL BENEFIT COMO.

Success at Last Crowns the Efforts of Park Commissioners.

A Sufficient Supply of Water Secured for Lake Como.

The Lake Will Quickly Be Restored to Its Original Size.

Bonds Disposed of for the Como Boulevard Improvements.

The present board of park commissioners have been quite successful in their efforts toward obtaining a new source of water supply for Como park.

They have been working for some months past on a system of wells of the artesian order, and their special committee, Commissioners Aberle and Dale, accompanied by Chief Engineer Rundlett and a globe reporter, went to the scene of operations in Como park, yesterday, and found a highly satisfactory condition of affairs.

During the fall William Mooney, artesian well contractor, began operations at an extensive and formerly picturesque arm of Lake Como. This arm has dried up of late years so that it has amounted to but little more than a great mud pond, and a very unpleasant place did it become to the citizens of Waukegan and the surrounding city.

ROUND UP SMUGGLERS.

St. Paul to Be Made Headquarters for the Government Agents.

Opium Smuggled Over the Canadian Line on a Large Scale.

The Chinese Exclusion Act Also Being Broken With Impunity.

News of a Busy City Dished Up to Please All Palates.

The prohibitive tariff upon opium has led to a greatly multiplied system of smuggling.

The cunning of all nationalities has been enlisted in the illicit traffic, until the government is driven to heroic exertions to intercept the shrewd exploits of smugglers.

It is reported that they work from Canada through Montana and North Dakota, and a year or so ago a vast amount of opium was taken to this city for sale on the Pacific slope, was confiscated by the United States marshals, and the opium catch was sold at auction to the government at a low price.

But, it is reported, the smugglers have resumed the illicit practices with more persistence, directed with address and audacity, and in connection with this are reported violations of the Chinese exclusion act, and to cap the climax, it is said that a number of illicit distilleries have sprung up along the Dakota and Minnesota border.

This violation, it is reported, has escaped the detection of government inspectors, and the exigencies have prompted action on the part of the officials. The government agents have hitherto acted principally from Chicago. That is, they have maintained their headquarters at that city, but as must be apparent to any practical mind, Chicago is too far removed from the scenes of the illegal practices, and St. Paul has been chosen as the headquarters in the future.

Special Agent J. J. Crowley, who has had a wide experience in this peculiar work, has been detailed to take up residence in this city. He will take special charge of Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana and Idaho, and Mr. Crowley will assume work here the first of the month. From St. Paul he can direct his agents with greater facility and more certainty than from any other point of government acquisition for St. Paul.
