

SAINT PAUL

CAUGHT IN THE CURRENT.

Supt. Kirk returned from a trip down the St. Lawrence yesterday.

The Kanauistic iron company, Minneapolis, capital stock $100,000, filed articles yesterday.

E. A. Whitford, county attorney of Dakota county, paid his respects to Attorney General Clapp yesterday.

The following pensions have been allowed through the office of the adjutant general: John Humphrey, $12; Arnold O. Hoops, Wasaga, $8.

Cecil Kachel, a tailor, for being disorderly and ejecting two of his employees from his store while under the influence of liquor, was fined $15 in the municipal court, yesterday.

Miss Alice Kelly, daughter of Judge John F. Kelly of this city, has returned from Mount Notre Dame seminary, near Cincinnati, O., having graduated at that institution.

Edward O'Donnell, who is in the county jail, having been arrested for stealing a watch valued at $25, was granted a jury trial yesterday in the municipal court and the date fixed at Dec. 9.

Joseph T. Spier, a well-known and popular employe of the railway, met with serious misadventure yesterday, at the home of the bride, to Miss Meggie O'Connell, the daughter of a prominent Blue Earth county farmer.

The council committee on streets had a brief and unimportant session last evening. The only thing considered was the transfer of a right granted a small manufacturer from a block to another on the West side.

Postmaster Lee has received information from Postmaster General Wainmaker to the effect that hereafter promotions in the clerical force of first-class offices shall be made only upon civil service examination by local boards.

James Kennedy, known as "Capt." Kennedy, and who at one time was a prosperous citizen and brewer, was yesterday again sent by the judge of the municipal court to the workhouse for thirty days on a charge of vagrancy.

The state Republican central committee will meet at the Windsor hotel on the 19th inst., instead of Dec. 7, originally intended. The change was made to accommodate a number of committee men. It has been ascertained that Gen. Clarkson will be present at the meeting.

Marks and Morris Michaels, the alleged five finger, will be arraigned today in the municipal court on charges of arson. Ida Greer, whose house was recently burned down, and who was arrested and released last Wednesday, will, it is expected, testify against the two men to the effect that they set the house on fire.

The December term of the district court will open Monday. The calendar will be called for that day and a panel of 100 jurors will appear Tuesday. All the criminal cases have been continued over until next week.

There are 105 jury cases, 103 criminal cases and 26 criminal cases on the calendar.

Rev. W. S. Vall will preach on the subject of "A Sudden Conversion Under the Light of Modern Research" in his grand old house, Vermont Sunday morning, and the St. Anthony Hill orchestra, consisting of five pieces, will play a beautiful symphony of the same name.

Miss Lillian Lewis, with a capable company of players, will give her last two performances at the Metropolitan opera house today. The matinee will be given at 2 o'clock and the evening performance, only time of "As in Looking Glass."

Miss Lillian Lewis, with a capable company of players, will give her last two performances at the Metropolitan opera house today. The matinee will be given at 2 o'clock and the evening performance, only time of "As in Looking Glass."

The joint court house and city hall committee held a short session yesterday afternoon. A lengthy petition was received and referred to the committee on grounds and buildings, which asks that the ringing of the chimes be suspended. The monthly payroll amounting to $1,039, sundry bills and salaries of the joint committee were ordered paid.

The trial of James O'Connell against J. J. McCafferty for damages in failing to try a canoe for him, was concluded yesterday. Judge Kelly's court. The jury was instructed that Mr. McCafferty was not guilty of bad practice or want of good faith in trying the canoe or its management. The jury returned a verdict of $125 in favor of O'Connell. The amount of damages demanded was $130.

Established 1870. A St. Paul Clothing House exclusively owned and controlled by St. Paul men such is the old reliable Boston One Price Clothing House on Third street.

COURT CULLINGS. The case of Cody against McCafferty went to the jury last evening.

Margaret L. Berryman has sued John B. M. Handy for $400 damages in a real estate deal. The case of the Capital bank against the town of Logan has been taken under consideration by Judge Brill.

In the case of John Rogers Jr. & Bro. against the Mercantile Insurance company, the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff.

Maria C. Clark has sued August A. Johnson and Julia M. Johnson upon a promissory note for $1,010, and has garnished funds in the hands of the Scandinavian Mutual Aid Association of Gopher.

J. H. Hultsch & Son have sued David McCauley, William McCauley and William L. Barreau, as surviving partners of the firm of McCauley Bros. & Barreau, to recover $182.77 on a judgment against them.

Henry M. Schmuck has begun an action against the Wagon Club and Alexander M. Penobscot for forcible detainer on lot 2 of Cochran's subdivision of an addition to block 4 of Woodland Park. The mortgage was given to W. F. Fied and assigned to Schmuck.

Complete Winter Outfits for Boys. The Plymouth Clothing House.

Seibert Concert. The third of a series of six concerts at the People's church takes place this evening. Aside from the concert, a vocal quartet orchestra three soloists are booked for the occasion—Miss Clara Williams, soprano; Prof. E. Straka and William Marlow. Following is the programme in detail:

Prose—Chorus and evantina from opera "Carmen"—"Micaudate Symphony"—"The Unfinished"—Schubert Sprano Solo—"Know'nt Thou the Land?"—"The Land"—Thomas

Miss Clara Williams, soprano; Prof. E. Straka and William Marlow. Following is the programme in detail: Prose—Chorus and evantina from opera "Carmen"—"Micaudate Symphony"—"The Unfinished"—Schubert Sprano Solo—"Know'nt Thou the Land?"—"The Land"—Thomas

Complete Winter Outfits. The Plymouth Clothing House.

Bill Was Not in. The various railroads centering at St. Paul, have been agitating the building of a dome on the union depot on account of the accumulation of smoke in the rotunda, which has been a general complaint since its erection. A committee was appointed to raise funds for this purpose, each road running into it to pay for its proportion. Each office was visited by the committee to obtain the agreement of each company. By chance the Great Northern was the last of the list, all other roads agreeing that it was necessary to have an outlet for the obnoxious smoke. Mr. Hill was found in his office and asked to subscribe his proportion.

"Not a cent, not a cent of it. I told you when it was being built that, in the first place, it would not be large enough, and in the second place, there must be plenty of outlets for the escape of smoke and other fumes that may be objectionable to passengers. Not a cent, Good-day, gentlemen."

When Baby was sick she gave her Castoria. When she was a Child she cried for Castoria. When she became a Man she clung to Castoria. When she had Children she gave them Castoria.

THE FAIR'S FINALE.

Managers Meet and Formally Hear the Financial Report.

The board of managers of the state fair association met at the Merchants' yesterday afternoon and wound up the business of the year, it being the last meeting of the present board. A few bills were allowed and ordered paid, and the reports of Secretary W. F. Cross and Treasurer J. W. Wilcox were received, adopted and ordered placed on file. The statement of receipts and expenditures is about as stated at the close of the last fair, and as a result of this year's successful management there is a balance of $10,551.75 in the treasury of the society. The receipts of the association reached the handsome sum of $68,650.22 from the following sources:

Balance on hand Jan. 10, 1891..... $2,103 83 Membership fees..... 89 00 Annual tickets..... 250 00 Special state appropriation..... 250 00 Ticket account..... 2,516 00 Bills payable..... 1,211 46 Privilege account..... 6,824 50 Licenses..... 3,178 00 Suspensions..... 78 85 Forage account..... 231 73 Entry fees for bond premiums..... 229 00 Premiums returned unclaimed..... 6 25 Officers paid by N. Shaw..... 313 00 Team sold..... 250 00 Miscellaneous receipts..... 65 00 Total receipts..... $84,650 22 Total disbursements..... 74,098 47 Leaving a balance of..... $10,551 75

A noteworthy item in the receipts given above is the sum of $27,816 received for tickets. This still remains $290 to be added to this sum, which will make the total gate receipts over $28,000. The managers, it is needless to say, were highly delighted with this showing, and before adjourning unanimously adopted a resolution thanking President Clough for his services and requesting him to accept of a re-election. This resolution follows:

Whereas, Hon. D. M. Clough has filled the position of president of the State Agricultural Society for the past year with credit to himself and profit to the society; and

His administration during the past year has been so unqualifiedly acceptable to the board of directors, and so profitable to the people of Minnesota, it is hereby

Resolved, That we, as a board, in recognition of his able and judicious management, hereby request and urge President Clough to accept of the position for another year, and do pledge ourselves to do all in our power to make the success of our next fair as great as that of 1891.

Two protests against the judge's awards at the fair were considered, and the board refused to sustain them. This finished the business, and the meeting adjourned. Those present were: President D. M. Clough, of Minneapolis; Col. Clark Chambers, of Owatonna; C. N. Cosgrove, of Le Sueur; Leonard Cook, of Blue Earth county; Col. W. M. Liegert, of St. Paul; W. H. Tanner, of Moorhead; J. J. Farlow, of Austin; F. J. Wilcox, of Northfield; Secretary W. F. Cross and Assistant Secretary Sam Partridge, of Hamline.

Complete Winter Outfits. The Plymouth Clothing House.

DOUBLY DENIED. Supt. Scott Again Contradicts Removal Reports of the St. Paul City Railway Company, was seen yesterday in reference to a second postal card received at the Globe office, saying that the mechanical department of his company is to be removed from East Seventh street to Minneapolis.

Scott said: "That's from the same party that wrote the other one on which the Globe interviewed me about two weeks ago. I can only answer as I did then, denying these reports, except to say: 'We have nothing in East Minneapolis but the car house and its appurtenances. You can see it all when he returns next Sunday. The transfer of extra bookkeepers to Minneapolis and the drawing of all checks at that city has set stories afloat regarding a probable removal of the mechanical department, and yet, although the purchasing agent's office has been located in Minneapolis, I'll venture to say that the most of our oil, wires, machinery and other supplies are bought in St. Paul. It seems queer that the man isn't willing to sign his name to the postal card. We have made some contracts with the Northern Car Company of Minneapolis for the rebuilding and building of cars of which you publish an account this morning, which is substantially correct. It means nothing regarding the St. Paul Street Railway company aside from this, that we have such work done here as can be delivered to our best advantage."

AFTER HARROUN. His Creditors Want a Receiver for Their Benefit. A petition was filed in the office of a clerk of the district court yesterday asking that a receiver be appointed for the effects of E. R. Harroun. The petitioner alleges that he is insolvent and indebted to the following named petitioners for services in the several sums named to wit: C. W. Hill, $75; Charles F. McCarron, $120; Ambrose P. Wright, $100; E. J. A. Taylor, $100; and W. H. Moorehead; C. N. Cosgrove, Le Sueur; W. H. Phillips, Duluth; R. J. Drake, Northfield; H. E. Warner, Coldwater.

At the Merchants'—S. L. Perrin, River Falls; W. J. N. Patterson, Franklin, Pa.; D. F. Calkins, Gen. Clarke, Le Sueur; G. O. Moorehead, W. A. Taylor, W. R. the friend of both Lincoln and Douglas. It was Col. Taylor who first suggested to Abraham Lincoln the idea of greenbacks.

Builders in Line. The builders of the city are officially in line with the general public in the resolve to capture the national Democratic convention for St. Paul. The board of directors of the builders' exchange at their last meeting enthusiastically endorsed the vigorous move against the national convention, as the support and services of the exchange in securing the convention and providing suitable accommodations for the delegates and architects, fraternity show we have no need of outside ability to furnish any building required and our building contracts will prove themselves equal to the occasion.

Complete Winter Outfits. The Plymouth Clothing House.

NEW WESTERN BROS. Establishment of Several Recommended to Rome. St. Louis, Dec. 4.—While the work was not contemplated in connection with the golden jubilee of Archbishop Kenrick, the archbishops and

Complete Winter Outfits. The Plymouth Clothing House.

HUSTLING HARD NOW.

Convention Committees Vigorously Prosecuting a Financial Campaign.

The canvass for the guarantee fund proceeds without serious interruption. The weather was far from balmy or conducive yesterday, but the stout hearts engaged in the cause of St. Paul do not part to be of the most pleasant sort. Everybody realizes that in order to land the prize the necessary money must be pledged and available.

The convention means a great deal for the prosperity and progress of the city. In the first place, it will place over $1,000,000 in money into circulation in a few days, and it will acquaint the world with the natural resources and advantages of the city and the Northwest, and the benefits that will insure will be lasting.

The committee on hotels is scarcely satisfied with the inducements offered by the hotelkeepers of the city, however, and the ground will all be covered over again. A national convention means a great deal for this class of St. Paul's business interests. Most are especially interested in the contest, and he is looked for to do the proper thing in this emergency. The opinion obtains, it should be willing to submit to a general committee is of the impression that the hotel people have been laboring under some false impression, and a description would have been characterized by a great deal more liberality. That they will realize the fallacy of their false impression, and the landlords will be in the van today.

The saloon men and liquor interests are always made the burden of all popular public gatherings, and in this instance they are standing well up to the mark. A handsome per cent of the total amount that will be required will be subscribed by the people who pay $1,000 each for the privilege of doing business.

One more day is given to the canvass, and the chairman of the different committees expect each individual member to be present. The committee of St. Paul will make a strenuous effort to reach the very top notch before this evening. A general meeting is to be held in the afternoon, and the night, when all subscription lists will be turned over for the purpose of determining the aggregate. Mayor Shurt, the chairman, will be unable to attend, but he has so arranged matters that the work will progress just as though he were here.

Detroit is considered the only really dangerous rival. Indianapolis ranks next, but there seems to be little fear of any of the others, and every citizen engaged in the crusade feels perfectly confident that if the people of St. Paul are united, they will sweep the victory is assured. Parsimony and progress are incompatible. The first gnaws at the vitals of the latter, and right here is the only possible danger of defeat.

Very little was said yesterday about the market house site and applying for a license to hold a market and auditorium. That would be an excellent idea, were it not absolutely necessary to get the government's consent for occupancy early in June. This being the case, it is absurd to entertain the proposition of any other site, unless it is chosen with the greatest care, and already made inequally advantageous conditions. Otherwise no prominent business man would be likely to do it. It might be better in the end, it is true, to choose an entirely new site and build the whole up new. But time is the chief of the men killed and injured at the Third street disaster yesterday.

"I see there is some talk of a scheme to sell the market house site and applying for a license to hold a market and auditorium. That would be an excellent idea, were it not absolutely necessary to get the government's consent for occupancy early in June. This being the case, it is absurd to entertain the proposition of any other site, unless it is chosen with the greatest care, and already made inequally advantageous conditions. Otherwise no prominent business man would be likely to do it. It might be better in the end, it is true, to choose an entirely new site and build the whole up new. But time is the chief of the men killed and injured at the Third street disaster yesterday."

Mr. Johnson had not drafted any plans, even of a cursory nature, but his brain is bubbling over with auditorium ideas, and he is ready to go to work as soon as the committee of one hundred is ready to entertain them. He is opposed to the idea of a market square, and the city will always recede a hasty movement that will give an auditorium based solely upon the principle of securing the required seating capacity. The style should be somewhat modern, and all accessories should be employed to the very fullest. It is his idea to give the city a structure that will give the space, the comfort, the beauty and be an enduring ornament to the city. All this cannot be done in time for the national convention, but the time is not too far off when the ready time is that time too much valuable time is not foregone in idle controversy. Mr. Johnson says that the plans must be decided upon within the next thirty days at the farthest, and the contracts for supplying the materials must have been awarded by that time. The auditorium must be constructed largely of wrought iron, wood and glass. These materials can be manufactured in this winter, and it is ready to be bolted together early in the spring. Indeed, they may be put up during the winter months, and the heavy snows will do no harm to the building, and for the winter weather. The one mill tax contemplated will cover the necessary expenses.

The question of possible opposition to the one mill plan has been widely discussed. A prominent and influential Republican who is a member of the committee, remarked yesterday that "Any citizen who is narrow enough to resist this popular movement stands in imminent danger of a ducking in the river."

Builders in Line. The builders of the city are officially in line with the general public in the resolve to capture the national Democratic convention for St. Paul. The board of directors of the builders' exchange at their last meeting enthusiastically endorsed the vigorous move against the national convention, as the support and services of the exchange in securing the convention and providing suitable accommodations for the delegates and architects, fraternity show we have no need of outside ability to furnish any building required and our building contracts will prove themselves equal to the occasion.

Complete Winter Outfits. The Plymouth Clothing House.

HUSTLING HARD NOW.

Convention Committees Vigorously Prosecuting a Financial Campaign.

The canvass for the guarantee fund proceeds without serious interruption. The weather was far from balmy or conducive yesterday, but the stout hearts engaged in the cause of St. Paul do not part to be of the most pleasant sort. Everybody realizes that in order to land the prize the necessary money must be pledged and available.

The convention means a great deal for the prosperity and progress of the city. In the first place, it will place over $1,000,000 in money into circulation in a few days, and it will acquaint the world with the natural resources and advantages of the city and the Northwest, and the benefits that will insure will be lasting.

The committee on hotels is scarcely satisfied with the inducements offered by the hotelkeepers of the city, however, and the ground will all be covered over again. A national convention means a great deal for this class of St. Paul's business interests. Most are especially interested in the contest, and he is looked for to do the proper thing in this emergency. The opinion obtains, it should be willing to submit to a general committee is of the impression that the hotel people have been laboring under some false impression, and a description would have been characterized by a great deal more liberality. That they will realize the fallacy of their false impression, and the landlords will be in the van today.

The saloon men and liquor interests are always made the burden of all popular public gatherings, and in this instance they are standing well up to the mark. A handsome per cent of the total amount that will be required will be subscribed by the people who pay $1,000 each for the privilege of doing business.

One more day is given to the canvass, and the chairman of the different committees expect each individual member to be present. The committee of St. Paul will make a strenuous effort to reach the very top notch before this evening. A general meeting is to be held in the afternoon, and the night, when all subscription lists will be turned over for the purpose of determining the aggregate. Mayor Shurt, the chairman, will be unable to attend, but he has so arranged matters that the work will progress just as though he were here.

Detroit is considered the only really dangerous rival. Indianapolis ranks next, but there seems to be little fear of any of the others, and every citizen engaged in the crusade feels perfectly confident that if the people of St. Paul are united, they will sweep the victory is assured. Parsimony and progress are incompatible. The first gnaws at the vitals of the latter, and right here is the only possible danger of defeat.

Very little was said yesterday about the market house site and applying for a license to hold a market and auditorium. That would be an excellent idea, were it not absolutely necessary to get the government's consent for occupancy early in June. This being the case, it is absurd to entertain the proposition of any other site, unless it is chosen with the greatest care, and already made inequally advantageous conditions. Otherwise no prominent business man would be likely to do it. It might be better in the end, it is true, to choose an entirely new site and build the whole up new. But time is the chief of the men killed and injured at the Third street disaster yesterday.

"I see there is some talk of a scheme to sell the market house site and applying for a license to hold a market and auditorium. That would be an excellent idea, were it not absolutely necessary to get the government's consent for occupancy early in June. This being the case, it is absurd to entertain the proposition of any other site, unless it is chosen with the greatest care, and already made inequally advantageous conditions. Otherwise no prominent business man would be likely to do it. It might be better in the end, it is true, to choose an entirely new site and build the whole up new. But time is the chief of the men killed and injured at the Third street disaster yesterday."

Mr. Johnson had not drafted any plans, even of a cursory nature, but his brain is bubbling over with auditorium ideas, and he is ready to go to work as soon as the committee of one hundred is ready to entertain them. He is opposed to the idea of a market square, and the city will always recede a hasty movement that will give an auditorium based solely upon the principle of securing the required seating capacity. The style should be somewhat modern, and all accessories should be employed to the very fullest. It is his idea to give the city a structure that will give the space, the comfort, the beauty and be an enduring ornament to the city. All this cannot be done in time for the national convention, but the time is not too far off when the ready time is that time too much valuable time is not foregone in idle controversy. Mr. Johnson says that the plans must be decided upon within the next thirty days at the farthest, and the contracts for supplying the materials must have been awarded by that time. The auditorium must be constructed largely of wrought iron, wood and glass. These materials can be manufactured in this winter, and it is ready to be bolted together early in the spring. Indeed, they may be put up during the winter months, and the heavy snows will do no harm to the building, and for the winter weather. The one mill tax contemplated will cover the necessary expenses.

The question of possible opposition to the one mill plan has been widely discussed. A prominent and influential Republican who is a member of the committee, remarked yesterday that "Any citizen who is narrow enough to resist this popular movement stands in imminent danger of a ducking in the river."

Builders in Line. The builders of the city are officially in line with the general public in the resolve to capture the national Democratic convention for St. Paul. The board of directors of the builders' exchange at their last meeting enthusiastically endorsed the vigorous move against the national convention, as the support and services of the exchange in securing the convention and providing suitable accommodations for the delegates and architects, fraternity show we have no need of outside ability to furnish any building required and our building contracts will prove themselves equal to the occasion.

Complete Winter Outfits. The Plymouth Clothing House.

HUSTLING HARD NOW.

Convention Committees Vigorously Prosecuting a Financial Campaign.

The canvass for the guarantee fund proceeds without serious interruption. The weather was far from balmy or conducive yesterday, but the stout hearts engaged in the cause of St. Paul do not part to be of the most pleasant sort. Everybody realizes that in order to land the prize the necessary money must be pledged and available.

The convention means a great deal for the prosperity and progress of the city. In the first place, it will place over $1,000,000 in money into circulation in a few days, and it will acquaint the world with the natural resources and advantages of the city and the Northwest, and the benefits that will insure will be lasting.

The committee on hotels is scarcely satisfied with the inducements offered by the hotelkeepers of the city, however, and the ground will all be covered over again. A national convention means a great deal for this class of St. Paul's business interests. Most are especially interested in the contest, and he is looked for to do the proper thing in this emergency. The opinion obtains, it should be willing to submit to a general committee is of the impression that the hotel people have been laboring under some false impression, and a description would have been characterized by a great deal more liberality. That they will realize the fallacy of their false impression, and the landlords will be in the van today.

The saloon men and liquor interests are always made the burden of all popular public gatherings, and in this instance they are standing well up to the mark. A handsome per cent of the total amount that will be required will be subscribed by the people who pay $1,000 each for the privilege of doing business.

One more day is given to the canvass, and the chairman of the different committees expect each individual member to be present. The committee of St. Paul will make a strenuous effort to reach the very top notch before this evening. A general meeting is to be held in the afternoon, and the night, when all subscription lists will be turned over for the purpose of determining the aggregate. Mayor Shurt, the chairman, will be unable to attend, but he has so arranged matters that the work will progress just as though he were here.

Detroit is considered the only really dangerous rival. Indianapolis ranks next, but there seems to be little fear of any of the others, and every citizen engaged in the crusade feels perfectly confident that if the people of St. Paul are united, they will sweep the victory is assured. Parsimony and progress are incompatible. The first gnaws at the vitals of the latter, and right here is the only possible danger of defeat.