St. Paul Nurses Meet a Test of Popularity--Carmencita's Artistic Degeneration--Where Aigrettes Come From--Table Etiquette.

A meeting of the nurses of St. Paul was called for yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Balderon, on Round street. Owing probably to the unsettled state of the weather, there were only a half dozen present, but to few take any definite action without a few from the general body of the city nurses regarding the reorganizing of the Nurses' association.

The last meeting of the old association was held one year ago last March, and it died out from sheer lack of interest. A large majority of the reputable nurses, those holding certificates from at least two first-class physicians of the city, long ago joined the Nurses' directory, managed by Dr. Bissell; but this does not promote other than business interests, and more thoughtful women in this profession believe that the time has come when they can effect a social organization that will be a benefit and relaxation to all of their number.

There are in this city about 130 nurses engaged in various branches of the profession, and which none is more honorable and more open to women more lucrative. One little woman who was here yesterday has worked up a fine business in the city. Just now she has six patients under her care that require each two hours daily of her time. When it is remembered that some of them live a distance apart, and that this little woman does not yet set up her own coupe, some faint notion of the value of her work leads will be gained. But hard work brings its own recompense, and her weekly income reaches the handsome figure of $100.00. A set scale of the prices paid to nurses, each fixing her own figure when she registers at the hospital, or in other avocations patronized by women. It is food for wonder that more young women do not turn their attention toward this promising business, which they may be so much more independent than in positions in factories or behind the counter of a store.

It was finally decided to send out postal cards, calling another meeting for next week, with a view to securing a permanent social organization of the women making the move trust that there will be a general response made by other members of the profession.

CARMENCITA'S.

Her Artistic Standard Lowered to Suit Concert Halls.

A recent exhibition I made one of a party of friends to make a box for the Carmencita dance. I had not seen her for a year, and she had not had the most fastidious of her admirers. Even in her most passionate moments she measures her skirts to her hips, and she has more than her fair share of the first faint swell of the call of the waltz. There was but a couple of weeks' living of the English concert hall manner of flitting the entire body of skirts into the air. But, oh, what a fall (rise) was there, my countrymen! I hardly recognized this delightfully pliant Spanish dancer of a year ago. Her grace, her dignity, were all gone. She strode upon the stage with the bold front of an Yvette Guilbert, coquetted with the chorines of the boxes, and without the slightest respect for her art, took special pains to throw her skirts repeatedly into the air. The whole atmosphere of Southern Spain, the perfume of Granada, the sunny smile of the Guadalquivir were all gone. It was the same tall, slender, willowy Spanish woman, but the big city of New York was dancing for the New Yorkers and not to show her art. She was coquetting with high kickers and French eccentrics.

TABLE ETIQUETTE.

Americans Feed Themselves Instead of Dining.

As a people, we Americans have been laughed at for eating like swine. We are credited as being a nation of gluttons. Now, of course, this is generalizing, but you, the eldest son of the Republic, in your power to make the hour at the dinner or tea a matter of real delight. It is an easy matter, you find, to get your father and brother interested in the talk of the day, so that you will eat with a relish, and you will achieve what the Frenchmen consider the great art--you will dine, not merely feed yourself. There are a few little questions about the etiquette of the table that some girls want to know, and these I am going to tell her. She must lay her hands by its handle, and never let her fingers reach up to its blade. Whenever it is possible a fork must be used in place of a spoon, and that same spoon, which must never be left in a coffee or tea cup, but laid to rest politely and securely in the saucer. Glasses with handles are held by the stem. A goblet should be caught by the stem, the fingers not entwining the bowl part. Don't butter a large piece of table linen, but break your bread in small pieces, one at a time, and butter it--that is, if you are eating butter--and convey it to your mouth by your fingers. Olives, celery, radishes, strawberries with stems, and asparagus are all eaten from the fingers. The old method of eating cloven with a knife has been given up, a fork being used in its place. The use of many small dishes for vegetables is not to be commended, indeed, many vegetables should not be served at one time.

A Test of Popularity.

AST Thursday evening, at her residence, on the corner of Eleventh street, Mrs. Frederick H. Snyder was surprised by a number of her pupils, who called to pass a social evening with her, in anticipation of her departure for Italy, whither she starts tomorrow. Darling the evening, Snyder's pupils presented her with an elegant gold watch, and a number of other valuable gifts. The recipient was completely overcome by this testimonial of her pupils' regard, and could make no answer, but to assure them she should often think of them and their work here, while she pursues her course.

A FINANCIAL TANGLE.

The Methodist Conference Falls Short on Traveling Expenses, And, as of Yore, Necessary Funds Will Come From the Book Concern.

Some Red-Hot Reports Due From Committees at an Early Date.

Important Chairmanships Allotted in the Assembly at Portland.

OMAHA, May 21.--Bishop Foss presided at the Methodist Episcopal conference today. About the first thing that was sprung was the question of the funds to pay the traveling expenses of delegates, arose and said that the funds had not been paid in from the annual conference treasurer in a sufficient amount to pay all the traveling expenses of the delegates. Some one suggested that the amount be borrowed from the book concern. Then this music began, and some very vigorous remarks were offered.

One delegate declared that it was not wise to talk about borrowing the money from the book concern, because the amount would never be paid back. The general conference had borrowed from the book concern time and again, but had rarely if ever repaid the money. The conference ought to be honest and simply make an appropriation of the amount needed, about $4,000, be borrowed from the book concern, and that the amount be assessed against those annual conferences which had failed to pay their assessments for the traveling expenses fund.

"You might just as well apportion the deficit to the sun, moon and stars as to the annual conferences," said Dr. Laucha. "I move that the amount be drawn from the book concern, and the assessments of the book concern be authorized to charge the amount to profit and loss." [Laughter.]

Just in the Old, Sweet Way.

After much wrangling the conference, however, did what the general conference has done for years before, decided to draw the amount from the book concern. Rev. Bearshire, fraternal delegate from the United Brethren church, aroused great enthusiasm in reviewing the work done by his church during the last quadrennium. He said that the United Brethren had reached the point where the holy right of women to preach the Gospel when they felt the call from God to enter the ministry would not be refused them. He hoped the great Methodist church would soon come to permit light on the question.

MASQUERADE AS A MAN.

One of the Grievances Germain Had Against His Wife.

Frederick W. Germain asks for a decree of divorce from Margaret V. Germain. They were married at Hudson, Wis., in September, 1889. It is asserted that the wife left him in February, 1891, and has led a dissolute life since then. He charges her with giving him trouble with her petty larcenies while living with him. He alleges that for the past four months she has lived at the Brunswick hotel in Minneapolis, where she was kept by a man named Goodrich. He asserts that she had a room also at the corner of Fourth street and Nicollet avenue, where she kept a suit of male attire and a wig, and that frequently she went to gambling and drinking houses in man's attire, where she drank and gambled for money. He also charges her with adultery with a number of men.

It has been determined by the executive committee of the World's Columbian exposition to appoint at its next meeting Supt. J. T. Wilson of Stillwater, as its secretary, and Mr. W. C. Adams of Waseca, as its treasurer. The schools of the state are to be congratulated on account of this appointment. The work of the secretary will be of a varied and most important character. Mr. Wilson is energetic, experienced and well equipped for the position. The executive committee will meet at the capitol at 10 o'clock June 8.

False Economy.

Is practiced by many people, who buy inferior articles of food because cheaper than standard foods. Supply plenty are entitled to the best food obtainable. It is a fact that the Gall Borden "Eagle Brand" Condensed Milk is the best in the land. Your grocer and druggist keep it.
