LADIES' DAY.

An Interesting Yacht Race at White Bear.

Yesterday was ladies' day with the White Bear Yachting association, and though the weather was not at all favorable for the display of summer toilets, a large number of the fair sex gathered to see the club house and fourteen gallantly handled tillers and sailed once around the association course. Up to 2:30 there was almost no breeze, but at 2:30, when the first gun was fired, there was a capital breeze. The start was what might have been expected from such beautiful shapely boats, and by the prettiest of the season. The yachts were sailed in two classes, cats and sloops, the latter starting first, and after the former. Hornet was not in the race, as she lacked a lady at the helm, but sailed over the course for the satisfaction of her crew. The Maltonedi boat had been blown away during the recent storm, its place being filled by a stake boat, with Andrew Peterson as its distinguishing mark.

A SMOOTH GAME.

Being Played by the Young Man Who Writes to His Mother.

One of the latest "con" games, or one of the newest in this locality, is being worked by a very smooth young man just now who goes by the name of the swindler generally selects for his operations a small confectionery or notion store. This shows the fellow is a good judge of human nature, for nearly all such establishments are frequented by women or middle-aged men. Entering the store selected, he purchases a sheet of paper and envelope, and becomes acquainted with the proprietor. He has to send $5 to his mother, who is sick while writing the letter he sends in a casual way, and says he will safe to send the money in a letter without registering it. The answer usually being in the affirmative, he finishes the epistle, and after purchasing a stamp, starts toward the door. Returning again to the counter, he asks if he could be accommodated with a letter, and the proprietor, who is counting the bill, says he is being produced he counts in a careful manner $5 in quarters, nickels and dimes and gives it to the customer. The bill handed to him is placed in the envelope in plain view of the victim, and at once sealed up, and the swindler, who has been successful in his first attempt, says he will be short 15 cents. The shortage surprises him greatly, and he recounts it to the counter. He then makes a search in his pockets, and says he will be short 15 cents. The shortage surprises him greatly, and he recounts it to the counter. He then makes a search in his pockets, and says he will be short 15 cents.

WORKED THE REGISTERS.

How Bartenders Made Money During the Convention.

If the owners and proprietors of the large saloons in Minneapolis made money during convention week, so did the majority of the help employed to care for the rush of drinkers. In nearly all of the two hundred and fifty saloons extra help was employed to supply the throng of little and big politicians who congregated in the bar rooms with liquid refreshments. As a matter of protection to themselves, and also to their patrons, cash registers were distributed at frequent intervals behind the bars, more especially in the saloons where lengthy temporary bars were constructed and outside help employed. The piano-like registers were constructed and ready to use at a moment's notice. The majority of the men employed for the week knew their job well, and but a few days and acted accordingly.

For a gentleman is a nice supply of Gent's Furnishing Goods, and the foundation of the above supply is a neat lot of nice-fitting shirts. They have been made to order, and then the foundation of the scheme was worked. He, of course, had a "pal," who, with the frequency of an enthusiastic politician, made trips to the bar. Each time he ordered a pint bottle of "white label," and threw a crumpled $1 bill on the bar, and received change for a $20 bill in return. If this should happen to meet the eye of the manager of the wine bar at which the trick was turned, he will know for a certainty how the shortage came about.

Robbed a Church Room.

The school room of the Central Park Methodist church, as well as the pastor's study was ransacked by thieves on Friday night. The vandals secured $5 in cash and not satisfied with that destroyed the furniture and pictures in the rooms.

CRANKS BEHIND IT.

Reformers Pushing the Mayor to Put Screws on the Saloons.

Confidence Game Worked by the Young Man With a Letter.

How Merry Bartenders Enriched Themselves and Pals.

It was reported or rather rumored yesterday that an order had been issued by Mayor Wright, instructing the chief of police to close all saloons at midnight and to inform saloonkeepers that their places of business must be kept shut on Sunday until after the close of the morning church service. The mayor's secretary, however, stated that there was nothing to the report, at least he had not been informed of it. Capt. Cook, who has charge of the department during the absence of the chief, said no such order had been issued, and that the rumor must have been started by some one who was not satisfied with the way the new administration was running things. Secretary Boerner said he had heard a deal of talk on the street about an order being issued to the saloonkeepers, but it was false.

ROGERS IN THE RACE.

His Friends Are Pushing Him for Congressional Honors.

The Republican congressional nomination in this district, while not at all likely to reward its possessor with a seat in the lower house of the national legislature, is nevertheless looked upon with longing eyes by several of the local leaders. When Col. A. R. Kiefer was retired from the majority race last spring his friends at once announced that they would ask the congressional nomination for him, but the callant colonel is not at all anxious for the honor, nor is he anxious to see Col. J. Ham Davidson, and will hardly care to engage in a contest for it. The most likely candidate named so far is Hon. E. G. Rogers, the well known attorney. Mr. Rogers represented a part of St. Paul in the lower house of the legislature last year, and made a record as one of the ablest and strongest men in the body. He is a fine talker, a man of commanding presence, great ability, and withal popular qualities. His friends are enthusiastic in their support, and will leave no stone unturned to secure for him the doubtful honor of making the race for his party in this district. The nomination of a man like Mr. Rogers, while it would probably not result in his election, would place the contest on high ground and insure an honorable result for the majority, no matter the contest might be decided at the polls.

Successors to Bartlett & Hoffman, are Now Ready to Make Their

ANNOUNCEMENT

FACE TO FACE.

There are engaged in the Clothing business two classes of persons, the producer, known to the "trade" as manufacturer, and the middleman. The one makes clothing and sells it, the other buys from the maker and sells it to the wearer. It naturally follows that the consumer must pay the original cost and the sum of several profits. In our stores the wearers and maker meet "Face to Face." The middleman's usual profit goes to the retail buyers.

HOFFMANN & CO.

We are going to make this the People's Store. We are now in a position to do it. We have made and held our trade for years by Good Service, Best Qualities, Lowest Prices. We now expect to merit still greater success. For the present we shall address ourselves to the special task of making more friends. A stock second to none. Prices a little lower than our neighbors'. Affordable dealing on our part is bound to bring it about.

AS TO LINES AND QUALITY

Clothing, Hats and Furnishings

Of the most reliable makers. We'll handle no other kind. In Medium-Priced, Staple and Fine Clothing at Lowest Prices. "We Are the Kings."

In Novelties such as you'll only find at Best Tailors, and in "Stouts and Slims" (our hobby) we'll lead them all, getting our supply from the best makers of these specialties on this continent.

AS TO QUANTITY,

We won't carry four times as much as all other clothiers combined, but the stock will be very full, and one from which all our patrons can be supplied. We know the wants of the people here, and are prepared for them. The stock shall constantly improve. We'll be second to none—no middle ground in our business.

AS TO OUR FACILITIES,

There is nothing lacking. Long experience in and acquaintance with this trade. Unlimited capital; every art of judicious buying; a taste in the selection of fabrics that wins trade. Fabrics carefully tailored in our own immense factory by the best workmen in the Union.

AS TO
