MILITIA PUT DOWN.

Gov. Pattison Takes a Reef in Brigadier Snowden's Ambition.

The Soldiers Will Hereafter Be Subordinate to Civil Authorities.

Deputy Sheriffs Installed as Preservers of the Peace in Homestead.

Workmen at Duquesne Walk Out and Braddock Men Will Quit.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 22.—The Pennsylvania militia were tonight taught their proper place. It was a stern lesson, administered by Gov. Pattison personally.

The soldiers are now to aid the civil authority, and not to be its superior. A street procession, headed by the town council, in honor of the chief magistrate of the borough, is not to be dispersed.

The deputy sheriffs installed this evening number sixteen in all, and in Sheriff McCleary's absence, are directed by Chief Deputy Brady, who is authorized to call in the assistance of the militia to the fullest extent to preserve order and maintain the peace.

Installing the Deputies. The deputies, on their arrival from Pittsburg, were introduced to the militia officers on guard duty throughout the town by a major from Gen. Snowden's headquarters.

The guardsmen were also given to understand that in the future the town of Homestead had been relinquished into the hands of the deputy sheriffs and to the militia officers, to whom they were subordinated.

Except on call of the sheriff's representatives are to be the ones to say when the danger point has been reached by assemblages of citizens, the men in uniform, with guns in their hands, being no longer to constitute themselves, at will, judge, jury and executioners.

The new arrangement, it should be explained, does not materially alter the conditions that have existed in Millfin town since the military encampment, all of which are to remain as they are.

Snowden Holding His Tongue. Gen. Snowden admitted tonight that he was aware of the installation of the sheriff's representatives as Gov. Pattison's suggestion.

The general declined to attempt to restrict the respective limits of authority of the militia and deputy sheriffs were to be drawn, and to discuss the reasons for the change in the militia.

He denied emphatically that any differences existed between himself and Gov. Pattison.

The new arrangement, it should be explained, does not materially alter the conditions that have existed in Millfin town since the military encampment, all of which are to remain as they are.

At the meeting of the advisory committee this evening it was reported that $180 had been received from sympathizing friends during the day.

A committee which had been sent to Braddock reported that the men would strike tomorrow. A lodge of the association was formed of the operators in the mills at that place.

EMPLOYEES' STATEMENT.

The Homestead Advisory Committee Issues It.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 22.—The advisory committee of the Homestead lock-out has prepared a statement of its position, in which the committee signifies its recognition of law and order, and peaceful means as the only elements that should have part in the settlement of the present trouble.

A committee which had been sent to Braddock reported that the men would strike tomorrow. A lodge of the association was formed of the operators in the mills at that place.

SALISBURY MAY STICK.

The Discredited Ministry Is Alleged to Be Planning a Bold Stroke.

Semi-Official Hint That the Conservatives May Act in Bad Form.

A Statement of the Chief Tory Whip Throws Doubt on the Report.

Leaders of Irish Factions Refuse to Discuss Probable Future Action.

LONDON, July 22.—A sensation is caused by an editorial in the Post headed "Why Resign?"

The article is believed to foreshadow the policy of the government. It says: "Assuming that the opposition has a slender majority on the motion that the government does not possess the confidence of the country, why should ministers resign in view of the fact that they have not to deal with a disjuncted opposition, but only a disjuncted party?"

It is suggested that the government does not possess the confidence of the country, why should ministers resign in view of the fact that they have not to deal with a disjuncted opposition, but only a disjuncted party?

The article concluded, "should not act before advising the sovereign to prorogue parliament until the normal period of assiduous activity."

"The present plan of Mr. Gladstone appears to be to get the Irish members to aid him in rigging up the electoral machinery in order to secure him a majority in the next general election, enabling him to laugh at the Irish vote. His plan is not unique, though the Nationalists are so simple as to cut their own throats by helping to execute it."

In a separate view. To inquire into the views of Messrs. Douglas, the chief Conservative whip, today as to whether the government, if defeated, would persist in remaining in office, he responded simply that "the government will act in accordance with precedent and the traditions of parliament."

On the measure of education of precedents is towards immediate resignation on defeat, the whip's reply was that the government would not resign until the normal period of assiduous activity."

The article in the Post adopting the suggestion, does not carry much weight. On the measure of education of precedents is towards immediate resignation on defeat, the whip's reply was that the government would not resign until the normal period of assiduous activity."

FEASTED THEIR EYES.

Saint Paul Officials Roam Through the Park System of Minneapolis.

In Response to Col. Lowry's Invitation to Become His Guests.

What Taste, Money and Public-Spiritedness Have Wrought Out.

Some Suggestive Examples Quietly Laid Before the Saintry City.

By many it is believed that the first great step toward not only a satisfactory park system, but one or more suburban summer resorts, came into practical realization yesterday. By emulation and comparison many of the best practical results are attained. St. Paul is compelled to admit that in the matter of parks and parkways it is not in the same class with Minneapolis, and the natural desire to be in the van in this as in all other matters will result in a broad and speedy drive, and in launching the movement that should crest of Lowry hill, and terminating in the general boulevard system at Lake of the Isles. Three years ago this drive was a fourth-rate unpaved road, a hilly and through a thicket of stunted undergrowth. The transformation is really wonderful. Now it is a broad and spacious driveway, smooth as a floor and lined for most of the distance with cosy and even sumptuous residences. Two Bryn Mawr, gleaming banks and a crew of men were busy engaged in deepening the lake, the soil taken up going to making the smooth banks further along. The parkway winds around the western end of a delightful residence district. As the procession wound by Calhoun, it must have been a score of men and boys were waving their heated bodies in the cooling waters of the lake. But the carriages whirled along past the sleek and beautiful Lakewood, planned for one grateful moment in the shade of the inter-lake district, and then burst upon the superb Lake Arrowhead.

Harriet has not one jot more of natural beauty and attractiveness than any of the suburban lakes of St. Paul. It is a gem of a body of water, nearly oval in shape, and surrounded by the finest of highland crowned with luxuriant foliage. Many and liberally have done the rest. Five years ago the lake was little known; now it is the focus of thousands of people, pilgrims, not of Minneapolis alone, but of all this vicinity. The city park board, the large and airy pavilion, heretofore described in the GLOBE, was erected by the street railway company, combining business with philanthropy.

Of course the pavilion is not run simply pro bono publico. But to the result of some great eucalyptus plant. The trees are planted in every day. It carries health, refinement and renewed life to thousands. When the St. Paul party reached it yesterday, it was a scene of beauty and refreshment. The interperate heat of the day in the cooling breezes that swept unintermitted through it. Doolily cool and refreshing and will end in securing for the city all that we desire in this important direction. St. Paul wants many things of Mr. Lowry, and among others an adequate service to Lake Como. This Mr. Lowry says he is willing to provide; but he adds that under the present circumstances and conditions such service will not pay him, nor will it meet the demands of the people in the line of furnishing a summer resort at a public cost. At the recent conference, he briefly outlined a scheme to make of Como what he and the city of Minneapolis have made of Lake Harriet. He talked in his fascinating way, with a pavilion, with music and the concomitant
