

A BREAK BY BRIDGET.

Miss Sullivan, the Main Witness Against Lizzie Borden.

Drops a Significant Remark Touching the Latter's Arrest.

A Reaction Begins to Set in Among Many People in Fall River.

New Theory Advanced As to the Motive for the Crime.

FALL RIVER, MASS., Aug. 13.—The most noticeable feature in the Borden case today was an expression made by Bridget Sullivan during an interview this afternoon. She remarked: "Well, I don't wonder that they arrested Lizzie Borden." As Miss Sullivan is the most important government witness, her statement has started the friends of the prisoner.

A. J. Jennings, counsel for Miss Lizzie, has been able to get no inkling of the testimony elicited at the inquest. A great many people feel that the government should have acquainted Mr. Jennings with its side of the case. The district attorney would not talk on the case, beyond dropping an occasional hint as to its legal aspect.

A Reaction Settling In. The reaction in the Borden case has set in, and today the popular feeling is noticeably quiet. There is very little violent discussion going on. Three days ago it was the popular cry that Miss Lizzie was a criminal, and should be placed behind prison bars.

While direct police surveillance has been removed from Mr. Morse and Miss Sullivan, yet their whole connection with the case will be gone over by the police again in the next few days, and they will not be far away should the police need them.

Open to Reporters. The marshal again denies the statements made editorially and otherwise in many papers to the effect that no search was made until after the funeral. A search was made three times during the afternoon of the day of the murders and Miss Lizzie's room was searched as thoroughly as other portions of the building. Police inquiry is being made again into the details of a mysterious robbery which took place at the Borden homestead about a year ago. A lady's watch and several articles of jewelry were taken from a dressing-case in one of the upper rooms, and to this day the police have been unable to trace the thief.

THEORY OF REVENGE.

An Old Mutiny Recalled as Suggesting It.

LYNN, MASS., Aug. 13.—The Lynn item will today publish a statement that Andrew J. Borden, of Fall River, gave the principal testimony that convicted the ring-leaders in the mutiny on the voyage from a foreign port to this country; that he and his wife were on the vessel; that he saw all of them have been released, and it is submitted that several of them were in Fall River at the time of the murder.

Less than a dozen years ago the ship Jefferson Borden, bound from a foreign port to this country, was seized by mutineers, who claimed to have been cruelly treated by the officers, and in the general struggle and confusion the captain was struck with a rifle spike and killed. The ring-leaders of the mutiny, five in number, were captured in the hold of the vessel, and when the vessel reached port they were brought before the courts for trial. Two of them were Americans, two were British subjects and one a Portuguese who claimed to be a subject of Queen Victoria.

In the courts the men told a fearful and pitiable story of inhuman treatment that forced them to the wildest desperation, until they organized a mutiny and attempted to get control of the ship. Every man swore that in the general fight which occurred it was absolutely impossible to have identified the murderer. By the aid of the English government the three foreigners were either released or secured with light terms of imprisonment. Not so with the two Americans. They were declared guilty by the courts and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The principal testimony which the courts took under consideration and acted upon was given by a gentleman who was on board with his wife at the time, and who was the principal owner of the ship. Against this man the prisoners long ago swore they would have revenge. That man was Andrew J. Borden, of Fall River, who with his wife has gone down to death by an assassin's hand.

Against this man the prisoners long ago swore they would have revenge. That man was Andrew J. Borden, of Fall River, who with his wife has gone down to death by an assassin's hand.

Up to a year ago a most strenuous effort was made by a man named Sullivan, prominent in the Atlantic coast seaman's union, to secure the release of the two men confined in the Houston prison. Petitions were signed by all the trade and labor organizations of the country and presented to President Harrison, and it UCH opportunities for matrimony as were offered me in New Guinea a few years ago I never expect to enjoy again," said Artist Sherman F. Corbett, who is on his Stateship commission, to a reporter.

My journey through the island of the Papuan was made for the purpose of collecting specimens of the interesting savages as a naturalist seeks to gather, but the people themselves are the most interesting specimens of the island. The men and children go about entirely naked, while the women are dressed in grass petticoats and a grass blouse. I found that he was in love, but he admitted with a sigh that he was not.

Too Poor to Marry. "You are young and strong," said I, "why do you not go to work in order to support yourself and your sweetheart?" "You do not understand," he replied. "I have a good garden that grows what food we want; besides, I can throw the spear farther and truer to the mark than any other man in the district, so that I can get plenty of kangaroos and pigs. But they will not buy the girl. Her mother wants an ax for her, and that I cannot give my garden or hunt in the forest with my spear."

The poor fellow groaned, made several despairing remarks on his prospective mother-in-law, and finally said that if he did not love the young woman so dearly he would go away and never look back again.

"But, my boy, you need not despair," said I. "If the possession of an ax will secure your happiness, I will give you one. I want many paradise birds, for in my country people think more of them than of axes.
