

REMODELING SALE!

Owing to increasing business, we are compelled to enlarge our present quarters in order to make room for a much larger and finer stock. We have leased the entire building (80x100 feet), and the work of remodeling the upper floors has already begun. The second floor will be fitted for our Boys' and Children's Department, which we propose shall be the best equipped, most convenient, and altogether the finest in the West. The elevator and staircase leading to the second floor will be located just inside the main entrance, avoiding the inconvenience to ladies of walking through the store. The third floor will be used for duplicate stock, giving us ample room to carry a much larger assortment in every department than ever before. Our enlarged quarters will be ready to occupy about March 1st, 1893, or about the time Spring trade opens, and it will be our aim to begin the season with only new Spring and Summer goods. To do this it will be necessary to name lower prices on Boys' and Men's Reliable Garments than ever were known to the St. Paul Clothing trade.

NELSON WAS NON EST

A Horde of Hungry Office-seekers Fail to Find the Governor.

Who Takes a Day Off to Look Over His Little State.

Most of the Plums Will Be Awarded the Coming Week.

Enough Known to Point to the Probable Lucky Few.

Governor Nelson gave the numerous candidates for office, that have haunted his sanctum every day the past week, the slip yesterday morning and hid himself away to recuperate over Sunday. Callers at his office were simply told that he was out of the city and would be back Monday, but his wise private secretary did not disclose his whereabouts to some of the eager aspirants might take the next train and present their claims to the governor at his retiring place. It was understood, however, that he has gone to Wisconsin to spend the Sabbath with his mother, who lives in that state.

The majority of the important appointments in the state still remain to be made. It is probable the governor will take occasion during his brief respite from the office-seekers to consider some of the claims that have been advanced by the different candidates, and that he will return tomorrow with his mind pretty well made up as to some of the offices at least. However, he may not hand down any more appointments until he has compared a complete batch for presentation to the senate.

The situation as to the different offices remaining to be filled in the state capital remains about the same. It is said that Insurance Commissioner Smith has been promised by no less a person than the chief executive himself that he would be his own successor. The state superintendent is not so certain. The Kiehl and Kirk rumpus has made it likely that another man will be given charge of the educational department, who will figure as a compromise official to unite the present factional split in the ranks of the educators of the state. Who this man may be is not certain, but a prominent educator in the southern part of the state is being pushed for the place.

Mr. Libbey, of St. Paul, will be the most likely choice for adjutant general, though he has some opposition. Adjt. Gen. Mullen is in favor of Libbey for his successor, and says it would make an excellent officer. According to the major's friends, the governor thinks so too.

Inspector Bob Clark has a record as having made a most efficient inspector, and there is no reason assigned why he should not be reappointed. Under his jurisdiction the inspection all over the state has been all that could be asked, and no complaints have been made from any quarter, while he has filled the office. He has made no effort in his own behalf, but his friends all over the state have not been slow to make their voices heard.

Dorman Says He Did Not Authorize Two Damage Suits. Rushton M. Dorman denies that he empowered C. C. Joslyn, of Minneapolis, to begin his noted actions against William H. Fisher. These actions are for malicious arrest, and to recover a large quantity of live stock and machinery situated on a farm in Polk county. Mr. Dorman filed in the special term of the district court yesterday, with Merrick & Merrick as attorneys, and asked that the action brought against him by Joslyn be dismissed. Joslyn appeared to oppose the motion, and claimed that he had been authorized to bring the actions. Mr. Richardson, attorney for Mr. Fisher, also opposed the motion to dismiss on the theory, as he regarded it, that it was merely a story motion. The court reserved decision on the matter until Dorman may present affidavits in support of his motion.

REQUIREMENTS FIXED

For the Work to Be Included in the Educational Exhibit. The executive committee of the board of commissioners on the educational exhibit at the world's fair held a meeting at the capitol yesterday morning. There were present Irwin Sheperd, Winona; J. E. Downey, Minneapolis; C. B. Gilbert, St. Paul; A. E. Engstrom, Cannon Falls; J. L. Noyes, Faribault; D. L. Kiehl and Frank T. Wilson, of St. Paul. After a general discussion the following resolutions were passed: 1. That all written work shall be on official paper and bound in a uniform style of 2. That all handwriting, so far as it is capable of mounting, shall be placed in portfolios of uniform size and binding; that two sizes shall be permitted. 3. That the arrangements and suggestions of the secretary, Frank T. Wilson, of St. Paul, and of the board of commissioners, shall be approved; that the secretary of the division of the space awarded as Chicago be adopted, provided that the pictures and outlines and portfolios be taken from the space awarded the city schools. 4. That the secretary be instructed to get up a dummy of a souvenir manual of 100 pages, and secure as many subscriptions and copies for a 20,000 edition as possible. 5. That the superintendent and secretary of the fair be authorized to arrange for the final settlement of details concerning the space awarded for mounting work to be referred to the committee above appointed. 6. That the secretary be authorized to refer to the schools furnishing such work. 7. That the arrangements for securing photographs, under the supervision of the secretary, be approved; that the negatives be taken by the secretary, and the prints and mounts the pictures. 8. That in view of the decision of the board of commissioners on the educational interests of the state the commission on the state make a provision of $50,000 to be devoted to the special schools.

LOSEN AGAIN.

Schlick & Co. the Next Firm to Quit Third Street. March 1 Third street will lose another of its ancient landmarks and find another notch downward. On that date the widely known retail shoe concern of Schlick & Co. will move off the street, and take possession of its handsome new quarters in the Mannheim brown stone front building on Sixth street, across from the chamber of commerce and next to the large building on the corner of Robert street, soon to be occupied by Mannheim Bros. The new Mannheim building is a beautiful five-story structure, with a brown stone front. It is one of the prettiest buildings in the city. The first floor, which is to be occupied by Schlick & Co., is 50 feet wide by 100 feet long. Schlick & Co., who have always been regarded one of the finest retail concerns in the Northwest, will maintain their prestige, and carry over a larger stock than ever before. The concern has held forth on Third street since 1852, and for some been one of the great attractions of the locality.

Rosina Vokes was the first to produce a novelty in the way of a triple bill on the American stage, and that it was a popular innovation is proved by her success. She is now on her eighth tour in this country, and comes to the Metropolitan opera house during the month of February.

FOR LOVERS OF SONG

The "Milkmaid of Schoenberg." Will Amuse the Germans at the Met Tonight. At the Metropolitan this evening the merry music of the "Milkmaid of Schoenberg" will form a pleasant transition from the tragic and sorrowful scenes of "The Menonite," as presented by the Boliman company last Sunday evening, and, instead of pathos, there will be fun, merriment, and rollicking and trials of Reinhold and Marie will be superseded by the sprightliness of the lovers of the German drama. The duet of Nenna and Schober will take place of the love and death scenes of Roemer and Schmeizer. The provincial love of the Germans for lolly and music will be gratified to the fullest extent, and every one can come prepared to laugh, and they might as well bring their tear bags along, as they will come in handy after the power of straight laughter is exhausted, and the flow of pleasure will be unimpeded. A synopsis of the story of the play is unnecessary, as it will simply narrate that which has been passed in waiting for the reappearance of Martha Neuman and Christian Schober in roles to which they could do justice only whetted the appetite of the lovers of the German drama to a higher degree. If you want to be entertained Sunday evening just leave your seats for the "Milkmaid of Schoenberg" and you will not be disappointed. Following is the cast of characters: Prober, stage manager.....Carl Beck Henry, his son.....Christian Schober Weisberg, remissor.....Julius Collier Neuenke, a messenger.....Richard Wagner Stepp, scenographer.....Herman Schmeizer Tina, Milkmaid of Schoenberg.....The Lieben Fran Schmeizer.....Martha Neuman Hedwig, governess.....Gertrude Kelly Marie, servant.....Laura Koffel Frau Brunner.....Mrs. Neuman Goldstein, a banker.....Julius Marx Louis, his stepdaughter.....Ella Roemer Henrietta, a hired girl.....Ella Collier The "Milkmaid of Schoenberg".....Car Schmidt Workmen, their wives, guests, etc., etc.

PERFORMANCES THEY HAVE EVER WITNESSED.

New scenery by Voegtlin, the celebrated artist; new costumes by Alexander Hermann, of Paris; properties by Henry, of New York, and other embellishments by artisans of the first class in their respective lines. In the comedy Mr. Robson will be seen as the much-abused husband, Henry Dove. Thursday evening Mr. Robson will appear as Tony Lumpkins, in Goldsmith's immortal comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer." In this revival of Goldsmith's grand old comedy, Mr. Robson set with much success last season in St. Paul and other cities, and it has again shown him that his love for the old plays is not misplaced. Mr. Robson presents "The Sloops to Conquer" with all its old-time flavor; the scenery has been taken from old prints, the costumes from old plates, and every embellishment has been added that could make one believe he or she is living at the time the play is supposed to have taken place. That it has required study, perseverance and experience to accomplish this desired effect it is needless to say. "The Heavens" seems to be the most successful, for after years of presentation there seems to be no diminution in the size of the audiences, and the public will not allow Mr. Robson to place it on the shelf. As Bertie the Lamb, Mr. Robson has a part ideally suited to his talents, and it is not to be expected that Mr. Robson will be aided by his charming wife, formerly Miss May Waldron, and an excellent company.

"A KENTUCKY COLONEL."

With McKee Rankin, at the Grand Opera House. "A Kentucky Colonel," a new comedy drama, with McKee Rankin in the title role, will inaugurate a week's engagement at the Grand opera house with a performance tonight at 8:15. The play is founded on the novel of Ople Read by this name, and like the story, the main attempt of the author is to present a realistic and strong character from Kentucky, true to nature and at the same time preserve the general interest. The pictures presented are said to show full of human interest, and the skilled humorist is said to turn the course of the stream of peculiar idiosyncrasies and strong characters into exaggeration or burlesque. The play is described as a clever blending of character drawing. The story of the play is one of the most original and original yet most innovating and original in the types of the stage impersonations it presents. The heroine of the play is the daughter of a grand old Kentucky colonel. She is unfortunate in being beloved by two men, one a rough, unrefined, hot-tempered mountaineer, an heir to a typical Kentucky feud, a lion in his way, but ignorant of a manner in which to win a woman's heart. The other is none the less brave, but much more tender, with the benefit of an education and an association with gentlemen. Although in love with the heroine, he sues the feeling that tugs at his heart, caused by the woman he worships being engaged to another man. The fierce Kentuckian, jealous of his rival, forces him to fight. From the result of the quarrel, he is compelled to leave the estate. The gentle hero returns first, finds his love reciprocated, and becomes engaged to the heroine. Patient, and subdued, with love stronger than ever, the mountaineer returns and his noble rival, who is the play Monday and Tuesday evenings, and at the Wednesday matinee. Much interest is manifested in the event for it will show if the comedies which had such power to draw and please large audiences, and if Mr. Robson's play will play a clamorous solo with piano accompaniment by Prof. Emil Overholfer. The concert takes place at 3 p. m., and to make sure of a good seat you had to come early.

"A KENTUCKY COLONEL."

Following "A Kentucky Colonel," as the Grand, is announced the engagement of Charles L. Davis in "Alvin Kjoslyn." Mr. Davis won both fame and fortune in the impersonation of this odd comedienne. The fame he has retained, and the fortune is now invested in the Alvin theater, Pittsburg, one of the most palatial playhouses in America. By request of the managers, Mr. Davis has arranged for a revival production of his piece, which is promised to be more complete in cast and scenic effect than ever before. Recent Eastern engagements of the production are reported to have been remarkably successful. Evans and Hoy will appear in a new edition of "A Revue Match" at the Metropolitan opera house the entire week beginning Sunday, Jan. 24. Since last season two years ago, the play has been rearranged and a number of new characters introduced. It is said that Hoy has a better opportunity to display his originality than ever, and is making a tremendous hit with his two new songs, "The Man That Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" and "I Am Not the Only One."

DRAMATIC DATA.

Much of the amusement at the close of the first act of "The Isle of Chantique" is furnished by the sorry aspect of the horse used by Comedian Sea-brooke as a climax. The comedian yanks the bit to enliven the animal. Last Tuesday night he yanked so hard that the modern Rosinante fell sprawling on the stage. The chorus scattered, the comedian flew to the steed and raised him to his feet, and the curtain on unusual laughter. It is perhaps safe to assert that the forthcoming engagement of "Nobe" at the Metropolitan will prove in every way the fashionable event of the theatrical season. There is nothing at all comparable to "Nobe" in any other play as a legitimate laughter producer. Its fun is wholesome, and leaves a good taste in the mouth; its dialogue is brilliant, and its complications exceedingly clever and funny. Nat Goodwin will play "David Garrick" next season. George Thatcher's minstrel, combined with Thatcher, Rich & Harris' Comedy company, will shortly be seen in this city in that grand admixture of the Metropolitan and farce-comedy "Tuxedo." "Tuxedo," as presented here last season, seemed to fill all the requirements as a mirth producer, and made many friends. After four weeks of illness Manager Bixby is again at the helm at the Grand.
