May 1, 1893. If such commission find that this company has made during the time a net profit of one cent per cent on coal on all its business, including hard and soft coal and wholesale and retail business, the company agrees to pay in to the state treasurer, or whoever accepts this offer, all such excess; provided the state, or the party accepting this offer, make this company good for any deficiency below 30 cents per ton on the average; or, if it be supposed that the profits for last year alone have been over $100,000, the company will submit the same proposition to be applied to one year's business ending May 1, 1893.

Twenty cents per ton will be admitted by any fair-minded gentleman to be a very low, certainly a very reasonable, profit for a coal company.

This offer is made in a spirit of fairness, and with a hope of correcting a grossly unfair and unjust situation, which many citizens may honestly entertain.

This letter will be handed to you by the secretary of our company, and by the matter has been given great publicity, and a great many of the facts published, and it is hoped that the public will take the liberty of publishing this communication. I trust it will receive early and fair consideration.

INTERSTATE COMMISSION TO TACKLE THE COAL-CARRYING ROADS.

NEW YORK, March 25.—The Herald says: The interstate commerce commission will again "tackle" Pennsylvania railroads on the ground of charging exorbitant freight rates on anthracite coal from the mines to tidewater.

It is understood that the well-known case of Cox Bros. & Co. against the Lehigh Valley is the basis of the realignment of the rates of the first of next week.

Seeking to enforce its decree, the commission was informed by the court that the interstate commission had no jurisdiction to enforce its decree, prima facie. The court explained that the enforcement would have to be accomplished by bringing an action as plaintiff against the coal company.

Since this decision Cox Bros. & Co. will to contracts with the Reading, have exacted the full rate of 12 cents per ton on foot to readjust the coal allotment for the coming year. It is understood that the interstate commission will back ground any longer with the share that its competitors have awarded it, but under the protection of the receiver's committee on the question of rate of freight, the interstate commission will care of. This is believed to be the only way that the Reading can make a reasonable profit out of its great coal property.
