

EASY WAY OF LIVING.

THREE MAIDS OUT OF A JOB EXEMPLIFY THE SYSTEM. SLEEPING IN A BATH HOUSE. Eating on the Good Nature of Employees—Boating, Fishing and Picnicking, Although Without Cash—Barred From Hotels, but Still Not in the Least Cast Down.

There are three enterprising little chorus girls who are spending the summer at a resort not very far from town, and who, since the summer season opened at the lakes, have existed without any money, and have at the same time fared sumptuously. To start with, in the beginning of the season they met with a disappointment in not being fortunate enough to secure an engagement in the chorus of the Wilbur Opera company. They were without money, but had had considerable experience in shifting for themselves, which seems to have stood them in good stead during this season of general depression. Their spirits were far from being in a depressed state, and when they continued to fall finding any employment, their ready wit seemed to rise to the occasion. After having tried several more prominent hotels at a neighboring lake and finding that mine hosts were not out there for the good of their death, but to gather in the shekels, these three fair chorus singers were rather short of fifty lucres and were exceedingly tired. They kept up their vigils until the train left yesterday for the city of interment. During the day and prior to the funeral, the remains were viewed by many friends of the deceased. The car left the city attached to a special train composed of a baggage car, three business cars, four sleepers and a dining car. Business Car No. 1, the funeral car, was the one followed by the train. It was followed by the baggage car and in front of the others. Engine No. 22, with George O'Rourke at the lever, hauled the train of mourning. F. G. Minnebeck was the conductor.

An escort from Palatin commandery accompanied the train. It included Knights Templar Rice, Bagley, Reynolds, Hall, O. M. Metcalf, Massett, Sperry, Fisher, Stone, G. R. Metcalf, Barker, Curry, Wright, Hope, Phillips, Chamberlain, Wise, Butwell, Wheaton, Rhodes, of St. Paul, and Henry, of Minneapolis. On the train beside the Masonic escort were: Mrs. W. S. Mellin, Miss Mellin and Harry Mellin, E. S. Jones Sr., E. S. Jones Jr., and Miss Jones, West Superior; ex-Senator D. M. Sabin and wife, Stillwater; Col. G. W. Byron and wife, Minneapolis; J. B. H. Barton, Chicago; L. E. Overman, J. M. Hannaford, M. C. Knapier, G. W. Delaney, M. Bacon, B. N. Austin, W. L. Darling, D. K. Ford, H. W. Knapp, J. B. Weckery, George J. B. Pearce, J. H. Darling, J. H. At 2:30 this afternoon the funeral will occur at Evanston, Ill. The interment being at Evanston cemetery, Chicago.

A PARTING RECEPTION.

Friends of Rev. Mr. Dawley and Wife Bid Them Good-bye. The farewell reception given Rev. William W. Dawley last night was a very pleasant occasion. Notwithstanding the expressions of regret at the separation of pastor and people, there was a spirit of good will and good wishes that made the affair seem like one of rejoicing. Rev. Dawley has been the pastor of Woodland Park Baptist church, and as such his relations with the congregation have been most pleasant and satisfactory. Having resolved on other fields, the congregation determined on a general meeting to send him away with their blessings.

WHICH GETS THE RACES?

Minnehaha and Hamline Tracks Under Consideration. Hon. John J. Furlong, of Austin, treasurer of the world's fair commission for Minnesota, was at the Merchants' yesterday. Mr. Furlong is also one of the state fair directors, and is interested in the financial depression had anything to do with the fair insurance business. Mr. Clarke said that in an indirect way it had, but that the country had become demoralized, and for the past three years the losses in this city had been enormous. The rate here has always been practically lower than those in any similar city, so by the new schedule they will be proportionately increased.

A SORROWFUL TRIP.

Many St. Paul People Attend the Mellin Funeral. Yesterday at 1:25 o'clock the funeral train bearing the remains of the late General Manager William S. Mellin, of the Northern Pacific railroad, pulled out of the union depot. A throng of people, very few of whom were drawn by curiosity, surrounded the train and waited in respectful silence until it had got under way. The car in which the massive casket reposed was literally filled with handsome and costly floral offerings, as evasive in design as loving friendship could suggest or the florist produce. Beyond the flowers there was but little decoration, and the train, with its mournful wailing, was a picture of mourning at intervals on the outside of the engine and funeral car.

Shortly before the train started all but the immediate family left the funeral car and the one bearing the family. Mrs. Mellin entered the funeral car, and some time alone with her dead. Expressions of deep sorrow shrouded every face, and it was a subdued and sorrowful party that boarded the train for Evanston. The Northern Pacific offices were closed nearly all day. The funeral departed from Vancouver at 6:45 Sunday afternoon in charge of J. W. Kendrick, chief engineer of the road; G. W. Dickinson, general superintendent of the western division, and E. S. Alexander, of Tacoma. The car containing the remains was kept in the line of the foot of Broadway during Sunday night, guarded by a corps from Palatin commandery. Knights Templar, consisting of John R. Warner, H. W. Brown, A. M. Peabody, Joseph J. Hall, K. L. Bunge, J. H. Hickey and J. L. Hickey. These kept up their vigils until the train left yesterday for the city of interment. During the day and prior to the funeral, the remains were viewed by many friends of the deceased. WENT MERRILY TO DEATH.

Dan Donoghue Drinks Beer and Dies Suddenly. Daniel Donoghue, thirty-three years old, a horseherd by trade, took a large dose of morphine Sunday night, and was found dead in his bed at the Shaker house yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Donoghue had been out of work for the past ten days, and Sunday attended the horseherds' picnic. He returned to the hotel at 9 o'clock in the evening, and shortly after came to the bar for a pitcher of beer and two glasses.

UP GO THE RATES.

New Schedule of Insurance Tariff Proposed. Secretary Clarke, of the Underwriters' union, says that a new schedule of fire insurance rates will go into effect today. When asked the reason for this move, and whether what is called the financial depression had anything to do with the fire insurance business, Mr. Clarke said that in an indirect way it had, but that the country had become demoralized, and for the past three years the losses in this city had been enormous. The rate here has always been practically lower than those in any similar city, so by the new schedule they will be proportionately increased.

COCK FIGHTERS FINED.

Reilly, Stamper and Seidel Pay $10 Apiece. The three cock fighters arrested by the police Sunday were arraigned in the police court yesterday morning. Oswald Seidel, charged with keeping a cock-fighting house in allowing the battles to be pulled off in a building under his control, was fined $10, which amount he paid and was discharged. Thomas Reilly and Nick Stamper, who were the only ones in the crowd of spectators captured by the police, were also fined $10 each. The clothing worn by a number of the spectators, which in their hurried flight was left behind, was handed over to a messenger sent by the officers to the Margaret street station yesterday.

Good in August.

Some people say that oysters are not good in the months without an "r." and they don't eat them in August. However, it may be about oysters, he who buys the low rate tickets to the world's fair which "The Burlington" will sell in August, will get something good all through August, and good for three days from date of sale. Ticket offices: 400 Robert street (Hotel Ryan) and Union Depot.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CUT.

IT AMOUNTS TO $1,791.53 BELOW LAST MONTH'S SCHEDULE, WITH AN EXTRA MAN AT WORK. Two Chemicals Dropped Out, but the Efficiency of the Department Said to Be Unimpaired—Ex-Captain Johnson Denies Statements Attributed to Him as to Firemen Dismissing.

The payroll of the fire department for the month of July was presented to the comptroller yesterday. Owing to the shortage in the fund available for the use of this department, the board has been obliged to put out of service two chemical engines, and also to make a 10 per cent reduction in all salaries from the chief down, with the exception of a score of employees who are only drawing $50 per month. The taking out of the two chemicals has not impaired the efficiency of the force, for the men who manned the engines have been given other positions in the department. The payroll for June showed 392 employees and salaries amounting to $14,038.36, while the roll for July shows 395 employees and salaries amounting to $13,177.73, a reduction of $1,791.53 on the previous month.

The following table shows the salaries of the officers and employees at the various engine houses for both months, and will give an idea of the retrenchment and reduction made:

JOHNSON DENIES.

The Ex-Fireman Did Not See Beer at Central Hall. J. G. Johnson, late captain of Engine Company No. 4, St. Paul fire department, sends to the GLOBE the following denial of some statements made in an evening paper yesterday:

EQUALIZATION WORK.

The Thompson Assessment Stands—Wholesale Valuations. The board of equalization held a short session yesterday, with Ald. Franklin in the chair. The assessor reported that he had taken his information for assessing the estate of Carrie Thompson from the return made to the probate court. This showed the estate to have personal property worth $575,037. The assessor refused to recognize that the assessment be reduced below $125,000, as asked by the administrator. The report of the assessor was accepted, and his valuation will stand. A correction in the duplication of the Globe Publishing company was made. A corrected notice for the assessment of Dr. J. F. Baker was referred to the assessor. Something was said about making the wholesale district come up with valuations, which lead Mr. Lavalley to say that he has a list of property in his office that he will submit in the future to effect an equalization.

HAD FAITH IN ST. PAUL.

Death of Isaac Bernheimer, an Old-Time Resident. The death of Isaac Bernheimer, of New York, removes a man who had an unflinching faith in these Northwestern cities, and in the resources of Minnesota. He invested in St. Paul in 1856, and has since increased his holdings here and in Minneapolis. He also bought large tracts of land in the state, especially in Chisago county. He was a resident of New York city, and leaves several children, his wife having died some years ago. Mr. Bernheimer died at Saratoga Springs on Sunday morning, July 23. He owned the Bernheimer block on Broadway, and related the building which bears his name on St. Anthony hill. His judicious investments placed him in the ranks of the Eastern millionaires.

Avoid the Rush.

Many people are putting off going to the world's fair until September, and they don't see why they should. They don't see why they should avoid crowded trains, and get the best accommodations? During August "The Burlington" will sell tickets to Chicago at the low rate of $7 one way, and $13.50 for the round trip.
