

THE ALLEYS WILL HUM

CRACK BOWLERS PREPARING FOR A SEASON OF HOT CONTESTS.

TOURNAMENTS ON THE CARD.

Minnesota Boat Club's Annual Outing Tomorrow—The Maber-Dobbs Match—Dick Moore's Opponent Game and Fast—Round-Up of Sporting Matters of Interest.

The weather is such now that the young athletes of the city are returning to the bowling alleys, and the clubs of last season are all reorganizing for the winter's play. There will be at least two interesting tournaments. One will be at Foley's, and the other will be at Dwyer's, in Minneapolis. Dwyer has elegant alleys, and there are many expert bowlers in that city. It is proposed to have a Twin City series, each city to have a like number of teams in the play and the games alternate between the alleys in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The season in this city will be practically opened Tuesday evening. It will be inaugurated by the Summit club, the winner of the Globe trophy of last year. The club will have a regular weekly practice game on the night mentioned. The University club, the second organization in the finals, and the club that outplayed all rivals in the original series, is also preparing for the winter's campaign, and is playing on the University avenue alleys. The Wabasha club has kept up its organization and is ready for play, and the Phoenix Athletic club has been reorganized with better material and a problem all the other aggregations. Besides these, the famous Nushkas, winners of the Globe emblem of two years ago, promise to be in the swim, and, like the Minnesota Boat club, they are exceedingly hard to beat.

Probably the most notable event of the present week will be the annual picnic excursion of the Minnesota B. at club. The organization has a sort of an arrangement whereby all the members of the club will meet with the ludicrous accident of capsizing during the season. Hereafter the picnic has been held somewhat earlier in the season, but this time it will occur on Labor day. That will be tomorrow. The members of the club, together with their friends, will go up the river to a point near Fort Snelling and spend the afternoon in pleasures of the usual outing character. They will go in their shells, gigs, working boats, barges and the like. Refreshments will be on the card, and there is no gaining the certainty that it will prove a happy event.

Yesterday Billy Maber went out to Bass lake to begin training for his twenty-round contest with Bobby Dobbs, the colored lightweight, to occur on the evening of the City Athletic club on the evening of the 21st. This promises to prove one of the most interesting scientific glove contests that has been put on in the Northwest. Both men are shifty and scientific, and spar much on the same order. The man who defeated with a great deal of the practice that is now enjoyed, and for this reason, if it were not for the financial advantage that goes with a victory, each would be his level best. Dobbs, by the way, has been called a welterweight in the reports of late. This is a mistake, for he is rated high on the Pacific coast, where he has met all the best of 'em in his class, and where he defeated Charley Johnson, Tyler, of Minneapolis, is his trainer, and he says his protégé is certain to win the battle. Tommy Hogan is no more matched. He will go into the sparring circle with the "Kentucky Rosebud," as his sobriquet goes. Hogan is one of the most likely little boxers of St. Paul, and has a brilliant record. But in the "Rosebud" he will find pretty difficult material to overcome. The latter has a national reputation and he is not coming to the Twin cities for his health, it is safe to say.

Dick Moore's myriad of admirers in the Northwest are on the qui vive for his contest before the Columbia club at Foley on the 25th. He is to meet one of the fastest middleweights of the nation in Billy McCaskey. While the purse of $8,000 is somewhat smaller than that ordinarily given by the club, the fact that Manager O'Mally signed Dick is proof conclusive that his fame has spread to the East. If Dick fails this time it will be no disgrace to him. He has won all his contests in the Northwest and Omaha and Chicago last year, and he can afford to speak in a comparative sense, to lose a battle once in a while. All the great ones do this, as witness Jack Dempsey and John L. Sullivan.

John Barnes is meeting with a great deal of gratifying encouragement in his base ball project. He is in correspondence with the ball magnates of all the more likely Western cities, and there seems to be no doubt at this time that a Western league will be formed. The salary question is rather a problem that involves a club in serious financial difficulties. Base ball players do not receive salaries that make the great bank presidents envious. There are too many good players in the market to keep up the old salaries.

The regular weekly handball matches will be played this afternoon in the court at 510 St. Peter street, near Fenwick. The program shows three two-handed contests, and the principals are W. P. Burke against John O'Brien; Peter Burke against John O'Brien; and Joseph Duncan against John Wolfe.

John B. Wickery, of the Wisconsin Central line, has one of the finest kennels of hunting dogs in the West. They are pointers, and they have a widespread reputation. There are thirteen in the kennel, all told.

The bowling clubs playing on Amort's alleys made good records the past week. They were:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Score. Includes Hartman, Freisenhahn, Kosterman, etc.

Few who are not directly interested in dogs will realize until shown the rack there are in St. Paul. John Barnes, of the Phoenix Athletic club, is one of the most interesting scientific glove contests that has been put on in the Northwest. Both men are shifty and scientific, and spar much on the same order. The man who defeated with a great deal of the practice that is now enjoyed, and for this reason, if it were not for the financial advantage that goes with a victory, each would be his level best. Dobbs, by the way, has been called a welterweight in the reports of late. This is a mistake, for he is rated high on the Pacific coast, where he has met all the best of 'em in his class, and where he defeated Charley Johnson, Tyler, of Minneapolis, is

Chocolate Jack is a rough-cut St. Bernard that never fails to attract admiration and attention wherever he appears on the street. He is the property of C. A. Roach, the manufacturing confectioner. Jack is a stylish animal, and is unusually marked. His pedigree is one of the best, and gives him rank

Bell, the mother, won second prize at Chicago in 1891, and Canada Merchant Prince, the father of the dog, is one of the finest bred animals, although he does not fly any ribbons.

This, from the Spirit of the Times, will be of especial interest to billiard players who are familiar with Joseph Dion's brilliant career with the cue; Joseph Dion, the popular billiardist, is here and in Canada, where he is being arranged under able management. We think that the dramatic profession, in which Joe Dion had many friends, and for which he was always ready to volunteer his services, ought to back the billiardist by theatrical benefits here and in Canada, marking the best known.

Jack Dempsey is announced to give a boxing show at Industrial hall, Lexington avenue and Forty-third street, this city, on the evening of Sept. 4, says the New York Clipper. The "Nonpareil" may rest assured that he will meet with a warm welcome from his many admirers, who have never wavered in their loyalty to him. Bob Fitzsimmons has announced to wind up his exhibition championship middleweight, while Jim Corbett will box with Prof. John Donaldson, and among the other star volunteers will be Billy Plimmer. Friends of Dempsey have sent circulars to sporting men in different parts of the country, appealing to them for contributions to a fund which is being raised for the purpose of relieving Jack from his present financial embarrassment. The summary is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes Vandyke, G. Schiller, Osto, J. H. Skone, etc.

Dempsey arrived from Chicago early on the morning of Aug. 29 and was met at the depot of the Pennsylvania railroad by a brass band and a number of friends, including the Chicago Athletic Club. Welcome to "Our Jack" The ex-champion was heartily cheered all along the Bowery and Third avenue to the club house of the C. A. C., where a social time was enjoyed. Barring that the snowed the fatigues of a long railroad journey, Dempsey looked well, and stated that he now weighs about 168 pounds. He showed no signs of the usual trouble that he was alleged to have suffered from while in St. Paul. He was accompanied East by his wife.

Charlie Mitchell and Jack McLaughlin, it is now stated, will sail from Liverpool for New York Sept. 15, on board the White Star steamer Teutonic, the delay being occasioned by inability to secure passage on the steamer Majestic, leaving two weeks earlier. The pair will give a few exhibitions in the principal cities between New York and Chicago, under the management of Joseph McLaughlin, and then Mitchell will return to his course of training somewhere near the Windy city.

Billy Mitchell and Horace Leeds have been enlisted to fight before the Central Athletic club Sept. 18 for a purse of $2,000. A meeting held at Labor hall last night the following tug-of-war team was organized to pull for the press teachers' unit: Ed Turner, captain; Al Anderson, manager; Joseph McLaughlin, anchor; and the team is rather light, but it is expected that it will give the others a hard pull.

Lightweight encounter. ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2.—An evening paper says: "Prof. Mike Mooney, of St.

Louis, and Jack Burke, Southern lightweight champion boxer, who recently fought Andy Bowen, have been matched to fight to a finish for $1,500 a side, and each has deposited $250. They will fight before the club offering the largest purse, lightweight limit, 133 pounds.

COLUMBIA A WINNER.

Splendid Racing of the White Bear Yachts.

On board the Storm King yesterday afternoon the race between eighteen yachts of the White Bear Yachting association was decidedly interesting. The wind was weak at the start; in fact it only came in puffs during most of the sailing, but it was sufficient to take the yachts over the course within the time limit. Dr. Welsh's yacht Fortuna and the Loon were entered but did not start. The prizes were the Goozian cup in the first, or sloop class, and the pennant in the second, or cat boat class.

The Columbia outslaid all the sloops, but a protest, Dr. Welsh's yacht Fortuna and the Loon were entered but did not start. The prizes were the Goozian cup in the first, or sloop class, and the pennant in the second, or cat boat class. The Columbia sailed splendidly, and met all of the expectations of her admirers, and under the sailing of Dr. Welsh she made the six miles and a half of the course in 1 hr. 28 min. and 2 sec. The Columbia did the same distance in 1 hr. 25 min. and 38 sec. Neko won the cat-boat race, and became the champion in that class. The summary is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Time. Includes Sloop, Osto, J. H. Skone, etc.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—It took ten minutes to decide today's game with the Baltimore Colts. The militia of the Baltimore Colts, despite the fact that he struck out seven men, the Colts from now on will be the team to watch. Attendance, 4,800. Score: Chicago, 2; Baltimore, 0.

Brooklyn, Sept. 2.—Brothers was much in evidence today at Eastern Park. He made two of the six hits which the Colts made, and of course, they were very effective, but all his efforts were in vain, for the Cleveland won by hitting out heavily. Attendance, 4,000. Score: Cleveland, 3; Brooklyn, 0.

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—Philadelphia won this morning's game by hitting out heavily and the result, time, 1:35. Attendance, 4,000. Score: Philadelphia, 3; Brooklyn, 0.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Chicago won this morning's game by hitting out heavily and the result, time, 1:35. Attendance, 4,000. Score: Chicago, 3; Brooklyn, 0.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Chicago won this morning's game by hitting out heavily and the result, time, 1:35. Attendance, 4,000. Score: Chicago, 3; Brooklyn, 0.

BROWNS BITE THE DUST

THE BOOMING BOSTONS CONTINUE TO WIN VICTORIES.

SLUGGING MATCH AT GOTHAM.

A Couple of Balls Taken From the Cincinnati Reds by the Quakers—A Similar Dose Administered to the Senators by the Smoky City Lads—Other Games.

Table with 4 columns: Games Played, Won, Lost, Per Cent. Includes Boston, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, etc.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—If Breitenstein had not been wild today, he would have made it very interesting for the Boston, as they made only six hits, but he gave the Columbia a victory which caused St. Louis to bite the dust. Score: Boston, 2; St. Louis, 0.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The New Yorks won a regular old-time slugger match from the Louisville lads in the presence of 6,000 grannies. Score: New York, 2; Louisville, 0.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—It took ten minutes to decide today's game with the Baltimore Colts. The militia of the Baltimore Colts, despite the fact that he struck out seven men, the Colts from now on will be the team to watch. Attendance, 4,800. Score: Chicago, 2; Baltimore, 0.

Brooklyn, Sept. 2.—Brothers was much in evidence today at Eastern Park. He made two of the six hits which the Colts made, and of course, they were very effective, but all his efforts were in vain, for the Cleveland won by hitting out heavily. Attendance, 4,000. Score: Cleveland, 3; Brooklyn, 0.

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—Philadelphia won this morning's game by hitting out heavily and the result, time, 1:35. Attendance, 4,000. Score: Philadelphia, 3; Brooklyn, 0.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Chicago won this morning's game by hitting out heavily and the result, time, 1:35. Attendance, 4,000. Score: Chicago, 3; Brooklyn, 0.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Chicago won this morning's game by hitting out heavily and the result, time, 1:35. Attendance, 4,000. Score: Chicago, 3; Brooklyn, 0.

GREAT IS DIRECTUM.

THE CRACK STALLION DOES A MILE IN 2:09 1/2.

BREAKING HIS FAST RECORD.

Three Thousand People at Fleetwood Park Witnessed the Race of the Remarkable Horse—He Is Now a Dangerous Rival to Nancy Hanks, Nelson and Stamboul—Events of the Turf.

FLEETWOOD PARK, Sept. 2.—Azarin Directum, the crack stallion, demonstrated that he is one of the greatest trotting horses of the age. He broke his fast record today before 3,000 people, the horse trotted in competition a mile in 2:09 1/2, breaking his previous record made last Wednesday of 2:09 1/2. As a three-year-old Directum is certainly booked as the most remarkable horse. The ease with which this stallion has been defeating the crack-jacks certainly places him as the most dangerous rival to Nancy Hanks, Nelson, Kremlin and Stamboul have; and if he is successful in his attempt at the record made by Nancy Hanks last Thursday of 2:06 1/2, which he will try for on Monday, the association will give Directum a total of $5,000.

When the trotters for the first heat of the 2:12 class were called some lively pool selling was being done, with Directum being the favorite. As the trotters were drawn, Azote took the pole, with Pexley next, the favorite, and Directum in third. Directum was the pole, leading to the quarter, when she began to lose, and Directum lengthened out and passed Pexley. He steadily advanced his lead, and when the quarter was over he was in the lead, and immediately got away in the lead, with Pexley close up. These two passed the pole, and Directum was in the lead, and immediately got away in the lead, with Pexley close up. These two passed the pole, and Directum was in the lead, and immediately got away in the lead, with Pexley close up.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The preliminary firing in the rifle and carbine competition for the Department of the Missouri, United States army, was finished at Fort Sheridan today. The last day of the week was devoted to skirmish firing in the trenches and mounted target, moving targets used in both—thirty-seven infantrymen and twenty-six cavalrymen, comprising the competitive classes in the first-class. The cavalry defeated the infantry with a percentage of 74.0, scoring 385 hits, against 375 for the infantry. The infantry lost 20 points for not including in the regular list for any matches, and adds nothing to the marks of the teams in the preliminary prize firing, which takes place next week.

Says It's a Bluff. CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Dominic O'Malley, president of the Columbian Athletic club, in an interview today regarding the published report that Gov. Matthews, of Indiana, had accepted the position of the Department of the Missouri, said that the "bluff" was made by Gov. Matthews to influence the jury in the test case. On Wednesday next the attorney will be arrested for participating in the Woods-Costello mill incident.

Crow Herd Has Accepted. NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—A London dispatch to a sporting paper says that Morgan Crowther has accepted a challenge from George Siddons to fight in America for the largest purse offered.

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 2.—First race, seven-eighths of a mile—Stetson, a challenge, Markstone second, Stringfellow third. Time, 1:35. Second race, thirteen-sixteenths of a mile—Chieftain won, Forgotten second, and K. A. Audley third. Time, 2:37. Third race, nine-sixteenths of a mile—Gano won, Mollie V. second, Josie W. third. Time, 2:57. Fourth race, seven-eighths of a mile—Lilly Pulsifer won, Chatham second, Wallace third. Time, 1:32 1/2. Fifth race, five-eighths of a mile—Volvoe won, Jersey Queen second, Mamie M. third. Time, 2:57. Sixth race, five-eighths of a mile—Tixey Gardner won, Flavia second, Edith Van third. Time, 1:34 1/2.

GUTTENBURG. GUTTENBURG, Sept. 2.—First race, five-eighths of a mile—Lizetta won, Daisyrain second, J. McLaughlin third. Time, 1:42. Second race, eleven-sixteenths of a mile—St. Pat won, Ed Kearney second, Sun Glump third. Time, 1:30 1/2. Third race, thirteen-sixteenths of a mile—Double Cross won, King second, Marmos third. Time, 1:32 1/2. Fourth race, mile—R. Y. Del Mar won, Lutz second, Fox third. Time, 1:42 1/2. Fifth race, five-eighths of a mile—Lester won, Cheddar second, Woodchopper third. Time, 1:35 1/2. Sixth race, three-quarters of a mile—Balance won, Kentucky Lady second, Wallace third. Time, 1:46 1/2.

Hawthorne. CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—First race, five-eighths of a mile—Fist won, Billinger second, Fred L. T. third. Time, 1:34. Second race, five-eighths of a mile—Patrick won, Major Tom second, Shiloh third. Time, 1:40 1/2. Third race, three-quarters of a mile—Verdant won, Foxhall second, Empera third. Time, 1:37. Fourth race, three-quarters of a mile—Balance won, Kentucky Lady second, Wallace third. Time, 1:46 1/2.

THE DALTON GANG. Deputy Marshals in an Encounter Get the Worst of It. KANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 2.—A posse of United States marshals and the Dalton gang of bank and train robbers met at Dalton, Ray county, Okla., yesterday morning, and two of the deputy marshals—Speed and Shadley—were killed, and a third, Huston, fatally wounded. D. E. Walker, N. D. Murray, G. E. Hanson and a boy named Briggs were wounded. The last two were bystanders. The officers had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse for the scene. The outlaws had been informed the gang was in town, and drove out to arrest them, and were fired on by the outlaws when they were within a few rods of their horses, but one who was shot through the chest escaped, Bill Dalton, whose horse was killed by Shadley, and as the horse fell, Dalton got on his feet and poured four shots in rapid succession into the body of Shadley, and his Winchester. "Arkansas Tom," one of the outlaws, was held at bay in a nearby hotel, where he took refuge. Messengers were sent to Stillwater for assistance, and the sheriff left at once with a posse