SEARCH FOR SCHEIG

Still Continues, and Interesting Developments Looked For. While the search for Philip Scheig, the ascending heir of the Bank of Minneapolis, is being prosecuted with unabated zeal by the detectives and bank officials, it is probable that a new and startling phase of the robbery may soon be revealed.

The friends of young Scheig now assert that he was not to blame altogether in the matter, and in this connection mysterious hints are made with respect to the suicide of Gustav Boderling. It is even intimated that Scheig may return of his own accord, and that other people who have been mentioned in the case may be implicated to a disconcerting extent.

Celebrated Will Case. Attorney Noyes left last night for New Albany, Ind., where he has been engaged as counsel for Mrs. Leigh H. French in the celebrated inheritance will case. Mrs. French nee Culbertson was one of the heirs to the Culbertson estate, and she was to have inherited the fortune, depending on certain conditions regarding marriage, which she violated. The present action is brought to break the will.

Fugitive From Justice. CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—N. Booth, a fugitive from justice, was arrested by Harrison street officers, and the sheriff of Minneapolis is on his way here for the prisoner. Booth was employed as bookkeeper for W. J. Loren, in Minneapolis, and he accuses Booth of stealing $250. When his guilt was discovered, Booth left Minneapolis and came here. The sheriff is expected tonight, and will take Booth back with him.

Genuine Hard Luck Story. A girl named Christina Olson has been in the city for several days in quest of her whilom lover, by whom she was betrayed under a promise of marriage. She was deserted at La Crosse, and during her short residence in this city her room was entered by thieves, who secured $15, all the money she possessed.

Given Their Liberty. It will be remembered that the boys Lynch and Brennan, indicted for burglary, demanded separate trials, and that the case of Lynch was first tried. As the jury failed to agree, Lynch was released yesterday from the county jail. As the facts were precisely the same in Brennan's case, he was also released from custody.

Advertisement for Good Digestion and Cottolene. Those who have a Good Digestion have little sympathy for the dyspeptic. They can eat everything that comes along. While they can eat rich food without fear of the dyspeptic's bad experiences, they nevertheless greatly appreciate a delicate flavor in their pastry. Cottolene when used as a shortening, always produces the finest flavored pastry, which is entirely free from the many objections which the use of lard always produces. Test its value by one trial.

QUEER STATE OF THINGS

REVEALED IN THE TRIAL OF THE MORSE ESTATE CASE.

INSINUATION ABOUT GEORGE To the effect that he was Compelled to Leave the Country—The Case Resting on the Signature of the Old Gentleman—Expert Testimony—General News of Minneapolis.

George W. Jenks again took the stand in the Morse forcery case yesterday morning. Mr. Jenks' note given to Geo. A. Morse in favor of his father, Elisha Morse, drawn on the Farmers' and Merchants' bank, endorsed by Elisha Morse, which was the subject of the testimony, was presented in evidence and admitted over the objection that the indorsement was forged. A juror at this point took it upon himself to fire a fusillade of cross questions at the witness, evidently confusing the testimony with the Knapp case. After the cross-examination closed, Jenks finally stated that George Morse, when he bought the property statement signed, he did not fetch the signed note. Witness did not think that he went to see the bank before he received the note, and that he believed that the signed statement and the six months' note were both taken at the same time to Mr. Knapp. Witness said that Mr. Knapp preferred single-named notes and four months' time. Then followed questions and answers as follows: "Did he tell you that before?" "I think not."

"When you went to him first didn't he say he would accept if the property statement were signed?" "I didn't show him the notes then." "Did you have the six months' note with you then?" "Yes, but I didn't show it." "When you next went did you take the six months' note and statement signed?" "Yes. Then he said the only note he would cash was for four months' note single name paper." In his testimony Attorney Noyes testified that his having made a claim for $25,000 on Elisha Morse, because of short age in the Vesty estate, for which both Elisha and George Morse had acted as executors, trustees, guardians, etc. To the effect that the witness explained that this claim was one for money held by Elisha Morse as trustee, afterwards taken by George Morse. He said it was for money both had had, and witness held them both jointly liable for the shortage. "Were those securities turned over by Elisha in his settlement of the estate?" "Yes. They were placed in different envelopes for the various heirs. They were the original papers turned over by Elisha."

Witness was shown a release and receipt, given to George and Elisha Morse for $1,000 and some odd dollars on the settlement. He identified it, and then Mr. Bartleson showed that the heirs had given Elisha a release at the time he completed his trust, and that it was with consent of the heirs that George had been made trustee. "Was that claim made with the belief that Elisha had secured the money?" "Were not his accounts all right?" "Yes, they were."

"How much did Elisha pay you for securities he took back?" "About $7,000, I think." "Is it not true that he guaranteed some of that paper for $1,000, and gave you cash for $2,000?" "He gave me two $1,000 notes and $11,000 in cash." "Was not that amount entirely made up of money that George collected and not turned over?" "My recollection is that I drew out certain paper and got cash for it." "Wasn't the whole $11,000 money George had collected and failed to turn over?" "I can't tell for certain." "What was the amount George told you he had collected?" "I don't know. I couldn't get much satisfaction out of him. The amount was largely that, but I couldn't say it."

When E. P. Crooker, who was George Morse's attorney at one time, was asked, and he was asked if he was ever what transpired in an interview regarding the paper at which he was present objection was promptly raised, and the prosecuting attorney said: "We propose to show that George has fled the country; that Mr. Bartleson was the attorney for both parties during the note dispute, and that he lied the country."

AT THE INSTIGATION OF THE ATTORNEY. Mr. Bartleson, and Elisha Morse, "as the testimony will be ruled out," said the court. "We expect an exception." The George E. Williamson case was called on next in the matter of signatures from his experience in the banking business. He examined the note in issue, and testified that the signatures on papers containing the undenied photograph of Elisha Morse. After critically noting the matter in hand, he said, very positively, that the same person had made both signatures. "State if the note signature and the others you have are signed by the same person?" "The name on the face of the note is Elisha Morse, and the others, the indorsements on the back is by the same person."

Mr. Bartleson then showed witness' undenied check with the writing of the two Morses. "Was it admitted to be the writing of Elisha Morse?" "The name on the note was no question at that time." "Wasn't it claimed that it was a forgery?" "Not that I know of."

"You never saw others than those you have now admitted to be his signatures?" "No, sir."

Witness said in the last two years he had seen the writing of George Morse several times. He said he had seen him sign his name once at the Farmers' and Merchants' State bank, in company with H. C. Travis. Witness never saw him sign the name of Elisha Morse, nor seen that signature purporting to have been signed by him. "The name on the note is Elisha Morse, and the others, the indorsements on the back is by the same person?" "The name on the note is Elisha Morse, and the others, the indorsements on the back is by the same person."

"Do the signatures on the note more clearly resemble the signature on the exhibit 'M' (a deposition) or on the checks?" "The witness replied in substance, that the check signatures are a loop, and 'M' was not shown, which did appear on the note signature. He was asked if in the signatures at the bottom of the notes Elisha's signature was not separated between the 'M' and the 'O' in the last name. Witness looked them over and stated that there was the separation in all but seven cases, but that in those the word was run together. He carefully went over the pages and gave the numbers where the separations did not occur. These were genuine signatures, under no circumstances as begun. Witness was asked if the pen run in the checks written by George the pen run in the paper. There was quite a stack of them. Mr. Winters, of St. Paul, is expected to coach the boys during the week. All the secret societies have finished their initiations, at least for the present, excepting the Phi Kappa Psi, who have just pledged John R. Hannan, son of the late Hannan, of the Third Infantry at Fort Snelling.

A MIND OF HER OWN.

Mme. Lassaunze Gives Her Version of Affairs.

The case against Mme. Lassaunze began to grind away yesterday morning. One of the old lodgers of the accused, J. E. Williamson, testified as to the circumstances of her life, and with his landlady, Mrs. Austin was placed on the stand, and identified some of the pillows and bedding Mme. Lassaunze is charged to have removed. The witness was then referred to the kind of stitches used, which Mrs. Austin claimed was peculiar to herself. She assured the jury that she had never seen the defendant in her own home.

A CLASSIC ATMOSPHERE

Accompanied the Arrival of the Greek Collegians.

The rotunda of the West hotel was permeated with a classic atmosphere yesterday afternoon and evening, and a Greek drama permeated everything. The occasion was the national convention of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and the event had special significance from the fact that it was the first gathering of the kind ever held in this city. The Eastern delegates to the convention held an informal meeting in Chicago Tuesday, and they arrived in a body yesterday afternoon over the Burlington road. It was on the books to give the visitors a drive about the city yesterday, but unfortunately the program was marred. Last night a promenade concert was given at the West hotel, and the affair proved to be an enjoyable affair. It was a good opportunity for the delegates to become acquainted. This afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock the delegates will be given a reception at the hotel. Miss Jessie Long, 901 Groveland avenue. This evening will occur the annual banquet of the society, which will be held at the West hotel. The men eligible to admittance being the members of the fraternity. Tomorrow will be taken up with the business session, and the evening session, which will be conducted in executive session, and which have reference to the issuing of charters for new chapters and changes in the constitution. The fraternity was first started as a junior organization of Yale, and it has become the highest among the letter societies, its growth being almost phenomenal. The fraternity numbers a membership of over 10,000, and the chapters enrolled are as follows: Yale, Bowdoin, Colby, Amherst, Alabama, Bryn Mawr, North Carolina, Virginia, Michigan, New York City, Rochester, N. Y.; Indiana, California and Minnesota universities, Kenyon college, Gambier, O.; Central university, Richmond, Ky.; Middlebury college, Vermont; Williams college, Williamstown, Mass.; Lafayette college, Easton, Pa.; Hamilton college, Clinton, N. Other prominent names are: William Kincaid and George R. Merrill; Drs. Max P. Vander Horck and A. B. Cates, and Messrs. A. J. Diethelm Jr., H. C. Johnson, F. W. Fiske, B. A. Morrison, C. E. Parly, L. Swift Jr., W. D. Washburn Jr., C. A. Willard and others. The officers of the society are: President, S. Abbott and C. H. Anderson, E. W. Peet, W. F. Peet, L. W. Rundlett, C. A. Sawyer, J. S. Stone and E. B. Kirk, of St. Paul.

AT THE UNIVERSITY.

Football Game Arranged with Kansas University. Next Saturday the University of Minnesota football team is to play a game with a similar organization from the Kansas state university. About three weeks ago Mr. Barclay, secretary of the university football team, received the following letter: "THE UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS, LAWYER, Sept. 12, 1893.—My Dear Sir: Your letter of Sept. 12 to hand, we can arrange to play you a game of football in Minneapolis any Saturday before Oct. 21, if you will guarantee expenses and 50 per cent of the gate receipts. I would also like to see that the receipts after deducting expenses are not would net us at least $200. I know there will be no trouble about this if Minneapolis is as good a place as Kansas City. And Arbor gets a guarantee of $250 and other expenses when they play us at Kansas City Nov. 25 next. It will not be possible for us to play a game in Iowa City, as we play the Iowa team in Kansas City Nov. 4. The following is a list of our games already arranged, Oct. 21, Baker university, at Baldwin; Oct. 25, Denver Athletic club, at Denver; Nov. 1, Iowa State university, at Ames; Nov. 15, Illinois State university, at Lawrence; Nov. 18, Nebraska State university, at Lincoln; Nov. 25, Ann Arbor, at Ann Arbor; Thanksgiving day, Missouri State university, at Kansas City. I have no doubt but that our two teams will draw a larger crowd than any game that could be arranged in the West. Of course I do not know the spirit manifested in football in Minneapolis, but I should judge it to be a very desirable place to hold a game. Please let me receive an early reply. Yours truly, E. C. Moor."

It is quite evident that Mr. Moor, like the more famous possessor of that name, not only wants the earth, but a little corner of heaven. Although the team is somewhat crippled by Pillsbury's resignation as captain, yet under the able leadership of Mr. Madigan expect to do nearly if not quite as well as of yore. A great many have said that Pillsbury neglected to train the team, and the whole work fell on the shoulders of the managers. In fact the Ariel has gone so far as to say: "A fine captain sets who does no training himself, and attends practice games about half the time! What can be expected of the rest of the men?" New life and vigor have been infused into the boys by Capt. Madigan. As to the two halves, they are in good shape. St. Paul, are both doing good work, although Will is a little lazy, relying on his known worth to keep him in his place. Van Campen as quarter, and Spiser and Southworth as halves are all doing well.

Needed a License.

Samuel M. Wentz, a druggist, in business at 300 Ninth street southeast, was fined $5 yesterday in the municipal court for selling drugs without having first secured a certificate from the state board of pharmacy. The fine is divided between the school fund and the board of pharmacy. The decree is a judgment secured by civil action, in which the pill dispenser is declared to have violated the law in two instances, by selling medicine to A. C. Pray and by S. O. Rice.

CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

Topics Discussed by the Evangelical Alliance Congress. CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Christian union and co-operation was the general topic discussed at the Evangelical Alliance congress in Columbus hall today. The first paper presented was by Rev. Dr. Cleveland Cox, New York, entitled "Organic Union: Its Reasons and Prospects," and it was read in abstract by Rev. Dr. Thompson, of Chicago. A paper on "Denominational Federation" by President James McComb, of Princeton university, was read in part by Rev. Dr. McGrew. The third paper, by Rev. Dr. Philip Schaff, New York, entitled "The Evangelical Alliance and the Reunion of Christendom," was read in abstract by Rev. Dr. Elmendorf. The first topic discussed was "How to Attract Young Men and Young Women to Work." Rev. Howard S. Bliss, associate pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, was the speaker. The principle which he laid down was this: "From every one according to his ability, to every one according to his need." It was suggested that it was necessary to a good working church that the members should have a clear conception of the religious and social needs of the community. No minister could be content with his work so long as there was being openly violated in his district. This matter of getting young people into church work was not a question of organization, but of the importance of arousing their moral enthusiasm to a point where they would give part of their time to the needs of the community. Rev. H. M. Calloun, of Canandaigua, N. Y., followed in a short address, in which he suggested that the best education as a means of interesting the young people in the work of the church. The points which he emphasized were instruction, discipline, leadership and encouragement. An extremely interesting address was given by Rev. Charles E. Barrington, of Wis., on the subject: "The Evening Congregation." The secret of success in church service, the speaker said, lay in the observance of four simple rules, namely, good church music, printed programmes of the evening service, good ushers and a bright reception committee, and a short sermon of from fifteen to twenty minutes.

"PINCHED" BY POLICE.

Suspected Thieves Arrested in North Minneapolis. Two men, suspected of being burglars wanted at Anoka, were arrested in North Minneapolis yesterday afternoon by detectives Howard and Doyle. In the possession of the suspects a quantity of clothing was found, which was thought to have been taken from McLaughlin's store last Monday night. Officer Carlin, at the time, was in the act of springing a trap, in which was a box containing the clothing, which they were endeavoring to sell, and the officers were waiting until they had noticed headquarters and the detectives were put on the trail of the burglars. The police station one of the names of John Herman and the other would not tell his name. They are charged with grand larceny, and will be held until Anoka officials are heard from.

HIS CHANCES BETTERING.

Louis Schlink, shot by lawyer... The physicians in attendance on Louis Schlink, the victim of Thomas Lawler's bullet, reported their patient as gaining last night, and there is, apparently, good hopes for his ultimate recovery. An unexpected incident occurred at the time Lawler was removed from the central lockup to the county jail. Sheriff Easton, while in the act of incarcerating in the county jail, without the formality of a legal commitment. But as the matter had been so long pending, the sheriff, in accepting such irregular proceedings, seemingly his objection is a sound one, for he feels that he renders himself liable in case of receiving prisoners without commitments to actions for false imprisonment.

RAID BY BURGLARS.

Night-Workers' Desperate Attempt to Break Open a Safe. The frisky and sleepless burglar got in his work again between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock this morning, when he succeeded in breaking open the safe in the saloon conducted by J. McLaughlin, No. 600 Spring street. They tapped the till for $7 in change and helped themselves to cigars and a quantity of wine. The burglar, in attempting to get which they broke in the sides, and left it in a badly demoralized condition, but they failed to get the money.

POINTS ABOUT PIGTAILS.

Continued From First Page. drawn in this country. He did not deny the right of petition by the Chinese churchmen must petition as individuals, and not invoke the influence of the church. [Applause.] Ever since 1882, when the United States declared its hostility to the Chinese, there never was an hour when, by fraud and duplicity, the Chinese were not trying at all the borders of the United States to break into this country. China, knowing this, could have stopped the violation of law, but China remained silent. There is no room for SYMPATHY FOR CHINA. She has never questioned our opportunity to defend us. The surplus earnings of the Chinese which they had carried back to China amounted to the enormous sum of $70,000,000. "Do you wonder why we don't like Chinese in California?" he asked. "If in any one of your Eastern states 100,000 laborers were sapping from your wealth $3,000 a day in surplus earnings, would you not want to get rid of them? They are an army of leeches, not an army of laborers."

World's Fair Special.

Chicago, Sept. 27, 1893. "If my party did not believe in that doctrine, replied Mr. Geary, 'then I would like to think it does.' "Why don't you limit it," asked Mr. Baker, "so as to include other foreigners besides the Chinese?" "I have a bit in this house now," replied Mr. Geary, "to prevent immigration. Will you vote for it as I will?" [Applause.] Mr. Baker—I believe in revising our treaties first. Mr. Geary (contentiously)—Some people seem to believe in revising our growth yet; that before legislating we must consult the wishes of foreign countries. [Applause.] Mr. Baker—We are not too old to be honest. Proceeding, Mr. Geary insisted that photographs afforded the only sure means of identification. Mr. Geary denied that it would require $7,000,000 to enforce the treaty. If the officers of the administration had done their duty on May 5 the present situation would not have been an occasion for the extension. In reply to a question by Mr. McCree as to why the $250,000 appropriation would have been sufficient, Mr. Geary declared that the Chinese would take no account of being sent to the United States, and that they would voluntarily have left our borders. The $25,000,000 demonstrated our intent to enforce the law, would have been as effective as $25,000,000. [Applause.] He denounced the administration for violation of party faith and the honor of the country. He said that it was his duty to condemn the Democratic officers who had betrayed their trust. If they had violated the law they must go down. He had no fault to find with the treasury department, but the action of the attorney general, in letting the law could not be defended. He had made it the duty of the Democrats to demonstrate our intent to enforce the law, would have been as effective as $25,000,000. [Applause.] "What a spectacle we presented," said he, "could we not modify our tariff for instance, to forego people, the tariff for instance, without securing the consent of the foreign minister?" He intimated that the Chinese minister had a hand in the law, and that of the Everett bill, of which the McCree bill was a modification. Mr. Geary proposed the amendments which he said would perfect the bill, namely, the photographing clause, the definition of the term Chinese labor, and the clause relating to the consent of the foreign minister. Mr. Geary said he would not modify any of the amendments, but he would modify the tariff for instance, to forego people, the tariff for instance, without securing the consent of the foreign minister. ANIMATED REQUEST

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 11.—A bill was reported from the committee on public lands which provides for the protection and disposition of timber on lands now included in the forest reservations of the United States. Under the law, as now in force, nothing can be done with the timber or with the lands which are not covered with timber, but are not included in the limits of the reservation. The bill now pending in the house is intended to obviate these difficulties. But Western members do not desire that so much power as the bill confers on the secretary of the Interior, be granted, and will oppose the bill.
