CHAMBERLAIN'S LAWYER FINDS SOME NICE LAW POINTS.

FREEMAN P. LANE'S STORY.

The Lawyer Tells How He Jollied Chamberlain, and Read Him a Few Sections of the Penal Code—Counsel for the Defense Move for a Dismissal or Acquittal.

There is a chance that the Chamberlain case may not go to the jury. Yesterday afternoon the prosecution rested after having examined Mr. Holbrook, Freeman P. Lane, Mayor Estlin, Chief of Police Smith, Detective Hoy, Dr. Graham and Mr. Whelan, the man who found the bullet in the floor.

In answer to further questions, Mrs. Chamberlain said she would waive her legal privilege in the matter of testifying against her husband, and would consent to become a witness for the state and testify against him. The defense thereupon turned her over to the prosecution.

Nothing fresh was developed yesterday, except the story of the transactions between Chamberlain and Freeman P. Lane. Mr. Lane related in an amusing style what took place. His story was as follows:

"As I was leaving my office one evening last August on my way home I was met by an employe of the bank, who asked me to go down with him to the bank at once. When I got there Chamberlain was standing near the door, and after I had had a few moments' conversation with Mr. Wright, I stepped Mr. Chamberlain and asked him what he was there for. He replied that he was there for the purpose of seeing me."

"I thought he was using the old gentleman pretty roughly," Mr. Chamberlain seemed to be excited, but was good natured. I then asked him to come up in the elevator with me to my room, and he went. I then told him that I would not be any use to try to bulldoze me, then I gave him a good cigar and a good cigar case, and told him to go home and get his things together. I then told him that I would not be any use to try to bulldoze me, then I gave him a good cigar and a good cigar case, and told him to go home and get his things together.
