CANNOT STOP THE BIG MILL

MITCHELL AND CORBETT ARE READY FOR THE TUSSELE. THE PLACE IS STILL A SECRET.

Pool's Selling 2 to 1 on the Champion-The Englishman Weighs 162 Pounds, While the Favorite Tips the Scales at 195-A. Smith Has Big Money to Back Corbett.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 20.—The fight between Corbett and Mitchell will take place within thirty miles of this city next Thursday, again reiterated the Duval Athletic club today.

The members composing the corporation are anxious to do so, individually and collectively they insist that no power on earth can stop the mill, unless it be one of the principals to the engagement.

Owing to the secret operations essential to the evasion of Gov. Mitchell and his military forces, but little of reassuring character can be given for publication.

President Mason contends that two men only will know the spot where the ring is to be pitched and they get there. One of the men, Snowden, will take up his position in the east of the engine Thursday morning, and the engineer's instructions will be to come to a halt wherever Bowden orders.

The demand made by Mitchell that he be given information as to where the contest is to be pitched off by Tuesday morning will probably be denied him. If he is told anything at all, it will very likely be a point far removed from the scene of the contemplated action.

All manner of talk has been indulged in of late as to the weight of Mitchell. An Associated Press representative was today taken to the quarters of the Britisher on Anastasia island by "Bat" Masterson, and saw Mitchell mount the scales and weigh himself.

Mitchell has just finished his morning exercise, which consisted of a twelve-mile run, wrestling bouts with Fogarty, Hall and O'Donnell, and light work with

When he punched the scales, attired only in Adam's liveries, he belied the claims that variously had his weight at from 185 to 174. His hitherto prominent paunch had completely left him. His limbs were trained down finely. The muscles of his back stood out in ridges across an expense which had been thinned down to the ribs. The flabby neck and double chin was gone, and, all in all, he looked no more like the Mitchell familiar to theater audiences than if there was no affinity between the two. He was a bit backward about adjusting the weights on the bar to the presence of the reporter. He cogitated a moment, and then, with a swaggar "I don't care," dropped the index along until the weight came to a perfect balance.

"There is the weight," said Mitchell, and the reporter bending over saw that the beam registered 162 pounds.

When Mitchell had been dressed he opened a package of cigars and, after reading it as he went along, sauntered up to the main entrance and to dinner. After the meal he talked freely of the coming mill, but through the entire colloquy evidenced a marked lack of faith in the ability of the club to make good its end of the contract. He intimated that if the fight did not well place the blame would rest on the MITCHELL A WINNER. St. Materson Backs the Blasted Englishman.

St. Louis, Jan. 20.—"Bat" Masterson, the well-known Denver sportsman, in a letter to the St. Louis Dispatch, states that he picks Mitchell for a sure winner. In his letter he says that in his opinion "Mitchell has been the victim of most unfair and unscrupulous criticism at the hands of Corbett and his henchmen. I do not desire to have it understood I am prompted by Mitchell in making this statement, but I think it is high time that the American public heard the other side of such a thing, up to this time, has been all in the shape of theatrical advertisement. Mitchell is not an actor. He is a fighter, and I think Corbett will have reasons to believe this before many days have passed. Corbett appears to think it will do him no end of good to circulate stories concerning his prospective opponent which no man of intelligence would listen to for a single moment. I know Corbett as well as any man in America, and I say without the slightest hesitation that Corbett is beginning to realize that he is up against it, and he really thinks, if either is absent at roll-call next Thursday, it will be the American champion. Corbett professes to believe Mitchell will not be able to withstand his terrific punches and his cyclone rushes for a round or two, but it is as good a thing as I should think he would keep it to himself or boast Mitchell as fighters generally do under such circumstances, at least until his friends have succeeded in placing their money to the best advantage. It is to be supposed for political reasons Corbett would be careful not to give utterance to sentiments which proclaim to the governor and every one else that the fight going to be a desperate one, and that Mitchell is afraid to face the issue. Mitchell has been circumspect in this respect, but I do not deny that Mitchell has said unkind things of Corbett at times, but he has not yet descended to such ridiculous and idiotic utterances as have been attributed to the American champion and those living in the shadow of his greatness. Corbett and the two men who will face each other in a cur, I think the finger of scorn will not point to Charles Mitchell."

Masterson then recited the Jackson-Corbett mill, asserting that Corbett on that occasion showed himself to be an arrant coward. He draws a parallel between the height, reach, weight and cleverness of the two pugilists, and asserts that the chances are all in Mitchell's favor. His letter closes thus: "There is no more clever, aggressive or vicious man in the world than Mitchell. He has a heart of cold-steel, and there is no trick of the fighting trade he is not up to."

Mitchell's Family Arrives. New York, Jan. 20.—Among the passengers of the steamer Euribia, which arrived tonight, were "Pony" Moore, father-in-law of Charles Mitchell, the pugilist. Accompanying him are his wife and Mrs. Mitchell and her son.

It is true that a purse of $15 a month was made up for him (Franklin) by contributions of the employes of the building inspector's office, and that it was paid to and received by him.

What Causes Pimples? Clogging of the pores or mouths of the sebaceous glands with sebum or oily matter. The plug of sebum in the centre of the pimple is called a blackhead, grub, or comedo.

Nature will not allow the clogging of the pores to continue long, hence, inflammation, swelling and redness, and pus or matter forms, breaks or is opened, the plug comes out and the pore is once more free.

There are thousands of these pores in the face alone, any one of which is liable to become clogged by neglect or disease.

What Cures Pimples? The only reliable preventive and cure, when not due to a constitutional humor, is Cuticura Soap.

It contains a mild proportion of CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, which enables it to dissolve the sebaceous or oily matter as it forms at the mouth of the pore.

It stimulates the sluggish glands and tubules to healthy activity, reduces inflammation, soothes and heals irritated and roughened surfaces and restores the skin to its original purity.

This is the secret of its wonderful success. For bad complexion, red, rough hands and chapped nails, dry, thin and falling hair, oily and irritated scalp and simple blemishes it is wonderful.

It is preserving, purifying and beautifying to a degree hitherto unknown among remedies for the skin and complexion.

WHAT BISHOP SPALDING SAYS.

Majority of Catholics Have Not Regarded the Apostolic Delegation Favorably—The Pope's Position on the School Question—The Two Catholic Universities at Washington.

ROME, Jan. 20.—A representative of the Associated Press has had interviews with Bishop Spalding, of Peoria, Ill., who recently arrived here, and who has had an interview with the pope. Speaking regarding the reports, again circulated in the Rome newspapers, that Mr. Satolli would shortly be recalled from the United States, Bishop Spalding repeated that he had heard absolutely nothing, either at the Vatican or elsewhere, to give the slightest color to these reports.

"That Mr. Satolli will not remain permanently in the United States," continued the bishop, "is certain, as is also his elevation to the cardinalate ere long. But it is well known that the pope has expressed his satisfaction with the manner in which Mr. Satolli has acquitted himself of the mission entrusted to him, and I have no reason to suppose that his holiness has any desire to recall him at short notice."

"Do you think," asked the correspondent, "that the institution of an apostolic delegation has been advantageous to interests of the Catholic religion in the United States?"

"My impression is that the majority of North American Catholics have not expressed their approval of the apostolic delegation favorably, and do not, moreover, believe that the interests of the Catholic church will in any sense advance thereby. The situation of the Catholic church in America, it must be considered, is in many respects without a parallel, and the church there has exigencies which an Italian envoy, whose mind has ripened in a social and intellectual atmosphere quite different from ours, might fail to appreciate."

"Do you believe that the pope will see fit to intervene in the school question at any time?"

"His holiness has made a definite pronouncement in ordaining that the resolutions of the Baltimore congress are to be acted upon, and this declaration must suffice, especially in view of the fact that the resolutions are respected by the American clergy and episcopate."

"Has the pope, to your knowledge or belief, made any declaration with respect to the Catholic universities at Washington?"

"His holiness has no reason to make any pronouncement on the subject, seeing that no real conflict exists between the two universities. In point of fact there are not two universities; there is a school of law, the direction of which are annexed two faculties: one of jurisprudence, the other of medicine, and at the side of this school, there is a university founded under the auspices of the American episcopate. It is true the result school has many more students than the university. But, I repeat, his holiness has never judged it necessary to pronounce in favor of either of the two institutions."

In the course of his remarks, Bishop Spalding said that he intended to remain some weeks longer in Rome before returning to the United States.

NO RESULTS. President Hill Submitted a Schedule.

There is but little to add to the current history of Great Northern conference matters. At 3 o'clock Friday afternoon the engineers' committee of nine waited on President Hill. During the course of the afternoon several other of the officials dropped in, until there was quite a little family party in the president's headquarters. Mr. Hill talked with the men in the friendliest sort of a way about schedules. The soiree did not adjourn until 9 p. m. During the afternoon talk was had about the schedule submitted by the president. It was finally agreed to submit a statement of the points objected to by the men in writing. This was done yesterday forenoon. No time for an answer has been set. Meanwhile the engineers yesterday afternoon met at the club and had to talk over matters from their own standpoint.

Brayton Ives' Circular. New York, Jan. 20.—Brayton Ives, president of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, has issued, in behalf of the stockholders, a circular regarding the operations of the concern under the guidance of receivers. It contains a lengthy complaint of the present management. It states that during the months of October, November and December the decrease in earnings amounted to $2,000,000. The receiver, Mr. Oakes, is vigorously commented upon, and the circular concluded with a request for the support of the directors by the stockholders.

Lochren's Latest Order. WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Pension Commissioner Lochren has issued the following order respecting calls for testimony in pension cases:

ST. PAUL SKINNED THE MINNEAPOLIS BOYS.

Last night at the armory a match game of indoor base ball between a team from Company I, of Minneapolis, and one from Company E, of St. Paul, was held. The proceeds were turned over to the relief committee for the benefit of the unemployed. The following were the players and their respective positions:

Robinson, of Company C, and Campbell, of Company I, acted as umpires. The score by innings showed: St. Paul.....0 0 0 0 0 3 2-8 Minneapolis.....0 1 3 0 0 0 1 0-5

It was not possible to learn the exact amount realized in last night's game, as an estimate had not yet been made. No doubt a handsome sum was realized.

SKATING THIS WEEK. Events Scheduled to Occur on the Ice.

The race between Scheibe and Davidson was postponed from last Monday evening on account of soft ice until tomorrow evening. Smith's trial against the records was also postponed on account of the weather. Today at Minneapolis Scheibe is to meet Olaf Rading, the flour city flyer, and an exciting struggle is expected. The situation of the local contingent is confident that Scheibe will prove the victor, and in addition, he will set a new record. On Friday evening, a two-mile race will probably occur at the Edgewater rink between A. D. Smith and Strander. The Norwegian club, Strander, desired a match and Smith promptly accepted his challenge. On Friday, at New York, the national amateur races will be skated for the American championships, and the results will be awaited with great interest, as some of the Western flyers will participate.
