AWKWARD PREDICAMENT.

CONFRONTED BY THE MAN HE SOUGHT TO IMPERSONATE.

TAKEN IN BY DETECTIVES.

Man Hailing From Wisconsin Apparently Conceives a Daring Scheme to Stand Off His Landlord-Assumes the Name of a South St. Paul Man and Telegraphs for Money.

V. J. Clarke, who claims to hail from Waukegan, Wis., was arraigned in the police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of forgery. Clarke is evidently a clever fellow and he tried, as asserted, to work a scheme which on its face looked like ready money. As usual in such cases, however, there was a hitch in the working of the plan, and the re-sult was Clarke's arrest and confinement

Last Thursday Clarke registered at the Clarendon under the name of Clinton D. Brumfield. He had no money or, at least, he claimed to have none, but he exhibited a telegram from J. M. Brumfield, of Wankegan, stating the money would be sent by first mail. The telegram was directed to Clinton D. Brumfield and, as Clark had registered by that name, the hotel people were willing to wait for their bill untill the money arrived. Friday morning Clinton D. Brumfield, who is a gauger at the South St. Paul distillery, was surprised to receive a letter from his brother with a postoffice order for $50 enclosed and the statement that he could not send the money by telegraph, as requested, owing to the telegraph station at his resilence not being allowed to send mon ey by wire. Brumfield was puzzled at the letter, but finally visited the telegraph office and learned that a telegram had been sent purporting to be signed by him directing his brother to send $50 by wire to him at the Clarendon hotel. Brumfield visited the Clarendon, and sure enough on the register was the name of Clinton D. Brumfield. He asked the clerk if the person was in the hotel, and Clark was pointed out to him. Approaching, Brumfield asked Clark if he was the gentleman who had telegraphed to his brother at Waukegan for $50, and Clark, answering to the name of Brumfield, said he had. Brumfield then made himself known to Clark, and at the same time ordered a detective who accompanied him to arrest the fellow. On the way to the station Clark chewed and swallowed a portion of the telegram which he had received from the Wisconsin Brumfield, but enough was saved to be used as evidence.
Clark was not brought to court until

FAILED TO APPEAR.

Dodge the Question of Keeping Pest House Open.

A meeting of the special committee from the aldermen to consider the question of keeping some person in charge of the small-pox hospital was called for yesterday afternoon. The only member of the committee to put in an appearance was Ald. Zimmerman, and, after an informal discussion, the man and his wife who are now occupying the building were instructed to remain until further orders.

alleged insane person, and take such action as he may deem necessary to protect the rights of such person is and his wife being $500 per year. In December last the council reduced the amount allowed the health department this year from $12,000 to $10,000, and, as a cut was necessary, Dr. Hoyt refused to longer pay the $500. Under the law the health commissioner is only obliged to provide for the building and attendants while an epidemic is raging, and no authority is given to provide for the care of the place at other times. City Physician Ancker, who was present at the meeting, said that there was no question as to the necessity of keeping the hospital in readiness, as there might be a case of the disease at any time. The building and contents was valued at about $8,000 and should not be left unoccupied, for if it was the residents in the vicinity who are opposed to the location of the infirmary at that point might burn it down.

THE INSANITY LAW.

Globe Strictures.

o the Editor of the Globe. In the two last issues of the GLOBE are editorials relating to our insanity law and our present methods of examination of alleged insane persons, that contain so many glaring inaccuracies of statement and so much ignorance of the law now on the statute book that I beg that you will allow me to briefly present the other side of the case. A careful perusal of your editorials shows that your chief indictments against our present law is that "it gives to a commission of two physicians power to conduct an ex-parte examination of the party accused, and, without giving that person an opportunity of defense, commit him or her to an asylum." That "the judge of the court has no authority under the law to reject absolutely the report of the commission, for he is not permitted to hear or consider the testimony upon which it may be based." That "under the present law our citizens are liable to imprisonment, either in jails or insane asylums, at the option of an irresponsible star chamber tribunal, having no shadow of right to existence under the constitution." That "the constitu-tion provides the right of trial by jury shall not be abridged or denied to any citizen" violated by the present law. That "it is possible to take from persons accused of insanity the right to be examined in open court before a properly constituted tribuual." You whom a case may be referred may be prejudiced against the person," and that under these circumstances "it is possible to procure a packed jury." Now, these are indeed serious charges if they can be substantiated, but that if they can be substantiated, but that they are not true will be the object of this article to show. The general law of Minnesota of 1893 relating to the commitment of the insane, against which your indignation is aroused to such a white heat, is a singularly considerate, mild, and humane document; and after reading it one wonders, first, if you ever really read the law, and, second, if so, how you could have worked yourself into such a passion of resentment against its provisions. Section 19 says: "Whenever the probate judge, or in his absence the court commissioner of any county, shall receive information in writing that there is an insane person in his county needis an insane person in his county need-ing care and treatment the said judge, or court commissioner, shall, by an order in writing, direct two examiners in lunacy to examine the alleged insane person, and certify to him within one day after their respective examinations the result of such examination, with their recommendation at to the special yesterday afternoon, and at that time the hearing was continued to Tuesday, and in default of $2.000 bail the prisoner action necessary to be taken in the case If the examiners certify that the person so examined is not insane, the judge or court commissioner shall dismiss the case. If they disagree, he shall call other examiners, or take further testimony. But if they testify that he is insane, and a proper subject for commitment for any of the reasons specified in section 17 of this act, said judge or court commissioners shall visit the alleged insane person, or require him to be brought into court, but he shall cause him to be fully informed of the proceedings being taken against him. He may, if he deem it advisable, take further testimony or call other examiners; but in-all cases before issuing a warrant of commitment the judge of problems. the judge of probate or court commis-sioner shall notify the county attorney, who shall appear on behalf of the commitment is sufficient under the provisions of the act, he shall approve the certificates of the examiners and issue a duplicate order and warrant commit-ting said person to the custody of the superintendent of the proper state hos-pital for the insane, or the superintend-ent or keeper of any private licensed institution for the care of the in-sane, and shall place said order and warrant, together with a certified copy of the certificate of the examiners in lunacy, in the hands of the sheriff, or some other suitable person whom he

some other suitable person whom he shall authorize to convey said insane person to the hospital."

It will thus be seen that after the examiners in lunacy have examined any person and found him insane, the law prescribes that the "probate judge or court commissioner shall visit the or court commissioner shall visit the alleged insane person, or require him to be brought into court" "and to be fully informed of the proceedings taken against him." and shall in "all cases notify the county attorney, who shall appear on behalf of the alleged insane present the state of the state. erson and take such action as he may deem necessary to protect the rights of

It will be observed the state furnishes free legal services to every alleged lunatic. What greater protection could the law throw around an alleged insane person? The GLOBE writer speaks wildly "of railroading people to the insane asylum," and "that any citizen, no matter what his mental soundness or social standing may be, is liable to be thrust into the company of lunatics and kept there indefinitely at the caprice of any enemy." Now, this is all very absurd, but let us admit for argument's safe that such a thing were argument's sake that such a thing were attempted, what obstacles would one encounter before such a foul conspiracy could be consummated? First, two medical examiners would have to be found so lost to all decency and honor as to become a party to such an outrage. as to become a party to such an outrage.

and that, too, for the paltry sum of $5 the amount of their examination fee.

Second—The judge of the probate court would have to be deceived or de-bauched "since he too must visit the alleged insane person" and satisfy himself as to the sanity or otherwise of the person. Third, the county attorney who appears in behalf of the alleged insane person would have to be dealt with or silenced ere the conspiracy could be successfully carried out. In could be successfully carried out. In other words the probate judge, the county attorney and two reputable physicians must all be in the conspiracy against the poor insane person, and all thus become particeps criminis. That such contingencies are ever likely to arise no sensible person, I think, could for a moment believe. I do not know what methods are adopted in dealing with allged insane persons in any county in Minnesota in any county in Minnesota save Ramsey county; but a fifteen years' experience here enables me to speak from personal knowledge. In all that time, and I have examined scores of patients, no examination has ever been conducted except in the presence of the judge of the probate court; and in only one case was the examination ever conducted except in open court, and generally before numerous witnesses. In the single exception noted the examination was made at the patient's residence with two at the patient's residence, with two medical men and the probate judge constituting the jury. Whatever may recently have happened in Minneapolis or Fergus Falls, it is safe to say that if any scandal has arisen, it is because the exact methods of examination prescribed by law were disregarded in that the proby law were disregarded in that the pro-bate judge and county attorney failed to be present. The fault, then, if fault there was, is not to be ascribed to the law, but rather to the failure to conform

Ex-United States Senator W. F. Sanders, of Helena, Mont., was at the Ryan yesterday. He is an interesting figure in Montana pointies. It will be ngure in Montana politics. It will be remembered that the senate last winter failed to indorse Lee Mantle, of Helena, who was appointed by the governor of Montana to succeed Mr. Sanders, whose term had expired. The senate took the grounds that this was an office over which Montana's governor had no jurisdiction to fill by appointment. Senator Sanders left on an early train.

IVES' PETITION

Against the N. P. Receivers Filed in Court.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 20. - The Northern Pacific Railroad company, being the Brayton Ives faction now in control, today filed a petition in the United States court demanding their rights against the receivers. The petition alleges that George H. Earl, the secretary; George H. Baxter, the treasurer, and J. A. Barker, the auditor, were directed to resign by the receivers or be discharged. They did resign, and are now in the employ of the receivers, leaving the offices of the company without proper officers to transact business. Corporate action is necessary, the petition avers, for the conveyance of land, and in order to be enabled to do business the company asks for an order directing the receivers to surrender the seal, books and papers, stock certificates, etc., and pay over sufficient money to enable the president to rent rooms and pay the salaries of the auditor, secretary and treas urer.

The petition will be heard, together with the application for the remeval of
