THEIR GOOD IDEA.

The Copeland Physicians' Treatment Free to Patients on Their First Visit.

THEIR REASONS GIVEN.

Don't Regard It Good Equity for the Sick to Pay Medical Fees Before Knowing Something of the Services to Be Rendered.

The Copeland system of disease treatment, being based on principles of advanced and enlightened pathology, ef-fects cures much more rapidly and cer-tainly than other and less thoroughly ment, including all medicines, the speedier curative efficiency of the system being shown by the testimony of all who have ever tried it. There are physicians, and fairly competent physicians, too-not the illiterate | 745. riff-raff and ruff-skuff of the profession. but many regular graduates-who charge high fees for moral effect, on the principle that many sick folks feel that the bigger the fee the greater the doctor, just as many persons would think that drinking water at a dollar a bucket must be purer than free rainwater right out of the clouds. It is one of the old and bad trucks of trade, represented by the lower order of merchants.

Regarding "trial treatments free," as given by the Copeland specialists, the idea is an adaptation of a common business equity, a custom 10.000 years old. The Copeland physicians maintain that the same equity should hold in medical practice. The chronic sufferer usually pays a specialist a high fee in advance, in total blindness as to the quality of the service he is to receive. He may be getting an intelligent discle may be getting an intelligent diagnosis and intelligent treatment. He may be getting an erroneous diagnosis and wrong treatment. He can't tell. He must experiment at his own ex-

The Copeiand physicians hold that the specialists themselves should stand the expense of demonstrating the excel-lence of their own methods, and they carry the good precept into practice. To all who apply in person they give upon their first visit all the benefits of an expert diagnosis, full advice and a careful treatment, free of any charge whatever.

OUR REPUTATION.

Read the clipping below from the Omaha Drovers' Journal.

We note today an Unparalleled offer, in which the S. H. Wood Produce Co., of Minneapolis, Minn., offers to guarantee customers against loss on a moderate quantity of wheat, if they buy at the present low price. Those who have been close readers of the Journal and noted the predictions of this firm on prices know that they have been very successful in predicting future prices of grain, and their unusually keen foresight and excellent judgment warrant them in making their special insurance offer. Speaking of their recent prediction, the Daily Financial News says: "Our readers will remember that the S. H. Wood Produce Company, of Minneapolis, Minn., recommended the sale of Chicago corn, claiming that price was not warranted with the large stock held by farmers undisposed of; corn has since gone down 10 cents per bushel."
