A California official, who was short in his accounts, of a broken heart the other day. He was evidently poorly fitted by nature for a political career.

A new comet has been discovered in the heavens. Perhaps the superstitions will attribute the recent unseasonable weather to the advent of this vagrant among the celestial spheres.

The Chicago Union League is talking about expelling Col. Breckinridge from its honorary membership. The club is certainly not honored by having the Kentuckian's name on its rolls.

There is a general complaint among Coxe's army that the commissary department lacks in its chief requirement—whisky. If this deficiency will be supplied all else will be forgiven.

About twenty-five per cent of the foreign exhibits at the world's fair have remained in this country. We have reason for thankfulness, however, that the Duke of Veragua was not one of the exhibits that remained.

Chicago has organized an association for the purpose of giving employment to ex-convicts. Such an association for the benefit of those who have never been convicted would reduce the probability of their becoming a member of the more favored class.

South St. Paul secures the Corbett-Jackson prize fight. St. Paul pugilists will have to provide an expert referee for the occasion. It would cost a round sum, and it is questionable if our citizens would be required by the money the sports would scatter in our midst.

A Chicago man disappeared from his customary haunts the other day, leaving a note to a friend saying: "I don't know whether I will be in heaven or hell." As he turned up in Chicago again it is supposed that he was denied admission to either of the other places named.

A Washington dispatch states that J. S. Clarkson was about the capital the other day consulting with prominent Republicans, and adds that "no political significance is attached to his visit."

The fruit crop is again killed by the frosty weather. There is nothing new in this announcement. It has been made every spring for half a century, and will be as fresh and truthful next year as the year after as it is today, or has been at any time in the past.

A very forcible illustration of the beauties of our protective system was furnished to those foreign exhibitors at the world's fair whose goods were disposed of in this country. These paid an average duty of 37.94 per cent. It is not likely that, with such an import tax staring them in the face, the foreigners will be very anxious to extend their trade with the United States.

The claim that wheat had been seriously injured by the recent cold weather did not have its intended effect upon the Chicago market, prices remaining without notable change. The Chicago operators know a thing or two about the weather themselves, and are not easily frightened. The only thing that will but the market will be a shortage in the acreage sown to the cereal.

Senator Peffer seems to be more disturbed than any of his colleagues about the march of Coxe's tramp army upon Washington. And well he may be. The demonstration is one of the least of the fruits of the political doctrine maintained by him and his associates. Populists, and are not easily responsible for it than any other persons in the community. Populist crankism, like chickenpox, come home to roost.

Sullivan's new comic opera, "Utopia, Limited," has been produced at New York, and judging by its reception large measure of protection given in the refusal of the Republicans to adopt it as satisfactory to them. Even in its present condition, slimed all over with protection by the senate, Mr. McKinley rejects and reviles it, and thus leaves the public to wonder where it must be, between protection, growing ever more ultra on the one side, and a reduction which can only end in the freedom of trade.

On the platform last night in Exposition hall, in Minneapolis, were two men, one a Republican governor of Ohio, the other a Republican governor of Minnesota. Both have served as representatives in congress during the sessions in which the tariff has been under consideration. Both there expressed their views, and both then, as now, were Republicans. The former retired from congress to become his party's candidate for governor, and last night "fired the opening gun" of his candidacy for the presidential nomination of his party in '96. The latter also retired from congress in like manner because, as he then expressed it, he was out of harmony with his party on its tariff policy, and, after the speeches he had made, he would be regarded as a black sheep in the flock, and could no longer be effective.

Republican politics makes queer bedfellows, but we venture the statement that no two men with more radically divergent views ever before cuddled up so perfectly under the same pair of party blankets. In illustration of this we put here in close juxtaposition the opinions held by these two men on a question which has engaged the attention of the people of this country for several years, and the latter has subordinated all other public questions to it. In almost every speech Gov. McKinley has made on the tariff he has ascribed the prosperity of this country to protection. In his speech in 1893, Gov. Nelson said: "I am proud to say that the tariff has made a man of national repute."

The Dispatch states that stories have been circulated that Assemblyman Johnson is not a Republican candidate for city treasurer, and adds: "Mr. Johnson expressed great surprise that such a report should have been circulated. It is evident that Mr. Johnson is not as well known as he thought he was."

THE "LOGICAL CANDIDATE." It is as the candidate of his party for the presidency in 1896 that the speech of Gov. McKinley last night must be read. Notwithstanding the mild protests of his papers like the "Pioneer" and "Journal," regardless of party divisions, his regard for Mr. McKinley as the "logical candidate" in '96. This is because the retreat from McKinleyism sounded in the tariff platform was, by common consent, disregarded in the general recognition that there is an irrepressible conflict being waged on the political field of this nation between the old spirit of paternalism, which supports the various forms of monarchism, oligarchy, socialism and Republicanism, and the spirit of individualism which takes the name of Democracy and one of whose banners is inscribed with the legend "free trade."

It is in the course of his speech that he made a reference to the tariff, and declared that "cheapness is a good thing. Rising to the necessities of the situation, at Kalamazoo, he said: "Well, now, say you would have a tariff on the goods of the world, which is substantially all they asked. They will hereafter receive extra pay for overtime, which they are perfectly willing to serve when not too overworked."

THE CHARMING COMEDienne. Patti Rosa, with an excellent company, will begin an engagement of four nights and matinee at the Metropolitan opera house, on Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday nights and Saturday matinee. She will appear in her latest success, "Miss Dixie." Sunday evening she will appear in another of her new plays, "Dolly Varden." Patti Rosa will sing for the first time in a new play, which will compose the largest number of names out of the letters in the name Patti Rosa. Plurals and proper names excepted. The prize will be announced at the Saturday matinee, and if the artist is not successful at that matinee the prize will be awarded to the one who has the highest number in attendance at the performance. The list can be left at the box office any time today. This is an excellent opportunity for some boy or girl to secure the prize of a $10 gold piece. Patti Rosa will be given by Marie Vainwiler, a singer of the Metropolitan opera house, on Friday evening, Saturday matinee, "Bean Brummel;" Wednesday evening, "Prince Karl;" Thursday evening, "A Parisian Romance;" Friday evening, "The Merry Widow;" Saturday matinee, "Prince Karl;" Saturday evening, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

THE GOLD FEVER. The Eastern press are busily engaged in discussing the importance of the recently discovered mineral deposits in the northern part of this state and warning people against flocking to the region in the hope of winning sudden wealth. The caution may be well intended, but it is not necessary to convey is certainly ill-tempered and manifestly prompted by sectional jealousy.

COOKING BY STEAM. Cooking dishes are now made in England in which in the boiling process the meat does not come in contact with the water or steam. The kettle is contained in a jacket, which in turn is immersed in the outside kettle containing the boiling water. It is claimed that the food is more tender and all the flavor is retained, while, again, the fiber retains a tenderness not found in any other method.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS MUSTER A QUORUM ONLY TO LOSE IT. CONTENTED ELECTION CASES. Ex-Czar Reed Criticizes the Democrats for Attempting to Hastle Through the Election Cases Without Discussion—After Wasting the Day the House Adjourns.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—When the speaker's gavel fell today there were less than eighty members on the floor. The house proceeded with some routine business, pending a report expected from the committee on the election cases of the 6th of April. The bankers have decided that they will observe the law, but on legal advice have determined that they will not insist upon its observance on paper issued previous to the date named. Such a law has been long desired by financiers, and it will be interesting to note how it operates in Wisconsin.

"BILLY" MASON, the popular congressman from Chicago, is at Senator Cullum's seat with a vengeance. He has already secured pledges from many of the leading financiers of the state that he will support him in the event of his election. He has also secured the support of many of the leading financiers of the state that he will support him in the event of his election.

THE PROPOSITION to hold the forthcoming election between Gov. McKinley and South St. Paul will not meet with public approbation. We have enough superabundances of our own, without inviting all the country to pay us a visit. They might spend a good deal of money here at the expense of the city, and suffer without any pecuniary advantage the city might derive from the affair.

THE TELEGRAPHERS on the Union Pacific road have adjusted their differences with the company, and the threatened strike is off. The settlement was arrived at by means of arbitration. The telegraphers have gained an advantage in the settlement, in that they will receive extra pay for overtime, which they are perfectly willing to serve when not too overworked.

FIVE THOUSAND BIRDS in the Kanawha district of West Virginia have been rescued. They have been on a strike for the last few months, and several serious disturbances have occurred in the district. The mine owners have made a few concessions, but not all that were demanded. Regarding half a loaf as better than no bread, the men cheerfully accepted the terms offered, and have resumed work, thus averting a condition of destitution that threatened.

balance of the time for the majority report. He claimed that they were bound to observe the statute of Missouri whether it gave power to election judges to disfranchise voters or not. The vote then returned on the substitute for the report of the majority of the committee presented by the minority declaring Mr. Joy entitled to his seat.
