A WOMAN in Chicago dropped dead the other day while shopping. This ought to be a terrible warning to the sex to abstain from the dangerous practice.

A CHICAGO man has been sent to an insane asylum because he declared his desire to marry Lillian Russell. If this is an evidence of insanity, half the male population of Chicago must be crazy.

Wisconsin produces nearly one fourth of all the mineral water con sumed in the United States, and derives a revenue of $652,703 from it. Its water and its beer combined assure its people against a famine of drink.

THE public will be gratified to learn that Senator Jones, of Nevada, will make no speech on the tariff bill. The senator probably exhausted himself by his effort on behalf of silver, and it is to be hoped that he has not so far recovered as to afflict the public with an-

THE phonograph business does not pay, and the company formed to manufacture them has been declared insolvent. Indeed, this fate might have been anticipated. We have no need for talking machines as long as lovely woman-bless her-is with us, and Populists find seats in congress.

THE tariff debate will begin in the senate on Monday. Some consternation may be caused by the announcement that the senators are all in robust phys ical condition, and able to stand a siege of three months' duration. To add to the misfortune, the capital is said to be efficiently guarded against all epidemics except that of oratory.

THE Republican papers, headed by the Chicago Tribune, are clamoring for a reduction of the salaries of public offi cials, declaring that they are unneces sarily high. It is a little singular that this spasm of economy did not seize them when Republicans were drawing the salaries; but it never acts that way Coxey's "good roads" crusaders will have an opportunity to be something more than theorists when they read Buffalo. The police announce that the army will be taken into camp as soon as it reaches the city limits, and the mem bers set to work breaking stone for the improvement of the roads in that vicinity. If this programme is carried out the organization of the army will prove to have been not wholly useless.

He did not relish a diet of bread and water and a bed upon the cold stone floor, and pleaded for release, promising to make no further attacks upon his guards. THE $1,200,000 left from the earnings of the world's fair for distribution among the subscribers to the guarantee fund will not be paid out for some time to come, owing to the continued absence of President Higinbotham. In the meantime the fund is drawing interest in bank, and the question is whether the subscribers, to whom the money be longs, or the officials of the fair will pocket the interest. It is needless to say that the latter have a "cinch" on

A LOUISVILLE woman has come out as a defender of Col. Breckinridge, and declares that the weaker sex should be sterner in their treatment of those of their number who transgress. It is difficult to see how they could be sterner than they now are. An erring woman's most implacable foe is her sister woman who may have remained spotless, or who has not been detected in her transgression. A little more charity would be far more becoming and Christianlike than the excess of severity now the prise in store for Americans with reference to Hawaii. It is said that trouble AT THE COMMERGIAL CLUB is anticipated when President Dole promulgates the new constitution, and which will be done in the course of a few weeks. The admiral's instructions, it is said, were written by President Cleveland himself, and are in line with the policy heretofore pursued by the administration towards the Sandwich islands. The public will not look upon a revival of the tiresome business with a great deal of favor.

WILL NOT BE SENATOR CRISP. Speaker Crisp refuses to accept the eat in the senate for which he was named as the successor of the late Sena-tor Colquitt. The question was one of importance not only to the speaker himself, but to a number of gentlemen who would like to step into his snoes, both as a member of the house and as presiding officer thereof. His decision to remain where he is is a wise one. Mr. Crisp has made an admirable record as speaker. He is a man of firmness of purpose, prompt in his decisions, and fearless of criticism from friend or foe when he knows he is right. He has frequently been placed in embarrassing positions. The cowardice of his party associates has frequently left the house without a quorum, and has delayed important legislation. He has frequently been sorely tempted to follow the example of his predecessor and count a quorum when no legal quorum existed, but where an actual quorum of mem-bers were in their seats. Many members of his own party have urged him to a course of action which would expedite business, and was warranted by precetannted him with cowardice in refusing to do so, but he has remained steadfast throughout, knowing that to fellow a bad example would not make that example proper, and preferring to maintain his own consistency and the consistency of his party rather than to approve a course that has been universally denounced by the press and people as arbitrary and despotic conduct. Although the business of congress has been greatly delayed by the stand he has taken, the responsibility rests upon the derelict members, not upon the

In the senate Mr. Crisp would have been a distinguished figure, but not as conspicuous as he is in the house. He would be overshadowed by men of longer experience in that body. There quotation always reminds me of Polly is a tendency among the older senators to repress the younger ones-to curb | bright presiding genious of this bantheir exuberance, as it were-and it has frequently happened that men of mark passing from the lower to the upper but the comparison was tame, he was a house of congress have sunk into oblivion. A notable instance is Henry L. Dawes, of Massachusetts. For many years he was the recognized leader of the house, and he wielded his power with consummate ability. He was Did you ever observe him on the transferred to the senate, and at once streets of the city? Did you sank into oblivion. For years he has scarcely been heard from, and a major-ity of the present generation are ignorant of his existence. Mr. Mills, of Texas, was one of the leaders on the Democratic side while holding a seat in the house of representatives. Since entering the senate he has been practically a nonentity. Neither of the senators from Maine are half as conspicuous as they were when they occupied seats in the popular branch of

With such examples before him, Speaker Crisp might well hesitate over his acceptance of the position offered him. True, it is generally considered a promotion to be transferred from the house to the senate, but in Mr. Crisp's case it would be a promotion backward. He is now one of the most conspicuous figures in the nation. In the senate his natural ability would no doubt ultimately assert itself, but it would require years to attain a position of correspond-

To Mr. Springer especially among his associates would Mr. Crisp's retirement from the house be acceptable. That gentleman has long been ambitious to attain the speaker's chair. He is well qualified for the position, and by virtue of long service and leadership in his party is, perhaps, better entitled to it than even Mr. Crisp. Four years ago he was an active cardidate for the office, and ran Mr. Crisp a close race in the caucus. The speaker's mantle would no doubt have fallen upon the shoulders of the distinguished Illinoisan in the event of the Georgia man's acceptance of the senatorial toga. The ase would lose nothing by the change, for Mr. Springer is the peer of Mr. Crisp in parliamentary experience, and is, withal, more of a personal favorite among his fellow members. Perhaps he lacks the aggressiveness of the present speaker, but he could unquestionably accomplish as much by persuasion as Mr. Crisp does by force of combat-

From a selfish point of view Mr. Crisp would have been the loser by passing from his present exalted position to that of senator from the state of Georgia. His decision of the question was awaited anxiously, both by his friends and his enemies and rivals. The pathway to obscurity for leading members of the house of representatives leads to the senate chamber. ONE of Senator Davis' objections to the imposition of ad valorem duties on imports is that we must trust to the ignorance of custom house officers who nake the appraisements. This would be a valid objection if those officials were appointed under the custom folowed by Republican administrations of appointing men for their political services rather than for their competency; but under Democratic rule, where merit is the only qualification, the system will be found to work admirably. THE municipal election in Milwaukee will be the most interesting of the year, as indicating the political power of the A. P. A. The issue is there clearly defined, and the two parties do not attempt to evade it. It is a question between religious toleration and religious bigotry, the Democratic party standing as the champion of the former and the Re publican of the latter. Citizens of that city are thoroughly aroused, and the vote there will be more thoroughly representative of public sentiment than

THE Epworth League of Michigan has tabooed theaters, cards and dancing, and members indulging in these frivoli ties will be subject to expulsion. They will be permitted to indulge in an occasional smile, but undue levity muy subject them to severe discipline. The moral strait jacket long since relegated to the darksome past is emerging from its obscurity, and may be expected soon to form an important article of furniture in our religious establishment. McKINLEY has made himself solid with Minnesota for 1896, and Tom Reed snatch the presidential worm from the early Buckeye bird. "Things That Have Changed-Things That Ought to Change," was responded to by Gen. M. D. Flower. After a very witty introduction he added the following sentiments: In fixing a subject for me the committee has been very generous in giving the widest possible latitude. A "thiug" is almost anything. I will not hesitate to call most everything something. I do not conceive that I am limited or embarrassed, except as I may refer to our fair companions who grace this occasion with their genial presence. I am glad they are with us, and if I shall so far forget myself as to apply the term "thing" to them, I hope the members of the club will promptly expel me. I do not recall but one expression where the term can be applied to our fair friends with any degree of approriateness, and I do not hesitate to mention it, as I am in full accord with the sentiment: "A thing of beauty is a joy forever." If I had created this senti-mental expression, I would have said: "A beauty is a joy tor ever." and I would have dedicated it to the respectable women of the world. Woman is progressive, therefore, with every advancement of civilization she is to be found in the front ranks of retorm with the courage of her convictions. The representative woman has changed, and always for the better; she will continue to change so long as civilization shall need her sympathy and co-operation, but her kindly nature, usually cheerful disposition, and Christian virtues are as unchangeable as the fixed stars. God bless our mothers, wives and sisters.

Plato defined a man as "a two-legged animal without feathers," and Diogenes discredited the definition by plucking a rooster, and carrying the unhappy bird to Plato, who then added to his defini-Carps' definition of Harlan P. Hall, the quet. She said he had always been likened unto a steam engine in breeches, veritable electric battery. This was not a bad description of the man. I don't mean to call him fast; it refers to his indomitable energy, his activity and mental and physical vigor. ever see him standing still? I venture not, he's always going, not leisurely, not languidly, but vigorously,

I might say furiously. His ordinary gait is a cross between a dog trot and the stride of a giraffe. He's always a hustler. He eats quickly, sleeps quickly, thinks quickly, and is mighty handy with his pen; he's a man of nerve, with assurance and sand to back it up-to use a slang term, "He always has his moxie with him." You can't discomfit him, you can't shock him, you can't down him. Like Banquo's ghost, he won't be downed. I have heard Hall called Brassey, but that is a mistake; his native modesty restrains him from asking impossible telling you, he's like a singed cat-Twenty years ago he was a black Republican, a shining light in his party and a leader in the old Ramsey ring. He was a candidate for postmaster of St. Paul, but Joe Wheelock beat him and he changed-don't misunderstand me, he simply changed his politics, he is still candidate for postmaster. There are some things, however, in which he is unchanged, he's the same genial, unflinching friend as of old, the same man of courage, of ability, of energy, of nerve. The same old "Battery in Breeches," and in all of these we would not change him if we could. Long life and prosperity to Harlan P. Hall.

I flatter myself that I am not old, I may not belie my personal appearance by an undue assumption of youth, like my friend Hall, but I shall resent any imputation that I have passed the prime of life; i shall be actually affronted at the suggestion that I am old. The fact is I am not old, and I do not associate with old people; as an evidence of this I am one of you, and, surely, you are in the hey-day of life. I mention the fact that I am not old, not because of my vanity, but because I wish to use the circumstance to illustrate a few of the changes, in city and state, that have come within the scope of my own ob-servation. I have seen the Indians camped on the bluff of your city, where, at the present time, stand the palatial

I have seen the cabin of the pioneer give place to your magnificent blocks of iron and stone. I have seen the hills leveled and the valleys filled to smooth the ground upon which now stands the greater part of the business center of your city. Many of you little realize the changes in the topography of this town since the work of upbuilding began. In many places, where the present level surfaces greet the eye, were yawning ravine thirty to forty feet in depth, with corresponding hills fifty to sixty feet in height. He gave a brief resume of the state, with which he was personally familiar from a time antedating the state organization, and added:

M. D. Munn was not present to respond to the toast "Legal Rights of Women," he having been called out of the city, and so the toastmaster dismissed the subject with some observations on the topic, and after thanking the audience on behalf of the speakers, dismissed them with a kindly good night. The gathering dispersed in great good humor, and many remarks were made as to the pleasure derived from the event.

The success of the entertainment was largely due to J. A. Owens, chairman of the committee on arrangements, who spared no effort to have every detail

Of course the life of the piece is the incomparable Patti Rosa, although her company is all that could be wished for, The songs which were dispensed throughout the play were tuneful, and were accordingly well received.

She will give two performances of "Miss Dixie" at the Metropolitan today, matinee and evening. Tomorrow, Sunday, night, her farewell performance, she will appear in another one of her new successes, "Dolly Varden." Seats. can now be secured at the box office for any of the remaining performances.

"The Voodoo," which opens at the point was "to raise hades and sell news-papers," and he has been doing the as one of the representative tunny performances of the present season. Its lines, scenes and situations are such as to engender merriment, and with its characters in the hands of clever people there can be but one result—hilarious good humor on the part of the audience. The cast has at its head that clever Irish comedian, Thomas E. Murray, and comedian, Thomas E. Murray, and incidental to the play, quite a list of new music and songs will be introduced. The intent of the play is a satire on the superstition of voodooism and its attendant complications, and much popularity has been gained by this funny with the presence of its lays through the property of t skit by reason of its laugh-provoking proclivities.

Croakers have predicted all sorts of ill-results for plays of the highest dramatic order in this city, but it is evident the predictions are wrong, for the advance sale of seats for Richard Mansfield's engagement is the largest of the current season. The plays which Mr. Mansfield will present cannot fail to attract the attention of every true lover of dramatic art. This great actor is perfectly at home in either tragedy, comedy or the drama. No better illus-tration of Mr. Mansfield's great ability could be demonstrated or sought for than his excellent selection of plays for this city. It is more than probable, on account of society making Mr. Mansfield's engagement a noted event, that the entire gathering Monday evening will appear in evening dress.

Drunkenness and Swearing Not

Tolerated In Coxey's Army. EAST PALESTINE, O., March 30 .-After a day of ovations, the common weal had rather a cool reception at East Palestine. Trustee Duss, of the Harmony society, was in town to see the arrival of the army. This visit, he said, had no significance, but he and Coxey went East together on the afternoon train. Coxey went to Pittsburg, but will return tomorrow.

Very stringent orders were read out by Marshal Browne after supper, and the men placed under severe discipline. Drunkenness, obscenity or fighting will result in instant dismissal, and authority has been given the under marshals to enforce this, and it will be sustained The secret conclave on Thursday night, which gave rise to so much speculation, was a meeting at which the under mar shals resolved that men not marching with the army, but on freight trains, will not be fed. If marshals' orders are not obeyed with alacrity the culprit will forfeit a meal. All crooks will be dismissed. Two men began fighting at the mid-day half at Waterford, and were instantly dismissed

The camp had a military appearance for the first time tonight. Brown's orders were written, and read to the men, which was never done befere. The camp was on the fair grounds, and the camp was on the fair grounds, and the men spent the night under canvas, singing around the camp lires until far into the night. Twenty-five recruits, five being nailers from New Brighton, joined and took their badges. The midday meal tomorrow will be at Darlington, and the camp, named Marion Butter is near New Gailbee. ler, is near New Galilee.

Owing to the number of new recruits joined since the commonweal left Colmbiana, a new commune, making three, has been formed. They are Ca ifornia, Chicago and Coxeyana. Brown says a band of pretenders are marching one day ahead gathering food clothes, which they represent is for the Catches a Lord. LONDON, March 30 .- The Peerage just issued, announces that Lord Franeis Hope has been married to May Yohe, the American burlesque actress. This appears to settle the question which, for months past, has been discussed in various social circles. Miss Yohe told a friend nearly a year ago that she was married to Lord Francis, but when the report was published it was promptly denied by Lord Francis and his family. Lord Henry Francis Hope, Pelham-Clinton-Hope, was born Feb. 3, 1866. He is the brother of the duke of Newcastle, is the brother of the duke of Newcastle, who was married in 1889 to Kathleen Florence May, daughter of Maj. Augustus Henry Candy, and consequently May Yohe's husband is heir presumptive to the dukedom of Newcastle. As the present duke is said not to be likely to have an heir, May Yohe may be duchess of Newcastle. She is at present charming large audiences nightly at the Lyric theater, where she is appearing in "Little Christopher Columbus," one of the few successes of the season

WASHINGTON, March 30 .- There is no evidence here to support the published report that Howard Gould and Odette Tyler had been married in Washington the last week in February. The books of the marriage license clerk's office show no such marriage license was issued in the month of Feb ruary. At the health office no suc that no such marriage had been returned. Williams Goes to Galesburg. GALESBURG, Ill., March 30 .- Galesburg completed tonight the raising of the amount necessary to make the needed improvements on the race track here for Horseman C. Williams, of Independence, Io. Williams was tele graphed that all was now in readiness for him to remove his entire plant to Galesburg. A fine farm in the eastern part of the city has been purchased by the committee for the race track site.

Hot-Blooded Southerners Aroused

by the Spy System and the Dispensary Law - Military Companies Disband Rather Than Obey the Governor's Orders-People Crazy With Rage. COLUMBIA, S. C., March 30.-The passions aroused by the dispensary law and the spy system had the long expected result in the fight at Darlington this afternoon, in which at least two spies and two citizens were shot to death and three other men were badly wounded. This city is wild tonight. All the sympathy is with the citizens, and the air is filled with fierce expressions against the governor, the dispensary law and the spies. The fight occurred at 3:30 p. m. at the depot as a body of armed spies were leaving the town. In the fight Frank E. Normant, a prominent young insurance man, and a man named Redmond, from North Carolina, and Constables Mc-Lemon and Pepper were killed out-right. Chief of Police Dargan, K. D. Lucas and Lewis Norment were shot and dangerously wounded.

NEWS HAS BEEN RECEIVED here tonight to the effect that the spies were surrounded in some woods near Darlington by angry citizens, who were bent on avenging the wrongs done

Gov. Tillman having failed to get the Columbia militia to go has ordered out the Charleston militia. This created intense excitement in that city, and it is not probable that the Charleston troops will go. Adit. Gen. Farley left on a special train for Darlington at 10 o'clock tonight. The light infantry of Sumpter has refused to to Darlington, but Farley will be joined by the guards of Manning. It is suspected there that the enraged people of Darlington are determined upon exterminating the spies, and they are not likely to be interfered with by the military from other towns. Nothing has been heard from Darlington in four hours, and this is taken as an indication that the citizens are in a dangerous mood.

WILLMINGTON, N. C., March30 .-A dispatch from Florence, S. C., says that the Tillmanites are preparing to blow up the state dispensary tonightand a high state of excitement prevails. At this hour the constables are said to be surounded in the swamp, and slaughter is expected at daylight.

Later-Constable Brennan, the officer who left Darlington by the Charleston, Sumpter & Northern railway, is now here. He reports to the governor that his detachment

WAS FIRED UPON by the mob as the train was pulling out, and at the same time the detachment was about to leave and in sight of the military, set upon by the citizens. Everything had quieted down last night, and the Sumter light infantry withdrew today. One or two of the constabulary left today and the other eighteen con stables went to the depot of the Cherawa & Darlington railway to depart. The train was late. Not many citizens were at the depot. Two of them, Paul Decegress and Billy Eldred, had an alterca with a Mr. Redmond about the Floyd-Rogers fight. Some say Redmond cursed McLendon, and McLendon fired at Redmond. Others say that McLendon fired at Rogers, and the bullet passed through Redmond's throat, killing him instant-y. Firing then became general, and itizens hurried to the scene. It was found that the constables had scattered to the woods, and four men were lying on the ground-Redmond, Frank Norment and Constables Pepper and McLendon. Pepper was shot through the heaft, McLendon through the stomach, and is living, but will die. Norment is dead. Chief of Police Dergappure shot dead. Chief of Police Dargan was shot in the side, and several citizens wound-ed. Norment, who was killed, had taken no part in the riotous proceedings in the last few days, and had gone to the depot on his own business.

Columbia, S. C., March 30.—Three companies have disbanded under the general pressure brought to bear upon them rather than to obey the governor's orders to go to Darlington. Feeling is at fever heat.

A CALL FOR TROOPS. Crank Waite Will Again Distin

PEORIA. III., March 30 .- Bourland

street, on the west bluff, was the scene of a horrible accident today. One of the immense standpipes of the Peoria Water company collapsed with a deafenning crash heard in all portions of the city. The pipe has been leaking-for a number of days, and today five workmen were set to work to repair it.

Without a sign of warning the bottom

ection burst, and the steel structure immediately collapsed. There were a number of school children playing close by, and many of them, with some of the workmen, were hurled a distance of half a block by the force of the water, stantly killed, and several others sus-other structures were smashed to kind-ling wood.

The accident caused the wildest ex-riously injured. The standpipe was 120 feet high and 20 in diameter, built of steel plate three-quarters of an inch thick, and was supplied from a thirty-million gallon reservoir three miles back on the bluff, giving it a tremendous pressure. The recent cold snap and subsequent thaw had sprung the plates and caused leaks. When the tower burst the spec-tators were hurled from their feet and carried along with the rush of water. Many of the children, although carried a considerable distance, escaped unhurt. The scene of the accident, which is one of the most aristocratic portions of the city, is swimming in the water, and presents a most desolate appearance.

No Further Currency Disturbance Inspires Confidence.

NEW YORK, March 30.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The more active tone in business this week is in part due to the belief that no disturbance of the currency will be permitted, but other causes helped forward improvement. Slowly, but yet quite perceptibly, the force at work increases. The approach of spring compels the dealers to replenish stocks, and the aggregate of orders, if smaller than usual at this season, is distinctly larger than in January or February.
