DISCUSSED GAS.

A Report to Be Drafted in a Few Days.

The gas committee of the board of aldermen yesterday morning held the closing session for the consideration of the report on gas franchises.

There was a brief and uneventful discussion on both sides to close the debate, and Mr. Nickell, on behalf of Mr. Pugh, made one more effort to offset the statements presented by Mr. Cutchon for the St. Paul Gaslight company.

He had some fault to find with the newspapers for what he considered a strong misstatement of the responsibility of his client, to which Mr. Livingston replied caustically that the newspapers had not put it half as strong as the telegram and other information received by him.

The discussion was cut short, and the committee went into executive session for half an hour, after which the doors were thrown open. It was then announced that there was nothing to be given out until the committee had prepared its report and filed it. President Brady, of the board of aldermen, who was also chairman of the committee, was also chairman of the meeting.

The committee went into executive session for half an hour, after which the doors were thrown open. It was then announced that there was nothing to be given out until the committee had prepared its report and filed it.

LEAVITT UNDETERMINED.

As to Whether He Will Run Again for Senator.

Senator Leavitt, of Litchfield, came in last evening and was seen at the Mephan's. He declared that politics were quiet in his section, especially so far as Democrats and Populists are concerned.

The pine land investigation business brings him here. He thought the present investigation will probably end within a month or six weeks. He admitted, though, that there was plenty of unworked ground for future investigations. Asked as to whether he would be a candidate this fall for the senate in his district, he said he was not fully determined as yet, owing to business matters which might require his attention and make it impossible for him to attend to senatorial duties.

HENRY KELLER IN TOWN. Says He Will Run for Re-Election to the State Senate.

Hon. Henry Keller, of Sauk Centre, was in the city yesterday. He said his visit here was to look after his manufacturing interests. He admitted that he intended to again make the run from his district for the senate this winter.

He also said that the chairman of the pine land investigation, or in any other of the many places he has occupied, Senator Keller has proved himself not only faithful to the interests of his constituents, but to those of the entire state.

A RETIRED SOLDIER. SERGEANT COLE THIRTY YEARS IN THE ARMY.

He Was Once a Slave--Passes Through St. Paul, and Gives a Sketch of Himself.

Cool-black is Sergeant Cole, and he is as proud as he is black, for Uncle Sam has just placed him on the retired list, after thirty years' service in the army.

This interesting colored person, who, his family, passed through St. Paul yesterday on his way from Fort Buford, his last place of service, to El Paso, Tex., his future home. He gave the Grand a call, announcing himself as Sergeant Polard Cole, late of the United States army.

"I was born in Kentucky, sah," said he, in reply to a query, "in old slavery days, and mah martyr was Dr. Ginn, of Georgetown, Ky., who still lives at that place. 'Lone 'bout 1841 I tuk it into mah head I'd like to be a free nigger, an' so one day I give of mah des'pair an' jine de yarmy. I nlist in de 'dewitt Kentucky colored heavy artillery, and served to de close of de war. Wall, I seen some service, in course, but war'n't in no battles in particular, 'cept in one outside Nashville, when my regiment was drawn up in reserve line.

"After de war, I jined the Tenth (colored) United States cavalry, and dere I jine ever since. I was promoted to corporal in 1865, and de nex' year I got to be sergeant. Now, in Uncle Sam's yarmy I see some fightin'. I see blood an' some tough skrimishes with de 'niggers. In October, 1868, we had an engagement at Beaver Creek, Kan., wid a band of Comanches and Kiowas. Well, I caught n' sight ob de Kiow chief, an' I tuk a shote 't de big red shield he was holdin' up and shoot'n from behind. 'Thinks I 't myself, 'Ole Injin, I'll jes' 'bout put you to sleep, and git dat ar' shield avo' n' you.' I was a bangin' up after he came to de front, an' I jes' got around in smart range ob de Injin chief and takes a shote at him. Quick as a flash de Injin speared me in de chest ob de horse. I thought suah I got him, and when I seed he war eligin' to de ground, I jes' sez to myself, 'He'll fall into de ground purty quick.' I set my horse inter a gallop toward'n him 't git dat ar' shield. But I hadn' gwine n' do de job, for de Injin jes' jumped a bullet ken wizzin' pas' mah ear. Den another and another right after dat. I jes' sez to myself, 'I jes' sez to myself, 'I was mighty glad to leave him keep his pesky ole shield. You see, I wasn't ob de Injin style ob fightin' den. But I got a little speared, knocked into me, and next time I ketched an Injin playin' dat ar' trick on me I jes' shot him dead, and I jes' sez to myself, 'Oh, I see had a heap ob fun in de service, and I gwine inter privy to de 't' thing if I can't enjoy it.'"

Sergeant Cole expressed a desire about St. Paul seeing the beauties of the city all the afternoon, and went on his way southward by the Great Western in the evening.

MRS. ELYN DEAD. Well-Known Early-Day Settler of St. Paul.

Mrs. Julia A. Elyn, wife of P. F. Elyn, whose death is announced, was well known to all old settlers, having come to St. Paul in 1858. She was a very retired life, devoting all her time to the care of her children, and to the filling of the Scriptural injunction of not letting the right hand know what the left hand did, her many unostentatious charities being known only to the recipients. Mrs. Elyn leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, Misses M. H. Hafford, of Santa Clara, Cal.; three brothers, J. L. Lyons, of San Francisco; P. A. Lyons, of St. Paul; and Dr. W. H. Lyons, of New York city.
