A WOMAN THE CAUSE. BLOODY MIDNIGHT ROW IN A SALOON.

Saloonist "Eddie" Murphy Shot and Seriously Injured—His Assault Escapes.

"Eddie" Murphy was shot at 12:15 this morning in his place of business, on Robert street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, next door to Magee's restaurant.

Murphy was engaged in a controversy with a man by the name of Kavanagh concerning a woman whom both were well acquainted with and soon words grew high between them.

They were sitting in a back room of the place. Suddenly the report of a pistol startled those who were outside at the bar.

Two or three men rushed for the private room and opened the door. As they did they saw Eddie lying on the floor and blood trickling from a wound just back of the ear.

In the confusion which followed Kavanagh was allowed to escape. A hurried examination revealed that the bullet had taken an upward direction and emerged through the top of the skull.

Eddie was lifted onto a chair and asked to tell how it happened, but he would not or could not speak. A conveyance was then sent for and he was taken away, but where could not be learned.

The rumor of the shooting was on the streets half an hour later, but the police disclaim all knowledge of it.

Slid Into Trouble. Detective Puthen arrested Henry Hagenmiller yesterday on the charge of stealing a pair of bob sleds from Michael O'Brien and selling them to James Lambigan, the liverman.

Alleged Footpads Held. Stephen Deveraux and Jerry McCarthy, who were arrested on the charge of holding up Fred Artz, a bank clerk, and Ned Simon, last Saturday night, were arraigned in the police court yesterday.

Their cases were continued until tomorrow morning, and they were held in $2,000 bail each.

Did Jamez steal the Beer? James Daily, the thirteen-year-old lad who is charged with stealing two bottles of beer from a patrol wagon Saturday morning near the corner of Kent and Edmund streets, in which three men were more or less cut and bruised, but not dangerously hurt.

According to the stories of the injured men, there were seven in their party, and they were set upon by three high-women, who attempted to hold them up. In the fight which ensued Frank Kneiser, of 571 Sherburne avenue, lost his false teeth, which were knocked out, and was cut about the head and hip with a knife.

A patrol wagon took home. John Buck and John Haieser also received a few cuts. The three high-women, who were wearing blue hawke with the party of seven, made good their escape. The police say that the whole affair was nothing more serious than a street brawl.

FOUR SMALL FIRES. Keep the Department Very Busy for a Few Hours.

The fire department had four runs last night between 7:50 and 10:15, but none of the fires proved very serious.

The Northern Produce company's store, located at 208-200 East Sixth street, Julius Heilbron proprietor, suffered the most damage. The fire was caused by the explosion of an oil can. The building was not badly burned, but several hundred dollars' worth of stock was damaged by water.

Shortly before 11 o'clock fire broke out in Henry Dankroger's grocery store, 339 East Seventh street. It was caused by an overheated oil stove. The damage was about $200. Somebody set fire to a box of matches in the office of 585 Wabasha street, about 10 o'clock, and damaged it to the extent of $50. At 8 p. m. there was a small blaze on the West side, which was quickly extinguished.

Fire at the Ryan. About 4 o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in the barroom of the Ryan hotel. There were 900 guests in the house, who learned that a fire was close by, not knowing where, and became in consequence greatly alarmed.

The department turned out three engines, two trucks and a chemical, and the fire was speedily extinguished. None of the guests knew that a fire had occurred in the hotel till all danger was past. The loss was confined to the fixtures of the bar and amounted to about $500. It is believed that the fire was caused by mice nibbling matches in a drawer.

SAFE OPENED AND LOOTED. Jeweler Koebel at a Loss to Know Who Turned the Trick.

FEWER LICENSES ISSUED This Year Than Last, but There Are Enough—City Life Incidents.

A treasure-laden safe has been tided of its contents by a gentleman who knew too much about the lock to waste any time drilling the safe.

Sunday afternoon John Koebel, who keeps a jewelry store at 414 South Washington street, let a place of business at 2 o'clock and went away to pay a visit.

When Mr. Koebel returned to the store about 7 p. m. he noticed that a front window pane had been shattered. Entering the store, he at once proceeded to the safe and unlocked it.

He first went to the safe and found it closed but unlocked. Then he examined the money drawer, but did not find some $350 which ought to have been there.

Upon further investigation he discovered that the safe was empty, aggregating $500 or $600 in value, were missing.

Mr. Koebel cannot imagine how his safe was unlocked, as he is so far as he knows, was acquainted with the combination besides himself.

Nothing about the safe was broken, proving conclusively that the thief unlocked it.

LESS LICENSE CASH. Fewer $1,000 Permits Issued This Year Than Last.

About 75 per cent of the saloon licenses for the year are issued during the months of January and February. Thus far, since Jan. 1, thirty-one licenses have been issued.

The city treasurer is richer by $31,033. Last year 307 saloon licenses were issued in all, netting to the city $37,000. It is estimated that there will be a slight falling off this year, owing to the suspension of a number of saloons.

But a sufficient number of new ones have started to bring the total close to, if not actually up to 300. By the last of February, judging by the proportion of licenses issued previous years during the first two months of the year, it is estimated that from $200,000 to $225,000 will have been taken in, as the majority of the saloonkeepers apply for their licenses during the closing days of the extension of time granted in which to procure them.

BEAT WIFE AND PARENT. An Eighth Warder in Court for Practicing Prudery.

Fred Hagez, who lives at the corner of Dale street and Lafond, appeared in the police court to answer to the charge of beating his wife and her father Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Hagez and Mr. Schmidt, Hagez's father-in-law, were badly used up.

The latter wore a bandage around his head, and his daughter's right eye and the side of her face were swollen. Mr. Hagez will have his hearing today.

AMBITIOUS LOWRY.

He Wants Lake Como Turned Over to the Street Railway.

IN RETURN FOR THE DEED He Will Erect a $15,000 Pavilion and Furnish Entertainment.

ON EVERY DAY OF THE WEEK. Park Board Disinclined to Accept, and Lay the Offer Over.

The park board talked for two hours on a half at its regular meeting last night about the ways and means of turning Lake Como park next summer. The question the board is debating is whether it be better for it to furnish the music, manage the boats and provide the lights, or let the job go to the street railway company, and so give it all the privileges.

Commissioner Wheelock reported that at an informal meeting recently held Mr. Goodrich, of the street railway company, had made certain offers. These offers were afterwards embodied in a written proposition, which Mr. Wheelock submitted last night to the board. In brief, the street railway company offered to erect in Lake Como a pavilion to cost $15,000, to furnish the same number of lights as it did last year, and to supply a musical entertainment every day in the week, provided the company be permitted to charge an admission of 25 cents to the pavilion except on Sunday afternoons and evenings, when two free concerts will be given.

The offer further specified that the street railway company was to have in return all the privileges of the park, which would, of course, include the boating.

It also gave the city the right to purchase the plant at cost price within ten years or at nine-tenths of the cost price within one year, and so on in that proportion.

The board did not receive the proposition of the street railway company with any marked show of favor. Commissioner Aberie expressed himself as strongly opposed to charging anybody a cent for admission to any place or entertainment in the public parks. It was contrary to the purpose for which the parks were created. They were for all classes, the poor as well as the rich.

Commissioner Horton was also disinclined to accept the offer, but not for the same reason. He objected because he did not relish the idea of turning over the whole thing to somebody else after all the work the park board had done to make the park what it is.

Commissioner Wheelock wanted Como park to remain as it now is, free to all the people, but it seemed to him some arrangement might be made whereby the street railway company, in case it were allowed certain privileges, might devote some portion of its revenue therefrom to the maintenance of the park.

Mr. Aberie suggested that the board might take the matter in its own hands and furnish the music, boats, etc., and still not lose much, if any, money for the city. After a little talk Mr. Horton showed that after allowing $1,500 for ninety concerts and $2,000 for lighting the park, the receipts were calculated to reach $5,500, which would represent a net expenditure of only $1,000.

Mr. Horton suggested that the new fair ground, now being duplicated, might be inaugurated at Lake Como. It yielded $35,000 in Chicago last summer. Finally, on motion of Mr. Horton, the board passed a resolution ordering the board of public works to condemn as an extension of Como park that portion of Hyde street, eighty feet wide, running southerly from Lake Como a distance of about 150 feet.

The pay roll of the "unemployed" for the month of Jan. 19, amounting to $268.50, was approved, and the board adjourned until 5:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The contribution is the more appreciated by the commission, for the reason that it was not the result of the first wave of sympathy, which swept over this country at the time of this great disaster, but was given at a time when it was of great assistance in completing the work of the commission and extending assistance to the sufferers after the severity of the winter began to be felt.

The Minnesota state commission for relief of fire sufferers has adopted the following resolution: Resolved, That the earnest thanks of the Minnesota state commission for the relief of fire sufferers are hereby extended to the German citizens of Chicago, for their generous donations of over $100,000 for the benefit of sufferers by the late forest fires in Minnesota.

The contribution is the more appreciated by the commission, for the reason that it was not the result of the first wave of sympathy, which swept over this country at the time of this great disaster, but was given at a time when it was of great assistance in completing the work of the commission and extending assistance to the sufferers after the severity of the winter began to be felt.

By order of the state relief commission, Charles A. Pillsbury, Chairman; H. H. Hart, Secretary. Underwriters Elect.
