RACES OF THE FAIR

Excitement Caused by One of the Racers Bolting Over the Fence.

Good racing was the order of the afternoon at the fair yesterday. At exactly 1:30 o'clock the first event was called. It was a grand day for the sport, a warm sun, clear, cloudless sky, and a cool stiff breeze. The track was fine and the work of the horses was excellent.

The first race called was the 2:45 class, trotting, best three in five, purse $500. For the race there were eleven entries, all of which started except three. After several trials the horses got away on a fair start. Considerably before the quarter pole was reached Senator Wilkinson took the lead and left the others to follow. Picnic held second place until near the wire, when Good Morning made a spurt and took Picnic's position, holding it to the finish. The time was 2:211/4.

When the second heat was called the horses, or rather their drivers. played horse for some time, after which the horses had two more trials before they got off. They left the Senator Wilkinson took the lead, olding it all the way to a fine finish. When just at the quarter the crowd in the grand stand shuddered to see Nancy Sweet, driven by M. Gannon and owned by M. Hayes, of Minneapolis, leap into the air and fall head first over the track fence into the paddock. The track police man galloped to the scene of the accident, and the crowd on the track started on the run and the race was forgotten. The horse was not seriously hurt, and was bleeding from the nose and mouth, but was able to walk to the stable. The driver was not hurt, but the sulky was a wreck. The heat went on with Senator Wilkinson in the lead, and the finish, Robin B There second and Van V third, the time being 2:211/2

When the third heat was called it was announced that Picnic was withdrawn, and that Nancy Sweet could not go in the heat. The horses got away in the third trial. and went in a bunch to the quarter, when Senator Wilkinson and Robin B There took the lead and the race was between them, with the Senator in the lead. It was about even ney with them clear into the ome stretch, when, by the hardest piece of work of the day on the rack, the Senator passed under the wire winning his third straight heat and the race in 2:20 flat. It was a fine heat, and the crowd went wild when the Senator made his splendid finish, with Robin B There second and Good Morning third.

BROKE A RECORD.

The second race of the afternoon was the free for all trotting, for a purse of $700. There were five entries and when the race was called C. M. Clough's b m Maude Wright had been scratched. After three or four trials the horses got away in a bunch, with Lockhart at the pole, Silena F breaking badly in the first quarter. Lockhart lead through the whole distance and to within 200 feet of the wire when the fleet Kate Phallamont made a spurt and came under the wire, doing the mile in 2:14½.

In the second heat Kate Phallamont made a good start and it looked as if she would make another fine heat, but in the quarter she broke and did not regain all the way around. One by one the others passed her and in the finish she was fourth. The heat was won by Lockhart, who made the mile in 2:144, with Mark Sirius second and Silena F third.

In the third heat the horses got away in fine shape and it was evident that the race was Lockhart's, for the fleetfooted stallion struck his galt and held it through to a fine finish, making the heat in 2:144.

Following this heat Omaha Wilkes, a yearling, with a mark of 2:29, sired by Wilton Wilkes with a mark of 2:29 sired by Wilton Wilkes with a mark of 2:29 sired

Following this heat Omaha Wilkes, a yearling, with a mark of 2:29, sired by Wilton Wilkes, with a mark of 2:29, sired by Wilton Wilkes, with a mark of 2:09, trotted an exhibition quarter in :37, being paced by another horse. The youngster was heartly cheered when he came in front of the grand stand.

In the fourth and concluding heat of the trotting, the horses got away on even terms and it was evident that there would be a struggle between Lockhart and Phallamont, and so it was. Lockhart lead easily and swiftly and Kate Phallamont kept close all the way around, and the swift stallion was urged on. Down the stretch he came like a flash and shot under the wire, leading Phallamont by two lengths and doing the mile in 2:124, lowering his own record by three-fourths of a second and that of the state fair track by the same score. Lockhart is regarded by horsemen as one of the most promising horses on the turf, and if no accident happens to him he is expected to lower his record by several seconds yet before he reaches his mark.

The horses were started at the half-mile post by Eddie J. Murphy, assisted by Val Fluimer. The starter soon got them moving nicely, and gave them the flag to a fine start. The race was a hot one, and was the most unsatisfactory one of the day. The judges announced the result as follows: Little Joe first, Indian Boy second and Red Wing third. When a roar went up from the grand stand and the judges reversed their decision and then it stood as follows: Red Wing, Indian Boy and Little Joe. At this point the owner of Indian Boy, E. E. Regner, of this city, entered a formal protest, on the grounds of incompetency on the part of the judges, and the protest proceedings went ever till 9 o'clock this morning. As a matter of fact, one of the judges was absent from the judges' stand, having asked a bystander to take his place, and when the race was run another of the judges asked a man on the track in front of the grand stand which horse had come in first. So the race evidently did not receive the attention which it merited, and the matter will be settled this morning. The purse was $200, 60 per cent to the winner, 30 per cent to the second and 10 to the third in the race.

SHOOTING TOURNEY ENDS.

One of the Best Shoots Ever Held in the Northwest.

The gun tournament was ended yesterday, and one of the best shoots that has ever been held in the Northwest, as well as one of the best in the entire country at large this season, was brought to a pleasant close. The percentage was not as high this year as in some others, and yet it was better, when everything was considered. The angles were more difficult and harder to gage, while the "birds" were thrown with greater swiftness than is customary. The participants in the contest went home fully satisfied with their work, and assured those having the contest in hand that they had never enjoyed a better meet than this one. Then there were ducks, plain, common barnyard ducks, and their Pekin sisters, more distinguished. How they did quack. Geese were there, too, in cages and out. No one would ever have thought there were so many different kinds of geese and ducks raised for domestic purposes.

Pigeons, too, were classified in the aggregation, from the common kind that flock around the farmers barn to the fancy, tall, proud and haughty birds that connoisseurs admire. The peafowl was there, also, and the guinea hen, with its humped-up back and speckled plumage.

Every age of the chicken is represented, from the tender chick, fresh from the shell, to the antiquary that the boarding house mistress loves to furnish to her guests. Some are haughty, others proud, and a few seem meek; but all make one long to see them served in good old "farmer's style"—not the style of the farmer who exists by boarding his city cousins, but the Minnesota farmer, who doeth such things well.

Mrs. Brass was a young squaw, not older than twenty-four, and her husband was Good Thunder, a chief who is still living on one of the Minnesota reservations. Good Thunder and his people took part in the uprising, and made sad havoc in Renville county, burning and killing and sweeping the country for miles to the northwest of Fort Ridgley. Mrs. Schmidt was then Mary Schwandt, a buxom fifteen-year-loid German girl, and was making her home with J. B. Reynolds, a white man who had been a teacher among the Indians, and who Eved at the mouth of the Redwood river. One day there came news to his place of the uprising. Among other families that had been massacred was the family of the girl Mary Schwandt, living northwest of Reynolds, at the mouth of Beaver creek. The Indians were moving southeast, toward New Ulm, and the Reynolds home was in their path, so flight was necessary.

and the Reynolds home was in their path, so flight was necessary.

Three women were in the Reynolds household, Mary Schwandt, a school teacher, and the housekeeper. The three were placed in a buggy and the men of the house followed them on horseback, all bound for New Ulm. When about half the distance had been covered the Indians came upon the party. The men were killed and one of the women mortally wounded. Mary Schwandt and the school teacher were made captives and hurried off to the Indian camp, where the teacher was at once given up to the young bucks. It had been the intention of the Indians to treat the young girl in the same way, and this would have been done but for the friendly interference of Snana, the wife of Good Thunder.

After Mary had been restored to her friends the girl and her preserver drifted apart, but some time ago a newspaper containing the story happened to reach the Santee reservation. When Mrs. Brass read it she immediately wrote to Mrs. Schmidt, and the visit now being made was arranged.
