

BANKS SECURED.

THE O'LEARY HEIRS EXECUTE A TRUST DEED FOR $200,000.

ADJUSTING THE FAILURE.

PROPERTY PLACED IN CARE OF D. A. MONFORT AND JUDGE LUSK.

ALL IS MADE SATISFACTORY.

The Promised Security Has Been Made by the Family.

As a partial adjustment of the liabilities of the firm of J. J. O'Leary & Sons, whose failure a short time ago caused more or less of a sensation, a deed of trust was given D. A. Monfort, president of the Second National bank, and Judge Lusk, of the German-American bank, yesterday.

Before Mr. O'Leary died he gave the German-American bank a mortgage for $50,000 on the estate as security for money he had previously borrowed, and the amount due other banks on account of the failure was about $125,000, as near as can be learned, and above the stock on hand, against which the warehouse certificates had been issued.

DAMAGES FOR A KICK.

Meyer Topitzky Wins $5,000 for Injuries to His Son.

The suit of Meyer Topitzky to recover from George W. Flanagan et al. damages for injuries sustained, by the seven-year-old son of plaintiff, by being kicked by one of Flanagan's horses, is on trial before Judge Otis and a jury. It appears that the little boys of the neighborhood had been in the habit of leading the horse to water, and on this occasion the animal became fractious and kicked two of the boys. The plaintiff alleges that it was a race horse, and was known to be wild and of a vicious nature. The boy apparently suffered no permanent injuries, as he was present in court yesterday and testified very fully as to the facts in connection with the accident, which occurred on June 30 last.

ALLEGED BICYCLE THEIF.

W. G. Johnson Taken to Dakota Charged With Larceny.

Chief of Police H. P. Ryan, of Grand Forks, left over the Northern Pacific last evening with a prisoner and two bicycles. The prisoner was W. G. Johnson, who, until a week ago, was employed as a harvest hand in the vicinity of Grand Forks. His bicycle was stolen at Grand Forks and the other at Hamilton, a neighboring village. Johnson was arrested last evening by Sergeant Flanagan at the fifth street pawn shop, where the former was endeavoring to sell the wheels. The prisoner insisted that he had purchased the bicycle, and his return was effected through a formal requisition made upon Gov. Clough.

POLICE COURT CASES.

How the Tab Looked at the Close of Yesterday.

In the municipal court yesterday William McDonald, who robbed O'Connor's saloon, Fort Snelling street, received a sentence of ninety days at the workhouse. In consideration of his plea, and of his being the victor in a fight with a woman, the charge was changed from burglary to petit larceny. August Manke was also sent to Comstock for three months. He admitted that while drunk he had stolen two alarm clocks from the Golden Rule. The case of "Buff" McManus and Annie Murray, alleged to have taken $100 from the pocket of Fred Sanders, was continued until today. Both prisoners insist that they were cruelly maltreated. Harry Vest, William Fandel and James Dugan were charged with having attempted to "hold-up" a railroad man named A. Schuler Saturday night at Arcade and Phalen streets. Schuler stated that the men saw Sergeant Flanagan and Officers Hogan and Gates approaching and ran away before they had succeeded in their purpose. He was, however, unable to identify the prisoners, and they were discharged. William Jaeger, a truckman, who assaulted a peaceable Phalen street and Rosabel streets, will be tried tomorrow.

Notes From the Courts.

An appeal has been taken by the executors of the estate of Daniel W. Ingersoll, deceased, from an order of the probate court with reference to the allowance of an annuity to the widow and also regarding the construction of the will. Today is general term day in the civil branch of the municipal court. The calendar is unusually large, including sixty-one cases.

TOOK HIS OWN LIFE HE USED A REVOLVER.

FREDERICK H. ADAMS, A WASHINGTON NEWSPAPER MAN, COMMITTS SUICIDE.

With his hands crossed upon his breast and his limbs extended as if he had been formally prepared for the grave, Frederick H. Adams, aged forty-five, a newspaper man of New Whatcom, Wash., was found dead upon the sidewalk near the Fourth street entrance to the Sherman house restaurant at 439 O'Connell street, yesterday morning. His hat had fallen across his forehead, partly concealing a stream of blood which flowed slowly from a bullet wound in his right temple. Upon the adjoining sidewalk the blood had spouted freely, and the dark blotches remained throughout the day, attracting but a momentary attention during the morning hours to the spot where a gifted man had taken his own life.

PROMINENT ON THE COAST. St. Paul Relatives Supposed He Had Gone Home—No Cause for It.

St. Paul would soon be, indeed, a beautiful city. There was some discussion over the proposed new rifle range to be located on the Fort Snelling reservation. It was shown that the establishment of the range would cut off the use of the Richfield and Bloomington roads, and thus result in the farmers of those townships driving to Minneapolis instead of St. Paul, accordingly, the following resolution, by Thomas Cochran, was adopted:

Resolved, That the committee on streets, roads and bridges be requested to co-operate with the county commissioners in the matter of the roads across the Fort Snelling reservation, by the location and use of the new rifle range, and that for this purpose Messrs. William Dawson, R. Knaphelde and Thomas Cochran, former Fort Snelling bridge commissioners, be added to the committee. E. E. Woodman, of the Omaha road, and S. O. Brooks, of the Chicago Great Western, were elected directors of the chamber, and Stuart Moore, of the Northern Pacific, and Secretary D. R. McGinnis, of the Commercial club, were chosen members.

SENATOR SHERMAN'S BOOK. Gen. Sanborn Recalls Some Interesting Reminiscences.

Gen. John B. Sanborn was asked yesterday what he thought of Senator Sherman's book of reminiscences, as outlined in the press. "I have submitted to the exchange of the general, but really I have not paid much attention to the newspaper review of the advance sheets. I never knew much about the Garfield, which was very devoted, and by which Sherman was either as far as Minneapolis and returned or left the train here before he started. Mr. Adams was prominent among the newspaper men of the Pacific coast. He was a brilliant writer, and excelled in humorous sketches. His poetical gifts had also been cultivated with more than ordinary success. He removed as a young man from Madison, Wis., to North Dakota, where he founded the Cooperstown Courier in 1883. Five years later he and his partner went out to the great northwest, and established the New Whatcom Revue, one of the oldest newspapers on the coast, and of which Mr. Adams has since been editor. He had never married.

THIS YEAR'S PAVING. Amount of Work That Has Been Done to Date.

The chamber of commerce committee on streets, roads and parks reported that body at its meeting yesterday morning the amount of paving laid this year. The report is as follows: Four and sixty-two hundredths of streets have been paved with asphalt; 36 miles of street have been paved with cedar blocks; 36 miles of street have been paved with stone; 15 miles of sidewalk have been laid; 15 miles of wooden sidewalk have been laid. All the east and west streets in the business district, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh, are now newly paved, except Fifth street, east of Wabasha street, which will be done next spring. And of the north and south streets, Sibley, from the levee to Seventh; Wabasha from Third to College avenue; and St. Peter, from Third to Martin, are newly paved, and Martin, from St. Peter to Rice, thus connecting the body of the city with Rice and University, which are paved. Across the river, South Robert street is now paved, and the street pavement thoroughly repaired. All the leading business streets of the city are now in excellent condition, except Third, Fourth and Robert, which are in fair condition at present, but will in a few years need repairing.

SALVAGE CORPS OUTFIT. Supt. Whitmore Will Be Ready for Duty Shortly.

The salvage corps purchased yesterday two excellent horses for their wagon. The animal bought the other day will be kept in reserve. The first department has loaned the corps a supply wagon to be used until the corps' own wagon is completed. With this excellent outfit, except for the first department, it is possible that Supt. Whitmore will have his men ready for duty by the close of the week. An attempt has been made to secure from local merchants the 300 tarpaulin covers which the corps will require in addition to the 100 already purchased. It is said to be difficult, however, for St. Paul firms to supply the exact article needed, and the covers may therefore be ordered from another city.

NO ONE IN SIGHT. Who Will Succeed Y. Peyton Morgan an Open Question.

W. T. Kirk, treasurer of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, in speaking of the possibility of a successor to Rev. Y. P. Morgan, said last night: "So far, absolutely no one has been considered for the position, as we have followed the policy of not making any definite plans. That story of Rev. Mr. Faude being considered for the place is bosh, from beginning to end. He is not considered, and I have no idea that he is the right man for the place, as it is a peculiar one and will be hard to fill. I think that the congregation will realize and regret its mistake in letting Mr. Morgan go as they did. His resignation was due, not so much to any opposition to him in the parish as it was to a general indifference on the matter for they did not really think that he would go. It will be, indeed, very hard to fill his place, and so far I am certain there is no one in sight."

TALKS TO TRAVELERS—NO. 4. It is a historical fact that "The North-Western Line" was the first line to ever run sleeping cars of any kind from Minneapolis and St. Paul through to California without change. During the present season a Pullman tourist sleeping car leaves Minneapolis every Thursday at 7:40 p. m., St. Paul 8:15 p. m., for San Francisco and Los Angeles, via the interesting city of Salt Lake, and the present service is up to the usual high standard of the part. These tourists sleepers are very comfortable to use when traveling to California, and are much cheaper than regular sleeping cars. For tickets and further information about this Thursday tourist car and illustrated California folder, call on agents 386 Robert street, corner Sixth, St. Paul; 13 Nicolet house block, Minneapolis, or union depots in both cities.

Death of Joseph Diebold. Joseph Diebold, engineer for the Andrew Schuch Grocery company, died at his home, 1399 Maria avenue, Sunday, death resulting from typhoid fever after a brief illness. Two weeks ago he first complained of not feeling well, but refused to surrender, his attack being post until finally forced to yield to the influence of the fatal disease. A widow and two children mourn his death. The funeral will be held today.
