

DISSIPPATA. A Life of Agony, a Death of Pain, is the Experience of its Victims. This dreaded disease is caused by imperfect action of the stomach, and impurities of the blood. Gastric troubles appear at certain stages, they slowly eat into the vitals of the victim, poisoning his blood and preventing the absorption of proper nourishment from the food. The patient at last dies from starvation, unless a knowing uler penetrates an artery, and death from hemorrhage is the result. Do not continue to suffer. You can be cured. Kickapoo Indian Sagwa brings relief in every instance. It tones up and rectifies all derangements of the stomach, liver and kidneys; above all it purifies the blood, restoring to its power to convey nourishment to all parts of the body, and enables it to dispel all poisons from the system. Note that many cases where health has attended its use.

I have been a great sufferer from chronic dyspepsia for thirteen years, and finally became so bad that I was unable to work or do any business. I am very thankful that I met the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., as they have by their Kickapoo Indian Sagwa made a new man of me. My health is again fully restored, and I can work with entire satisfaction, and deem it a duty to make this known, so that those suffering as I have may not cut Kickapoo Indian Sagwa and be benefited. I cheerfully recommend it in doing what is claimed for it. -William K. Donahue, Westcott, N. H.

There are thousands of others living today who testify to its efficacy. Remember it is not a secret, but purely a medicinal and all powerful in its effects. It is sold by all druggists and is $1.00 a bottle; 6 bottles for $5.00.

ALL MINES MAY STOP.

Trouble in the Ohio District May Extend All Over. COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28.-Secretary Patrick McFrye has addressed an open letter to the coal operators of Ohio, stating that on the result of the deliberations of the committee of operators, the miners would not work unless the peace and tranquility not only of Ohio, but perhaps of the entire country. The letter reviews the present dispute, which has continued for eight years, and points out that during that time the differential has always been adhered to. The circumstances of the long strike of 1887 and the final surrender by the miners were also reviewed, but the fact that the differential was sustained is persistently pointed out. It appears that the demoralization in the Pittsburgh district of last year continued after the general suspension was over, and when in February the miners found that fact out, a strike of twelve weeks followed, but it ended in the defeat of the miners. It is well known that during this strike the Pittsburgh operators demanded that the differential be restored. The cause of the establishment of the differential was the interstate commerce act, which made it impossible for one district to operate at a lower rate than another situated nearer the market, owing to the difference in cost of production. In self-preservation the miners insisted on this plan, and subsequent results have verified the correctness of their reasoning.

Since 1887, up to last October, the operators of the Pittsburgh district, with three exceptions, have not deducted from the miners' earnings for supplies. The condition in Ohio today is the same as in 1887. The evil was admitted by all concerned, and there could be no stability until the store evil was removed. The Pittsburgh miners agreed to work on the basis of no deductions, and in doing this the basis between the two states was not changed, as the establishment of a cash basis merely transferred the five cents. Ohio under its present condition is now paying a 90-cent rate and Pittsburgh 6 cents. Therefore the differential is still maintained.

Full Restored Her Reason. AURORA, Ill., Nov. 28.-Miss Besse Smith, a 16-year-old girl, fell on a slippery walk last night and was rendered unconscious. When consciousness returned it was found that she had sustained a serious injury to the brain by a blow on the head. She has been in the hospital for the last four months. Miss Smith has been unable to remember anything of her previous life, and has lost her memory to another person. Physicians pronounced the case hopeless. Now that she has recovered her reason, the girl remembers nothing that has occurred since her injury in July.

With the Regularity of a Shuttle. And nearly as swift, the trains of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. make their trips between Chicago and New York, weaving closer and closer day by day the many mutual interests of these great commercial centers of the United States. The line from the Van Buren St. Station, located in the heart of the business district of Chicago, and arriving at the Grand Central Station, 52nd St., New York, has the popularity of this line in point of time and convenience is readily understood. It seems almost superfluous to add that for this reason the equipment embodies all that is new and modern in the art of car building; the equipment nothing that would give one a feeling of safety, comfort and security has been overlooked. The schedule provides morning, afternoon and evening trains. Latest time table with any information desired will be promptly furnished on application. J. E. Hull, Jr., P. A., 154 E. WAS ONCE A SLAVE

JOHN MILTON CLARK INSPIRED MRS. STOWE TO WRITE "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

HIS BROTHER, LOUIS CLARK, THE ORIGINAL OF GEORGE HARRIS.

NOT A DROP OF NEGRO BLOOD. Yet He Was for Years Held in Slavery in the South.

No man in Boston has a more remarkable story than John Milton Clark, messenger of the subsidiary and bodyguard to Assistant Treasurer Joseph H. O'Neill, writes Robert Heywood in the Boston Post.

Clark has held his position since 1867 through all the changes of the administrations. But the romantic part of his history comes in the form of a letter to William H. Seward, then governor of New York.

The letter, which tells his life story, in public and in private. He was well received throughout New York City and State. He met John Jacob Astor and son in New York City, and when he visited Chicago he met Roscoe Conkling, who was then a young man just entering politics.

All this occurred in 1842 and '43. As it is thought that slave hunters were on his track he was advised to go to Boston, which he did in 1843. His brother Louis also came there.

The latter went to New York with Mr. Safford in Cambridge. This man had married a daughter of old Dr. Lyman Beecher. In that way Mrs. Stowe became acquainted with the history of these two remarkable men.

Mr. Clark and his brother dictated a book of their own, which a Rev. Mr. Lovjoy, brother of the martyr at Alton, Ill., wrote in the '40s. It sold to the extent of 15,000, and the young men made some money out of it. Mr. Clark still has one copy of this book.

Mr. Clark's brother Louis, who was on the track for the return for ten days, left on the 13th and 9 p. m., through without change of cars. J. Y. Calahan, General Agent, 111 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

Don't Fail To secure sleeping car accommodations to New York and intermediate points on the excursion train Monday, Dec. 2nd, via the Nickel Plate Road. One ticket good for the round trip, and fare for the return for ten days. Trains leave 1:30 and 9:30 p. m., through without change of cars. J. Y. Calahan, General Agent, 111 Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

Monkey Mummies. In several places in the Cape Colony and Orange Free state of South Africa, cretaceous monkey mummies, which yielded hundreds of mummified remains of a queer species of monkey, have been discovered. The mummies do it until she got at my brother and me again. My brother was the one she pumped usually, because he lived the longest of the time there at her brother-in-law's, Mr. Safford's, house in Cambridgeport.

You want to know how it came about, as he saw the look of conviction in my brother's face that had replaced the visitor's first impression of surprise and incredulity. "It was very natural," continued the old man, "because my brother was a slave, and so was my mother."

But aren't you a white man? "Yes, I am a white man. So far as I know there is not a drop of negro blood in my veins—but that's where the trouble is. My mother was a slave. I wasn't born a slave, and I said when I was a boy that I never would be a slave if I could help it. I was free, but I never freed from my father bought for me as a soldier in the revolutionary war."

Then Mr. Clark proceeded to relate his own history. He was born in the American revolution, and was captured at Valley Forge at the end of the war, and made his way out to Kentucky, which was just then being opened up to settlement. He was an old man when he married the daughter of Samuel Campbell, then a wealthy planter. John Milton Clark was born in 1820.

A year after their grandfather Campbell died. Mr. Clark's mother, his father and sister were declared slaves by the Campbell relatives, who up to the present day have been claiming the pretext that Mrs. Clark's mother had been a slave in Virginia. So this family was parcelled out as so much property among the great-grandchildren of Campbell. Mr. Clark was then a child of five years.

At first lived with Joseph Logan, and then with his father. When he was ten his father died, and he and his sister and mother were taken away to Kentucky. His mother was sold to a man named John Sherman, who had inherited the property of his father, and had inherited abolition ideas. She took pity on the white boy, who was her own child, and she sold him to a man named John Sherman, who had inherited the property of his father, and had inherited abolition ideas.
