

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

NOT MUCH PAVING

VERY FEW STREET IMPROVEMENTS LIKELY TO BE MADE THIS YEAR.

ONLY TWO ORDERS PASSED

OF ALL THE PRELIMINARY ONES SENT TO THE BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

PEOPLE WANT TO WAIT A YEAR.

Cedar, Minnesota, Robert, Wacouta, Rosabel and Part of Broadway to Remain as They Are.

The board of public works granted a hearing yesterday on the preliminary order for paving Rosabel street, from Third to Seventh street. An adverse report will be the result, as more than three-fourths of the interested property owners are opposed to the improvement, as shown by a petition bearing their signatures. Today the board will hear the property owners interested in the preliminary order for paving Broadway from Seventh street to Mississippi street. The result will probably be the same, as it is understood that 75 per cent of the property owners along the street have signed a protest against the repaving of the street this year.

Thus far, of the numerous preliminary orders for paving sent to the board of public works, only two have met with success in the board, that of paving East Fifth street from Wabasha to Wacouta, and the order, or orders, for there were two, for paving Tenth street from St. Peter to Wabasha, and Tenth street from Wabasha to Cedar street. The board of aldermen has passed the final order for paving Fifth street, but the final order for paving Tenth street from St. Peter street to Cedar was held up by the assembly committee on streets on the supposition that a protest had been filed against it, which, however, is not the case.

Judging from the present outlook, the indications are that the following streets, to be paved by the preliminary orders were passed, will not be paved this year: Cedar, Minnesota, Robert, Wacouta, Rosabel, and, perhaps, a part of Broadway. The cedar block pavement on the street, however, is in very poor condition, and the city engineer thinks that the property owners will change their minds after the snow melts and the frost comes out of the ground and reveals the rotten condition of the pavement.

It is the opinion of the board of public works that a portion of Summit avenue, from Dayton avenue to Sixth street, will be paved with asphalt this year, and that it is quite likely that Oakland avenue will be repaved from Ramsey to Summit. The pine block pavement on Third street, from Pleasant avenue up the hill to Summit, will probably be replaced with a sandstone pavement.

WOMEN AT THE FAIR.

Secretary McGinnis' Plans for Next Year Mapped Out.

Secretary McGinnis, of the Commercial club, is also superintendent of the women's department of the coming state fair. Being a bachelor, Mr. McGinnis has had an opportunity to study many different exponents of feminine talent. His attention has never been circumscribed to the idiosyncrasies of a single woman, beyond whom law, duty and religion forbade him to look. Wandering "in maiden meditation fancy free," Mr. McGinnis has viewed the beauties, the talents, and the virtues of all the winsome sex. So impartial has he become that he permits no banquet of the club to be desecrated with the rendition of that discriminating melody which intimates that the world could possibly contain but one girl for himself or any one else.

In his labors to make the next fair the greatest, from a feminine standpoint, of any since the destruction of the White City, Mr. McGinnis has found ample opportunity to broaden his genial catholicity of vision. He has started out with the determination to create a great and unusual interest among women in the coming fair. To his exhibits will be given all the space of the annex to the main building. Already, months ahead of time, Mr. McGinnis has received applications for space.

The department of fancy work will be especially complete. Not only have the usual liberal premiums been arranged for exhibits of this department, but one firm alone has agreed to give $200 towards special premiums. Every branch of woman's work will receive full and intelligent recognition.

Mr. McGinnis is going to secure, if possible, the formation in each county of committees of women who will make all local arrangements for the obtaining and forwarding of exhibits. He will open correspondence with prominent women of the state in a few days, and in that way will carry out the ideas he has already conceived for the success of his branch of the fair.

This time the best is the cheapest. The Gordon Hat, $3.50. Ready March list.

NOT A POPULAR MOVE.

Chief Clerk Opposed to Closing the Substations.

Chief of Police Clark doesn't approve of the resolution introduced by Ald. Brady at the meeting of the board of aldermen Tuesday night, which provides for the closing up of three of the police substations. He says that its effect would be to feel and that any such action would result in protests from the various sections of the city in which the stations are located. "Why, it is perfectly absurd," said the chief. "The people living in the districts where the stations are located would never tolerate their disuse, and if anything ever comes of the Brady resolution, which is not likely, you would hear such a howl go up from those unprotected districts, the like of which was never heard before. There is no city of the size of St. Paul in the country that has not a number of substations, and they are especially necessary in a city like this, covering such an immense territory."

"So far as the salaries of the policemen are concerned, I would like to see them get every cent provided, for I believe that is the only way to get them to do their duty. But I am confronted with the proposition before the conference committee that the expenses of the department had to be reduced. The committee on permanent organization, consisting of D. R. McGinnis, A. H. Hannay, Andrew Olson, J. T. Schane, N. Y. Taylor and H. Norland. The committee on permanent organization, consisting of D. R. McGinnis, Samuel E. Kellermann, H. H. Lohmann and J. Walfrid, recommended the election of the following officers: President, E. W. Randall, Ramsey county; vice president, E. J. Conroy, of Hennepin county; Robert Roberts, of Blue Earth county; recording secretary, Herman Weibel, of Winona county; enrolling secretary, N. E. Taylor, of Meeker county; executive committee, with authority to arrange for the next meeting, president, E. W. Randall, Ramsey county; C. R. Cooley, of Hennepin county; H. H. Lohmann, of Washington county; Fred Davis, of St. Louis county; H. H. Hart, of Ramsey county.

Subsequently, however, it was decided to limit the membership of the association to county commissioners, auditors and surveyors, which disqualified Messrs. Randall and Hart. C. R. Cooley, of Hennepin county, was thereupon chosen president.

This gave Hennepin the president, and one of the vice presidents. Accordingly the name of Ed J. Conroy, was withdrawn, George Allen being substituted. Mr. Conroy and Sam E. Kellermann, of Ramsey county, were elected to the vacancies in the executive committee, which was increased to nine, the following names being added: H. Norland, of Polk county; H. H. Lohmann, of Blue Earth; J. D. Schane, Traverse; M. Walsh, Winona.

There was some interesting discussion over the resolutions brought in, especially those for the taxing of mortgages and bank deposits. The subject of good roads was also gone into at length, and it was decided to invite A. B. Choate, of Minneapolis, to address the conference for twenty minutes this afternoon. It is thought that by noon the conference will have adjourned, and it accepted an invitation to visit the plant of the Gillette-Herzog Manufacturing company, in Minneapolis, this afternoon.

Today's session will be held at the Commercial club, the room at the capitol being quite chilly yesterday.

The resolutions adopted yesterday were as follows:

"It is regarded by the committee for the best interests of the state of Minnesota for the most economical and most efficient conduct of the county commissioners' permanent organization of the county commissioners of Minnesota be effected at this convention."

"Resolved, That we recommend that the laws be changed so that all personal property of individuals in the state of Minnesota paying gross earnings tax, be assessed and taxes paid at the time of assessment. There was but little discussion about the section which will be amended, and it was resolved that the tax laws and provide tax collectors for this state and to make such appropriations as may be necessary."

"We recommend that the poll tax be abolished, and the system of optional taxation enacted by the last legislature be continued as a step in the direction of better management. A supplementary resolution demonstrated the county to be best managed by the method of spending road money. The following resolution was adopted: That the proportion of road money, which is apportioned in different ways improper and wasteful, and one lawmaking body should be a discontinuance of the practice, and further resolved, that our road laws should be amended so that the water level of the county road money on township roads in the same manner, and when necessary in other amounts in other ways."

Gov. Clough being unable to be present, Attorney General Childs briefly addressed the conference. George Hazzard presented the following:

The states of Minnesota and Wisconsin acted in the matter of securing the Dallas of the St. Croix as an interstate park. This having failed, a popular movement, led by the people of the state, is being organized to consider whether or not the state should take the water level of the road money to be provided for, to co-operate with the county commissioners, town or village officers in matters pertaining to the water level of many of our beautiful lakes, to the acquiring of roads and boulevards around the same, where the water level is such as to endanger many of their beautiful features to the future."

It may not be known to your body that many of these lakes are within two counties, for instance, White Bear lake. The last legislature tried to provide by law that around this lake, but the courts have decided that certain features of the law made it special legislation. Many of our lakes in this state, being within the borders of two counties, will make it difficult for us to reach the desired end, unless there is a law passed that would apply alike to all parts of the state.

Among those present yesterday were Sam Kellermann, A. H. Hannay, E. W. Randall, Nels J. Ness, of Ramsey county; M. W. Nash, Surveyor Frank Plummer, and J. E. Egan, of Hennepin; Andrew Olson, of Washington county; A. H. Hannay, Hughes, Blue Earth; H. H. Lohmann, C. H. Browne, Washington; J. Walfrid, Chicago; William Danforth, Goodhue; J. D. Schane, Traverse; Herman Weibel, Winona; H. Morland, O. L. Halsey, Polk; C. A. Forbes, secretary Minnesota Engineers' society, St. Paul; O. H. Stark, Lyon county; N. E. Taylor, Meeker.

On the invitation of the Commercial club those in attendance at the convention held a social session at the club rooms last night. A number of speeches were made by county commissioners, auditors and members of the Commercial club, the subjects discussed mainly being good roads and the management of local affairs. Prof. Fenwick played a number of piano selections in the intervals between speeches, and at the conclusion luncheon was served.

President Yanish, of the Commercial club, presided, and in calling the meeting to order congratulated the association on its interest in local affairs. If local affairs were properly cared for, he said, state and national affairs would take care of themselves. If the people in the country looked after their schools and roads and county matters, they would find it very easy to secure good state government. People on the farm seemed to think there was antagonism between the rural districts and the cities. This was a mistake; their interests are identical.

President Clough, of the association, was called for, and said that the promotion of good feeling between the county and the city was of the utmost interest to the inhabitants. People outside the Twin Cities had a false idea of the relations of St. Paul and Minneapolis. They were supposed to be antagonistic, but this was not true. It was reported that Minneapolis wanted to secure the capitol last winter, but Mr. Ness was not the case. It just wanted to spur St. Paul on a little. It was reported that Minneapolis wanted to secure the capitol last winter, but Mr. Ness was not the case. It just wanted to spur St. Paul on a little.

Secretary McGinnis said he thought that county commissioners gave the best service of any class of officials in the country. He said that the compensation received. The limitation by law of the number of days for which they can draw compensation was wrong.

James Middleton said he was for five years a member of the board of county commissioners of Washington county, and he might seem hard on the farmers to compel them to contribute cash instead of labor toward the building of roads, but it was to their interest to do so, as it would result in a great deal better roads without the expenditure of any more labor.

A. M. Hanna, of Blue Earth county, said roads educate people, make them different individuals. A family living on a good road well traveled shows better manners than those living in the backwoods where they come in contact only with those immediately surrounding them. It brings them out into society and enlightens them.

Robert Hughes, of the same county, thought it was little use to discuss the subject of road building under the present supervision until a law to that effect was secured.

The chairman, of Polk county, said that proper attention to the selection of county commissioners. They are generally nominated at the tail end of the ticket, and but little interest is taken in choosing them. The place was given to some one who probably knew nothing about the affairs of the county at all.

Mr. Lindstrom, said that in his county, where there is no stone, it is hard to make a good road. The only way it could be done was to grade the road, twenty-six feet wide and haul gravel onto it. He did not believe in giving the county commissioners control of the money for road making. The road supervisors were making. The road supervisors were making. The road supervisors were making.

Mr. Forbes said road making was a local matter, and each section should look after its own roads. The county surveyor and the county commissioners should co-operate in the building of roads; the surveyor acting as engineer. One advantage of the organization to be made is the keeping of the better records by the county surveyors. Mr. Johnson, of St. Paul, thought the county commissioners of each county should build the main thoroughfares of the county. The trouble was that people were too much afraid of spending a few dollars on roads, whereas the returns on every dollar would exceed those on any other expenditure that could be made. He believed all money to be expended on roads should be under the direct control of the county commissioners. He quoted statistics showing the difference in cost to the farmers between moving their produce over poor and good roads.

Will Lecture at Maclester.

E. J. Hodgson will give a lecture in the college chapel at Maclester, in the evening of the subject of "Henry Ward Beecher in England." Mr. Hodgson is a native of England, and has had the good fortune of being present and hearing Mr. Beecher in his great Manchester speech. Perhaps there are not twenty-five other Americans living today who hear this greatest oratorical victory of the world has ever seen. Mr. Hodgson is a very enthusiastic on this great subject, and will not fail to make it very interesting.
