

A Great Clothing Department House.

THE PLYMOUTH

"Plymouth Corner," Seventh and Robert.

MEN'S FINE SUITS!

Our Regular $16.00 and $18.00

Qualities.

EACH.....

Positively Last Week of This Great Sale.

THE BIG TALK BEGUN

FITZ AND CORBETT FIGHT, ROUND FITZ AND CORBETT FIGHT ROUND ONE OF A VERY WINDY

LANKY BOB WILL NOT FIGHT

UNTIL THE EX-CHAMPION HAS MET AND DEFEATED CHOYNSKI AND MAHER.

JIM CALLS FITZ A COWARD.

The Australian Goes to Madison Square Gardens Where He Will Exhibit Himself.

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 22.—A press representative had a talk with Fitzsimmons about the Corbett challenge on the way in from the battle ground this morning, and this is what he had to say about it.

"I shall completely ignore that fellow Corbett. It was a thousand dollars American money to one cent Mexican coin that Pomp Jim would get in his own just as he has. I shall use about the same argument once employed by Charlie Mitchell—tell him to go get a reputation. Let him go and whip Peter Maher and Joe Choynski before he opens his head to me. Both men want to fight him, and I think either one of them can lick him. This much I shall insist upon. He must first win from Maher and Choynski before he gets into a ring with me."

"I whipped with ease the man Corbett gave the championship belt to avoid a match with him. To show how little I cared for Corbett's renunciation, I now formally renounce all claims to the belt and refuse to accept the championship. I am going to Madison Square garden for the night of Feb. 29, with a half-dozen contracts I made conditionally on winning from Maher, and then, with Julian Stender, Maher and my family, I shall return to England."

The train bearing the pugilists and their admirers returning from the battle ground arrived here at 9 o'clock. Fitzsimmons and Martin Julian took a carriage and drove to the State National bank, but found it closed, it being Washington's birthday. The bank officials were found, and they turned over to Fitzsimmons $10,000, $9,000 in currency and $1,000 in gold. The money was counted by Fitzsimmons and Julian. Assistant Cashier Russell asked if the money was all there, and, receiving an affirmative reply, took it back and handed it to M. F. McLean, with the remark:

"My part in this is to turn the money over to Mr. McLean." Mr. McLean in turn handed the money to Julian. Then Dan Stuart, who was present, asked: "Gentlemen, have I conducted this affair to please you?"

SATISFIED WITH STUART. Julian and Fitz both responded that they were entirely satisfied, and shook hands all around. Fitz then went to his lion, and to the brute explained just how he knocked out Maher. Julian gives the following to the public:

"We desire to thank the kind people of Juarez, Mexico, for the kind and courteous treatment of us during the time consumed in training for the fight just ended. We shall always bear a pleasant remembrance of the place and their charming people, from the governor down. We shall try to square ourselves honorably with the Mexican government if they think we committed any wrong.

—Martin Julian. The Maher party is here, but will probably go to Las Cruces today.

CORBETT AFTER FITZ.

SAYS HE WILL FOLLOW HIM AND MAKE HIM FIGHT.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Corbett, when shown the Associated Press dispatches announcing Fitzsimmons' refusal to fight him, simply said: "He is a big coward. I will leave it to the public to judge as to whether I am correct or not. I predicted he would not make a match with me if he won the fight with Maher, but if he goes to England, he will find me in England after him. He said after the fight was over that he would fight me in any part of the world. He is now getting out of the country as fast as possible."

CYCLE PATH TO MINNEAPOLIS.

Meeting to Consider Such a Move Called for Tuesday.

A meeting will be held at the Hotel Ryan, in St. Paul, on Tuesday evening next, that promises to be important in its results. It will be attended by an equal number of delegates from the cycle clubs of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and the object is to bring about the immediate construction of a bicycle path between the two cities. Estimates have been secured on the construction of a protected cinder path, longer distances in the opinion of the promoters of the project, and it is considered that the cost can be divided between over 20,000 riders. Every member of the cycle clubs in Minneapolis will send delegates to the meeting, and the plans to raise money for cycle paths by popular subscription is taking well with riders both here and in Minneapolis.

A. M. Peabody, of this city, and A. B. Oviatt, of Minneapolis, are two of the principal promoters of the scheme. These gentlemen are of the opinion that a popular subscription of $2 all around, if well responded to, would furnish enough money to put all the paths in the vicinity of the two towns at least in fair condition, and if this plan is successful it is only a matter of time until bicycle paths for much longer distances will be constructed, as for instance to Northfield, St. Cloud and other popular points for the terminus of road runs.

Christopher Speeding.

"Mae" Christopher, Dottie Farnsworth, Tillie Anderson, Miss Peterson and Hokenson made some remarkable time yesterday afternoon on the Minneapolis track. Miss Christopher has been reported out of condition, and not able to keep in with the procession in the coming race, but there was nothing to her style of going yesterday to indicate that such was the case. Miss Farnsworth, who has struck a gait for five miles in the practice work today that was a lesson in sprinting. Miss Anderson, who has been reported to have a good deal of difficulty in getting used to the local track. The race at the Washington rink will open on Monday and continue six days.

NEW ORLEANS Results.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 22.—Results: First race, seven furlongs—Bloomer won. Time, 1:25.4. Second race, four furlongs—St. Cloud Rollair second, Oxone third. Time, :49.3. Third race, six furlongs—Roubin won. Time, 1:14.5. Fourth race, mile and twenty furlongs—Torpain second, Favorite third. Time, 1:41.5. Fifth race, mile and twenty furlongs—Fred won. Little Tom second, San Blas third. Time, 1:43.5. Sixth race, six furlongs—Cossack won. Miss second, Imp. Marden's Pet third. Time, 1:14.4.

A man with $3.50 can get the best hat, a Gordon.

BY TWELVE POINTS

ST. PAUL WHIST TEAM BEATS THAT OF CHICAGO RATHER EASILY.

A BIG LEAD IN FIRST HALF.

LOCAL QUARTETTE PLAYED MORE LOOSELY IN THE LAST HALF.

THE VICTORY A GREAT ONE.

As the Team Sent Here by Chicago Was Probably the Best in That City.

Word was received Friday that the Chicago team would arrive in St. Paul Saturday morning to play a challenge match for the American Whist League trophy. Messrs. William Waller, W. J. Walker, J. H. Baldwin and R. L. Parsons were chosen by the Chicago club to represent it in the match, and they came prepared to wrest the championship from the St. Paul club, whose team was the same as that which won the trophy at St. Louis, Messrs. George L. Bunn, John H. Briggs, W. S. Bronson Jr. and Charles W. Picken. The Chicago team was the pick of the whist players of that city, probably the strongest four that Chicago has ever sent out to battle for a league trophy. Chicago won the Hamilton trophy in 1894 and again in 1895 at Minneapolis, and the men who played against St. Paul yesterday were the pick of the two teams that represented Chicago at Philadelphia and at Minneapolis.

In spite of all this, St. Paul won the match by a net score of 12 points, as shown in the detailed record below. This is a most creditable victory, there is no question among whist players that Chicago can furnish as strong a team as any city in the country, and, as we have said before, the team that played for Chicago yesterday was as strong as any that could be selected from that city. As at St. Louis, St. Paul won the game in the first half, being 14 tricks ahead at the end of the first twenty-four deals. In the second half, St. Paul started out with a heavy gain that practically made the winning of the match a certainty. After that the players felt justified in playing more loosely. The Chicago team was the pick of the city, and it is a great relief to know that it is not necessary to play close whist in order to win. This will in a measure account for St. Paul's drop in the second half of the match, although it is only fair to say that the Chicago team played a very strong game in the afternoon. On the first twenty-four deals, played in the forenoon, St. Paul gained 29 tricks on thirteen deals, and Chicago 6 tricks on four deals. On the second twenty-four deals, played in the afternoon, St. Paul gained 11 tricks on eight deals, and Chicago gained 13 tricks on six deals. The following schedule shows in detail the gains and losses on each deal:

Table with columns for St. Paul and Chicago, and rows for various deals (1-24) showing trick counts and net gains.

The following deal shows a loss of two tricks for Boston as the result of an original trump lead from Jack and one trump from a hand containing no strength except one established suit. This is the only case in the theory that the match was irrevocably lost for Chicago, unless a few big gains could be made by chance shots.

DEAL 17.

The Hands— North—Spades, 4, 3; hearts, Q, 8, 7; clubs, J, 8, 6, 2; diamonds, 10, 9, 8, 7. South—A, K, Q, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; hearts, J, 5; diamonds, K, 4. South—Spades, 4, 3; hearts, A, K, Q, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; diamonds, K, 4. West—Spades, 4, 3; hearts, A, K, Q, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; diamonds, K, 4. East—Spades, 4, 3; hearts, A, K, Q, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; diamonds, K, 4.

NOTES.

Trick 1—East lead of trumps has been sufficiently commented upon. South, holding the king, ten and seven, is playing on the theory that the match was irrevocably lost for Chicago, unless a few big gains could be made by chance shots.

NOTES.

Trick 1—East lead of trumps has been sufficiently commented upon. South, holding the king, ten and seven, is playing on the theory that the match was irrevocably lost for Chicago, unless a few big gains could be made by chance shots.

suit is not his best suit, but West knows that a trump strength is with the advantage, and that he can lead it and see how East will get on. He can get two tricks, as he knows East will lead spades, and he can lead spades and trump with the king to shut out West. This is a play that is hardly ever advisable, and in this case we are not sure that East is generally to use a small trump and compel the adversary to expend a trump. The play will only pay when it is important to stop a cross ruff, and when partner is found with trumps to take the place of the high one used.

West refuses to over-trump the king with his ace, holding ace, 9, 8. On the whole, we do not think this the best chance of making two tricks in trumps, as it looks as though East would be able to trump the club again. South out or force a high trump from South to make West's 9 good for a trick. West evidently thought the best chance was to lead spades, and he played it. It made no difference in the score, as East's jack of trumps would have made on a club.

Trick 8—North plays well in leading clubs to give South discards, and South plays very well in trumping the king. He should discard another diamond.

The following deal is one of the prettiest of the match, played at St. Louis. It shows a gain of three tricks for St. Paul, and a ridiculous illustration of the folly of Foster's "no lead" theory. The deal was a very fine one on the part of St. Paul, totally the discards by North at tricks 6 and 7.

DEAL 15.

The Hands— North—Spades, J, 6, 4; hearts, A, K, 8, 6, 5, 3; clubs, 10, 8; diamonds, J, 2. East—Spades, A, 8; hearts, 10; clubs, K, J, 9, 2; diamonds, A, K, 10, 8. West—Spades, K, Q, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; hearts, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; diamonds, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2. South—Spades, A, K, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; hearts, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2; diamonds, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2.

Trick 1—Of course, West's lead of ace from ace, queen, seven, five, four, three, cannot be trumped, because the king is not in the hand. East is very apt to lead the fourth best from ace and five or six in suit—always from the top. This is a very common mistake. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 2—West probably reasons that East is unblockable, and that he should lead the king. If so, one of the adversaries has no more clubs. West, for this reason, or for other reasons, leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 3—Three good diamonds are established in South's hand; he has no more clubs, and figures West for no other plays, except a lead of trumps. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 4—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 5—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 6—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 7—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 8—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 9—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 10—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 11—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 12—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 13—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 14—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 15—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 16—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 17—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 18—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 19—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 20—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 21—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 22—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 23—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 24—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 25—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 26—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 27—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 28—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 29—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 30—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 31—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 32—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 33—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 34—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 35—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 36—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 37—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 38—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 39—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 40—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 41—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 42—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 43—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 44—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

Trick 45—North draws all the trumps of the suit, and leads the king. East is not to be trusted. West misses the deuce of his suit; the adversaries are probably not well informed, because the call is not often made by St. Paul on a high-card suit opening by the adversary; hence the deuce of hearts is not trumped.

THE PLYMOUTH

"Plymouth Corner," Seventh and Robert. OUR REGULAR $3 QUALITIES.

A PAIR. Consisting of about two thousand pairs, fifty different styles, in Hair Line Cassimeres, Scotch Tweeds, Worsters and Cheviots, the best $3 Pants ever sold, for only $1.98.

SPLIT IN THE ARMY

SALVATIONISTS TORN UP BY THE RESIGNATION OF BALLINGTON BOOTH. REFUSES TO QUIT AMERICA.

AND FOR THAT REASON SEVERES HIS CONNECTION WITH THE ORGANIZATION. COL. EADIE PLACED IN COMMAND.

Both Sides to the Controversy Make a Public Statement of Their Position. THE WEDNESDAY NIGHT TOURNEY.

The ninth progressive pair tournament of the St. Paul whist and sport club ended last Wednesday night with a final score for the series of twelve games as given below:

Table with columns for names and scores, listing participants like Metcalf and Bunn, Hudson and Briggs, etc.

Metcalf and Bunn won the club championship medals. Hudson and Briggs were the special prize winners for the greater number of points scored in the series.

The second progressive pair game for ladies and gentlemen will be played Friday evening, Feb. 22, at 8 o'clock, at the club.

Wants Every Line of It. To the Editor of the Globe. I bear you intend starting a whist column, with George L. Bunn at its head.

Home Teams Captured Both Prizes—New Officers Named. Special to the Globe. FERGUS FALLS, Minn., Feb. 22.—The first annual tournament of the Red River Whist association closed here this afternoon.

Whist at FERGUS FALLS. Special to the Globe. FERGUS FALLS, Minn., Feb. 22.—The first annual tournament of the Red River Whist association closed here this afternoon.

CYCLES AND BLOOMERS. Twin City Promised a Big Display of These Most Necessary Articles.

The work of preparing the Roeller building in Minneapolis for the big cycle show will be commenced during the coming week.

THE PLYMOUTH Men's Hats for $1.50 Monday Only. Our Entire Stock of Regular $2.50 FEDORA HATS $1.50 Monday Only.