Promises for any and all things. If have not been promised anything by the Doran managers pick out what you want and go and see if you cannot secure a promise from Mr. Doran or one of his closest friends that if you will support him you can have what you ask. This may appear absurd, but if it is doubted try the plan and see how it works. Does any one suppose for a moment that the gang of heelers who are shouting the loudest for Doran are doing so for their health? Not much, it is for what there is in it for themselves, financially and prospective.

Meetings already advertised by the Zollman-Schurmeier committee will be held; but new ones are contemplated. The jig is up, and no one knows it better than Zollman, Fitzgerald and Clausen, who constitute the brains of the Republican management.

A cartoon which appeared in the Pioneer Press was the cause of much adverse comment among Republicans yesterday. The artist evidently forgot that the Bible story says when the "hoodoo" was thrown overoard the ship was saved. Dick Bell's man Friday having been summarily thrown overboard by the Democracy, the augury for a wholesale victory is most auspicious.

"James Morrow, speaking for the w ingmen," according to the Dispatch and Pioneer Press, "said that F. B. Doran never paid workmen less than $1.50 per day, believing that anything less than this sum is unjust." Mr. Morrow, as a citizen who knows not what he is talking about, is referred to the following resolution, at the request of several members of trades unions:

As eight hours had been established by law as a day's work for city laborers, perhaps Mr. Morrow will realize his mistake. A notable omission in this gentleman's speeches is that he never tells the opinion he expressed of Republican aldermen while the Democratic aldermen were standing by the firemen and policemen. George Spettel, 55 Rice street, and John Cunningham, a plumber, who did some work at the Sisters' hospital years ago for C. L. Horst, are working night and day to let peo-ple know his hidden qualities. Spettel was Horst's business partner at one time, and says he would like to see any other man but the Republican candidate elected city tre cause Horst should be allowed to attend strictly to his own business. Numerous very active and well informed citizens are hot after the scalp of Walter Boyd, a Republican candidate for constable. They are circulating pages from his record that will cost him many a vote-so many, in fact, that William Mayer, the Democratic candidate, will beat Boyd to a standstill. No better meeting has been held by party during the present campaign than the one presided over by William Foelsen Thurs-day night at Braun's hall, in the Eighth

Music will be furnished by Seibert's band, and the meeting promises to be the largest ever held in the city.

> A large Democratic meeting was held last night at Lucker's hall, in the Second ward. Harry Caldwell, as chairman, opened the meeting with some spicy remarks. Jared How showed up the record of Candidate Doran on the question of laborers' pay, and offered to go with any one to the city clerk's office and show the hour resolution in Doran's handwriting. John J. Parker next detailed the succes ful effort of the Democratic council to reduce taxation and cut down high salaries.

Dr. Ernest Schroeder exposed the shallow character of Lienau. He urged all present to remember that they were American citizens, and vote for the Democratic ticket without regard for the nationalities of the candidates.

Pierce Butler aroused the interest of the audience by his vigorous remarks. John E. Stryker, Democratic candidate for the assembly, and John L. Townley also spoke.

Some of the reasons why laboring men cannot vote for F. B. Doran, J. J. McCardy, and other Republican candidates were convincingly presented at the joint meeting of the Democratic citizens of the First and N'nth wards last night, held at 589 Mississippi street. E. J. Darragh, Cornelius Guiney and Ald. Murphy were the principal speakers. The eeting was largely attended, the majority of those present representing the Ninth ward. M. J. O'Rourke, who presided, first introduced Ald. Murphy, who made a good speech. E. J. Darragh made a stirring speech, in which he exposed the weaknesses and cowardice of the Republican platform. He referred to indorse the public library proposition. Mr. Darragh then contrasted the characters and principles of O. O. Cullen and F. B. Doran. Alluding to the $1.20 a day resolution offered by Doran while in the assembly, supported Reardon, Mr. Darragh said:

"I tried to secure a copy of that resolution today, but the Republican city clerk wouldn't Mr. Darragh denounced Reardon as a slanderer of the fair fame of the public schools, and a disgrace to the common council of St.

Paul. He was an obstructor and demoralizer. "Why do you join so many societies, Tim?" somebody once asked him. "Just to break 'em up," was the answer. And it was the Beaumont. Mr. Darragh referred to the well-known scheme to make Supt. Weber, of the Pinkerton Detective agency, chief of police in ward. Fully a thousand people listened to Jared How, John L. Townley, Pierce Butler, John S. Grode, Tom Martin, Dr. Hinsch, O. Cullen and J. E. Stryker. An overflow meeting was necessary, at which P. McHugh electing an agent of an association like the Pinkertons for their chief of police.

Reardon was shown up in all his disgusting aspects by each of the speakers, though the English language is inadequate to fully characterize his despicable and infamous tactics. Ald. Murphy drew a word-picture of the "gentleman" with the fierce and bristling beard, sitting in the council chamber and glaring over his spectacles for all the world like a chained animal. Attention was called to Reardon's practice since he has been in the assembly of taking city contracts under another man's name.

under another man's name. under another man's name.

Mr. Darragh stated that Reardon, while in the assembly, secured the contract for building an engine house in the Midway district, in the name of his foreman. Ald. Murphy sald that during the Wright administra-phy said that during the Wright administra-tion Reardon had secured the contract to build election booths, the contract price be-ing $1,250, and that he afterwards sold out the contract for $500, and the laborers who did the work were paid only $1 a day. Cornelius Guiney was the last speaker of the evening. Mr. Guiney laid stress upon the ad-mitted fact that the Citizens Democrat ticket was conceded to be the best ticket ever put was conceded to be the best ticket ever put forth. Even the Republicans confessed that nothing could be said against the ticket. Moreover, it was most acceptable to the laboring classes.

John E. Hearn presided over a crowded meeting of Fourth ward Democrats at 43 West Seventh street last evening. Enthusi-astically received addresses were made by M. E. Murray, aldermanic candidate from M. E. Murray, aldermanic candidate from the Fourth ward; Assistant City Attorney Howard, Chairman Hearn and others.

Mr. Murray commended the Democrat-Citizens' ticket and assured the voters present that if elected he would make the welfare of the ward his chief object. Mr. Howard briefly reviewed the honorable record of the Democratic party in national affairs, and showed conclusively to his auditors that if the people of St. Paul would entrust the city to the party's care for the next two years. to the party's care for the next two years they would be given an administration of which the municipality could be proud. The ticket was headed by a man of honor, ability and integrity, and was representative throughout. The voters should not only mark their own approval upon the ticket at the polls, but should see to it that every lover of good government and a clean-cut, fair-minded business administration should do likewise. Mr. Hearn went after F. B. Doran and J. J. McCardy with a zeal and effectiveness which called forth the heartlest approbation of his auditors, concluding his remarks with an ap-peal for the solid support of the Fourth ward for the entire ticket of the Democratic-Citi-

In St. Francis de Sales hall, in the Fifth ward, an intelligent and very attentive au dience gathered last night at a Democraticdience gathered last night at a Democratic-Citizens' meeting. There was a long list of speakers, including O. O. Cullen, John S. Grode, F. L. McGhee, J. J. Ryder, Norman Fetter, John H. Ives and Ed Murnane. Mr. Grode spoke in German, and he literally skinned the false hide off the Republican pretense to purity and a high standard of citizenship. He warned the German voters to be very careful when making up their ballots not to allow trivial personal differences of opinion to interfere with a fair and im-partial discharge of public duty. Mr. Cullen's record was reviewed and contrasted with that of his opponent. The Democratic candidate's public-spirited work for the city was emphasized, and every man who understood the eloquent words of the speaker Joined in most encouraging outbursts of applause.

Messrs. Cullen, McGhee, Ives, Fetter and Ryder too up separate phases of the Repubican record and tore the vell from the nega tive campaign now being waged by Doran and his managers. Mr. Ives directed special notice to Cullen's record as a citizen who has always been just and generous in his dealings with men of all nationalities, no matter what their condition in life. Mr. Ryder urged thoughtful voters to give consideration to the admitted fact that the Democratic candidate has been entirely honest -in discharging every trust the people have committed to his care.

Mr. Cullen himself spoke briefly, saying he would assume the office of mayor absolutely unpledged and free to serve the interests of the people regardless of any set of men. Judged from his long experience in public life, he was convinced the Democratic ticket was as good a one as had ever been inated in any American city. Mr. Fetter dissected the Doran-Bell combination to win by bold-faced fraud, and his talk appealed directly to the patriotism and local pride of the audience to save the fair name of St. Paul by electing the whole Cullen ticket. It was a late hour when the meeting adjourned, but the audience remained atten tive until the last word had been spoken. The spontaneous ovations which greet Mr. Cullen everywhere are the talk of the town. They are in such striking contrast to the false enthusiasm raised for Doran by paid hand-clappers who sit on the platforms and lead the applause.

The German Democratte Club of the Eighth Ward held a largely attended meeting last night at Eisenmenger's hall, University and Farrington avenues. H. A. Larson presided, and addresses were made by A. B. Ovitt, M. A. Albin, J. T. Avery, Thomas J. Mc-Dermott, Louis Betz, James McGuire and George Lendway, candidate for alderman in the Eighth ward, said yesterday he was sure the Eighth would give Cullen nearly 1,000 majority over Doran for mayor. He is confident he will carry the ward himself for alderman by a good majority. Some citizens of the ward, he said, are lukewarm on his candidacy, because they claimed he was pledged and had promised several appoint-ments in the ward, but he said this was false as he had been following the good example of Mr. Cullen, and had not made any pledges or promises to anybody. If elected, he said it would be his aim to serve the ward to the best of his ability, and that he would always be found working for the best interests of the ward first, and of the Democratic party next.

Theo. Wickersheim, of the Third ward, says he is for John Wagener for city treasurer, first, last and all the time. He also says he is a straight Republican only in national

The Republican organs are indeed to the last extremity when they are compelled to fall back on the hollow take that overtures are being made to the Scannell gang by the Democracy. Democracy has no use for fellows of the Scannell-Heil stripe, and is only lows of the Scannell-Bell stripe, and is only too glad to discover their true character before they have done any harm. Fifteen-Cent Doran was trying to work some of the Eighth ward saloons yesterday—but they are well onto him out there, as they have found out that his affection for their interests rapidly wanes after election is over; he was there a couple of years ago, and hasn't been in that vicinity since—until yesterday.

There was no lack of Democratic oratory and enthusiasm at the Democratic meeting held at the corner of Concord and Robie streets, in the Sixth ward, last night. The meeting was held in a large hall that was comfortably well filled, and the speakers comfortably well filled, and the speakers talked about local issues, not national, as the Republican "orators" are doing. The intense interest of the audience may be judged by the fact that not a dozen men left the hall from the time the meeting opened until nearly 11 o'clock when it closed.

John L. Townley, was the first speaker, and active reviews the discounter that the meeting opened.

HILL AND SHERMAN ATTACKED.

The New York Senator Replied Tartly, but Mr. Sherman Ignored the Mouthings.

WASHINGTON, May 1 .- The debate in the senate today was of a dramatic and sensational character, recalling the famous Ingalls-Voorhees contest of some years ago. Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, again brought his unique personality into the debate, his speech being the first of any length since his memorable maiden effort attacking public officials, high and low. While he spoke today the silver fork recently presented to him in the West was conspicuously displayed on his scarf. The senator used the blunt words characteristic of his utterance, arraigning the president and cabinet officers with unsparing criticism and personal invective. He also addressed himself personally to Mr. Hill and Mr. Sherman, and drew from the former sharp rejoinders, while Mr. Sherman declined to be brought into a controversy with the South Carolina senator.

Mr. Butler (Pop., N. C.) presented a making the Mexican silver dollar and the Japanese yen, each containing 3711/4 grains of pure silver, and the trade dollar full legal dollars in the United States. The naval appropriation bill was then taken the question being on the amendment of Mr. Gorman reducing the number of battleships from four, as reported, to two. Without fur ther speeches the vote was taken, resulting in the adoption of the Gorman amendment, to 27. Of the Northwest senators, those who voted to cut down the number of battleships were Nelson, Pettigrew, Roach, Kyle, Mitchell and Vilas. Mr. Davis voted against the Gorman amendment. Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.) followed with an amendment striking out all battleships, which was defeated 13 to

When Mr. Tillman took the floor he talked, indirecetly at least, on the pending bill, but soon branched off into a general denunciation, soon branched off into a general denunciation, frequently addressing himself directly to Messrs. Hill and Sherman. He denied the right of the president to issue bonds for meeting current expenses. There was no law allowing the president to "hocus poeus and bamboozle the people by doing by indirection what he would not do by direction." The South Carolina senator added he came from a state that supported and followed him, and a state that supported and followed him, and that he could place its vote where he desired. "And you can't say as much?" he asked of Mr. Hill.

Mr. Hill blandly inquired if Mr. Tillman meant to say that he could carry the great state of South Carolina into Populism. Tillman replied that he meant to say he represented his state, and could tell where i was going and how it would vote, and, turn ing to Mr. Hill, said savagely: 'And that's more than you can do. The people of South Carolina have not yet been bamboozled and Then, again addressing Mr. Hill, he declared

Then again addressing Mr. Hin, he derived sarcastically: "You represent the people; yes, I know you do; you represent the bond-holders and bankers."

After criticising the bond issues, Mr. Tillman exclaimed: "If you force this thing much further, there will be a repudiation of bonds and interest too."

"And if you can't have that," coolly suggested Mr. Hill, "I suppose you'll have blood-shed?"

shed?"
"Yes, and the blood will be on your hands," responded Mr. Tillman, his words hands," responded Mr. Tillman, his words ringing through the chamber. "I tell you we are desperate," Mr. Tillman went one. "I have been through the West and I know here the control of th how the people feel." Mr. Tillman referred to the Ohio senator question to Mr. Sherman, concerning the interests of the laboring people. "Will the sen-ator answer me that," asked Mr. Tillman, pausing in anticipation of a response, but Mr. Sherman looked directly at the South "I tell you I can see the end coming," said

Mr. Tillman. "One thing I know, there is a God in heaven and a reckoning must come. We need a purification of public life. We need a new constitutional convention to declare the people's rights and to tie the hands of the thleves who are robbing them. You are damming up the waters, but wait till there is a full head on. You people are going to see some fine grinding this year, or within the next four years.
"I expect to go to Chicago as a delegate.

I expect to go to chicago as a delegate.

I expect to try to get my party to throw off its rottenness. But if they succeed in buying a few more delegates—as I understand the aid of money and other promises conindorse Grover Cleveland and 'sound money.' I am going to take my hat and bid the senator from New York, and all like him, a long farewell. Where I'll go I don't know.

The senator declared that the Democracy was on its final trial. If it did not pronounce for silver at Chicago, it was gone forever. "We may not beat you this year," he concluded dramatically. "It would be marvelous if a disorganized mass, held today by an idea could defeat a well-disciplined, compact organization. But, so help me God, we will serve notice on you that our slogan is 'America for Americans; to hell with Britain and her Tories.' If we don't defeat you this year we will serve notice that we will interest you in 1900." With these words Mr. Tillman threw his arms up in the air with a gesture as if to say,

"I am done," and walked over and took his When the senate had regained its breath Mr. Hill, who had been taking notes, took the floor. At the outset Mr. Hill characterized Mr. Tillman's speech as "a remarkable performance," and expressed doubt as to whether he did not err in making any reply at all the head been said. He howto anything that had been said. He, how-ever, assured the senate that he should confine himself to some of the "gratuitous, uncalled for and undignified remarks" of his friend, who loved him.

Mr. Hill congratulated Mr. Tillman on his and still represents his people he will have no reason to leave the party he has served so well in the past." Proceeding, he said that it was "to the everlasting credit and rencwn" of Mr. Sherman that he had acknowledged that the recent Descent the street and sewer wages of the men on the street and sewer was a street and sewer was a sewer was a sewer was a street and sewer was a sewer was a sewer was a street and sewer was a sewer ecutive believes in taking the law into his er own hands," retorted Mr. Hill.

Mr. Hill went on to say that as "Democratic linen is being washed we better have it out," and he spoke of his associations with the administration. He differed with administration leaders. While admiring the ability of Mr. Carlisle, the senator believed Mr. Car-lisle had made a mistake, a very serious mistake, when he failed to aid Senator Blackburn, who was the Democratic caucus nominee, before the Kentucky legislature. Re plying to a remark of Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.), Mr. Hill asserted that the Populists of Kentucky could have elected Blackburn, but they peddled out their votes, first to one party, then to the other.

In answer to Mr. Hill's interrogatory as to what would keep him in the Democratic party, Mr. Tillman said, tersely: "Sixteen to one, or bust.

In the course of another passage at arms Mr. Tillman announced that the people needed a billion dollars. "We are going to have it," said he "A mere trifle," sneered Mr. Hill. "What would you do with it?" "Build battleships and coast defenses," re-plied Tillman. Put the tramp at work, set every wheel in motion and make the country again prosperous and help everybody."

Mr. Hill, in conclusion, protested against the reckless attacks on the president; the dragging in of minor pension vetoes, merely to exercise personal venom. "In my judgment, he is not a candidate for renomination," continued Mr. Hill. "The national convention will assemble in a few weeks. Let us prepare ourselves against the common enemy instead of quarreling among ourselves." Mr. Hill closed with

COMBINATION WITH SCANNELL

ONLY ONE OF THE QUESTIONABLE METHODS WHICH DORAN HAS EMPLOYED.

DISTORTED FACTS AND FIGURES,

But They Couldn't Get Back of the Records in the City Clerk's Office.

The campaign which is now drawing to & close has been conducted by the Republican managers and Doran followers in a most openly malicious and despicable manner. This style of campaigning, however, is neither new nor novel to the g. o. p., except that the managers generally keep in the background and allow the hired help to do the dirty work. This spring there has been a cooperation of the plug-uglies, gamblers, confidence men and ward heelers with the principal candidate on the Republican ticket. This ombination of talent has been on the go, at times divided, and when the occasion demanded, united, for the past three weeks. One end of the combination explains how the laws will be strictly enforced, and relates with much unction what he has done in the past for good morals and what he will do in the future, providing things come his way. The other end of the combination follows a very different method of procedure, but with the same end in view, to secure votes. With plenty of money advanced by candidates for future political honors, the managers of the Republican party have distributed the cash with a lavish hand. No money has been spared to help on the cause of reform (?), as it is called by the party organs, and those having votes or influence to exchange for cash have found a ready market at the committee rooms, in the Endicott ar-

The committee headquarters are open day and night, and a glance over the crowd which is gathered there will convince the most skeptical citizen that with such a band of "reformers" behind him the candidate for mayor is alive to the best interests of the "Nit."

For months before the opening of the cam-paign the forces which on the day of the Republican convention Capt. Castle mildly, and with considerable forethought, designated as "under current," were at work fixing things for the candidate of their choice and making his nomination a certainty. So powerful was this "under current" that two hours before the calling of the convention to order "Hon." Nels J. Ness boldly proclaimed that they had 141 votes in the convention and would be able to dictate not only the nomi-nees, but also the platform to be adopted.

How well this prophecy was fulfilled the de-tailed report of the proceedings of the con-vention will show. Not satisfied with the pomination of their candidate the wire pullers of the Republican party secretly and with date by unlawfully purchasing the nominalong farewell. Where I'll go I don't another I'll go I don't another I cannot go to Populism. Populism is only an explosion of wrath. The Populist tried too much and shattered themselves on the scheme, and the men behind the conspiracy scheme, and the men behind the conspiracy of pocket the amount expended in carrying forward what was thought would be > a winning card. The promises made by Doran and his lieutenants have been so numerous that space will not permit publication. The superintendent of the Pinkerton detective agency has been taking an active part in the campaign, and in confidential bursts of excitement and exhibitantion has announced that he knows who is to be chief of police if Doran is elected. It being suggested to him that he might not be so well informed as he thought, he offered to wager $1,000 that George War-ren (who has, it is understood, a promise for the position mentioned) could not show in the rank and file of the party did the Pinkerton agent make by his grand stand plays that for the past few days he has been kept in strict seclusion for fear that his "plugging" for Doran would make a bad ma worse.

The effort has been made by the "fool friends" of Mr. Doran to boom the Sixth warder as the friend of the laboring man. Circulars pretending to give dates of meetings in the council, on which occasions Mr. Cullen is falsely accused of voting for legisassurance that he would not join the Populist lation detrimental to the laboring man, have party. ALASKA TURNED DOWN.

Bill Providing for a Territorial Dela egate Defeated.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The house again devoted the day largely to debate on the bankruptcy bill. Several amendments were offered, but none were adopted. A bill to provide for a delegate in congress from the territory of Alaska was defeated—44-60. Mr. Scranton (Rep., Pa.) called up the bill and spoke of the development of the Alaska mining and fishing industries, and the increase of population in the last fifteen years. Its vast area rendered it proper and necessary that it should have a well-informed representative in the house. There were, he said, over 10,000 white Americans in Alaska. Mr. Perkins (Iowa) opposed the bill, urging the migratory nature of the white population and the improbability that Alaska could ever be governed even by a territorial government, certainly not for many years to come. He declared the pressure for the bill came from Alaskan corporations. At 5 o'clock the house recessed for the usual Friday night session, devoted to private pen-
