Lumber Sales Remain Small.

The best that can be said about the trade that the local manufacturers are experiencing is that there is plenty of room for improvement over the demand of the present, says the Lumberman. There has been some change in the nature of the sales that are made, but there is not much increase in the volume. Most of the early part of the year the demand was for bill stuff. Every shipment that was made was made up of a dozen or two or three items, which indicated that the bill was one that had already been sold by the retailer. There are now a large number of stock orders, but the aggregate is no larger than when the orders were of the other kind.

STILLWATER NEWS.

Balm for the Widow of J. H. Shannon—Little Progress With Drives.

In the district court yesterday the jury in the case of Mrs. J. H. Shannon vs. P. N. Peterson et al. returned a verdict for $2,000 in favor of the plaintiff, whose husband was fatally killed in a little trench on the defendant's property. In the case of Louis I. Stengard vs. James S. Burns, brought to recover about $3,000 as fees in a certain land deal, the jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

The Ravens left this port yesterday with a raft of logs for Zimmerman & Ives, Guttenberg.

John G. Nelson, surveyor general of logs and lumber for this district, has returned from Spring Brook, Wis., where he has been busy trying to start his drives, but, owing to head winds, very little progress has been made. His estimate of a large number of logs will remain in the creeks this season and will not reach the dam.

Some of the loggers and mill men here are decidedly anxious for the starting of the St. Croix boom, so that they can get logs enough to start their mills and satisfy down-river buyers, who have been in the city for several days. It is estimated that there are 300,000,000 feet of logs in Nevers' dam, but the boom company has been unable to start up because of high water.

SAINT PAUL.

PHILLIPS BROOKS' GENIUS.

Inspiring Theme of Dr. Gusauals' Lecture Last Night.

Rev. Dr. F. W. Gusauals chose for the subject of his second lecture at the House of Hope church last night "Phillips Brooks." It proved most interesting and attracted a larger audience than did his preceding discourse on the "Later Eloquence of Puritanism."

Beginning with what he termed the transcendental movement in English literature, Dr. Gusauals pointed to Charles Sumner, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Whitier, Holmes and Wendell Phillips as the results of that movement. Phillips Brooks was characterized as "that Puritan transcendentalist, that idealist of the soul." There was genuine poetry in his nature, the poetry that must live in the soul of every great orator. The lecturer increased his audience by a graphic description of the personal appearance and physical characteristics of the great preacher, and related a number of anecdotes and personal reminiscences that served to reveal the simplicity and nobility of character which Dr. Brooks was a young man he stammered so badly that his friends never dreamed that he would enter the ministry, the law or any profession requiring oratorical proficiency. But when some one asked the young man who he was going to do in life his answer was: "I am going to p-p-preach."

Dr. Brooks' first sermon was a failure, and he became so discouraged that he asked his good friend Dr. Randolph to help him. Dr. Randolph thought it over for a minute, and then answered, "Well, I believe I would try once more, Phillips."

Dr. Gusauals then Gusauals traced the growth and rise of Phillips Brooks to the eminence he had at last attained. It was when the war broke out that the people saw that he was a master of the pulpit. His sermon on the death of Lincoln was a masterpiece of profound, large-hearted and deeply appreciative of the wretched condition of the South.

In dwelling upon his personal appearance and manner, Dr. Gusauals described the features of his face as a colossal picture of manhood, possessed of a fine and magnetic personality. His intellectual life, said the lecturer, was characterized by the great principle of the Sermon on the Mount. He was not a great preacher because he was a great teacher. He believed the only way to teach was, first, by inspiration; secondly, by illumination, and lastly, by the practical application of the truth. Dr. Brooks carried great, billowing sentiments in his nature. He was no ill-tempered priest. He recognized the conditions and temptations of man and woman. He had a bad thought and abhorred a base man. "He was the noblest picture of spiritual manhood in our time," declared Dr. Gusauals.

The lecturer related several amusing anecdotes illustrating the keen sense of humor possessed by Dr. Brooks, and likewise narrated incidents showing what a large and generous heart he had for the poor and distressed. Brooks was not a man of genius, but he was a man of genius, but Brooks had genius in the grandest and noblest sense, because the genius of the universe had him.

In concluding his address, Dr. Gusauals said that Phillips Brooks to a river born in the fastnesses of the mountains, flowing down and out across the meadows, and rolling on to the broad ocean with nothing to stop or avert its swelling current.

MILLS CLOSED AGAIN.

SPECIAL TO THE GLOBE. WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., May 15.—The three strike mills which opened with new men in place of the strikers yesterday, were shut down this morning, and remained idle all day, on account of the inability of the managers to keep the newly hired employees at their posts. The strikers succeeded in persuading the organization of the men to throw up their positions. There was some talk yesterday of a sympathetic strike among the coopers, but nothing definite as to their intentions could be learned.

DUPONT TURNED OUT

THE HONORABLE GENTLEMAN FROM DELAWARE UNSEATED BY THE SENATE.

CLOSE TO THE VERY END.

MAJORITY TO DECLARE THE SEAT VACANT WAS ONLY ONE VOTE.

MR. STEWART AGAINST HIS PARTY.

His Vote Cast With Those of the Democrats and Populists Against Mr. Dupont.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—By a vote of 31 to 30 the senate determined today that Henry A. Dupont was not entitled to a seat in the senate from the state of Delaware. This closed a long and animated controversy which had become one of the most notable contests of its kind in the history of the senate. The result was in doubt up to the last moment, and this lent added interest to the final vote. There had been some question as to the direction of Mr. Stewart's vote, but it went with those of the Democrats and Populists, and was the decisive vote in declaring that Mr. Dupont was not entitled to a seat. Before taking the vote, Mr. Platt (Rep., Conn.) spoke for Mr. Dupont, and Mr. Vilas (Dem., Wis.) against. Earlier in the day Mr. Bacon (Dem., Ga.) spoke against the issue of bonds without the authority of congress. A resolution was agreed to for an inquiry by the finance committee relative to the competition of oriental products with those of this country. Resolutions were proposed by Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, for an inquiry as to treaty rights with Spain, and by Mr. Gallinger, relating to the need of additional tariff enactments.

Mr. Bacon, in his remarks, urged that congress should repeal the law under which the present bond issues were made. He said that if congress adjourned without such a repeal, then it would be justly chargeable with approving the law, as it had the power to disapprove it. As more bonds would be issued, congress would be further chargeable with approving such issues, if it failed to make them impossible. It would be a serious blow to our institutions, said Mr. Bacon, if one man, in his unbridled will, could determine the amount to which the public debt would be increased. Every such bond issue, said he, weakened the loyalty of the people, and made them more subservient to one man power. It was not for the executive to make laws or determine the amount of taxation.

Mr. Butler (Pop., N. C.) followed with a showing of gold withdrawals in recent days. He predicted as a result of these, another bond issue unless congress interposed. For this reason and to test the question Mr. Butler said he would ask to have a time set for a vote on his resolution prohibiting bond issues. He asked consent to take up the resolution tomorrow. Mr. Hill objected. Mr. Butler gave notice that he would move to consider his resolution as soon as the District of Columbia appropriation bill was passed.

The Dupont case was then taken up. Mr. Pratt (Rep., Conn.) resuming his speech begun yesterday in support of Mr. Dupont. Mr. Vilas (Dem., Wis.) summed up the arguments against Mr. Dupont's claim to a seat. He closed at 5 p. m. the hour set by the previous agreement for a final vote. The question was on Mr. Turpie's resolution declaring that Mr. Dupont was not entitled to a seat. The Turpie resolution was carried; yeas 31, nays 30, all Democrats and Populists voting for it and Republicans against it. Mr. Jones (Pop., Nev.) was paired with Mr. Wolcott (Rep., Cal.).

The Turpie resolution had been in the form of an amendment inserting the word "not" to the affirmative resolution of Mr. Mitchell (Rep., Ore.), chairman of the committee on elections, declaring Dupont elected. The resolution as amended by the Turpie resolution was then carried by the same vote as before, yeas 31, nays 30. This closed the contest, and after a brief executive session the senate adjourned.

PRIVATE PENSIONS.

Another Day Devoted to Them in the House.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The house today finished passing the private pension bills which were favorably acted on during the two special days given to their consideration. Mr. Erdman (Dem., Pa.) and Mr. Turpie (Rep., Pa.) were the sponsors of the bills as they could. Thirty-four were held up because they were not engrossed, but 106 were passed, leaving about sixty yet undeposited. At the opening of the day the House resolved itself into a committee of privilege to denounce as fabrications some newspaper reports printed five months ago to the effect that he had entered the hall of the house in an intoxicated condition, and had been carried out by colored porters. The House-Oley election case from the Sixth Virginia district was unanimously decided in favor of Mr. Oley (Dem.), the sitting member.

HARTMAN RESOLUTION.

It Is Favored by the Minnesota Delegation in Congress.

SPECIAL TO THE GLOBE. WASHINGTON, May 15.—The house committee on judiciary today had under consideration the Hartman joint resolution providing for the reorganization of the Northern Pacific railroad. No final action was taken. The members of the Minnesota delegation, as well as the members representing the states through which the line runs, have signed a petition to the judiciary committee asking that the resolution be reported in time to have it passed and become law before the end of the present session. The resolution meets with the approval of the Minnesota members, but it is understood that Congressman Tweedy desires an amendment adopted, which he believes will more safely conserve the interests of the Minnesota stockholders. According to his title the resolution is "to facilitate the reorganization of the Northern Pacific railroad company; to secure to actual settlers the right to purchase at a price not exceeding $2.50 per acre, the agricultural lands within its grant, and to prohibit the company or any successor company from giving, by consolidation sale or other corporate action, control of its railroad to any corporation, company, person or association of persons owning, operating or controlling a parallel or competing railroad."

NO BUILDING BILLS.

Kiefer's Act Will Share the Fate of the Others.

SPECIAL TO THE GLOBE. WASHINGTON, May 15.—The house committee on public buildings today decided not to make any report at this session on the twenty-two public building bills which have received the sanction of the committee. The neglected condition of the treasury and the fact that only a few weeks remain of the present session are given as reasons for not reporting the bills. Congressman Kiefer's bill to increase the limit of the cost of the St. Paul postoffice building was one of those favorably acted upon. It was numbered 10 on the list, and would have been reported favorably to the house at this session but for today's action of the committee. As it is, the St. Paul bill will have to share the fate of the twenty-one others.

SECTARIAN SCHOOLS STAND.

Senate Amendment Accepted by the House Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The conferees on the Indian appropriation bill have agreed to allow the amendment made in the senate in regard to government aid for sectarian schools to stand, but it is believed that when reported to the house the agreement will not be accepted. If not, another conference will probably be held with instructions to stand by the provisions as originally made. The senate amendment gave two years' extension to sectarian schools.

SPECIAL TO THE GLOBE. WASHINGTON, May 15.—A. M. Lawton, of St. Paul, is here as the representative of Minnesota at the meetings of the A. P. A. advisory council. He is endeavoring to learn the record of the Minnesota delegation on the various matters relating to the sectarian school question.
