MAJ. STILLWELL DECIDES TO REMAIN WITH THE SALVATION ARMY.

IS SOMEWHAT DISSATISFIED, BUT CONCLUDES TO POCKET HIS WRATH AND STICK TO HIS JOB.

REFORM PRESS ASSOCIATION. Editors Get Together and Form an Organization—General News of Minneapolis.

Division headquarters of the Salvation Army is the scene of much activity, owing to the crisis which has come into the life of the commanding officer, Maj. Stillwell. The major has for several days been placed in a very difficult position, owing to his inability to decide that his duty was, but at last he has come to a decision, which is final. As was given out a few days ago, the major's sympathies are with Ballington Booth, and for a time he thought seriously of leaving the Salvation Army and joining God's American Volunteers. However, after reasoning the matter out, he has come to the conclusion that the abuses and slights which he has had to endure in the organization with which he has been connected so many years would also have to be put up with in the other army. He is still of the opinion that Ballington Booth was harshly treated by the general, and feels that were it a matter of personal preference only he should go with the Volunteers.

"It has been a hard time for me," the major said, "those who know where my sympathies are have done a great deal of talking, and our actions have been harshly criticized, but I have made up my mind that it is best for me to stay where I am, as I have done the work so long that I know the ins and outs of it perfectly. I came to this decision alone, with no influence being brought to bear upon me. No one knows that I was undecided, consequently not a word was said to me upon the matter. I go to New York in a few days to attend a council of all the division officers, and will explain to them my objections before the meeting. They know where my heart is, and how I feel, but they also know that my first resolution is changed."

FORTY DANCES

On the Programme of the Senior Promenade.

Not since the days of the old coliseum, when the gladiators resounded with the merriest of senior promenades, has there been a more successful or better conducted "farewell to the university" event than the promenade last evening in Masonic hall. The affair was more brilliant, more interesting, and more successful than any of the kind which have preceded it. The programme was not only well planned, but the execution was of a high order. The music was of a high order, and the dancing was of a high order. The programme numbered forty dances, and the music was of a high order. The dancing was of a high order. The programme numbered forty dances, and the music was of a high order. The dancing was of a high order.

CUBA WILL CONQUER

GOMEZ CONFIDENT OF TRIUMPH OF THE CAUSE OF THE INSURGENTS.

REVOLT IN FOURTH STAGE.

DURING THE FIRST THREE BUT LITTLE ACCOMPLISHED BY THE SPANARDS.

CUBAN CAUSE GAINING GROUND.

Weyler Has Done His Worst, and Will Soon Be Followed by Another Commander.

NEW YORK, June 2.—The following letter from Gen. Maximo Gomez to Senor Estrada Palma, the Cuban delegate in this city, was given out at headquarters of the Cuban delegation today:

"There is no doubt that the revolution has successfully gone through its third period, and is now powerful all over the island. The first period was the outbreak. The second was our organization. Finally the third period is marked by the winter campaign which has just closed with no result favorable to the cause of the monarchists, in spite of their famous army of 150,000 men and their powerful implements of war throughout the country. The torch was stopped as soon as the planters were diverted from grinding. Peasant proprietors were carefully respected and their crops were not destroyed by the hordes of our horses. No Cuban family had fear of the Spanish soldiers, and our wounded were safe. But all this has changed as by magic since Spain appointed Weyler to be the pacemaker.

"Disregardful of the immense interests that he compromised, it was he who again lighted the torch by his foolish pretension of grinding against the orders of revolution, and the audience was very large, and the factories were destroyed, as also were several towns and villages of which the Spanish soldiers had taken possession to oppress and corrupt our families. Reprisal is old in warfare. Weyler's work has done the country great harm, and this is all he has done, for otherwise, the liberating army is as mighty as ever. The revolution proceeded on its triumphant course, and every day that passes we carry out a victory now for our cause, and any petty loss that we may occasionally have is of no consequence, when on the whole we triumph.

"The revolution thus enters now on its fourth period, and it is now said that Polavieja will replace him. All to no purpose. What Gen. Martinez Campos was not able to do at the beginning, no other will do now.

"The Spanish soldier is of a kind that has no enthusiasm to keep his courage up. There is no spirited soldier when his stomach is empty. The Spanish soldier must be paid, even for his vices, if he is to be of any good. Spain has no longer the money for it. I made yesterday two prisoners whom I hardly could coax to go back to their own, they seemed so willing to remain with us and share our abundant food.

MISS JULIA SCOTT STEVENSON.

by small clusters of orange blossoms. A spray of orange blossoms was worn with the tulle veil, and the bridal bouquet was of green roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Lelia Stevenson, the maid of honor, wore pale blue French muslin. Her bouquet was also of white roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Letitia Scott, Miss Jane Hardin, Miss Julia Scott and Miss Julia Hardin, wore white French muslins with fuchsia of muslin, lace-trimmed. They carried pink roses. Charles Hardin was best man, and the ushers were Woodward Longmoor and Richard Hill, of Kentucky; Carl Vrooman, of Baltimore; George Hamlin, of Boston; Capt. Brownell, United States engineers corps, and Walter Wilcox.

After the ceremony at the church, a wedding reception, lasting from half-past 8 to 10 o'clock, was given at the Normandie hotel, which had been elaborately decorated for the occasion. The attendance was very large, and included President and Mrs. Cleveland, the members of the cabinet and their ladies. A number of relatives of the young couple from Illinois and Kentucky were here. After the reception the couple left the city for Bowling Green, Ky.

ST. LOUIS LOSS.

It Will Require $2,000,000 to Re-people Public Property.

ST. LOUIS, June 2.—President McMath, of the house of delegates, believes the only feasible and practical way to secure funds with which to rebuild the city institutions is to submit to a vote of the people a proposition to increase the taxes for a period of five years. This aiding scale will gradually relieve the burden and at the same time build up all the money needed to reconstruct and repair all the buildings. To fix up the buildings will require $2,000,000. The following sums will be required: $1,000,000 for the courts and jail; $1,250,000 for repair and alteration of court house when vacated by city officers; $750,000 for repair and extension of insane asylums; two new wings, $300,000; repairs and extension of house of refuge, $200,000; new city hospital, $300,000; repair and extension of workhouse, $750,000; new city hall and surrounding, $725,000. Total, $1,851,000.

CHANGE OF PLANS.

ASHLAND, Wis., June 2.—The successful vote on bonds in Sawyer county for the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Ashland road, makes a change in the plans of the road, making necessary the building of the main line through Sawyer county and a cross line down past the Court Orleans Indian reservation, to a junction with the Soo road in Chippewa county. The road will form a junction with the Duluth, South Shore & Ashland to Chicago. The new railroad cuts through the finest timber country in Wisconsin. Over 1,000 men are now at work on the grade.

Condition of Affairs Serious at Seneca.

Fifty families are homeless and one hundred families are absolutely destitute. The sky continues gloomy and every night people, whose nerves suffered from the experience of Saturday, are kept awake by the surrounding Seneca, fearing another flood.

Kansas Democrats.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 2.—Delegates to the Democratic state convention to assemble here tomorrow are nearly all in. The fight for free silver is practically settled, the administration crowd practically conceding defeat. Ex-Senator John Martin and David Overmeyer will likely head the delegation at Chicago, although the fight of the convention will be made an overmeyer.
