HALF OF THE SUPREME COURT'S LATEST BATCH OF LEGAL OPINIONS

REVERSE THE LOWER COURT.

LIABILITY OF EMPLOYERS FOR DAMAGES IS AGAIN ELUCIDATED IN COURT.

CASE OF A CAR OF BAD BANANAS

Results in a Disagreement Between the Two Branches of the Judiciary Department.

Of the eight decisions handed down by Judge Buck, of the supreme court, yesterday, four reverse the decisions of the lower court. Among the subjects of contention adjudicated are the evidences of fraud in mortgage transactions, the liability of employers for injuries to employes, and the interpretation to be placed upon business messages. The syllabi are as follows: 1. Olson, appellant, vs. Northwestern Guaranty Loan Co., defendants. Tabatha Lapsley and Mary Hazzard, intervenors, respondents. 1. Payment of the amount due upon a mortgage to the mortgagee, by the mortgagor after the mortgage has been assigned, but without notice of the assignment, by the mortgagor, will extinguish the mortgage. Johnson v. Carpenter, 7 Minn., 176, followed. 2. Payment of a mortgage by the mortgagor to the mortgagee before maturity with the accrued interest to day of payment, is no evidence of bad faith, nor is a want of good faith to be inferred because the mortgage was not produced at the time of the payment. Judgment reversed. —Buck, J.

Gustav Martin, appellant, vs. Nella Christenson et al., defendants, John B. Arend, respondent. Plaintiff considered and held sufficient to justify the finding of the trial court. —Buck, J. Theo. Basting, as receiver of Minneapolis Times Co., respondent, vs. Northern Trust Co., appellant. Evidence considered and held sufficient to justify the finding of the trial court. —Buck, J. Mary Clarkin et al., appellants, vs. The Elvick-Bessmer Co. (a corporation) et al., respondents. Certain contractors erected a boarding camp upon mining property where they were engaged in mining, under contract with the owners of the property and by permission of the contractors. The contractors abandoned the camp and boarded the contractors' workmen. Subsequently the contractors abandoned the camp and the contractors' workmen intended and attempted to remove from the camp with their property were therein, but were delayed by reason of the severity of the winter, dangerous sickness of a member of their family and financial inability in obtaining another place. The defendant company resumed possession of the mining property and stored a large amount of dynamite in a building thereon, situated within thirty-three feet of the boarding camp, and about three weeks thereafter this dynamite, while being heated by defendants, exploded, damaging plaintiffs' personal property situated in the boarding camp. Prior to the explosion, defendants notified plaintiffs that if they remained in the boarding camp they would do so at their own risk, but gave them no notice to remove from the camp and took no steps to compel them to do so. The defendants stored the dynamite in the building about two weeks before the explosion and while the camp was still occupied by the plaintiffs. Thus under the facts appearing in this case the plaintiffs remained in possession of the boarding camp as bare licensees, and that the explosion of the dynamite, resulting from the negligence of the defendants, was caused by defendants' want of ordinary care and skill in its management. Judgment reversed. —Buck, J.

John A. Swan, respondent, vs. Adolph Munch, substituted appellant for Anna Munch, deceased, appellants, vs. Adolph Munch, et al., respondents, vs. Adolph Munch, et al., appellants, vs. Adolph Munch, et al., respondents, vs. Adolph Munch, et al., appellants, vs. Adolph Munch, et al., respondents. A wrongful entry upon land, under a claim of right, inconsistent with the title of the true owner, is a sufficiently continuous use to be adverse, although it is not constant. Rule applied in this case, and held that the building of a dam across Snake river and the continued adverse use of the dam whereby the water of the river was obstructed and thereby overflowed plaintiff's land during the months of April, May and June in each year for the purpose of silting logs for a period of fifteen years was sufficient to create an easement in plaintiffs' premises by prescription during the said three months in each year. Order reversed. —Buck, J.

John B. Cefalu et al., respondents, vs. Fitzsimmons-Derrig Company, appellant. The defendant, a Plaintiff, occupied the Duluth, ordered from the plaintiffs, wholesalers at New Orleans, a car of good bananas, which were consigned to St. Paul in care of the Duluth railway. They were shipped, received by the railway and carried to St. Paul, where they were for the first time inspected, and found not to be as ordered. Thereupon the defendant wired the plaintiffs as follows: "Car of bananas here subject to your order. Not a first-class banana in the car," and received in reply the following telegram: "The fruit will write." The defendant then took and disposed of the fruit. Held, that an acceptance or rejection of the fruit at St. Paul was waived, and the defendant is liable only for the reasonable value of the fruit. Order reversed. —Buck, J. Union Iron Works, appellant, vs. Frederick E. Everts et al., respondents. An order attached to an account directing its payment to the party named in the order and delivered to him operates as an assignment of the debt or account, although the order is not accepted by the debtor, and is valid as against a subsequent garnishment. Order affirmed. —Buck, J. Charles L. Kiewit, appellant, vs. Peter Anderson et al., respondents. 1. Homestead interests are favored by the constitution and statute and laws applicable thereto should receive a liberal construction, extending the homestead rights to all the valuable one, and an act of the legislature extending the limits of a city so as to include the homestead, while it retains all its characteristics as such will not operate to diminish the rights of the owner of the homestead thereunder, unless the act surrounding it has become urban in its character. 2. Where the homestead situated within an incorporated city is used for agricultural purposes and is surrounded wholly or partly by laid out and platted lands, rural in character, this does not affect its homestead character so long as the homestead land itself is not laid out and platted. Order affirmed. —Buck, J.

Settled With the Creditors. Judge Brill has ratified the compact made with the creditors of Robert Seeger, insolvent, by the assignee. Money on hand will pay 25 per cent on claims, and the creditors agree to take notes for 25 per cent additional, making the 50 per cent agreed on. The assignee's report cannot be obtained now given the management of the property. Question of Liens. Judge Kelly has filed a decision in the case of Josias N. Rogers, plaintiff, vs. Arthur P. Vorston and Joseph A. Vorston, partners as Yorston Bros., intervenors. The order provides that the intervenors are entitled to judgment against the plaintiff and also to possession of the personal property described in the bill, which cannot be obtained by the intervenors, be sold to satisfy a lien for $145 held by the intervenors. In case the intervenors are not satisfied with the sale, the intervenors are to have judgment against the plaintiff for the amount stated, together with disbursements. In an accompanying memorandum the court holds that under section 6,247, statutes Minn., 1894, a non-resident can obtain and hold a lien. CONVICTED OF GAMBLING. Heilbron Guilty of What Book-makers Call Weiching. Judge Orr and a jury of twelve spent the greater part of yesterday listening to the evidence and objections of the attorneys who were engaged in the trial of Julius Heilbron, charged with gambling against Heilbron was that he maintained and operated a policy shop where those who wished could put a dime or more on "spiders," "saddles," "spiders" and other well known odds to those who patronize the game. The complaining witness, A. K. Clark, testified that for two months he had been working for Heilbron writing tickets. The evidence also brought out for the fact that had Heilbron paid a ticket for $2.50, which a man named Young had wagered, he should have been paid $30 for his guess but Heilbron intimated that the drawing must have been irregular and refused to pay. Young then went to Heilbron and was given no satisfaction. He then took his ticket which was introduced as an exhibit on the trial yesterday. The case was summed up at length by Assistant City Attorney Oppenheimer for the prosecution and by the defendant, the defendant. The jury were out about a short time and returned a verdict of guilty. At the request of his attorney, sentence was not pronounced on Heilbron until July 22. The court will impose a fine of not more than $100 or ninety days or less, as in his discretion he sees fit.

Henry Dougan, one of the oldest settlers of Minnesota. Henry Dougan whose death Tuesday morning resulted from an accident the afternoon previous, was well known in this community. He was born near Newry, county Armagh, Ireland, Feb. 20, 1822, where he was brought up on his father's farm. He emigrated to Canada at the age of 21, and located in Montreal, where he was employed in a hardware store for fourteen years, when he emigrated to St. Paul, Canada, and was there engaged in the same business. His health having become impaired, he was appointed a patrolman and after his arrival in St. Paul, he was associated with W.A. Temple in the clothing business, and a programme of health demanding a more active employment, he engaged in a real estate, home renting and collecting business. Though never robust, he has always been a very active man, and his well known face and figure will be greatly missed on our streets by the older citizens. During his residence in Canada, he was an active member of the Methodist church, sometimes officiating as preacher, but soon after his arrival here, through his acquaintance with, and admiration of, Rev. Dr. Mattocks, he became connected with the Presbyterian church, and was prominently active in the work of the Young Men's Christian association. The loss of his wife two years ago, to whom he was devotedly attached, was a severe blow, which visibly affected his health and spirits. He leaves a family of four sons and five daughters.

Assembly Meets Tonight. The principal matters to be considered by the board of health at their regular meeting tonight will be the question of the continuation of the appointments of men to the police force who are over the age prescribed by law, and the resolution authorizing the erection of a separate school in the Eighth ward on the city's property at Albarne and Wayzata streets. Valuable Franchise Secured. The franchise of easy digestion—one of the most valuable in the gift of medical science—can be secured by any person who is troubled with indigestion, biliousness, or to suppress growing dyspepsia, either to maturity, bilious, rheumatic and fever and ague sufferers, persons troubled with nervousness, and the complaint should secure the health franchise by the same means.

STATE BOARD OF CORRECTIONS AND CHARITIES WOULD ABOLISH THE PERQUISITES OF STATE INSTITUTIONS.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF IMPORTANCE ARE MADE TO THE NEXT LEGISLATURE.

WORKHOUSE SENTENCES, TOO.

The Board Wants None Less Than Ten Days and Many of Them Longer.

The annual meeting of the state board of corrections and charities was held in the office of the board at the state capitol yesterday morning. There were present Hon. C. Amundson, of St. Peter, presiding, with Hon. E. S. Durnment, of St. Paul, Dr. W. W. Fellwell, of Minneapolis, Hon. C. P. Maginnis, of Duluth, Hon. J. H. Rich, of Red Wing, and Hon. J. B. Wakefield, of Blue Earth City. Governor Clough, the president of the board was unable to be present. Secretary Hart presented his quarterly report of visits to the hospitals for the insane, to the county poorhouses at Becker, Crow Wing, Cottonwood, Murray and St. Louis counties; also to the county jails of Becker, Becker, Clay, Fillmore, Goodhue, Hennepin, Kittson, Martin, Olmsted, Nobles, Polk, St. Louis and Wasecan counties; and to the lockups of Avooca, Brainerd, Hallock, Jackson, Harmony, Slayton, Windom and Worthington.

The secretary reported a marked diminution in the amount of mechanical breaststaple exports to Pennsylvania Falls hospital. In June, 1895, 10 patients spent an aggregate of 1450 hours in the "protection sheet." In June, 1896, 4 patients spent an aggregate of 280 hours. The officers of the hospital show a disposition to do every thing in their power for the benefit of their patients. The reports show a permanent increment in the poor house population as a result of the hard times. The report for June, 1896, shows a total of 469 inmates in the poor houses of the state, as against 338 on Jan. 30, 1896. The committee on jails reported as follows respecting plans for public buildings, the report being adopted in each case: Plans for the Kittson county jail to be approved as originally filed but approved as subsequently revised by the board of county commissioners. Plans for the Big Stone county jail to be approved subject to certain suggestions of the board of county commissioners were advised against, erecting the building at the present time; plans for the Stewartville lockup to be approved with qualification; plans for the Utica village lockup to be approved as originally submitted but approved as revised by the village council; plans for the Elgin lockup and the lockup at Elk River to be approved until modified by the village councils; plans for the Harmony village lockup to be approved subject to certain suggestions.

Scientists Have Proven That Bacteria Are Found in Wells. It has been a widespread popular opinion that the purity of water obtained from deep wells of the kind known as driven wells, might be depended upon. Of late, however, there has arisen a doubt of the accuracy of this belief, and a scientific investigation has now shown it to be erroneous. Examination of water from a considerable number of springs and deep wells by the bacteriologists of the Massachusetts State Board of Health has shown that bacteria are present in water taken not only from springs and open wells, but also from the deep wells of quite extraordinary depth. The results of the investigations prove that Sternberg Abbott and other high authorities were in error in believing waters from deep sources to be free from bacteria. Frankland, in his "Micro-organisms in Water," evidently had doubts, but his investigations led him to believe that deep waters are, perhaps not wholly free from micro-organisms, possessed a high degree of bacterial purity. It is difficult, says the report of the board, to find deep wells in uninhabited regions. It is plain, however, that water absolutely free from bacteria is not ordinarily to be had from even deep wells, and that many deep wells contain a numerous bacteria as are found in many surface waters.

JOHNSON AT HOME. Mayor Doran Makes a Place for Soren Sorenson. Capt. Fottgesser and Patrolman Mulcahey and Wagoner, on duty on Broadway street, were given an evening party by the mayor yesterday afternoon. Mulcahey has been a member of the force since April 1895 and while there has been a great deal of talk of his resignation, he will be forced to remain on Hoffman island until tomorrow afternoon. Gen. Johnson is not the bearer of any letters or official communications from the consular legation to the state department at Washington. He will return to his home in Virginia, as soon as possible after landing tomorrow.

MYSTERY OF NARONIC. Cleared Up by a Bottle Found at Sea. LONDON, July 15.—At the office of the White Star line this city, news received today that near Holyoke, near Birkenhead, a bottle was picked up recently, which contained the following writing on a slip of paper: "Startling news of the sinking of the ocean, Naronic Young." The steamer Naronic, one of the largest and finest freighters of the White Star line, sailed from Liverpool on February 11, 1893, for New York, and from that time to this has never been heard from.

How the Heart Beats. Medical Review. When one thing down the heart makes about 100 strokes less a minute than when one is upright. This means a saving of 600 strokes per month, or 7200 heart beats during the eight hours spent in bed. The heart pumps six ounces of blood with each beat, therefore lifts 20,000 ounces less of blood in a night of eight hours spent in bed than in a night of eight hours spent on feet. Just so much the more slowly through the veins when one is lying down, therefore one has to reach covering one's supply the warmth usually furnished by circulation.

Too Indecent for Her. "Why didn't I decline to have another ice cream soda? Why, the idea of such a thing, he would have thought I was in love with him." Even in the swirl of the new movement, when the old landmarks of propriety were one after another being swept away, the sentiment of the restituted ocean of wakened aspiration, it was not permitted woman to thus boldly disclose her heart.

Followed Instructions. "Now, Sarah, I want you to be at the corner of Farrington and Nelson avenue, and stepped in to visit a patient. One of the steeds became fractious and the driver left the carriage to fix the harness. In some way the neck yokes became separated and the team started on a run down the avenue. The driver held on for a time but was obliged to let go on his hold on the reins, the horses making the pace too swift for him. At the corner of Sixth and Summit avenue H. B. Volker and his daughter, Elizabeth, were crossing the street. Miss Volker, the father's car coming and started to turn back. Just then the team swerved and ran into the frightened couple knocking them down. Both Mr. and Miss Volker were carried into a neighboring residence and shortly afterward were taken to St. Joseph's hospital. Mr. Volker had his head sprained and was somewhat bruised. Miss Volker's injuries were much more severe and she was badly shocked. Nourishes were broken but she shook to her system was such that she was unconscious for some time. Last night she was reported as resting comfortably.

Smith Is Not Insane. John Smith, the old man who on Tuesday was ordered committed to the Rochester asylum for the insane, had his case reopened yesterday. On the presentation of new facts and evidence, County Commissioner Davis ordered his discharge from custody. Joseph Florin, a single man aged 80 years, was committed to the asylum for the insane. He is not violent, but sickness has shattered his mind.

WILL PICNIC AT THE FORT. Retail Liquor Dealers Preparing for an Outing. Four new members were enrolled in the Retail Liquor Dealers' association yesterday afternoon. The organization now has a membership of 110, and a number of applications which have not as yet been acted upon. Committees were appointed yesterday to make arrangements for the annual outing of the association, which will be held at Ft. Snelling park on August 16. Mutual aid societies are being organized and sports open to members will add to the attractions of the picnic. A member of the society speaking of the benefits to those who have joined said that none of the men who have been arrested for violating the midnight closing ordinance were members of the association.

HURT BY A RUNAWAY TEAM. H. B. Volker and His Daughter Seriously Injured. Dr. H. J. O'Brien's team ran away yesterday afternoon, and before the horses were caught two persons were run down and severely injured. The doctor had left the team in charge of a driver at the corner of Farrington and Nelson avenue, and stepped in to visit a patient. One of the steeds became fractious and the driver left the carriage to fix the harness. In some way the neck yokes became separated and the team started on a run down the avenue. GILL GOT A DRINK

OFFICER IN DISGUISE RECEIVES THE HOSPITALITY OF THE OWL CLUB.

NOW A WARRANT IS ISSUED FOR THE ARREST OF CHARLES McDERMOTT AND ANDY CALLAHAN.

CLUB IS LEGALLY ORGANIZED

And Will Make a Test of What Its Comparative Rights Are.

A warrant was issued last evening for the arrest of Andy Callahan and Charles McDermott on a charge of violating the ordinance regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors. The complaint was sworn to by Charles Gill who alleges that on the night of July 14 he purchased one-tenth of a pint of whiskey in a room on the second floor of the building, 410 Wabasha street. The trial of the case will be awaited with much interest, as it will determine whether, under the law, a club house can be conducted without rendering the persons owning the club liable. During the reform administration of Mayor Wright, the "Owl Club" was conducted on the second floor of the building at 410 Wabasha street. The club had a large number of members and was exceedingly well patronized. Other saloonkeepers who had no charter and no club made a fight against the authorities allowing the club to run but it did all the same. When Mayor Wright assumed the office of mayor in the spring of 1894 the club ceased to be patronized as extensively as formerly. The organization, however, was maintained and meetings and election of officers held at stated times as directed by the charter. Soon after Mayor Doran took his seat and gave out his midnight closing order the club took a new lease of life, and the membership again commenced to grow. To make sure of the legal standing of the organization, new articles of incorporation were filed with the secretary of state a few days ago. None but members in good standing are allowed in the club rooms and it has not been explained yet, but probably will be on the trial, how one of the millions of the law secured admission to the room. Some weeks ago one of the police officials was furnished a key by one of the officials of the club, and shortly after midnight the members who were present were surprised to see the door open and two police officers in full uniform stalk into the room. They were welcomed with effusiveness by the manager, as soon as he could regain his composure, and received the same treatment usually offered visitors at the rooms. It has been noted since that time, however, that only those who were members of the club were admitted to the room, and that they have been strictly observed, especially as to members of the police force. The complaint alleges that the license granted to sell liquors at 410 Wabasha street provides that such liquors shall be sold on the first floor of the building, and it is understood that special attention will be laid on this point. The managers of the club, however, claim that the club room is not the saloon mentioned, and that the liquors are disposed of to members the same as in other clubs in the city with more pretensions but not any more legal right than the "Owl Club." A test will therefore be made on this point, as to where the legal lines governing social organizations may be drawn. McDermott and Callahan were arrested last evening by Serg. Ross and taken to the central station. They were released shortly afterward on a telephone message from Judge Orr and will be arraigned in the police court this morning.

Special Train Carries Delegates to the Baptist Convention. A special train over the Milwaukee took the delegates from Minneapolis and St. Paul to the national E. Y. P. U. convention at Milwaukee, leaving yesterday at 2:50 p. m. This afternoon, some 200 people went on the trip which has as its object, besides participation in the affairs of the growing organization, the capture of the '98 convention for Minneapolis. Rev. J. W. Conley of St. Paul, chairman of the western states division of the order, heads the delegation. Thirty delegates from North Dakota and Minnesota to the convention, arrived in St. Paul in the morning and were entertained at breakfast and dinner at the First Baptist church by the young women of the church. The young people on the entertainment committee at the church were Miss Minnie Silver, Miss Helen Gregg, Miss Mary Randall, Miss Emma Hager and Miss Nellie Hope. The party proceeded to the convention with the Twin City delegation.

OFF FOR MILWAUKEE. Louisville Courier-Journal. The new reporter had admitted that his knowledge of newspaper work was slight. That he was a good man he showed that evening in a style peculiarly his own. He had been taking a late supper at an all-ages while he was there. Grasping at once that this was a new item, he rushed to the office. "Say," gasped he, out of breath, "there's a man trying to kill the water cure in an Australian restaurant. You'd better send a reporter over there right away."

Followed Instructions. "Now, Sarah, I want you to be at the corner of Farrington and Nelson avenue, and stepped in to visit a patient. One of the steeds became fractious and the driver left the carriage to fix the harness. In some way the neck yokes became separated and the team started on a run down the avenue. The driver held on for a time but was obliged to let go on his hold on the reins, the horses making the pace too swift for him. At the corner of Sixth and Summit avenue H. B. Volker and his daughter, Elizabeth, were crossing the street. Miss Volker, the father's car coming and started to turn back. Just then the team swerved and ran into the frightened couple knocking them down. Both Mr. and Miss Volker were carried into a neighboring residence and shortly afterward were taken to St. Joseph's hospital. Mr. Volker had his head sprained and was somewhat bruised. Miss Volker's injuries were much more severe and she was badly shocked. Nourishes were broken but she shook to her system was such that she was unconscious for some time. Last night she was reported as resting comfortably.

Special Train Carries Delegates to the Baptist Convention. A special train over the Milwaukee took the delegates from Minneapolis and St. Paul to the national E. Y. P. U. convention at Milwaukee, leaving yesterday at 2:50 p. m. This afternoon, some 200 people went on the trip which has as its object, besides participation in the affairs of the growing organization, the capture of the '98 convention for Minneapolis. Rev. J. W. Conley of St. Paul, chairman of the western states division of the order, heads the delegation. Thirty delegates from North Dakota and Minnesota to the convention, arrived in St. Paul in the morning and were entertained at breakfast and dinner at the First Baptist church by the young women of the church. The young people on the entertainment committee at the church were Miss Minnie Silver, Miss Helen Gregg, Miss Mary Randall, Miss Emma Hager and Miss Nellie Hope. The party proceeded to the convention with the Twin City delegation.

OFF FOR MILWAUKEE. Louisville Courier-Journal. The new reporter had admitted that his knowledge of newspaper work was slight. That he was a good man he showed that evening in a style peculiarly his own. He had been taking a late supper at an all-ages while he was there. Grasping at once that this was a new item, he rushed to the office. "Say," gasped he, out of breath, "there's a man trying to kill the water cure in an Australian restaurant. You'd better send a reporter over there right away."

A Gifted Genius. The new reporter had admitted that his knowledge of newspaper work was slight. That he was a good man he showed that evening in a style peculiarly his own. He had been taking a late supper at an all-ages while he was there. Grasping at once that this was a new item, he rushed to the office. "Say," gasped he, out of breath, "there's a man trying to kill the water cure in an Australian restaurant. You'd better send a reporter over there right away."

Hard Luck. Somerville Journal. Down—There's hope for me yet. Listen to this advertisement: "Wanted, young man of average intelligence. Concert evening. Sharp—There you are again! Hampered at every turn."

One at a Time. From the Los Angeles. Clara—Does your intended know that you wear false hair? Ella—"I intend breaking it gently to him. I have already owned to one."

A Lovely Occasion. First Vassar Student—"Oh! En, we've had a perfectly lovely game, and I'm all tired out." Second Vassar Student—"What was the score?" First Vassar Student—"There wasn't any. You see there was a very close contest, and the first inning, and before we got through the umpire let me get too dark to see the ball."—Puck.

Scented Danger. Somerville Journal. Farmer's Wife—I hope you are not afraid of work. Tramp (uneasily)—I ain't exactly afraid, but I always feel queer when there's anything like that about.
