APRIL, HIS WIFE AND THEIR WORLD'S FAIR GRANDDAUGHTER.

April and his wife Helene sailed on the Red Cross line steamer Sylvia from New York for their home, near Davis Inlet, Labrador, which they left four years ago to form a part of the anthropological exhibit at the World's Fair. They were domiciled in the Eskimo village. They have had varying fortune since the Chicago show closed. They traveled a part of the time with Barnum's circus. Last spring, it is said, of 1895, week, they started for home with nothing except some articles of clothing, a few utensils that they have accumulated, some trinkets, and they have picked up in their journeying, and the necessary outfit which thoughtful friends in New York provided to enable April to go to hunting when he arrived here. His outfit, however, was prepaid, and their safe conduct arranged for, not only during the voyage to St. John's, but during their stay there, as well as the expense of their return journey, from there to their home.

APPROPRIATION ASKED FOR.

Representatives of the Fall Festivals association, including Secretary Danforth, of the Commercial club, and others, called upon Mayor Pratt yesterday afternoon, and after inviting in as many aldermen as were about the hall, presented a petition asking the city council of Minneapolis to appropriate $1,000 to aid in the fall carnival. The matter will come up before the council for action.

FUNDS WILL BE FORTHCOMING.

Councilmen Favor Making the Appropriation—Street Railway's Generous Donation.

In the petition the committee says: It is estimated that 150,000 to 200,000 visitors will flock to the Twin Cities during the K. P. encampment, the state fair, the G. A. R. national encampment and our own carnival events. Let us send away this vast horde of visitors with the best impressions of the North Star city, and let us make every effort to do so, and feel that the municipality can consistently share in an extent in the matter.
