QUESTION OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Gen. Mason Will Submit a Proposition to School Board Tomorrow

Gen. Edwin C. Mason, president of the citizens' committee, issued the following last night in regard to the trouble about the Summit avenue decorations:

The executive board of the citizens' committee held a busy session at headquarters yesterday afternoon, at which all of the members were present, with the exception of A. R. McGill, who was engaged with a meeting of the committee on invitations at the state capitol.

The accommodations for the visitors to the G. A. R. encampment are coming in to the office now in a manner which is very encouraging to the committee, but a great deal of unnecessary work is thrown upon their shoulders by the failure of those to whom our visitors are asked to refer to the committee when addressed there by parties.

either the Indian mounds, on Dayton's bluff, in West St. Paul, or at White Bear lake, where they will perform their war dances, play games and generally amuse the public free of charge throughout G. A. R. week.

The invitation which will be sent out to the prominent officials of the United States, have been placed in the hands of the committee, and yesterday over 100 were mailed to state governors, congressmen, senators and individuals prominent in public life, including President and Mrs. Cleveland, and the wives of the war generals. The invitation is in leaflet form on very heavy Irish linen paper, handsome in design and artistic in effect.

Word was received yesterday from the Louisville post that it would bring a chorus of darkies to the encampment, which would offer diversion and entertainment in the form of plantation melodies and waltzes.

The ladies' reception committee has announced that no gentlemen will be received at the Thursday afternoon reception. The function will be exclusively for the women visitors, and those who have sent names of gentlemen to the committee are requested to forward the names of women instead.

The ladies' committee of the G. A. R. reports that Gen. Flower has secured from the Northern railway company the accommodation desired by the ladies of St. Anthony park. The following trains will stop as requested: Trains No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

A meeting of the citizens of the Second ward will be held at the residence of Patrick Kelly Tuesday evening to arrange for a handsome decoration of the street shall, in all respects, be restored to its original condition, and that when the poles are removed, the grass shall show no injury. Payment will not be made until the terms of the contract have been fully complied with. As president of the citizens' committee, I have ordered that this be done, and my order will be obeyed. The poles will be covered with burning and shivering, even when accompanied by their husbands. The only excuse being, that "they make more trouble." The committee will be glad to see the poles removed here in attendance at the encampment, of their order, and will be in attendance there most of the time, and it will be no more inconvenience to receive them than the men.

Maggie Jensen, a middle-aged woman, who gives her residence as 239 Lawton street, was locked up at the central station last evening, charged with the violation of the statements of Detective Bullock, of the Golden Rule, Mrs. Jensen accompanied by her husband, who was yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock. Mrs. Jensen visited the sick couple, but made no purchase. When she left the store Bullock followed and saw her get into a rig which was standing at Cedar and Eighth streets. The woman said all right, and also offered to take for the lady visitors, even when accompanied by their husbands. The only excuse being, that "they make more trouble." The committee will be glad to see the poles removed here in attendance at the encampment, of their order, and will be in attendance there most of the time, and it will be no more inconvenience to receive them than the men.

Not the least interesting gatherings of encampment week will be the reunions of corps, divisions, brigades and regiments. At each succeeding encampment the meeting of old comrades at these military schools grows more and more touching, as the ranks are thinned, and they have become one of the most characteristic features of the annual encampment. Chairman Fred Richter, of the committee to care for these reunions, has arranged for 150 of them, and the dates have now been fixed absolutely for that number.

The corps reunions will be held as follows: Thirtieth, court room No. 5, 3 to 5, Sept. 1. Wilson's cavalry, armory hall, 9 to 10, Sept. 2. Twentieth, court room No. 3, 8 to 10, Sept. 3. STATE FAIR GROUND PRESENTS A SCENE OF MARKED ACTIVITY NOWADAYS.

EXHIBITS ARE ABOUT READY AND THE MOVING IN WILL BEGIN IN EARNEST NEXT WEEK.

SOME OF THE ATTRACTIONS.

Especially Interesting Displays Are Being Arranged by Manufacturers and Other Producers.

There is a scene of much activity these days at the state fair grounds, for everything is being placed in readiness for the coming show. Exhibits this year promise to be better, finer and more numerous than ever before, and directly in line with the plans of the management to broaden the fair from state lines into a northwestern exposition, without slighting Minnesota industry and resources.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Crossley, who have charge of the department of fine arts, and Mrs. Anna Cooper, assistant superintendent of the woman's department, will be at the grounds daily, beginning tomorrow, and exhibitors may bring or send exhibits to them at any time now.

Yesterday morning the second sale of privileges took place at the grounds, and there was quite a brisk demand for the same. The management is firm, however, in its refusal to permit the entrance of fakirs, and the granting of privileges is being closely watched. The main buildings will soon begin to assume form, as the exhibitors are hard at work on their displays. The following are among those who will be represented: The St. Paul Store works will make a special display of its new stove range; also early breakfast stove ranges and flat-top heaters.

The Fargo Wire Fence company is making preparations for the erection of a deer park and other styles of fencing. This firm will show 2,000 pounds of buffalo, whose weight is guaranteed. Also a display of C. F. Potter & company, of Minneapolis, will display sanitary specialties and give practical demonstrations of the efficacy of its disinfecting appliances.

Adam Decker & company, of St. Paul, will display full lines of ranges, heating stoves and built-in hardware. The Phoenix Tobacco company, of St. Paul, will distribute samples of goods of their own manufacture. The Union Brass and Metal Manufacturing company, of St. Paul, will show sanitary specialties in polished brass, nickel and gold plated, also a full line of plumbers' finished brass goods, together with an exhibit of new material, such as copper, brass, lead, zinc, aluminum and tin alloys.

The Conover Music company, of St. Paul, will show the oldest upright piano in the state of Minnesota, as well as its own styles of organs, pianos, etc.

The Deere-Webber company, of Minneapolis, is remodeling its building at the fair grounds, which will be gorgeously decorated. Vehicles will be shown on the upper floor and farm machinery on the ground floor, with a display of general passenger automobiles, and also exhibited by this firm, one of which is being trained to trot a mile on a race track.

Hubert A. Wallraf, of St. Paul, "hard times" harness manufacturer, will make a display calculated to demonstrate how cheap work in that line can be done now—days in comparison with former years.

The Foster Robe and Tanning company, of Minneapolis, will show a full line of tanned goods in addition to an actual demonstration of its system of tanning. Many novelties will be shown, such as overcoats made from horse, sheep and calf skin so as to demonstrate to the farmers that fine goods can be made from the skins of their own domestic animals.

Several of the Northwestern states will show by means of lantern views of noted fruit farms, mountain, river and mining scenery, etc.

Geo. W. Hughes, Automatic Registry company, will show an interesting and novel display. A single specimen of ore shown in the Idaho mining exchange exhibit is valued at $10,000.

The Northwestern Asphalt & Cork Roofing Co., is putting up a model of a house, displaying different styles and coloring of roofing.

The Watrous Engine Works, of St. Paul, will have two fire engines on the grounds, fully equipped hook and ladder trucks, three hose reels and carts, water towers, etc.

The Minnesota Surveyors' and Engineers' society will display a truss bridge with approaches composed of sections of railroad and macadam pavements, as contrasted with a section of ordinary roadway. Exhibits of sewer and drainage pipe and road-making machinery will be made by several contractors. A herd of deer will be shown by a surveyor's office will be shown, as well as a series of "before and after" taking photographs, illustrating how roadways can be improved at comparatively small cost.

The Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads will make larger and more comprehensive exhibits of products raised along their lines than ever before.

County exhibits will be so full this year that a large portion of agricultural exhibits will be devoted to their exclusive display.
