

UP OVER THE CITY

THE FLAG RAISED YESTERDAY BY CITIZENS OF THE WEST SIDE.

A NATURAL BEAUTY SPOT

THE STAFF FROM WHICH THE STARRY BANNER FLOATS.

LATORS OF NO MEAN POWER

THE Part in the Exercises Which Mark the Raising of the Flag.

The benches, chairs, beneath the platform, lying on the grass, kicking up the dust, giggling, whispering and chattering, the school children of the West side assembled yesterday afternoon at 10 o'clock to enjoy and assist in a raising, which was one of the most brilliant of such occasions. From the distance came the sounds of a busy city of commerce, where rose the smoke hundreds of industries, the spires of churches and great public buildings.

The children assembled were under the direction of Prof. Congdon, and any who are to sing in the living flag corps were present, dressed in their robes of liberty, with ravishing red and white caps, on their heads. As if in support of the foreign ediction that American women will govern the country, three-fourths of the children present were girls, and a few boys were kept well in the background, while the pre-eminence of the music was high, shrill and girlish.

Seldom has a more distinguished gathering been assembled, than the raising of the flag. The music was high, shrill and girlish. Seldom has a more distinguished gathering been assembled, than the raising of the flag. The music was high, shrill and girlish. Seldom has a more distinguished gathering been assembled, than the raising of the flag. The music was high, shrill and girlish.

Major Doran spoke among other things of the great beauty of the flag which was raised, saying: "It is undoubtedly the most conspicuous flag that ever appeared in this city during its encampment."

"We have labored for two years to secure this encampment," said Capt. A. Castle. He continued facetiously: "That the ladies largely outnumber the men here is a demonstration that in course of time the women of the nation will rule."

"The ladies largely outnumber the men here is a demonstration that in course of time the women of the nation will rule. The ladies largely outnumber the men here is a demonstration that in course of time the women of the nation will rule."
