WOULD LIKE TO SEE COMMANDER HOBSON MADE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.

LINEHAN'S FRIENDS ACTIVE.

NEW HAMPSHIRE THINKS NEW YORK SHOULD BE SATISFIED WITH ONE HONOR.

WASHINGTON HAS A PHYSICIAN

Who is Willing to Serve the National Body in the Same Capacity.

Interest in the selection of the national commander was increased yesterday by the announcement that Senior Vice Commander Hobson, of Kentucky, is a candidate and is being vigorously boomed by his friends. Iowa is doing a great deal of quiet work for Gen. John A. Gliven and are trading with the Easterners who are more interested in securing the encampment for Buffalo than in electing a commander from the East. Iowa has the promised support of some of the Western states, as has also Buffalo for the encampment. J. C. Linehan, who hails from New Hampshire, has a rival in his own section in Daniel R. Ballou, of Rhode Island, department commander, and who is said to be the favorite of New York, if Gen. Meade is turned down. But Hobson, of Kentucky, is being groomed as the dark horse by several of the Western states and likewise some of the Eastern delegates, who are anxious to give the South something for the royal manner in which that section has been represented in the recent encampments.

Buffalo still holds the age in the deal for the encampment. The boomers from that city are not wasting any time and are doing some good missionary work among the Westerners who are anxious to have the commander-in-chief named from this section. Daniel H. Turner, who heads the list of pushers from the New York city, said yesterday that no stone had been or would be left unturned to capture the encampment.

"We have been virtually promised the encampment, and were assured a year ago if we got out of the way in favor of St. Paul that our claims would be given favorable consideration this year. We are here to remind the delegates of that promise, and I believe that we have the right even now to say that the encampment will be held in Buffalo in '97."

Mayor Jewett, of Buffalo, arrived in the city last evening to assist in the campaign. "We have made every arrangement to care for the encampment, even at this early date," he said. "We can show the convention that we are amply able and willing to do all that St. Paul has done—and it is a big pledge to make."

The Department of the Potomac, Washington, D. C., has unanimously decided to present to the national encampment, the name of its medical director, Dr. A. E. Johnson, for the position of surgeon general, and to use all honorable means to secure his election. Dr. A. E. Johnson enlisted in Lewisburg, Union county, Pennsylvania, where he was preparing to enter the Lewisburg university; was assigned to Company D, Fifth Pennsylvania reserves; was wounded and left on the field for dead at Chancellorsville; was taken to Liberty, Pa.; had to travel on crutches for five years after completing his education at the Columbian university, Washington, D. C. in 1889; has since been in general and active practice of his profession in said city; has served Lincoln Post as surgeon for the past four years; represented his post in the department encampment for the past six years, also

FAIR IS WIDE OPEN

Continued From Fifth Page. is examined with greater interest and by more people than that of the Northwestern Resources exhibit in the old betting ring under the grand stand. It is to the headquarters of this display that farmer and citizen alike flock to see what railroads and pioneer settlers have done for the young Western states. When they see the results of these agencies they are astonished. Fruits, grains, grasses and the richest mineral ores to be found in the world are on exhibition and the interest never flags during the stay in the building.

Minnesota, South Dakota, Idaho, Oregon and Washington are represented. The first exhibit met on entering the inclosure is that of Montana, in charge of W. H. Sutherland, of White Sulphur Springs. The display is for the most part of the agricultural products of the state and comprises 125 different varieties of wheat, oats and from the Wenatchee valley. The Wenatchee valley is comparatively new in the rating of fruit, having come to the front within the last few years. The exhibit is in charge of C. B. Livermore, of Seattle, state immigration agent, and F. E. Elmendorf, secretary Spokane board of immigration.

IN THE DAIRY BUILDING

Novel Features in Machinery and the Finished Product. One of the best exhibits in the building is that of Cornish, Green & Co., of St. Paul, who have in actual operation all of the machinery used in a fully equipped dairy. Every phase of dairymaking is shown in its practical working. There is the milk elevator, weigher, vats, separators and combination churn and butter worker with a capacity of 600 pounds and the latest process of cream ripening, showing the intermediate process from milk to butter in its entirety. Besides this and perhaps more interesting to the visitor is a working model of the most improved Minnesota dairy. The building is there, perfect in every detail, and a miniature stationary engine, a driving wheel, which, by means of belts and pulleys, supplies power to the whole plant. As in the larger display the scene is taken from the pioneer days of the cow, doing away with the worker in the choicest butter. The construction and placing of this model alone cost $500.

Another feature of this exhibit, which is in charge of F. D. Culver, of this city, is a painting of an ideal Jersey cow belonging to ex-Gov. Hoar, of Wisconsin, and is said to be worth $1,000. The Crescent Creamery display of butter is without an equal in the history of the agricultural society. Last year the company occupied but eight cases and this year it takes fourteen to accommodate its exhibit. Here is to be seen butter in all of its commercial conditions in a most beautiful and artistically wrought designs which are both artistic and unique. In a glass case is a pillar of the yellow substance, on each side of which is a different design, one of which is a Grand Army badge, another an American eagle, on a third interlocked flags and on another a scene taken from the pioneer days of Minnesota life. About the base of the column are representations of flowers, trees and animals perfectly executed. Underneath the case is a box which serves to keep the butter in a solid form.

In addition to the above the various methods of packing butter are shown, together with each section for the preservation of individual milk, where it is necessary to feed infants or invalids on the milk of a single cow. In the cheese department there are twenty-eight entries in the factory cheese class, five in dairy cheese, two in full cream Swiss, two in brick cheese and one in Gouda, making a display of unusual merit in competition, besides which there is a special exhibit by W. L. Chappell, of Fergus Falls, consisting of full cream cheddar, Young American, Sago, Pineapple and Edam, in bricks and rolls. This display was made by special request by Mr. Chappell and constitutes in itself a feature well worthy of a party, in that it represents a strictly home industry.

The De Lavar Separator company, of Elgin, Ill., has on exhibition the latest separator on the market, called the Alpha, which is in operation by steam and hand power and shows the process of skimming the milk the moment it is taken from the cow, doing away with the old time method of waiting for the cream to rise in pans. A combined churn and butter worker with a capacity of 400 pounds and a skinned milk weigher with smaller churns, whose capacities are from forty to sixty pounds, complete this exhibit, which is in charge of C. W. Schure, of St. Paul and Lake Mills, Wis., also exhibit the Alpha separator and a full line of creamery machinery, including a 400-pound churn and butter worker, automatic weigher, hand and steam churns and an improved milk sheet for use in dairies. The display is in charge of C. E. Fink, of this city, who has the services of several assistants.

large exhibit of general farm machinery in charge of P. W. Simpson, in which are also dairy equipments for home use including swinging churns, butter workers and milk testers.

Superintendent Crickmore, of the dairy building, has his department in such good shape, notwithstanding the large number of exhibitors, that the judging in the competing classes was begun yesterday. The judges at work are: G. F. Renssler, of New York; Charles Marvin, of St. Paul, and E. G. Potter, of Minneapolis.

The butter exhibit was the only one passed upon by the judges yesterday, and that only partially, as there are 153 entries, and it will take several days to award all the prizes.

CARD FOR THE VETERANS

causes many sacks of the production to be carried away by visitors.

In the exhibit of the Mankato Manufacturing company, of Mankato, Minn., is a combined churn and butter worker, the capacity of which is 250 pounds. Other smaller churns are displayed and distributed supplies.

One of the combined churns and butter workers which is attracting considerable attention is that of the Disbrow Manufacturing company, of Mankato. The churn is the largest in the hall with a capacity of 300 pounds, and its chief claim on the attention of the visitor, aside from its general excellence, is due to the fact that it is a Minnesota patent, invented and owned by Minnesota men.

for the parade at St. Paul will undoubtedly absorb the attention of many, so that Thursday will be the day when the blue uniforms and grizzled beards can be expected to predominate among the fair's visitors. On that day the national guard is to be reviewed by Gov. Clough and staff. A thousand men will be in line, and field movements will be executed. There will also be a bicycle race for G. A. R. veterans. The Pope Manufacturing company offers a high-grade wheel as a first prize, and the fair management gives as a second prize a silver-headed cane and a gold medal as a third prize.

Today's programme will be a strong one, however. There will be three races for horses. The 235 class race, which has twenty entries, will undoubtedly be hotly contested, and the half mile heats, running race, should be interesting, as well as the three-year-old pace. The Indians are to go through their form of burial service in front of the grand stand, as well as giving exhibitions of horsemanship. Col. Black gives an exhibition of trick riding and Prof. Forsman will make a balloon ascension and parachute leap. The entries for today are: 235 class, pacing; purse, $50—Trumpetone, b; Coburn Bonnet, g; Gillis, b; Lee W, g; b; Daly Esther, ch m; Hazel Rud, b m; Ann Joe, b m; Hartford Jr., br g; Antonio Maid, bl m; Roy Adrian, br g; Birch-ter; Ellen Dean, b m; Steel Colbert, gr g; Brownie, br ch; Pan 15 Maid, bl m; Mollie G; Avena S, ch m; Paddy Ryan, b g; Jim Greenley, ch g.

Texas is represented by Commander G. W. McCormick, Senior Vice R. I. Sargent, Junior Vice H. T. Rue, Adjt. Gen. James S. Steere, Delegates J. W. Ayers and H. Webb. Among the past commanders present are: Col. M. W. Mann, J. W. Parks, W. F. Postwick.

Nelson Cool, past senior vice of the Grand Army, also past commander of Missouri and past senior commander of the Royal Legion of America.

VERMONT

Another state of the mountains is Vermont. One hundred and fifty people from there arrived on a special Monday morning. They are for Buffalo for next year. Their officers in attendance are: Commander M. M. Peffer, Senior Vice D. W. Davis, Delegates C. T. S. Pierce and N. E. Brown.

HOLES IN YOUR HEALTH.

What does that mean? Suppose you are taking in money all day, and drop it into a pocket with holes; you will find yourself a loser instead of a gainer by the day's business. Same with your health. You eat and drink and sleep, yet lose instead of gain strength. There's a hole in your health. Some blood disease, probably, sapping your vitality. You can't begin, too soon, to take the great blood purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

VETS ARE AT HOME

NEW YORK. The Empire state headquarters are on the second floor of the Windsor. Nearly all the officers of the department are in attendance and those present are as follows: Commander, James S. Graham, of Rochester; senior vice, Frederick Cossum, of Auburn; junior vice, John S. Koster, of Leyden; assistant adjutant general, P. J. O'Connor, of Albany. Among the prominent members present is Secretary of State John Palmer, who was national commander in chief during 1891 and 1892. Very naturally New York as a state is pulling hard for Buffalo for the encampment next year, and they are sanguine of success. The Buffalo boomers have two rooms devoted to their interests and keep enthusiasm on top all of the time.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The Bay state has a representation of about thirty at the encampment. They are next door neighbors to New York at the Windsor. They are not a unit as to location for next year, but generally favor Buffalo. They are generally favoring Buffalo. They are cheering for the next year, and they are cheering for success. The Buffalo boomers have two rooms devoted to their interests and keep enthusiasm on top all of the time.

RHODE ISLAND.

The little state of Rhode Island has a candidate for commander-in-chief and a good crowd to urge his claims upon the delegates. Daniel W. Kitchin is the candidate and among those working for him are Commander William E. Stone; Senior Vice A. B. Capton, who is a candidate for congress; Samuel W. K. Allen; Adjt. Gen. Philip Chase. J. V. C. Allen is speaker of the house of representatives, and Robert B. Little is the present mayor of Providence.

surgeon of the Famous Old Guard of Washington, and is at present the medical director of the Department of the Potomac. Capt. J. F. Foss, of Minneapolis, who, as special aide of Rear Admiral Cyrus Sear, is in charge of the Naval Veterans' association affairs at this encampment, is a pronounced advocate of Rear Admiral Meade for the position of commander-in-chief. He said so very plainly to a reporter for the Globe. "Suppose he has only been a member of the G. A. R. six weeks. It is not service in the G. A. R. that entitles a man to recognition, but a service in the cause of his country. And that is where Dick Meade served and served well. Grant recognized the valuable assistance the navy rendered in the suppression of the rebellion, and there has been recognition of it, rarely in some cases from every quarter except the Grand Army. The rebellion would never have been suppressed by the land forces alone. So we think we are entitled to be finally recognized, thirty years after the close of the war, the election of an officer of our branch of the service to the position of commander-in-chief."
