

Cramps, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Diarrhoea, and all complaints prevalent in the Summer, are quickly cured with

RAN KILLER
This good old remedy, if kept in the house, will save many sleepless nights, many dollars in doctor's bills, and no end of suffering. Price 25 and 50 cents a bottle.

MINNEAPOLIS.
OFFICE 29 SOUTH FOURTH STREET.

MINNEAPOLIS GLOBE.

William Phelps has petitioned the probate court for letters of administration in the estate of Mrs. Thayer, who leaves $50,000 in Lake Minnetonka property to four heirs.

Beginning yesterday morning, the Interurban and Third Street street cars were to establish training quarters for the football team in the basement of the new armory. The road and bridge committee of the board of county commissioners was at Excelsior Thursday, considering the proposition to build a bridge across from Excelsior to Solberg's point. Acting County Surveyor Dahl has been ordered to prepare plans for the proposed improvement.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the state university, the management of the athletic association was given permission to establish training quarters for the football team in the basement of the new armory. The road and bridge committee of the board of county commissioners was at Excelsior Thursday, considering the proposition to build a bridge across from Excelsior to Solberg's point. Acting County Surveyor Dahl has been ordered to prepare plans for the proposed improvement.

RED MEN DISAPPEAR.
Great Sun Council Fires Are Extinguished.

The council fires of the Red Men are extinguished, and the great sun council wigwam is deserted, the convention having completed its business last night and adjourned for the next year in Philadelphia. Resolutions were adopted during the morning's session expressing great satisfaction with the meeting in Minneapolis, and thanking Gov. Clough and Mayor Pratt for their kind attention. The press of the city was remembered, while the members of the tribes in the audience, the ladies of the degree of Pocahontas were heartily thanked for the attention they bestowed upon the comfort and welfare of the visitors.

MINNESOTA Y. P. S. C. E.
State Convention in Minneapolis Will Be a Big Gathering.

The state convention of the Minnesota Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor will be held in this city Oct. 22-25. Arrangements for the convention are progressing rapidly, and the executive committee of sixty-six which has been chosen from the various societies of this city, and is composed of the following: J. H. Johnson, president; D. R. Meade, secretary; D. R. Meade, treasurer. The first and second vice presidents were elected as follows: J. B. Johnson, Minneapolis, and M. W. Burke, St. Paul. The first and second vice presidents were elected as follows: J. B. Johnson, Minneapolis, and M. W. Burke, St. Paul.

TO MEET IN CHICAGO.
Traveling Engineers Adjourn Their Meeting.

The Traveling Engineers completed their labors yesterday and adjourned until the morning meeting of the officers and the naming of the officers of the year. The committee of sixty-six which has been chosen from the various societies of this city, and is composed of the following: J. H. Johnson, president; D. R. Meade, secretary; D. R. Meade, treasurer.

A TERRIBLE SIGHT.
Case of Criminal Carelessness Discovered Yesterday.

Peter and Christine Jackson, husband and wife, were arrested yesterday and locked up in the central station on a warrant sworn out by Agent William Cheney, of the humane society, charging them with willful neglect of their children. The arrest of the couple uncovers an alleged case of unusual cruelty and neglect. The children, a boy three years of age, and Mary, a puzy little girl but two months old, the father man who patrols the neighborhood states that for two years the couple have done little toward supporting their children, and that they are in an almost continual state of intoxication.

Divorce Mill Grinds.
Judge Belden started the divorce mill in his court yesterday and severed the nuptial bonds of several unhappy people.

John M. Johnson was granted a decree from H. E. Johnson and for grounds of desertion, the evidence being corroborated by Mrs. Florence Vincent, Danforth Ellingrove and E. J. McMahon. Amelia T. Reineke was divorced from Frederick W. Reineke, the charge being cruelty and desertion. Sarah Thibadeau secured a decree from Reineke Thibadeau for grounds of desertion and J. C. Young telling that they were about to be divorced. Ernest L. Martin secured a divorce from Sarah Allen Martin on the ground of desertion. Benjamin Scott and Maggie T. Marsh were able to give corroborative evidence. Emily Miller was separated from Frank C. Miller on the desertion theory. Catherine Stewart and Lydia Miller telling the circumstances as they knew them. Harle D. Rheault told how Alexander Rheault deserted her and their five children, and she secured a decree of divorce.

HILL MAY BUILD IT

COUNCIL ENDS THE OBSTRUCTION TO REPLACING ELEVATOR NO. 2.

FIRE LIMITS NOT EXTENDED.

ROUTINE REPORT OF THE COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS-ENGINEERS ADJOURN.

WORK OF THE RED MEN ENDED.

A Day's Political Developments-General News of Minneapolis.

The city council, at their meeting last night, by an almost unanimous vote, gave Samuel Hill permission to rebuild elevator A 2, on the ground occupied by it previous to its destruction by fire. The matter came up in the report of the committee to which had been referred the amendment to the original fire limit ordinance, which amendment asked that the limits be so extended as to include the elevator property. The report of the committee recommended that the ordinance as amended be passed, and the report was adopted. There has been considerable controversy in regard to this matter since it was announced that the elevator would be rebuilt. The residents of the Fourth ward, living in the vicinity of the burned elevator, presented to the mayor a petition asking that a permit be not given for its reconstruction. This petition was a little late, however, as a permit had already been issued to Samuel Hill. The mayor thereupon cancelled the permit pending the action of the council at last night's meeting, which action now finally settles the matter, and the elevator will undoubtedly be rebuilt.

A communication was read from Mayor Pratt, enclosing one from Secretary Danforth of the carnival association, asking the city to appropriate $500 for the purpose of purchasing 5,000 copies of Leslie's Monthly for October, which issue will contain a description of Minneapolis. The matter was referred to the committee on ways and means.

A proposal from Henry L. Hill to sell the city, for the purpose of erecting an engine house, lots 13 and 14 in block 2, Floyd's addition, for $3,200 was referred to the ways and means committee. The estimates of Comptroller W. G. Nye, of $100,000 for 1897, on motion, were submitted to a special committee to be composed of one from each ward, and the full ways and means committee.

A petition from several local horsemen was presented asking that a street be set aside during the winter for the purpose of racing and fast driving, and complaining that the Lake of Isles was too far from the city. On motion of Jay Phillips the president has instructed to appoint a committee of three, whose duty it would be to look into the matter and if possible find a street that could be used for such a purpose.

The request of the board of regents of the university, asking that a part of Arlington street be vacated and the third degree was granted, it being revertible to the state, was granted.

On motion the city engineer was authorized to advertise for iron water pipes for mains that have been ordered for 1897.

The city engineer was instructed to execute the contract for the purchase of the Peninsula Car company, of Detroit, for furnishing 800 tons of forty-two inch, and seventy-three tons of twelve inch, cast iron water pipe for the reservoir at $18.35 a ton. The Ald. Andrews introduced a resolution asking that $75,000 be appropriated for the water works fund for the purpose of continuing the construction of a reservoir and filter plant, and making necessary improvements in connection therewith. The resolution was adopted.

The old Joseph Stanchfield claim for injuries received by being run over by a street car, was referred to the fire department committee with instructions to report at the next meeting.

ALL NOT GUILTY.
Prisoners in Districts Courts See No Use for Trials.

Judge Smith presided over a number of arraignments in the district court yesterday, Robert Conna, charged with grand larceny in the second degree, being the first one called. He pleaded not guilty, and the matter was continued until Monday to be set. A second indictment charging burglary in the third degree was read and a plea of not guilty entered. Michael Smith pleaded not guilty to a charge of petit larceny, and his case will be set Monday. Harry Green, charged with burglary in the second degree, pleaded not guilty. William Tado, accused of assault in the first degree, pleaded not guilty, and Eugene Hordson, accused of grand larceny in the second degree, said he was not guilty. All the accused persons will be arraigned on Monday, after a second hearing, when an opportunity will be given for a change of pleas, and when the cases will be set. All those arraigned are in jail, held to await the action of the grand jury, and all have to have attorneys appointed to try their cases. The call of bonds was made for those held to await the action of the grand jury, but so few answered, the order was made for them to appear Monday morning and answer to their names.

No Color Line in Scottish Rites.
At a recent meeting of the Supreme Council of the Accepted Scottish Rite Masons of the thirty-third degree of the state of Louisiana, it was decided to officially recognize

ON TOWARD DONGOLA

ENGLAND MASSING TROOPS IN EGYPT PREPARATORY TO A GENERAL ADVANCE.

OPEN WAR NOW IN SIGHT.

BRITISH LEADERS AND MEN EAGER FOR THE OPENING OF HOSTILITIES.

DERVISHES SLOWLY DRIVEN BACK PREPARED TO RESIST THE ADVANCE AND TO MAKE IT COSTLY FOR THE ENGLISH EXPEDITION.

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 11.—Dispatches just received from the front say that the North Staffordshire regiment, numbering about 900 men, arrived at Koshah camp, the southernmost fortified post on the Nile, yesterday, and will be pushed forward to Ahsarrat today. The British brigade has reached Ahsarrat safely and the main body of cavalry is arriving there.

The cavalry scouts report the dervishes still in view, south of Duglo, but the enemy retreats at the slightest sign of a forward movement. The Anglo-Egyptian scouts, feeling the way for the advance guard, are steadily pushing southward, and the next day occupied the high ground on the right bank of the Nile. The troops, black and white, are full of enthusiasm and anxious for a brush with the enemy. The weather is hot in the extreme, but the soldiers are benefitting from being on the move.

All transport takes part in the expedition are now on the march toward Dongola. Duglo, hitherto held by a small force of cavalry, is being fortified, and the string of depots connecting the expedition with Wady Halfa, the real base of supplies.

The operations began in March last, when troops hurried up the Nile to Wady Halfa, being fortified and sent, although the railroad ran to Savras, about forty miles south from Wady Halfa. Since that time the railroad, under the direction of H. Kitchener, has tended to Akashah, fifty miles from the latter place to Koshah and thence to Ahsarrat, about 75 miles.

The force of the campaign, over 4,000 men, in every way fully equipped, were moved southward, in spite of the great difficulties of the desert. The British force, of 15,000 men, not including natives employed in transport service are moving south with a flotilla of about fifty gunboats, and a number of other boats and barges, loaded with supplies, ammunition, etc.

The fleet will keep up constant communication with Ahsarrat, now the base from which the army is operating. At care of the wounded and sick have been established. The sirdar, or commander of the Anglo-Egyptian expedition, Lord Herbert Kitchener, has done nothing to promote the success of the campaign against the dervishes.

Each gun boat carries a twelve pounder Maxim gun, and the boats are discharged a shot every three seconds mounted forward on an armored citadel deck. Amidships there is a conning tower with a search light, and other lighter Maxim guns from 7 to 20 feet above the waterline and the armament of the gunboats is completed with six inch and six pounder Maxim guns, some of the larger gunboats carry 24 pounder Armstrongs, capable of delivering a very effective fire at long range.

The hulls of the gunboats are constructed in sections, enabling them to be taken apart and put together again in a short time. The gunboats are on board stand in the shallow hull, well protected by the hatches, which are capable of being folded and raised, and the gunboats are in the present campaign. Hicks disregarded the recommendation, and persisted with his entreaty to "keep close to the Nile," is to be closely followed in the present campaign. Hicks disregarded the recommendation, and persisted with his entreaty to "keep close to the Nile," is to be closely followed in the present campaign.

The British troops taking part, in one way or the other in the operations are drawn from the North Staffordshire regiment, the Surrey regiment, the Gloucester regiment and the Connaught Rangers, the Second dragoons, Royal artillery and Royal engineers, not counting the detachments of the sirdar's own troops. The general, upon whom the khalfia relies to defeat the dervishes, is the gallant and brave Osman Digna, a thoroughly brave and able warrior, who was the great Mahdi's most trusted lieutenant, and who was with the latter in all his campaigns. He has been almost constantly in the saddle for about 12 years and is a commander thoroughly respected by the British. The number of the khalfia's followers is not known, and cannot be accurately estimated; it is variously placed at 40,000 to 100,000 men.

The report received from Koshah today, says that the British force, consisting of the remainder of the North Staffordshire regiment, arrived yesterday. The sirdar's headquarters are at Koshah, and the staff, will start from Koshah tomorrow.

ON TOWARD DONGOLA

ENGLAND MASSING TROOPS IN EGYPT PREPARATORY TO A GENERAL ADVANCE.

OPEN WAR NOW IN SIGHT.

BRITISH LEADERS AND MEN EAGER FOR THE OPENING OF HOSTILITIES.

DERVISHES SLOWLY DRIVEN BACK PREPARED TO RESIST THE ADVANCE AND TO MAKE IT COSTLY FOR THE ENGLISH EXPEDITION.

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 11.—Dispatches just received from the front say that the North Staffordshire regiment, numbering about 900 men, arrived at Koshah camp, the southernmost fortified post on the Nile, yesterday, and will be pushed forward to Ahsarrat today. The British brigade has reached Ahsarrat safely and the main body of cavalry is arriving there.

The cavalry scouts report the dervishes still in view, south of Duglo, but the enemy retreats at the slightest sign of a forward movement. The Anglo-Egyptian scouts, feeling the way for the advance guard, are steadily pushing southward, and the next day occupied the high ground on the right bank of the Nile. The troops, black and white, are full of enthusiasm and anxious for a brush with the enemy. The weather is hot in the extreme, but the soldiers are benefitting from being on the move.

All transport takes part in the expedition are now on the march toward Dongola. Duglo, hitherto held by a small force of cavalry, is being fortified, and the string of depots connecting the expedition with Wady Halfa, the real base of supplies.

The operations began in March last, when troops hurried up the Nile to Wady Halfa, being fortified and sent, although the railroad ran to Savras, about forty miles south from Wady Halfa. Since that time the railroad, under the direction of H. Kitchener, has tended to Akashah, fifty miles from the latter place to Koshah and thence to Ahsarrat, about 75 miles.

The force of the campaign, over 4,000 men, in every way fully equipped, were moved southward, in spite of the great difficulties of the desert. The British force, of 15,000 men, not including natives employed in transport service are moving south with a flotilla of about fifty gunboats, and a number of other boats and barges, loaded with supplies, ammunition, etc.

The fleet will keep up constant communication with Ahsarrat, now the base from which the army is operating. At care of the wounded and sick have been established. The sirdar, or commander of the Anglo-Egyptian expedition, Lord Herbert Kitchener, has done nothing to promote the success of the campaign against the dervishes.

Each gun boat carries a twelve pounder Maxim gun, and the boats are discharged a shot every three seconds mounted forward on an armored citadel deck. Amidships there is a conning tower with a search light, and other lighter Maxim guns from 7 to 20 feet above the waterline and the armament of the gunboats is completed with six inch and six pounder Maxim guns, some of the larger gunboats carry 24 pounder Armstrongs, capable of delivering a very effective fire at long range.

The hulls of the gunboats are constructed in sections, enabling them to be taken apart and put together again in a short time. The gunboats are on board stand in the shallow hull, well protected by the hatches, which are capable of being folded and raised, and the gunboats are in the present campaign. Hicks disregarded the recommendation, and persisted with his entreaty to "keep close to the Nile," is to be closely followed in the present campaign.

The British troops taking part, in one way or the other in the operations are drawn from the North Staffordshire regiment, the Surrey regiment, the Gloucester regiment and the Connaught Rangers, the Second dragoons, Royal artillery and Royal engineers, not counting the detachments of the sirdar's own troops. The general, upon whom the khalfia relies to defeat the dervishes, is the gallant and brave Osman Digna, a thoroughly brave and able warrior, who was the great Mahdi's most trusted lieutenant, and who was with the latter in all his campaigns. He has been almost constantly in the saddle for about 12 years and is a commander thoroughly respected by the British. The number of the khalfia's followers is not known, and cannot be accurately estimated; it is variously placed at 40,000 to 100,000 men.

The report received from Koshah today, says that the British force, consisting of the remainder of the North Staffordshire regiment, arrived yesterday. The sirdar's headquarters are at Koshah, and the staff, will start from Koshah tomorrow.

ON TOWARD DONGOLA

ENGLAND MASSING TROOPS IN EGYPT PREPARATORY TO A GENERAL ADVANCE.

OPEN WAR NOW IN SIGHT.

BRITISH LEADERS AND MEN EAGER FOR THE OPENING OF HOSTILITIES.

DERVISHES SLOWLY DRIVEN BACK PREPARED TO RESIST THE ADVANCE AND TO MAKE IT COSTLY FOR THE ENGLISH EXPEDITION.

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 11.—Dispatches just received from the front say that the North Staffordshire regiment, numbering about 900 men, arrived at Koshah camp, the southernmost fortified post on the Nile, yesterday, and will be pushed forward to Ahsarrat today. The British brigade has reached Ahsarrat safely and the main body of cavalry is arriving there.

The cavalry scouts report the dervishes still in view, south of Duglo, but the enemy retreats at the slightest sign of a forward movement. The Anglo-Egyptian scouts, feeling the way for the advance guard, are steadily pushing southward, and the next day occupied the high ground on the right bank of the Nile. The troops, black and white, are full of enthusiasm and anxious for a brush with the enemy. The weather is hot in the extreme, but the soldiers are benefitting from being on the move.

All transport takes part in the expedition are now on the march toward Dongola. Duglo, hitherto held by a small force of cavalry, is being fortified, and the string of depots connecting the expedition with Wady Halfa, the real base of supplies.

The operations began in March last, when troops hurried up the Nile to Wady Halfa, being fortified and sent, although the railroad ran to Savras, about forty miles south from Wady Halfa. Since that time the railroad, under the direction of H. Kitchener, has tended to Akashah, fifty miles from the latter place to Koshah and thence to Ahsarrat, about 75 miles.

The force of the campaign, over 4,000 men, in every way fully equipped, were moved southward, in spite of the great difficulties of the desert. The British force, of 15,000 men, not including natives employed in transport service are moving south with a flotilla of about fifty gunboats, and a number of other boats and barges, loaded with supplies, ammunition, etc.

The fleet will keep up constant communication with Ahsarrat, now the base from which the army is operating. At care of the wounded and sick have been established. The sirdar, or commander of the Anglo-Egyptian expedition, Lord Herbert Kitchener, has done nothing to promote the success of the campaign against the dervishes.

Each gun boat carries a twelve pounder Maxim gun, and the boats are discharged a shot every three seconds mounted forward on an armored citadel deck. Amidships there is a conning tower with a search light, and other lighter Maxim guns from 7 to 20 feet above the waterline and the armament of the gunboats is completed with six inch and six pounder Maxim guns, some of the larger gunboats carry 24 pounder Armstrongs, capable of delivering a very effective fire at long range.

The hulls of the gunboats are constructed in sections, enabling them to be taken apart and put together again in a short time. The gunboats are on board stand in the shallow hull, well protected by the hatches, which are capable of being folded and raised, and the gunboats are in the present campaign. Hicks disregarded the recommendation, and persisted with his entreaty to "keep close to the Nile," is to be closely followed in the present campaign.

The British troops taking part, in one way or the other in the operations are drawn from the North Staffordshire regiment, the Surrey regiment, the Gloucester regiment and the Connaught Rangers, the Second dragoons, Royal artillery and Royal engineers, not counting the detachments of the sirdar's own troops. The general, upon whom the khalfia relies to defeat the dervishes, is the gallant and brave Osman Digna, a thoroughly brave and able warrior, who was the great Mahdi's most trusted lieutenant, and who was with the latter in all his campaigns. He has been almost constantly in the saddle for about 12 years and is a commander thoroughly respected by the British. The number of the khalfia's followers is not known, and cannot be accurately estimated; it is variously placed at 40,000 to 100,000 men.

The report received from Koshah today, says that the British force, consisting of the remainder of the North Staffordshire regiment, arrived yesterday. The sirdar's headquarters are at Koshah, and the staff, will start from Koshah tomorrow.

ON TOWARD DONGOLA

ENGLAND MASSING TROOPS IN EGYPT PREPARATORY TO A GENERAL ADVANCE.

OPEN WAR NOW IN SIGHT.

BRITISH LEADERS AND MEN EAGER FOR THE OPENING OF HOSTILITIES.

DERVISHES SLOWLY DRIVEN BACK PREPARED TO RESIST THE ADVANCE AND TO MAKE IT COSTLY FOR THE ENGLISH EXPEDITION.

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 11.—Dispatches just received from the front say that the North Staffordshire regiment, numbering about 900 men, arrived at Koshah camp, the southernmost fortified post on the Nile, yesterday, and will be pushed forward to Ahsarrat today. The British brigade has reached Ahsarrat safely and the main body of cavalry is arriving there.

The cavalry scouts report the dervishes still in view, south of Duglo, but the enemy retreats at the slightest sign of a forward movement. The Anglo-Egyptian scouts, feeling the way for the advance guard, are steadily pushing southward, and the next day occupied the high ground on the right bank of the Nile. The troops, black and white, are full of enthusiasm and anxious for a brush with the enemy. The weather is hot in the extreme, but the soldiers are benefitting from being on the move.

All transport takes part in the expedition are now on the march toward Dongola. Duglo, hitherto held by a small force of cavalry, is being fortified, and the string of depots connecting the expedition with Wady Halfa, the real base of supplies.

The operations began in March last, when troops hurried up the Nile to Wady Halfa, being fortified and sent, although the railroad ran to Savras, about forty miles south from Wady Halfa. Since that time the railroad, under the direction of H. Kitchener, has tended to Akashah, fifty miles from the latter place to Koshah and thence to Ahsarrat, about 75 miles.

The force of the campaign, over 4,000 men, in every way fully equipped, were moved southward, in spite of the great difficulties of the desert. The British force, of 15,000 men, not including natives employed in transport service are moving south with a flotilla of about fifty gunboats, and a number of other boats and barges, loaded with supplies, ammunition, etc.

The fleet will keep up constant communication with Ahsarrat, now the base from which the army is operating. At care of the wounded and sick have been established. The sirdar, or commander of the Anglo-Egyptian expedition, Lord Herbert Kitchener, has done nothing to promote the success of the campaign against the dervishes.

Each gun boat carries a twelve pounder Maxim gun, and the boats are discharged a shot every three seconds mounted forward on an armored citadel deck. Amidships there is a conning tower with a search light, and other lighter Maxim guns from 7 to 20 feet above the waterline and the armament of the gunboats is completed with six inch and six pounder Maxim guns, some of the larger gunboats carry 24 pounder Armstrongs, capable of delivering a very effective fire at long range.

The hulls of the gunboats are constructed in sections, enabling them to be taken apart and put together again in a short time. The gunboats are on board stand in the shallow hull, well protected by the hatches, which are capable of being folded and raised, and the gunboats are in the present campaign. Hicks disregarded the recommendation, and persisted with his entreaty to "keep close to the Nile," is to be closely followed in the present campaign.

The British troops taking part, in one way or the other in the operations are drawn from the North Staffordshire regiment, the Surrey regiment, the Gloucester regiment and the Connaught Rangers, the Second dragoons, Royal artillery and Royal engineers, not counting the detachments of the sirdar's own troops. The general, upon whom the khalfia relies to defeat the dervishes, is the gallant and brave Osman Digna, a thoroughly brave and able warrior, who was the great Mahdi's most trusted lieutenant, and who was with the latter in all his campaigns. He has been almost constantly in the saddle for about 12 years and is a commander thoroughly respected by the British. The number of the khalfia's followers is not known, and cannot be accurately estimated; it is variously placed at 40,000 to 100,000 men.

The report received from Koshah today, says that the British force, consisting of the remainder of the North Staffordshire regiment, arrived yesterday. The sirdar's headquarters are at Koshah, and the staff, will start from Koshah tomorrow.

ON TOWARD DONGOLA

ENGLAND MASSING TROOPS IN EGYPT PREPARATORY TO A GENERAL ADVANCE.

OPEN WAR NOW IN SIGHT.

BRITISH LEADERS AND MEN EAGER FOR THE OPENING OF HOSTILITIES.

DERVISHES SLOWLY DRIVEN BACK PREPARED TO RESIST THE ADVANCE AND TO MAKE IT COSTLY FOR THE ENGLISH EXPEDITION.

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 11.—Dispatches just received from the front say that the North Staffordshire regiment, numbering about 900 men, arrived at Koshah camp, the southernmost fortified post on the Nile, yesterday, and will be pushed forward to Ahsarrat today. The British brigade has reached Ahsarrat safely and the main body of cavalry is arriving there.

The cavalry scouts report the dervishes still in view, south of Duglo, but the enemy retreats at the slightest sign of a forward movement. The Anglo-Egyptian scouts, feeling the way for the advance guard, are steadily pushing southward, and the next day occupied the high ground on the right bank of the Nile. The troops, black and white, are full of enthusiasm and anxious for a brush with the enemy. The weather is hot in the extreme, but the soldiers are benefitting from being on the move.

All transport takes part in the expedition are now on the march toward Dongola. Duglo, hitherto held by a small force of cavalry, is being fortified, and the string of depots connecting the expedition with Wady Halfa, the real base of supplies.

The operations began in March last, when troops hurried up the Nile to Wady Halfa, being fortified and sent, although the railroad ran to Savras, about forty miles south from Wady Halfa. Since that time the railroad, under the direction of H. Kitchener, has tended to Akashah, fifty miles from the latter place to Koshah and thence to Ahsarrat, about 75 miles.

The force of the campaign, over 4,000 men, in every way fully equipped, were moved southward, in spite of the great difficulties of the desert. The British force, of 15,000 men, not including natives employed in transport service are moving south with a flotilla of about fifty gunboats, and a number of other boats and barges, loaded with supplies, ammunition, etc.

The fleet will keep up constant communication with Ahsarrat, now the base from which the army is operating. At care of the wounded and sick have been established. The sirdar, or commander of the Anglo-Egyptian expedition, Lord Herbert Kitchener, has done nothing to promote the success of the campaign against the dervishes.

Each gun boat carries a twelve pounder Maxim gun, and the boats are discharged a shot every three seconds mounted forward on an armored citadel deck. Amidships there is a conning tower with a search light, and other lighter Maxim guns from 7 to 20 feet above the waterline and the armament of the gunboats is completed with six inch and six pounder Maxim guns, some of the larger gunboats carry 24 pounder Armstrongs, capable of delivering a very effective fire at long range.

The hulls of the gunboats are constructed in sections, enabling them to be taken apart and put together again in a short time. The gunboats are on board stand in the shallow hull, well protected by the hatches, which are capable of being folded and raised, and the gunboats are in the present campaign. Hicks disregarded the recommendation, and persisted with his entreaty to "keep close to the Nile," is to be closely followed in the present campaign.

The British troops taking part, in one way or the other in the operations are drawn from the North Staffordshire regiment, the Surrey regiment, the Gloucester regiment and the Connaught Rangers, the Second dragoons, Royal artillery and Royal engineers, not counting the detachments of the sirdar's own troops. The general, upon whom the khalfia relies to defeat the dervishes, is the gallant and brave Osman Digna, a thoroughly brave and able warrior, who was the great Mahdi's most trusted lieutenant, and who was with the latter in all his campaigns. He has been almost constantly in the saddle for about 12 years and is a commander thoroughly respected by the British. The number of the khalfia's followers is not known, and cannot be accurately estimated; it is variously placed at 40,000 to 100,000 men.

The report received from Koshah today, says that the British force, consisting of the remainder of the North Staffordshire regiment, arrived yesterday. The sirdar's headquarters are at Koshah, and the staff, will start from Koshah tomorrow.

The Hoffin-Thompson Drug Co.
of Minneapolis, writes:
The genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract is always highly recommended by us as it is the best malt preparation in the market. As a tonic and invigorator it is unequalled.
HOFFIN-THOMPSON DRUG CO., 101 Washington Ave., S.
Ask for the genuine JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT. Avoid substitutes.
EISNER MENDELSON CO., Sole Agents, New York.

CASTORI
The fact is that Castori is the best of all purgatives.
It is a mild and pleasant medicine, and is equally effective in all cases of constipation, biliousness, headache, and all other ailments arising from indigestion and irregularity of the bowels.
It is sold in all drug stores, and is the only one that is so pure and so effective.

Take No Substitute.
Gal Borden Eagle Brand
CONDENSED MILK
Has always stood FIRST in the estimation of the American People. No other is "just as good." Best Food.
An inducement - We have the following quantities of Eagle Brand Condensed Milk on hand for sale at special prices:
12 cans of 12 lbs. each, per case, $1.75
12 cans of 6 lbs. each, per case, $1.75
24 cans of 3 lbs. each, per case, $1.75
24 cans of 1 1/2 lbs. each, per case, $1.75
24 cans of 1/2 lb. each, per case, $1.75
24 cans of 1/4 lb. each, per case, $1.75

RAILROAD QUESTION.
The railroad question demands the attention of every citizen. It is a question of the most vital importance to the people of this country. It is a question of the most vital importance to the people of this country. It is a question of the most vital importance to the people of this country.

DR. H. NELSON
Cor. Washington and Third Ave. S.
From thirty years' experience in hospital and special office practice is enabled to guarantee the cure of all cases of chronic or acute diseases of the blood, throat, nose, and lungs, and all other ailments arising from impure blood and irregularity of the bowels. The cure is guaranteed, and the medicine is sold in all drug stores.

DR. BRINLEY
351, 353 and 355 Nicollet Ave., MINNEAPOLIS - MINNESOTA.
The oldest and only reliable method of curing the skin disease known as Psoriasis, is the use of Dr. Brinley's Psoriasis Cure. It is a simple and effective remedy, and is sold in all drug stores.

GUNS AND AMMUNITION at wholesale prices to everybody. Send for our catalogue free. We have the following quantities of guns and ammunition on hand for sale at special prices:
100 Remington-Union Rifles, per case, $1.00
100 Winchester Rifles, per case, $1.00
100 Remington-Union Shotguns, per case, $1.00
100 Winchester Shotguns, per case, $1.00
100 Remington-Union Revolvers, per case, $1.00
100 Winchester Revolvers, per case, $1.00
100 Remington-Union Pistols, per case, $1.00
100 Winchester Pistols, per case, $1.00
100 Remington-Union Cartridges, per case, $1.00
100 Winchester Cartridges, per case, $1.00
100 Remington-Union Ammunition, per case, $1.00
100 Winchester Ammunition, per case, $1.00