MINNEAPOLIS

38,000 ARE NOW IN

THE REGISTRY LIST OF MINNEAPOLIS CERTAIN TO BE OVERFLOWING.

ABOUT 17,000 MORE REGISTER.

YESTERDAY THE DOWN-TOWN DEMOCRATIC WARDS SHOWED UP STRONGLY.

THE CITY WITHOUT WATER.

A Water Main Bursts on the North Side and the Supply is Shut Off.

Yesterday's registration was in the neighborhood of 17,500. This makes a total for the two days of about 38,000, and as there is still another day when the voters can put their names on the list, it is certain that the total registration in Minneapolis will be over 45,000. The details of yesterday's registration are of no great importance from the fact that there is still another registration day, for no one can tell what is going to happen in the future. It is sufficient to say that already the registration of Minneapolis is within 5,000 of what it was two years ago, and the prospects are good for the final total going about 5,000 ahead.

Last week the registration in the Republican wards was much larger in proportion than it was in the Democratic wards, but yesterday the Democratic wards came to the front better, and for the two days the entire city is running in about the same proportion that it did two years ago. There is still another day and there are still thousands of voters who have failed to put their names on the list. Some active work will have to be done to bring them all in, and they are distributed all over the city.

There was practically no registration of women yesterday, the number being little more, if any, than last week. The ladies do not take the interest that they did when there was a woman running for a place on the board of education, and the total number of female voters this year will probably not exceed half the number that went to the polls two years ago.

The one thing noticeable about the registration yesterday was the way in which the different districts filled out their numbers and evened up with the rest of the districts. In some cases the registration was half as large again as it was a week ago, and in others it was only half as large. The Republican wards did not show up with so many voters yesterday, while the districts in the central part of the city were fairly overflowing with voters.

Occasionally a Republican district would be found where a large number of voters were putting their names down, but as a rule they had made too heavy a showing the first day and could not keep it up. The Eighth ward, for instance, nearly ran out of voters in the first two days, and in that ward there are not to exceed fifty voters in each district, always a large number.

From a general survey of the field it is not believed that there are many more than 8,000 voters in the entire city who can still be secured. The various ward committees seem to have gone over the field thoroughly and gathered in all the available votes. There are always a number who are out of the city the first two days and they are still to be heard of, while the activists are coming in, from people who will not be in the city until election day.

WITHOUT WATER.

City of Minneapolis Last Night Was Like to a Barron Desert.

For five hours last night the citizens of Minneapolis experienced a water famine. For that period of time, also, the city would have been at the mercy of the fire king had he seen fit to rear his head within her domain. Housewives cooked the family dinner as best they could without water, left their dishes to go unwashed until the middle of the night. Those who indulge in the liquid products of the bar and the corn use soft stools and oysters for the attendant "chaser." The man who has a beer mug unwashed, as the housewife did her dishes.

At noon yesterday a little stream of water ran down the street from a well, made its appearance through the pavement on Second street near Seventh avenue north. The water was clear and of good quality, in size, but to all appearances it was nothing more than a small, insignificant leak in the water main. Shortly after 5 o'clock, however, it suddenly increased in size and strength and tore a hole through the pavement on the corner of Third and Second streets. The street was flooded, and in another moment the water was rushing in torrents down the side of the block, and in three blocks on each side of the break the streets were completely flooded.

UNDER THE HAMMER.

Mortgage on the Young Men's Christian Association Foreclosed.

The Young Men's Christian association has been unable to raise money enough to pay off the mortgage upon its building, a fact which has been known for some time, in spite of the huge offers made by the association in various ways. The management has been unable to raise the $40,000 needed to take its course, and so it was decided some time ago to let the foreclosure take its course, and to let the association secure enough during the year of redemption to pay off the mortgage. The association has been unable to do this, and the foreclosure is now complete. The building is now under the hammer, and the proceeds of the sale will be used to pay off the mortgage.

WANDERED FROM HOME.

John Ziegler Left His Wife Saturday Last.

Anxiety is felt for the safety of John Ziegler, who left his home and family last Saturday. He has not been seen since, and his wife is worried to the point of despair. It is believed that he is still in the city, but he has not been seen since he left his home on Saturday last. His wife is hoping that he will return home soon, and that he will be found in some place where he has wandered from.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

J. B. Van Tyle Falls Beneath a Moving Train.

J. B. Van Tyle, Northern in the employ of the Great Northern railroad company, was crushed to death beneath a freight train at the Union elevator in South-east Minneapolis, yesterday afternoon. He was walking along the top of a moving train, and in stepping from the car to another lost his footing and fell to the tracks. The wheels of several cars passed over his limbs and head, mutilating him terribly. He was picked up and removed to the county morgue, where he died.

THEY CAME TOGETHER.

Sophomores and Freshmen Indulge in a Game Rush.

After a waiting of two months, the feud between the Freshman and sophomore classes at the university broke out yesterday morning. It was brought about by some impulsive game rush, and was promptly checked by the Juniors. The youngsters met at chapel time with a high stick which they facetiously called a cane. It did not take more than a yell to draw the two classes together, and in a few minutes the two classes were engaged in a game of football. The hands on the canes were counted on three hands, until the upper classmen thought their hands on the canes were counted on three hands, until the upper classmen thought their hands on the canes were counted on three hands.

The case in question was that of St. Louis, Mo., vs. Tausig & Co., vs. Isaac Kuttner & Co., vs. Tausig & Co., vs. Isaac Kuttner & Co. The case was settled for $5,000 in damages for slander. Both sides are quite heavy dealers in leaf tobacco, and were in a bitter feud. The plaintiff claimed that defendant had said in the presence of other people that he had papers which would put plaintiff in the event of a trial. The defendant admitted that he had said the words attributed, and upon payment of costs and plaintiff's attorney by the defense, the case was dismissed.

William Gould Dies in Florida.

Word was received yesterday from Florida of the sudden death of William Gould, of this city, at Sanibel, Fla. His demise occurred on Oct. 15, but a telegram at that time did not reach the relatives here, and his death was not known here until word came by letter yesterday. His death was very sudden. After eating a hearty breakfast, he went to the ground and expired shortly afterwards, the cause being heart disease. Mr. Gould's Minneapolis residence was 425 First avenue north. He had lived here since he came to this city in 1887. He was only on Sept. 20 that he departed for Florida, where he engaged in business, expecting to spend a winter there for both business interests and his health.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The total registration for the second day in this city was 50,008, which, with the 253,507 for the first day, gives Chicago a total of 303,515. The registration today was the heaviest in the wards in the southern part of the city, most of which are kept in the hands of the Democrats. TO ROBN. P. RAMBUSCH

Information from Halberg himself. Halberg was instructed to keep his head and play the game for all it was worth, and to notify the company that his job was to be done. Halberg sent information that a certain train was to be wrecked on the night of Oct. 8, and Special Agent McPetridge on hand to prevent the deed. But in the meantime the gang became suspicious of Halberg. The detectives and the sheriff had evidently been noted by the members of the gang, or else Halberg's actions were not satisfactory, for about Oct. 12, on a day which was not mentioned, Halberg was visited again. The gang came on Monday night, and remained constantly with him all that night, all day Tuesday, and Tuesday night, leaving early in the morning, evidently to return to their headquarters. On Tuesday night Halberg, night Cherry insisted that Halberg should stay by the gang, saying that they would make it hot for him if he flung them out. Halberg, who was frightened to death, consented to stay. On Tuesday morning Cherry's suspicions were redoubled and he accused Halberg of intending to bolt. Halberg, however, says that he told Cherry just where he stood, and that he would have nothing to do with the plot.

The terrible deed ensued. Dorn became enraged and said he would kill Halberg and he meant every word he said. He pulled a 44-caliber revolver and fired the shot which struck Halberg's head and lodging in the wall. Cherry saw that Halberg was reaching for the door, and he stepped in and prevented more shooting. On Monday night, it should have been stated, a third member of the gang arrived, who was the right arm of the gang, the "Big Informer." The latter assisted Cherry in preventing further shooting. The gang remained secreted in Halberg's house until the next night, and then frequently cursed Halberg for his inaction in backing out of the plot. The quarrel was kept up all day and half the night, and Halberg was not expected to get out alive. Finally, after dark, Dorn ordered one of the men to go and notify the "captain" as he would communicate with him that Halberg was over the wall, and that the thing was off, and to meet him (Dorn) at a certain place which was unfamiliar to Halberg. The men went to the place, and Dorn frequently cursed Halberg for his inaction in backing out of the plot. The quarrel was kept up all day and half the night, and Halberg was not expected to get out alive. Finally, after dark, Dorn ordered one of the men to go and notify the "captain" as he would communicate with him that Halberg was over the wall, and that the thing was off, and to meet him (Dorn) at a certain place which was unfamiliar to Halberg.

POLITICAL SITUATION PERILOUS.

Strong Letter From the Bishop of Springfield.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Rt. Rev. George L. Seymour, of Springfield, Ill., bishop of the Episcopal church, has written a letter to the Democratic platform of the Democratic platform, in which he condemns the Chicago platform, in very forcible language. The bishop says he takes no interest in politics under ordinary conditions, and has not done so since the war. But the political situation at present, he regards as perilous. He states that free silver would be injurious to all classes and declares unequivocally for the single gold standard. The remainder of his letter is devoted to what he conceives to be the effort of the Democratic platform to array "class against class, employ against employer, and the West and South against the East." He asserts that the tendency is revolutionary, and that the men who preach such doctrine are "not aware of the ulterior results." He condemns particularly that plank in the Democratic platform referring to the United States supreme court.

LONDON MAGISTRATE COMMITS THEM FOR TRIAL FOR ALLEGED LARCENY.

(Copyright, 1896, by the Associated Press.) LONDON, Oct. 20.—Directly after the routine police cases had been disposed of today, the court room was cleared of the throng which had been interested in them and was almost immediately afterwards filled, this time by an overgrowing gathering of storekeepers, city men and others. All the bondsmen of the Castles were among those present, and H. Hodson, representing the United States embassy, was accommodated with a seat at the solicitor's table. There was a humming of excited comment, which was quickly hushed by the magistrate, Mr. Robert Miles Newton, as Mr. Castle, calm and dignified in demeanor, entered the court. He was followed by his wife, who was stylishly and becomingly dressed in a tailor-made dress of gray material. Matthews, leading counsel for the Castles, asked that the prisoners be committed for trial at the Central criminal court, but Mr. Newton refused to do so, saying that his instructions were to send all shoplifting cases for trial at the sessions, and therefore he committed both prisoners for trial, allowing bail in £30,000 ($150,000) as before, at the Clerkenwell sessions, which open November 2.

The bishop says he takes no interest in politics under ordinary conditions, and has not done so since the war. But the political situation at present, he regards as perilous. He states that free silver would be injurious to all classes and declares unequivocally for the single gold standard. The remainder of his letter is devoted to what he conceives to be the effort of the Democratic platform to array "class against class, employ against employer, and the West and South against the East." He asserts that the tendency is revolutionary, and that the men who preach such doctrine are "not aware of the ulterior results." He condemns particularly that plank in the Democratic platform referring to the United States supreme court.

Addresses Delivered by Bragg and the Nominee.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 20.—The change in Gen. Palmer's plans, necessitating his return to Bloomington, today caused a revision of the programme for the demonstration at the Pabst theater this evening. Gen. E. S. Bragg made the principal address and was followed by the Hon. J. M. Spooner in a brief speech on the financial question. Gen. Bragg reviewed and condemned the action of the Chicago convention in refusing to endorse the platform of the President Cleveland, compared the fusion of Democrats and Populists with an infusion of the blood of a leper in the veins of a sick man, and urged the financial question at length. Gen. Spooner compared the standard dollar of the United States with the coin of the realm, and canvassed the probabilities of free silver coinage as revealed by silver currency in Mexico and the South American countries.

HITCH IN COMPROMISE.

Greenway Objects to the Manitoba Plan Proposed.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 20.—It is learned that a hitch had occurred in the compromise for the settlement of the parochial school question now in progress at Ottawa. Premier Laurier and the delegates from Manitoba had agreed to allow a half-hour conference with the Roman Catholics, the belief being that this concession would settle the difficulty. It was, however, found that the Roman Catholics were concerned, but when the Protestant leaders here heard of it they raised a great row. Such a concession, they declared, to be a violation of the national school principles. So the Manitoba premier, Mr. Greenway, had to withdraw from this agreement, and the compromise was abandoned. No other scheme can be devised and the settlement is as far off as ever.
