

BULLETIN OF THE ST. PAUL GLOBE.

THURSDAY, NOV. 19, 1896. Weather for Today—Fair and Colder.

PAGE 1. Charities Conference Work. Cubans Defeat Weyler. Note of Warning From Watterson. Hull on the Stand.

PAGE 2. Details of Hull Trial. Work for the Farmers' Congress.

PAGE 3. Minneapolis Matters. Women's Council Doings. News of the Northwest. W. C. T. U. Session.

PAGE 4. Editorial. Fife's Manager Demurs. Mayor Purges West Third. Christian Brothers Anniversary. Political Gossip.

PAGE 5. Courts at Odds in Santa Fe Case. So Deal for Terminals. Rush of Freight on the Lakes. News of the Railways.

PAGE 6. Bar Silver, 95c. Cash Wheat in Chicago, 78 1/2c. Bears in Stocks Battered Out. Wants of the People.

PAGE 7. Grady Not Held for Benz Assault. News of the Courts. Death in a Cell.

EVENTS TODAY. Met-Thoroughbred, 8.15. Grand-Yenuine Yentleman, 8.15.

MOVEMENTS OF STEAMSHIPS.

NEW YORK—Arrived: Anchora, Glasgow; Kensington, Antwerp; Saratoga, Havana; Lahn, Bremen.

LIVERPOOL—Arrived: Numidia, Montreal; Waaeland, Philadelphia; Teutonic, New York.

SOUTHAMPTON—Arrived: St. Paul, New York; Hamlet, Bremen; for New York.

The New York World says it cost $1,462,000 to elect McKinley.

The old, old cry comes up from the state of Washington. Too much water!

Signs are not wanting that we are soon to have a whirlwind of talk from the pugilists.

"Dick" Croker is said to be coming home to restore "financial prosperity" in Tammany hall.

The next congress is bound to be pretty "yellow." The house of representatives will have a good majority of 57.

It may as well be stated right here that Tams Bixby's visit to Canton does not signify that he wants a place in the cabinet.

King Oscar II. might be elected to honor citizenship in America. He has erected a monument to Americans who died in Sweden.

The heirs under the Fair will have made a sensible move at last. They have stopped quarreling and gone to dividing up the boodle.

Mark Hanna has learned a lot about political finessing. He can talk a column a day now without committing himself or Maj. McKinley.

Gen. Weyler is finding it not enough in Pinar del Rio. He has sent 700 sick men back to Havana. The sight of the rebels no doubt made some of them sick.

The Carver heirs, who are coming up from Ohio to seize St. Paul and Minneapolis, should not forget that, if they get these two municipalities, they will have to pay their taxes.

The bonds which the government sold to the Morgan syndicate for 100 are now going like hot cakes in the general market at 120. Somebody must have swindled Uncle Sam.

By the way, it has been overlooked that Heatwole, the handsomest, and Eddy, the homeliest man in the Fifty-fourth congress, will be right in the front-row of the Fifty-fifth.

The Prohibitionists and Populists both got a cold deal in Ohio. They failed to cast 1 per cent of the vote, and therefore cannot run tickets at the next election except on petition.

A Michigan woman had a pet cow. The latter rewarded the lady's kindness by eating up $30 worth of fine clothes. The lady is now eating the cow. Thus are matters leveled up.

Mr. McKinley has chosen his check writer and stamp licker for the four years from March 4. Mark Hanna is to be secretary of the treasury, and Henry C. Payne postmaster general.

Chicago has a unique way of demanding municipal reform. A million suitons are in circulation in that town containing these words: "Chicago Needs a Wash—Hesling for Mayor."

It is stated that Connecticut has more old men than any other state in the Union. The other evening thirty-three men, each over seventy-seven years of age, dined together at Hartford.

Leadley, the new manager of the Grand Rapids club, lives in Detroit, and holds a municipal office there. It will be hard, therefore, for Leadley to keep from shouting for the Detroit team in spite of the fact that he owns a club in another Michigan city.

Mr. Botkin ran for governor of Montana on a couple of platforms, one of them declaring for gold and the other for silver. There is scarcely enough left of Mr. Botkin to tell the tale of the cyclone which struck him. If you have time during the winter, Mr. Botkin, you might make a visit to P. W. Hardin, of Kentucky.

TOO MANY PRISONS

PROF. FOLWELL SAYS THE REFORMATORY SHOULD BE WIPED OUT.

SYSTEM IS TOO SEVERE.

SECRETARY JACKSON MAKES REPORT ON ASSOCIATED CHARITIES IN ST. PAUL.

CONFERENCE WORK AT RED WING

Day's Session Calls Forth Many Interesting Discussions as to Care of Criminals.

Special to the Globe.

RED WING, Minn., Nov. 18.—A royal welcome was given the guests to the meeting of the Minnesota conference of charities and corrections yesterday. After the close of the morning's session, a general invitation was extended to the delegates to visit the new and old jail buildings. After an inspection of the two jails, which was a lesson in the advancements of the age, many of the guests were taken to the state training school by the superintendent, J. H. Brown. During the afternoon a general reception was held in the training school, which was decorated with countless flowers and beautiful plants raised in the green houses of the institution.

The second day's session of the state conference of the charities and corrections was held in the rooms of the Commercial club. The session by the associated charities was held in the left hand parlor, reports being given from Duluth, Fergus Falls, St. Paul and Minneapolis. The report from St. Paul was given by Secretary Jackson, and read as follows:

ST. PAUL CHARITIES.

This paper is expected to speak briefly of the more notable changes in the work of the charities, which have occurred since a similar report was made twelve months ago. The most notable feature of the year has been the fact that the city of St. Paul and the city of St. Luke's and St. Joseph's had been enlarged and equipped in the most approved manner. The most prominent feature of the year was in Bethesda hospital, under the management of the Swedish Lutheran conference, which has been increased from 30 to 65 beds, and now, too, is thoroughly modernized in every particular. Thus far, the four hospitals, which afford unusual facilities for patients, have been enlarged and equipped in the most approved manner.

The other interesting events in medical charities were the admission of homeopathic physicians to the city hospital, and the entire reorganization of the board of the free dispensary, of which Joseph H. Brown is the president.

The Home for the Friendless seems to be gradually becoming a home for convalescent patients, and is now a refuge for the friendless gentlemen and for stranded people, who find there a temporary refuge.

Many of the Women's Christian home and other institutions are non-resident, and a part of the cost of their care should be borne by the city. It is too common to ship to the city in need of assistance.

The orphan and other institutions have performed their several important functions in a most satisfactory manner. The plan of the orphan and other institutions is a mutual convenience, and to those of the patrons of the nursery, and to those of the nurses, under the new regime, is well illustrated by the children, who speak of "going home to the nursery." The new plan is looking forward to the (ultimate) establishment of branch nurseries in needy sections.

Last winter the Friendly Inn ward of city provided work for the applicants to the city, and a few of the men, who are now in the institution, are now in the city, and are doing well.

The various conferences of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul are carrying on their work as usual. The same is substantially true of the King's Daughters' Aid society, and of other societies.

The Ramsey county branch of the Minnesota Prison Association, established last spring, is carrying on its work in a most satisfactory manner. The work of the association is to prevent and rescue work which D. T. Johnson has been persistently doing for the past several years.

The work of friendly visiting, under the auspices of the associated charities, has demonstrated its usefulness to the unfortunate. Improvidence lays such a heavy burden upon the unfortunate, and the assistance of the associated charities, which is necessary to the development of the habit of self-reliance, is a most valuable asset to the St. Paul special fund, recently established for this special purpose.

The St. Paul Commons, and the People's church industrial school. These use the fund for care for the poor. Capt. J. W. Miller, secretary of the Duluth society, said that that society was well established. That it draws most of its support from the county commissioners and does all the investigating for the county. That as yet they have not been able to get the full co-operation of more than three of the local organizations, the St. Vincent de Paul Ladies' Aid and the county commissioners.

Mrs. Phoebe McMillan, of Minneapolis, reads a paper on "The Poor and the Poor Without Sanitizing Them." She spoke in behalf of the unemployed poor and not for those already paupers, who through the hard times have been unable to secure employment. She said that in supplying these first their relatives should be appealed to or their churches called here, the friend or acquaintance should be appealed to, and lastly public charity. She said that the only way to do this work and not have in the spirit of the friendly visit to come as a friend ready to tide them over the present emergency and said that they should be impressed with the fact that the state should be made to the agencies for provision. That the children should be kept away from all paupering influence so far as possible. Mr. Jackson spoke of the necessity to be considerate of the feelings of the people whose misfortunes should not be published. Dr. Morgan followed this paper with the remark that few words on what he considered the heartlessness of giving out information to the reporters and the public press about such cases. Mr. Jackson spoke of the provident fund, which he considered the best agency to preserve the self-respect of the people and which should be used in their money when they have work. He thought the scheme, as taken up by St. Paul, a good one to be adopted by the state, and that the plan might be established, and called the state provident fund of Indianapolis, which has secured $9,800 which has resulted in the great falling off of the number of applicants for relief.

WORK OF PRISON ASSOCIATION.

The Minnesota Prison Association met in the left parlor with the president, Hon. L. F. Hubbard, of Red Wing. The work of the association was outlined by J. H. Hart, of St. Paul, who said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent of the state prison and state reformatory, made an address in which, after outlining the work of the association, he said that the nature of the work is the seeking of employment of a suitable nature for the released prisoners, and that the nature of the work with proper influence will be surrounded by F. A. Whittier, of Minneapolis, state agent