

KYLE WAS THE LION

AMERDEEN 400 GIVES THE VICTORIOUS SENATOR A BRILLIANT RECEPTION.

HIS REVENGE COMING.

WILL AID REPUBLICANS TO ORGANIZE IN THE COMING SPECIAL SESSION.

ELECTION WITHOUT PARALLEL.

It Gave Minority Complete Control in North Dakota Legislation.

Special to the Globe. AMERDEEN, S. D., Feb. 27.—A large concourse of citizens attending the reception given tonight at the home of Postmaster and Mrs. A. W. Pratt to United States Senator and Mrs. Kyle. The affair was thoroughly informal and was greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Kyle will leave for Washington on Monday. He will aid the Republicans in reorganizing the senate committee and will not doubt take a prominent part in punishing Senator Pettigrew. He looks for President McKinley to call an extraordinary session about April 1.

PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 27.—A calm review of the results of the senatorial contest discloses many reasons why the Populists ought to feel ashamed of their work. Without getting down to the real meat of the situation, they contended themselves with trying to mislead the opposition candidates by questionable practices, and in so doing they lost sight of the real question, which everybody knew was essential to success. Unity of action could only accomplish the election of a senator. The opposition to Kyle was so bitter that it overlooked the fact that it was standing in its own light and contributing to its own destruction. There was no time from the first ballot when the Populists could not have elected a senator if they had been united, and any complaint from them over the result is ill timed.

It is said that there is no parallel in Western history to the election of Senator Kyle. That the minority, with eighteen votes to overcome, should control the election, as well as all matters of legislation, is a strong tribute to their generalship. The present legislature has been practically in control of the Republicans from the first day of the session.

There has been no session of either branch of the legislature when the fugitives acted in concert; their pet measures have been killed day after day, and yet they could not agree to unite on any proposition. Had they elected a senator during the first days, they could have passed every measure that they introduced.

House at Pierre Passes the Bill Requiring a Year's Residence.

Special to the Globe. PIERRE, N. D., Feb. 27.—The house recommended to pass the bill creating the office of state temperance commissioner, his duty to be the enforcement of the prohibition law. The bill allows two deputies to assist in the work. The salary of the commissioner is to be $2,000 yearly, deputies $1,000. The Williams' bill was also passed extending the time of residence for divorce to one year. The senate passed the bill appointing a committee to adjust and compromise the delinquent taxes of the Northern Pacific. The governor sent a communication to the senate criticizing the action of the committee in reducing the appropriations for the maintenance of the capitol to figures far below those of last year, and the amount was raised from $20,000 to $36,000 for the two years.

PASSED AT PIERRE.

Special to the Globe. PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 27.—The senate in the afternoon passing house bills. Among the most important which were passed were the pure food bill which requires oleomargarine to be colored pink; making personal property tax a first lien; providing punishment of public officials for neglect of duty; abolishing the office of state engineer of irrigation, and the house resolution for the submission to the people the question of adopting the initiative and referendum. The house passed the senate liquor bill practically without change, and changed their rules to allow a majority to spend money and adopted the majority report of the committee on the capital removal resolution which comes up Monday.

FARMERS' WIVES THERE.

They Take Great Interest in Miss Thompson's Cooking Lectures.

Special to the Globe. ST. JAMES, Minn., Feb. 27.—The institute opened at St. James on the 26th inst., with the thermometer fully 20 degrees below zero. The attendance was somewhat affected by the extreme cold, but notwithstanding, the large opera house was pretty well filled before the noon hour.

The usual subjects were discussed. Much interest was manifested in the remarks of Theodore Louis on hog cholera, as this county has suffered severely from the disease during the past two seasons.

Much interest was also manifested in the subjects of fattening sheep and cattle. These subjects were discussed by Prof. Shaw. A good many cattle are now being fattened in the neighborhood of St. James, and it is safe to predict that a good beginning will be made in the fattening of sheep before another winter shall have come and gone.

Miss Thomson, as usual, gave her impressive lectures on cooking meats and making bread. Her lectures were attended by both mothers and daughters from country and town. Many of them brought note books and pencils, and they made good use of their opportunity. These lectures cannot but result in creating a deeper interest in the study of preparing foods for the table.

At the Friday evening meeting the attendance was very large. The entertainment furnished by the townspeople was of a remarkably high order. It consisted of an address by Mr. Hammond, a burlesque by Mrs. Shaw, Miss Solos, duets, recitations, and music by the orchestra. The institute was represented at addresses from Prof. Shaw, Miss Thomson and Mr. Cutts. The address of Mr. Cutts was particularly happy. He pointed out in a very conclusive way the duty of providing fruits in POLITICS COME INTO IT.

Fresh Sensations in the Avon School Room.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Feb. 27.—The Rocholl school investigation into the conduct of public school under sectarian methods resumed this morning. Miss Mary Schumperlin, a graduate of the St. Cloud normal school, who succeeded Joseph Heinen as teacher in the Avon district, testified that she had asked Rocholl whether she should have prayers in the school and he said no. Afterwards she had received written notification from the trustees that the board had allowed the petition of parents that prayers and religious exercises be resumed. She had prayers after then on opening and closing of school, with no intermission between prayers and school work.

The prosecution then called more witnesses to prove that the only objection to Heinen was that he refused to say prayers, and that John Eich, who had been given a certificate, was an habitual drunkard. This brought on a sensational scene. Attorney Stewart for Rocholl, claimed the calling of these witnesses was in violation of the stipulation made at a recent adjournment.

"I am credibly informed," he said, "that this is just to give Rasnick time to manufacture some more." "It is a lie," shouted Rasnick.

The commissioners said they could not rule out the testimony, and the investigation proceeded. William Roache testified that one reason his brother, Thomas Roache, was mad at the priest at Avon was because the latter had refused to allow a free silver speech at the church fair at Avon during the campaign unless $10 was paid. The commission adjourned on Feb. 15 and there is an agreement as to the limit of testimony.
