CANDAMO SACRED BY INSURGENTS

The Mussulmans in the Besieged Town Rescued From the Rebels Only With The Greatest Difficulty and Danger.

SITUATION REMAINS IN STATU QUO.

As Yet The Great Powers Have Taken No Steps to Enforce The Ultimatum Presented to King George.

LONDON, March 11.—The Times, commenting this morning on the news from Canea, says that ex-Commodore Reinick appears to have assumed the responsibility of suppressing the joint remonstrance of Europe, which he had undertaken to make known to the insurgent chiefs, and adds that there are hardly words strong enough to characterize this treacherous action.

The Daily Telegram's correspondent at Canea says that early on Wednesday morning the water supply of the Turkish fortress at Ized in Suda bay, was cut off by the insurgents, in spite of the firing of the Turkish warship. The Turkish garrison then attacked the insurgents and the fighting continued all day.

Belgrade, March 10.—Russia has offered to lend the Serbian government 120,000 magazine rifles. The government has not yet accepted, as the military authorities desired to secure rifles of the latest pattern.

SEVEN PROBABLY KILLED

By the Ditching of a Limited Passenger Train in the State of Indiana.

PRINCETON, Ind., March 10.—One of the worst wrecks that has occurred in this vicinity for many years happened this morning at 8 o'clock to the Chicago & Nashville limited south-bound over the Evansville & Terra Haute railroad, one mile north of Hazelton. The train was made up of engine No. 49, in charge of Engineer John K. McCutchin and Joseph Bowman fireman; a combination baggage and mail car, smoker, ladies' coach and one sleeper. The engine went over an embankment, falling a distance of fifteen feet into six feet of water. The smoker was telescoped by the baggage car, while the ladies' coach and sleeper remained on the track. Engineer McCutchin says he was running twenty-five miles an hour, and when he approached the washout saw nothing but a very small hole. The engine passed over it and went down the embankment. The dead are:

George A. Seers, conductor. Joseph Bowman, fireman. Three passengers, names unknown. The injured are: John K. McCutchin, engineer, bruised by jumping; John B. Hauelsen, brakeman, foot horribly mangled and otherwise bruised.

All the passengers in the smoker are supposed to have been killed. Four persons beside Conductor Seers were seen in the smoker as it broke loose, rolled down the embankment and floated off in the current. Harry J. Hill, the baggage man, was the only member of the train crew that escaped unhurt. About 8 o'clock this morning a large section of the levee broke, sending the baggage car and the smoker down into the water and both subsequently floated away. At 12 o'clock today, the ladies' coach, which had been lying crosswise on the tracks, floated off toward the river.

This afternoon the steamer George P. Frank took a load of excursionists up White river to see the wreck. Hazelton is alive with wreck viewers and the people are rendering every assistance in their power. It looks now as though several days will elapse before trains can be run over the washout, as there is no way of getting around party had been twelve hours on the march it was obliged to form a cordon across the neck of the peninsula during the embarkation. When they were taken on the rebel ship, the rest of the refugees who are at Trinacria will be assisted by the Tyne and a Turkish steamer that has returned to fetch them.

The foreign admirals had a conference with the insurgents at Akrotiri today. It was learned that ex-Commodore Reinick, of the Greek army, had never imparted to the conferees the proclamation of the admirals forbidding them to attack the towns although he had accepted a commission to do so.

It turns out that the British and Italian transports, which made their appearance suddenly at the port (Canea) yesterday morning, are not, as was then believed, British, but were only vessels bringing food supplies and refugees. It is reported that the Turks plundered abandoned Christian houses at Selino, Rattino and Candia.

JOHNSON CLAIMS AN ACQUITTAL

Second Trial of the Wyoming Desperado is on at Redwing.

Special to the Globe. RED WING, Minn., March 10.—The case of Arthur Johnson, indicted for the murder of J. Hayes, at Wyoming, Minn., was taken up for trial this afternoon before Judge Williston. The state was represented by Attorney General Childs and County Attorney Stolberg, of Chicago county. Judge J. C. Nethaway, of Stillwater, appeared for the defendant. As soon as the case was called Attorney Nethaway entered a special plea that the defendant had already been acquitted of the offense charged. Attorney General Childs argued that while he had been acquitted of the killing of Paul, that was no bar to a trial for the killing of Hayes. Judge Williston held that defendant had a right to enter a plea of former acquittal if he desired to do so. In selecting a jury four were excused and three pre-emptorily challenged. The following named jury was empaneled: O. O. Flinestad, Wannamingo; O. P. Henkel and P. H. Bolstad, Holden; H. E. Akenson and Charles Hector, Red Wing; Edin Miller, Leon; H. F. Kolshorn, Haycock; W. M. Goudy and O. L. Benson, Stanton; D. W. Davenport, Pine Island; Stephen Magras, Belvidere; B. J. Taylor, Petherstone. Adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning.

Special to the Globe. BISMARCK, N. D., March 10.—It is now stated that in all probability the governor will veto both the temperance commissioner bill and White's bill modifying the penalty clause of the prohibition law. Telegrams and petitions by the score have poured in upon the governor protesting against the White bill. This bill gave the option of fine or imprisonment as punishment for liquor selling.

Special to the Globe. PIERRE, S. D., March 10.—Gov. Lee today disposed of all the bills left at the adjournment of the legislature with the exception of the osteopathy bill, which yet is on the list. In returning the general appropriation bill

Berlin, March 10.—A dispatch to the Cologne Gazette from Candia, island of Crete, says that in a fight between a force of busha-bazouks and a detachment of insurgents before the gates of the town, sixty of the Turks were killed or wounded. The dispatch further announces that the firing between the opposing forces continues, and that the town is threatened with incendiarism.

LOYAL TO PARTY BUT DISCREET

Republican Senators in Caucus Decide It Is Best to Go Slow.

AFRAID OF THE CARS

They Do Not Know Which Track Will Be Taken In 1898

BY THE FREE VOTERS

Of The Great And Glorious State of Minnesota.

The Republican party has decided to keep its hands off the temperance question through the present session of the legislature, if practicable, in observance of the old tradition that discretion is the better part of valor.

A caucus of the Republican senators was called yesterday afternoon. The senate has had a caucus committee ever since the original caucus, but it has not been working very hard. In fact, it has been discharged. Not because Senator Barr, who was chairman of the original committee, was less about his work, but because it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that in view of the fact that the original committee was appointed to consider questions of a different nature from those which do now or may yet confront the party, that it was considered advisable to name a new chairman, and he is Senator Collesser, of Waseca.

The caucus, if such it may be called, for the senators present, with one accord, protest that it was "just a little conference," and "I do not feel that it would be courteous to the rest to betray what was done, but I assure you that no action was taken on any of the matters of which you ask." The caucus was called at the instance of some of those who have taken an interest on one side or the other of the Knatvold bill to prescribe a uniform license of $1,000 for every retail liquor establishment in the state. The bill has been on the calendar for several days, but there have been so many absentees each day that the advocates of the bill have feared they might find the requisite twenty-eight, that the thing could be practically patched up, if a caucus was held, and accordingly the informal conference of yesterday was held.

It developed soon after the meeting was called to order by Senator Collesser that there were so many issues that might be brought up which might, if forced on party lines, result in embarrassment to the Republican party, that great caution was observed in the consideration of the caucus rule. Every senator interviewed last night insisted that no final action had been taken on any measure discussed, and that the subjects considered had been of the broadest character. It was admitted by some, however, while they insisted that the Knatvold bill had not been voted upon, that the general subject of temperance legislation had been considered, as it is one of the topics of most general interest. The number of petitions which have been presented from the rural districts urging the passage of county option bills have forced that phase of the question to a point almost as critical, if not as immediately so, as the present stage of the Knatvold bill. The result of the deliberations, if information given the Globe is last night by some of the senators with seeming frankness, is reliable, was the conclusion that it would be unwise for the Republican party, in view of the badly mixed and exceedingly uncertain complexion of the political situation two years from now, to complicate it by alienating, as a party, votes on either side of the question. It was accordingly left to each senator to do in this respect, while his judgment was best for his party, which was reasonably to be supposed would not be against his own interest in his own district.

That the Hastings-Anoka Imbroglia was taken up was strenuously denied, and in fact, the chief result of the deliberations, which lasted nearly two hours, was the determination to select Senator Collesser as the head of a steering committee which should take in charge all bills which would be directly or indirectly likely to assume a political complexion, and to guide the vessel bearing the prosperity elephant out of shoal water whenever rash, young sailors, by high license bills, or other devices, had steered it into dangerous channels.

Special to the Globe. ROCHESTER, Minn., March 10.—Martin W. Cook, a prominent nurseryman and fruit grower in mercantile business there until 1855, when he came to Anoka, where he has lived ever since. For five or six years after coming here he was in the dry goods and grocery business, but after that spent two years in manufacturing refined tobacco. He opened the first drug store in Anoka in 1854, in which business he was engaged at the time of his death.

Special to the Globe. LAKE CITY, Minn., March 10.—Dr. D. C. Estes, an old and highly respected resident of this city, died this afternoon from cancer of the stomach. Deceased was a prominent member of the L. O. F. fraternity and was well known all over the state. He was past grand of the sovereign grand lodge of the local lodge of I. O. O. F. Many of the state officers of the fraternity are expected to be in attendance.

Special to the Globe. PINE CITY, Minn., March 10.—The contract for putting in a gristmill and electric plant in this place has been let to Allen Dewar & Co., of Minneapolis. Some time ago a bonus of $2,000 was voted for this purpose to be paid when mill and plant were in running order and the balance in two years.

Special to the Globe. DETROIT, Minn., March 10.—The Chippewa of Minnesota, 7,000 strong, have wired their congratulations to President McKinley and their hope for prosperity.

Special to the Globe. MORRISTOWN, Minn., March 10.—At the election held for a public building, to be built in the spring.

Special to the Globe. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 10.—The north-bound express train, No. 4, on the Louisville & Nashville road, due at Louisville at 12:25, noon, Wednesday, was held up by six masked men near Galera, Tuesday morning. The train was stopped at a water tank in the woods, when two men boarded the engine and covered the engineer and fireman with pistols and forced them to uncouple the locomotive and express car from the remainder of the train, and run forward half a mile with it. Here four more men were waiting. The messenger refused to open the car, and when the door was broken open he was covered with pistols, and forced to open the safe. A posse in pursuit of the robbers, having gone from Birmingham on a special train at 2 o'clock that morning.

Special to the Globe. This afternoon the sheriff's posse were still in pursuit. The robbers, it has been discovered, are mounted. The third hold-up in Alabama within three months. The Louisville & Nashville officials, in an official statement, say that the amount of booty recovered by the bandits was $2,000.
