

THE official reports show that no baking powder received an award over the Royal at the Chicago World's Fair.

The judge of awards on baking powder writes that the claim by another company to have received the highest award is false; that no such award was given to it.

The Royal Baking Powder is the purest and strongest baking powder made, and has received the highest award at the Great International Expositions and World's Fairs wherever exhibited in competition with others.

It makes the finest, lightest, sweetest, most wholesome bread, cake and pastry. More economical than any other leavening agent.

OBSTREPEROUS MINNEAPOLITANS RESIGN FROM THE STATE POULTRY ASSOCIATION.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN EXPELLED

IF THEY HAD DELAYED THEIR LETTER BUT A FEW DAYS LONGER.

THEY ARE NOT A SEVERE LOSS

In the Judgment of the St. Paul Poultry Raisers, Who Still Stand by the Flag.

A number of the Minneapolis wing of the Minnesota State Poultry association have withdrawn from the association.

"Realizing that there is a determined effort by a faction of the Minnesota State Poultry association to create trouble and discord while we remain members of the association, and believing under the circumstances that it is best for all concerned, and especially for the good of the Minnesota State Poultry association, that we withdraw therefrom, therefore we hereby respectfully withdraw from said association.

The communication was signed by Geo. C. Sherman, C. L. Smith, Franklin Benner, H. B. Shamp, R. S. Haynes, W. H. Avery, J. H. Prior, F. W. Prouse and T. W. Smith.

From the above it would seem as if there was a spirit of magnanimity behind the action of the Minneapolis people, but if their resignations had not been tendered it is more than probable that the state association would have expelled them. For some time past the poultry association has not had smooth sailing. There has been a feeling between the St. Paul and Minneapolis contingent, which all grew out of a spirited contest at the annual meeting of the association, for the state poultry show, which resulted in St. Paul winning. Since that time the Minneapolis people have acted in a somewhat exasperating manner, and to add to the spirit of contention which has existed between the two factions, Franklin Benner, who is a Minneapolis man and was treasurer of the association, has refused to pay over the premiums duly exhibited at the last meeting given by the association. The association has sued him and the Minneapolis people think Benner is just right, and it is Benner that and Benner that, and the St. Paul people are thoroughly disgusted with his conduct, as they have asked him to give an itemized report of the money in his possession, which he has refused to do.

The origin of the trouble was a statement published in the St. Paul Poultry Herald, signed by Benner and others, of Minneapolis, saying that St. Paul people are to be expelled from the association. The board of directors held a meeting last night, and after a lengthy discussion accepted the resignation of these disgruntled Minneapolis chicken raisers. The St. Paul members claim if there were any foul means used in the annual meeting it was done by the Minneapolis men, as they appeared on the scene with a lot of proxies in their pockets from people who, it is claimed, had no right whatever to vote. The St. Paul people had these proxies shut out and this left St. Paul with a majority, which gave the show to St. Paul. This is not the only thing the St. Paul people are disgusted with. The last two shows, which were held at Minneapolis, were failures, and the association had to audit a number of bills to clean up the indebtedness caused by the failures of the last exhibition given in that city.

A committee was appointed to wait on Mr. Benner, and ascertain, if possible, why he does not account to the association. The committee went to Minneapolis and met Mr. Benner, but could get no satisfactory explanation from him. The association does not feel like prosecuting Benner, as it would be an expensive action, and there is but little in his hands at the present time.

It is a fortunate thing these few disgruntled Minneapolis have withdrawn from membership, say those who remain, as it will strengthen the association. There are still a number of prominent poultry men in Minneapolis who are thoroughly in sympathy with the Minnesota association, and the weeding out of these few has doubtless been a good thing for the association.

The board of directors talked over several show matters at their meeting last night. H. W. Brown, secretary of the association, tendered his resignation, because of the stress of other business. Mrs. Julius Heinze will act as secretary until the next annual meeting, when a secretary will be elected.

HIS OWN GUN KILLED HIM.

Tragic Death of a Poacher Near Sandstone.

State Game Superintendent Fullerton received word yesterday of the death of John Kelly, near Sandstone. Kelly was a poacher and had given the game warden a good deal of trouble shooting deer. It was while engaged in his favorite pastime that he met his death. He had set a gun in a deer pass, tying one end of a string to the trigger and the other to a tree in such a manner that a deer passing would be sure to cause the gun to be discharged. But it happened that he himself passed that way and forgot about the gun. The result proved fatal. The charge from the gun entered his thigh, inflicting an ugly wound which he had apparently endeavored to bind up, but he could not staunch the flow of blood and was dead when discovered.

Fort Snelling News.

Mrs. William Bartlett, wife of Capt. Bartlett, late of the Third Infantry, is visiting Mrs. Bundy, of Fort Snelling. She was heartily received by all her old friends and acquaintances of the regiment.

Mrs. Roe, who has been visiting in Lake City during the encampment, has returned to Snelling.

The colored prisoner, who escaped from the sentinel while at work in the garison last week, is still missing, all efforts to find him having been fruitless.

The Third U. S. Infantry, under command of Col. John Page, left Lake City Saturday morning for their homeward march. The camps are as follows: Saturday, Frontenac; Sunday, Red Wing; Monday, Hastings; Tuesday and Wednesday, Larson's; Thursday, Twin Lakes, and this morning about 11 o'clock they will reach Snelling. On that day no parades, concerts or any unnecessary work will be done. The boys will have two or three days to rest after the long march.

Occupants Escaped Harm. Fire caused a loss of $400 to the clothing and dry goods store of G. Stoven, South Wabasha and Isabel streets, shortly after 1 o'clock this morning. The flames started in the rear part of the building from some unknown cause. Both the building and damaged stock are insured. John Carmony and his wife, who occupied apartments over the store, were awakened by the smoke and escaped without injury.

TO MAKE A CHARTER

JUDGES OF THE DISTRICT COURT SELECT THE COMMISSION OF FIFTEEN.

THE LIST OF THE MEN CHOSEN

JUDGE WILLIS TO PREPARE THE ORDER SETTING FORTH THE ACTION.

REPRESENTATIVE BODY OF MEN.

All of Them Signified Willingness to Accept With the Exception of One Who is Absent.

The fight which the Globe, backed up by the citizens of St. Paul, has made for the purpose of securing a new charter has been partly won. Yesterday afternoon the six judges of the district court, acting on the petition presented them by the citizens of the city, through the Globe, appointed and gave out the names of the fifteen gentlemen who will constitute the commission to draft and submit to the voters of St. Paul a new charter. The fifteen commissioners named by the judges who will have this important duty to perform are:

Charles N. Bell, Pierce Butler, Greenleaf Clark, W. P. Clough, W. B. Dean, Henry J. Horn, George S. Lusk, John F. Krieger, A. H. Lindeke, J. W. Lusk, W. H. Lightner, W. P. Murray, H. C. McNair, John D. O'Brien, J. J. Parker.

After the fifteen commissioners had been selected by the judges the duty of preparing the list and filing the same in the district court was delegated to Judge Willis. There is nothing in the law passed by the legislature and under which the commission was appointed specifying how the appointment was to be made public. The judges, however, decided that the better plan would be to file an order with the clerk of the district court setting forth what they had done. This order which is now being prepared and will be filed this morning contains a copy of the law under which the petition was circulated and presented to the court, as well as the order directing the judges to appoint the commission. Following this will be the statement of the judicial action taken, together with the names of the fifteen gentlemen selected. The order will be signed by all of the judges of the court. Copies will be filed with the clerk of the court, the mayor and each of the fifteen commissioners will also be presented with a copy of the order.

The gentlemen who have been selected on this commission have all expressed a willingness to assist in the compilation of a new charter with the exception of J. W. Lusk. In fact, the judges assured themselves of this fact, as soon as they had selected the names. Mr. Lusk is at the sea shore at present, so that he could not be consulted before the announcement of his name. Mr. McNair is also out of the city, but said before leaving, that he would be willing to accept a place on the commission, if asked to do so.

W. B. Dean is a member of the firm of Nicola & Dean, and aside from his prominence in business circles, is fully alive to the interests of the city. He has been a member of the state senate since 1894, and while in the legislature at the time the Bell charter passed in 1891. Mr. Dean is conversant with the details of city affairs, and the needs not only of the property owners, but also of the property owners. In politics he is a Republican.

Pierce Butler is a member of the law firm of Howe & Butler, and is best known as having aided the office of county attorney for two terms to the satisfaction of the citizens irrespective of politics. He is a prominent member of the bar, and in politics is a pronounced Democrat.

Charles N. Bell has the distinction of being the father of the Bell charter under which the city has been governed for the past six years. He is an able lawyer and thoroughly posted in city affairs. In politics he is a Republican and has served several terms in the city council and legislature.

Greenleaf Clark, like the other members of the commission, is a representative man and has been actively identified with the affairs of the city for many years. He was formerly a member of the supreme bench of the state, and is known as a constitutional lawyer of prominence. In politics he is a Republican.

W. P. Clough is vice president of the Great Northern rail road company and also is one of the best lawyers in the city. He was a member of the retraction committee which investigated the affairs of the city two years ago and submitted an exhaustive report as to the needs of economy in the management of the affairs of the city. He is a Democrat.

George E. Innis, if he desired, can write the prefix "ret." to his name. He is professor at the Hamline university, and in 1896 was a candidate for mayor on the prohibition ticket.

John F. Krieger is prominent in labor circles and was for over a year a member of the board of aldermen from the Sixth ward, having been elected by the members of that body to succeed Ald. Hare, who was appointed to the board of public works. He was a candidate for re-election as alderman on the Democratic ticket, but was defeated.

A. H. Lindeke is the senior member of the firm of Lindeke, Warner & Schurmeier and has always taken a lively interest in the affairs of the city. He is a member of the chamber of commerce, the jobbers' union and has frequently been favorably mentioned as a candidate for mayor on the Republican ticket.

J. W. Lusk is president of the National German American bank, and, in addition to his knowledge of finances, is a thorough lawyer. He was also a member of the retraction committee, but, as he could not talk as fast as Col. Clough, did not take a very active part in the deliberations of that body. In politics he is a Democrat.

W. H. Lightner is one of the receivers for the Bank of Minnesota just at the present time. He is a lawyer by profession and has been a member of the firm of Young & Lightner. He served a term as member of the assembly during the period of reform inaugurated by Mayor Wright.

W. P. Murray was for years corporation attorney of the city. What Mr. Murray does not know about city affairs could be put in a very small book and he will prove a valuable member of the commission.

H. C. McNair, a member of the school board, has made the schools and the educational needs of the city a study and in this particular branch of the new charter will be a very useful member. In politics he is a Republican.

J. J. Parker is a member of the insurance firm of Weed & Parker Bros. He served two years as a member of the assembly in the city and his city affairs make him one of the best qualified members of the commission. He is a Democrat.

John D. O'Brien is a member of the law firm of Stevens O'Brien, Cole & Albrecht. He is one of the most prominent members of the bar and is noted for his integrity and fearlessness. He was recently appointed one of the receivers of the Alleman bank. In politics he is a Democrat.

Henry J. Horn is one of the old residents of the city and for two years one of the foremost lawyers in the city. Of late he has retired from the practice of his profession. He has always taken an interest in city affairs, and for the past ten years has been identified with the suits brought by the city against the railroad companies to determine the rights of the city to the levee property.

The Ramsey County Junior Pioneers to their eighth annual outing yesterday at Lake Shore, White Bear Lake, and all the members and their friends who attended declared they had a very pleasant day. The early train took out quite a large number and the after dinner trains brought out another large crowd, who went especially to witness the sports, which were many and varied. In fact, they were the feature of the outing. After a basket dinner had been partaken of, the juniors all sought out the athletic grounds to witness the game of ball between the upper town and lower town juniors, the fifth that these two factions had contested on the diamond, but the first the upper town boys have won, and that in a splendid game of ball by a score of 7 to 5. Following were the participants in the exciting game:

Upper Town—Relly, Robert, Nelson, Schorn, G., Devin, Piggott, Allen, Hart, Umpires—John Wasener and William Johnson.

Five innings were played and while there were several amusing incidents, there were also some very fine plays. The features of the game were the batting of Relly and the throwing of the ball by Robert, and incidentally, the high and lofty tumbling of the latter whenever one of the lower town boys sent a case of cider (?) to the pitcher's box and it was feared at one time that darkness might intervene with the finish of the game. However, all the boys rounded in in good shape under the skillful manipulation of Umpires Wasener and Johnson to the motto of "How Can We Lose," and finished the game in royal style.

EDISON'S GENIUS. Once Caused Him to Lose a Job in an Ohio Village. Thomas A. Edison's inventive genius manifested itself while he was yet in his teens. His earliest experiments were conducted in the field of electricity and his first significant invention brought disaster upon the young farmer lad who constructed it, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

Edison rigged up a telegraph line in the garret of the family house in Milan, O., where he was born, and practiced until he had attained considerable proficiency as an operator. He then secured the position of telegraph operator at a little way station near by. There was practically nothing to be done during the night, as no trains ever stopped at the little station, and it was necessary to keep an operator on duty there in case of emergency.

Edison soon chafed under the inactivity. Night after night he watched through the weary hours until daylight without having sent or received a single message, except the perfunctory signal "the letter 'Z'—which all operators were required to send over the wire every half hour as a proof that they were on duty and at their posts. Finally the future "wizard" began some electrical experiments to while away the time. Within a few days he had arranged a switchboard contrivance on the clock which every thirty minutes released an automatic attachment that telegraphed the signal "Z" and the number of the station over the railway wire.

After that life was too easy for the young operator, he began to go on duty early in the evening, and after having several conversations over the wire with the train dispatcher, would turn on the switch and go to sleep on a cot in the rear of the office. Throughout the night the clock would report the station "on duty" regularly every half hour.

This device worked like a charm. No one knows how long it might have remained in use were it not for the fact that in an evil moment the young inventor took another operator into his confidence. The latter attempted to construct an automatic machine and failed. It succeeded, however, in tangling matters so badly that an investigation was set on foot, which resulted in retiring young Edison to private life for several years.

QUICK-WITTED SHERIFF. Captures a Gang by Suddenly Appointing One of Them a Deputy. "Few men can look back over their lives without wondering how they survived the tight places they have passed through. I have probably been through more dangers than the average man," and the man who made the statement was Sheriff J. J. Devitt of Detroit that he might enjoy it, seemed to be making a selection from his many thrilling experiences, says the Free Press of that city.

"They made me sheriff down there, and I had one gang to deal with that was no trouper in keeping me worried all the time. They were the very worst type of border ruffians, and thought no more of human life than I did of wiping out a coyote.

"One evening I had been scouting on my own responsibility, a tip having been given me that a little settlement in the lower part of the county was to be raided. Without the slightest warning I came upon three of the gang, and had my hands extended skyward in a jiffy. It was the boss of the gang that they would put me out of the way, and it looked like a sure thing. But a man thinks fast when his time seems short.

"One of the trio was a colored giant, a terror on the bad terms with some of the gang. The worst type of border ruffian, and 'Ike,' I shouted, as if commanding a regiment, 'I appoint you a deputy sheriff. We'll wipe off the slate for you and you can hold the job as long as you want to. Nail that fellow next to you.

"A little brief authority just caught the fellow. He took the drop on his man, the diversion gave me a chance at the other fellow and I was a regular triumphant march we made to the county jail. Ike made as good an officer as ever operated in that rough country, and in three months we had the gang cleaned out."
